A THING WORTH While

Harlow Glass, one of the most distinguished librarians of the Mid- west and pioneers of life in Iowa, will deliver tonight the last lecture of the session before the Iowa Academy of Science in the auditorium of the university. This is an example of the perfect blend which made up the academic life of Mr. Glass. He was born in a log cabin without a day's rest. As a child he had to work hard to earn his way to school. But his love for learning never flagged. When he was a young man walking down the street one day, he saw a book in his hand which had been thrown away by the library workers. He picked it up and read it with great interest.

Mr. Glass lived in a time when reading was a luxury. In those days, few people had access to books. But Mr. Glass had a thirst for knowledge and he made every effort to acquire it. He spent many hours in the library, reading books on various subjects. He was particularly interested in the works of David Hume, a Scottish philosopher who lived in the 18th century. Hume was a great advocate of common sense and Mr. Glass was very much impressed by his ideas.

In later years, Mr. Glass became a librarian and devoted himself to the promotion of literature and the arts. He was a strong advocate of public libraries and worked tirelessly to establish them in his community. He was also a great supporter of the arts and helped to establish several art galleries and theaters.

Mr. Glass is a perfect example of what can be achieved through hard work and determination. He showed us that anyone can achieve their dreams if they work hard and never give up. His legacy will continue to inspire future generations to pursue their dreams and never give up on their aspirations.

VARIETY SHOWS LACK OF PEP IN PRACTICE GAME WITH FROSH

Although the variety show was considerably changed, baseball practice Tuesday night was likewise. This was the one men had any fight in them, though they fell behind early in the game. They were in fine condition. The men on the bench, not being on hand for the practice without making a bit of noise, was a puzzle to the players as they waited for the game to start.

Coach James N. Anderson changed his lineup against Locke before the bat. Michaelson was moved up to first base, while Bishop saw some time and made a hit.

Peoples was used in left field and is in fine condition. This change has not made the team any stronger, but it has taken a bit of the possible hot-hitters out, but, at least, we do not expect any better than in the past.
