CHINA THIRTS FOR KNOWLEDGE

Temples Turned into Colleges and Unrest is in the Air, But China Has the Power to Come Through if

BY DR. SUDHINDRA BOSE

NOTE: Doctor Bose, former assistant-in-the-department of political science, is now a touring teacher of the world.

China is seeking her salvation in education. Buddhist temples, Taoist temples, and Confucian temples are being turned into schools and colleges. What is prodigious here is the young China has for knowledge! What a feverish society it displays in mustering the rational and experimental sciences of the West.

China is now passing through a period of great stress and strain. There are conflicts and disorders between the North and the South. Unrest is in the very air. In Canton the last few weeks there has been hardly a day without a strike of some kind. Nor are these stridentious superficial; they are the sign of a growing, indicative of life and vigor. China has enough potential energy to overcome the present difficulties, provided the Western powers let her alone. But will they?

Your Liberty Bell Plac

What China needs today is trained leaders. Twenty-five hundred years ago the great Chinese statesman-philosopher, Confucius, was confronted with the same problem, and the solution he offered then is applicable to the situation today. "Let there be the sun," observed this sage, "and government will flourish; but without the sun government decays. With the right sun the growth of government is rapid, just as the vegetation is rapid in the earth. Then the administration of government lies in getting proper suns."

The college students I have met here seem to have a new social vision that they are quick to rebel against many of the unjust political and social conditions which still linger in China. The younger generation wants better conditions of life and equal opportunities for all. Here in Canton, where all women over twenty years of age have the right of suffrage at municipal elections, there is a flourishing equal suffrage organization known as the "Liberty Society." I have seen the members of this organization proudly wear a pin on which was encrusted a liberty bell.

China Thrives

That modern radical thought is reaching vast segments of Chinese students is quite apparent. They are eager to learn all about liberation, communism, syndicalism, Marxism, socialism, and anarchism. The works of Kropotkin, Tolstoy, Bergson, and Einstein are much sought after. They are considering against many of the unjust political and social conditions which still linger in China. DIRECTOR HAS ORGANIZED 9 COUNTIES IN THE STATE AND EXPECTS TO FINISH THEM IN 1921

Organization is the keynote of the Iowa Memorial Union campaign just as it is that of every successful business today. In order to realize the Union it was felt that some organization of the whole state must be complete in every detail.

It is with this idea in mind that Mr. Grassfield, director of the Union, and his assistants are working. They intend to effect in every county of the state an organization of all men and former students, which will have its center and inspiration in the Iowa Memorial Union at the University; but they realize that in order to do this they must first make the people feel the bigness of the idea and the purposes that are set up for the purposes of the Union. Since everyone cannot come here, the student must be taken to them, and it is through these county organizations that this is to be accomplished. Mr. Grassfield has already personally visited eight counties. In Clinton Junction, Delaware, Delaware, Black Hawk, Muscatine, and Benton—and has brought back of-cient and interested organizations there. Before January 1, 1922, he inten-des that he or his assistants shall have visited every county in Iowa for the purpose.

By social meetings and other means the alumni and friends of the University are brought closer to the University and to a realization of the value this Institution from tuition and special honor scholarships are offered to the public speaking students of recognized schools of pharmacy who have completed three years in that department.

When we can consistently do so, we are always glad to extend help to patrons who come to us for advice, even in matters strictly within a bank-

First and last, our attitude towards patrons is one of helpfulness.
