STUDENTS, FLOWERS AND ELECTRICIANS ARE MICHIGAN BEAUTIES

A special University high school sports assembly will be added to the hours of the Daily for Friday, Feb. 22, for high school and students and members of the University high school. The prospects of next year, as announced recently by the various athletic organizations, review of the athletic events of the past year, and an examination of the high school students and their activities at the University this year. The high school is to be continued in the league. It is an honor for the students, especially the high school sportsman, to be members of the Michigan Representative. The 12 students, daughters of Ross and Emma Classen, will be editors of the Michigan Representative. The school is to be continued this year. THE QUESTION

There is one question in the text which is out of context. It states, "What are you going to do to this evening that you won't be sorry for in the years to come?" It is unclear where this question fits within the given context or if it is relevant to the overall discussion of health and activity.

SUCCESSFUL EVENT
One of most unusual musical events of the past year was the presentation of "Widower's Tears," by the Little Theatre Tuesday evening.
This staging of the play was carried out by Miss Jean Wolfe, soloist pupil of Mrs. Mildred B. Patchek, and Mr. James Overfield, pupil of Prof. Leo, both of whom showed exceptional ability and training.
This was the last program of the year of the popular training session committee.
