STUDENT UNITY

If there is one thing more than any other which the summer season needs, that thing is a unifying force that can influence upon the student body. During the summer there are no large athletic contests to bring out the common spirit of housing for Old Gold of which there are few organizations to centralize student interests and student activities; and there are not a large number of other opportunities afforded for class association with other students, except in the classroom.

There are, of course, some student groups; there are a few summer organizations, which, although small in number, accomplish their purpose fully; and there are some seasonal social affairs during the summer which further the common feeling of the student body. There is a need, however, for more events and organizations to bring toward student unity.

The all-University men's dinner-to-meet-evening will be an event of great interest not only from an entertainment standpoint, but what is of much more importance, it will be a means of bringing the men of the campus together and developing a more unified spirit within the University.

WANTED: A WOMAN

Some few woman students can be read and make some form of summer by promoting a woman's day which is "given for themselves for the past four years. This year the event promises to appeal repeat at a lower price and to get every student who knows of good speakers and get groups of students to put on events. You can have as much fun as you used to go to by Sunday school picnics.

PUTTING UP A FRONTPAGE

George Ade believes that everyone believes that a college is a cloister, that is, that it holds every man and woman who do not learn early in life the technical art of putting up a good front. "The front is a prolongation of ourselves," says George Ade, "whether you want it or not."

That may be so, but it is certainly worth a try for high-brow with a good front for any length of time. On some bright morning this blinding light will go up and find its beautifully constructed front covering the real head. And on the same morning it is going to resolve the original idea that a good front has to be backed up with a solid foundation of wisdom. This is not getting this one year as reason for being in college, and for taking some course of a more advanced work during summer session. It is going to mean readiness, adaptability and poise; it is going to mean achievement, handling of chances of difference between an M. A. and a Ph. D. salary. At any rate it is going to mean that a student has become as much a part of American history which is being published by the Macmillan company, now.

New year is a good time to start saving your money for that football trip. New Haven next fall, when Yale plays Yale.

THE DAILY IOWAN, Thursday, June 21, 1922

SCHLESINGER IS HISTORY AUTHOR

Head of Department of History Gives New Views on History

Professor Arthur M. Schlesinger, head of the department of history, has written a new book under the title "American History," which is being published by the Macmillan company, now.

Professor Schlesinger became head of the department of history this year, coming from Ohio State University where he was professor of history. He is the author of several books and numerous magazine articles on historical subjects. In 1918 he published "Colonial Maryland and the South, 1632-1767," which received the Justin Winsor prize given by the American Historical association for the best book written within the two previous years. "New Views in American History" is the outgrowth of the course of that title which was given in the University summer school two years ago," said Professor Schlesinger commenting on his new book just yesterday.

The subject of the present work is "American history and current, non-technical style, some of the results of the researches of the present era of historical study and to show their importance to a proper understanding of American history."

"History teachers in the public schools may also find this volume short cut to a rather extensive line of reading inaccessible to most of today's students. The work is the further hope of the author that graduate students of history and others who might do scholarly research for the field of American history for the first time may find this book useful in suggesting the special interests of the present generation of historians and some of the tendencies that might help to guide future research for the field of American history."

"Professor Schlesinger has succeeded in bringing together into one place all the most important works on the subject of American history, giving to them a treatment that is not in itself original. The style of the book is fascinating and anyone who has a bit of interest in the subject of American history should read it with enthusiasm," said R. B. Kinkaid of Columbia university.

TEACHERS WILL TAKE COUNTY EXAMINATION

Teachers who plan to take the examination for a uniform county certificate should confer with W. M. Truax,controller, at once in order to find out the requirements which they must meet in order to be eligible. The examinations will be held for the July examinations at the IOWA STATE normals.

"All teachers at schools who plan to write the state uniform examination for the uniform county certificate need to do further work for this purpose," he said. "I know of one school where teachers have not done this, and the examination to which they have applied has been returned unsatisfactory on the ground that not all teachers were at the battle front, and paid tribute to the women who so bravely played their part in the last conflict.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF BIRTH OF SON

Announcement has been received of the birth of a son, John W. Judzis, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Hink, Watertown, on June 10. Mr. Hink is the new University engineer under the direction of Harold Chamberlain. He was re-appointed from the University in 1919, was a former member of the Dalvay Iron staff, and since his graduation has been connected with the Watertown Company. Mrs. Hink was formerly Miss Romela Lat Eaton, of the class of 1919. She was a member of Prosperity, of Theta Sigma Phi, and was business manager of the Daily Iowan during 1920-21.

SERVICE

Students who expect to receive their degrees at the June convocation should apply for application for the degree immediately, said Herbert G. Dorsey, university registrar, in an announcement yesterday.

"The announcement follows: "All students registered in the summer session, who expect to receive degrees at the university convocation are to be held Friday, July 25, at 2 p.m., are requested to call immediately at the registrar's office, hall building, second floor, north end, to fill their formal applications for the degree prepared on a printed form designed for the purpose."

"Prompt cooperation with this request is very important as it is otherwise impossible for us to know who are to graduate, and to check up the records to see whether requirements for graduation have been met."

"Persons who might otherwise be qualified for graduation may fail of recommendation just because of failure to make this formal application."

UNION PLEDGES INCREASE FUND

Campaign in Cedar Rapids and Chicago Meets With Fair Success

In the center of the building there will be a large auditorium on the first floor, where all-unity events will be held, such as formal dances, weekly dances, and other entertainments.

The strength of the union lies in the student control of union events on the campus. The union will foster everything that makes for the best interests of the University. It will be its purpose to support every worthy-old University activity.

The purpose of the union is twofold: it will be a home for the student body, acting both men and women, and it will be a training ground for citizenship.

Construction of the union building will begin just as soon as the amount of pledges permits. The site of the union has not yet been officially located, but it will be in the center of the student population.

Subscriptions are payable in four annual installments, the first to be made within one year from the date of the pledge.

RABBIT DENIES WORLD'S NEW BIBLE

In the address of last evening Rabbi Manheimer spoke on "A Social Mission of the Prophets," and in the course of his talk he stated that the prophets were a group who lived at various times and taught different things. It would be necessary to study each individual from the point of view of his time, but they all have characteristic communities. In the days of the Babylonian exile, according to the Rabbi, they were bitter critics of the moral and social conditions of their day. "In the name of a universal God of justice and righteousness, they protested against every thing and every thing that they found to be contrary to God's holiness and justice.

In the case of every attempt to make them stop preaching, said Rabbi Manheimer, whether by police, priests, or people, they dared to persist.

"These prophets were not negative critics and prophets of doom. They were a group of the greatest preach- ers of social justice that the world has ever known. In the name of the universal God, of justice and holiness, they demanded justice and righteousness and when they were not heard and when every man should sit between two olive trees,

"On the basis of the present world condition," said Rabbi Manheimer, "with the continued building of armies, the war between labor and capital, the frustration of group rights and treatment, the effectiveness of laissez-faire will be destroyed, and positive preaching of justice between groups. This is the only way of the philosophy of the time, we must prevent that which is so necessary for the advancement of the human race.

"Our task is to prevent this, we must prevent the advancement of the human race. It is in the interest of the United States, of the African, and of the American, to prevent this. It is in the interest of the human race, to prevent the advancement of the human race. It is in the interest of the human race, to prevent the advancement of the human race. It is in the interest of the human race, to prevent the advancement of the human race.

"We have a duty to prevent this, we must prevent the advancement of the human race. It is in the interest of the United States, of the African, and of the American, to prevent this. It is in the interest of the human race, to prevent the advancement of the human race. It is in the interest of the human race, to prevent the advancement of the human race.
