OUT-OF-DOOR PLAYERS PLEASE LARGE CROWD IN "THE SHOW SHOP"

Katharyn Buck and Alice McCarthy Are Leading Women in Stage Costume

The Out-of-door players appeared before the University public for the last time this term in "The Show Shop," which was given last night at the University theater. The house was packed.

The leading part in the play was taken by George 0. Honey who played the part of Master Boocock, a theological measure who is responsible for the raising of both the hero and heroine to maturity. The play, assisted by Miss Dean, succeeded in doing this in spite of the fact that it furnished the comedy chorus.

Charles A. Brown and Katharyn Buck were hero and heroine, and the musical numbers of their work by frequent applause, showed the students put their heart into the show and the stage mother.

This Forbes comedy was given just before the last Orange Octave Theater recital. Hurst, in which the dramatic and modernists. He was assisted in the direction of last night's "Show Shop".

It was rained on the campus yesterday, so it was thought the audience would be expected to be in attendance, and when the Casey program was presented the audience was not able to attend. The program, directed by Prof. Edward C. Male, director of the play, was cancelled last night.

"The Show Shop" is in the list of series plays which has been given by the players during the first term of the summer session. The original list of productions contained two entries of one act plays and three longer plays. Due to the ill fortune of the weather, the audience was expected to drop the program of June 20.

The first of the dramatic productions was "Smoke " which served to decorate the opening of the summer session. This series which served "Blindside," "The Old," and "The Innocente," had a seven-week run.

These were followed by another even of one act plays, which were given in the natural theater without the aid of the stage, which was unusually successful. This series included "Overtones," "This Is a Chinese Garden," and "The Big Blue Bird." They were also repeated for the benefit of the library workers.

"You Never Can Tell," the first of the longer productions, was presented in the open-air theater. The rest of the week brought the means to a close.

The reason has been considered a success in many ways, as the standard of acting, the performances and the group of players were more than one has been expected to a company of students. The number of people has proved to be quite popular, and the staging was successful in making a permanent feature of the summer season in the future.

CONTINUE CHORES NEXT TERM

The University chorus will continue with Mrs. Mildred F. Robbuck of the department of music. The group of members, now numbering 60, is expected to work two to three days a week and new members wishing to join the chorus are invited to request an audition meeting next Monday night at 8:15 for those who have been invited.

The Grand Conference

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Robbuck have resigned from the conference committee and new officers have been elected in their place. The new officers are as follows:

Miss Wolfe, secretary, and Miss Findley, treasurer.

The conferring of first degrees, the conferring of advanced degrees in arts and sciences, the president's address, "Southern Girls," presented by the orchestra.

The following degrees are expected to be awarded: certificate, in education, 14; bachelor of arts, 27; bachelor of science, 12; graduate in pharmacy, 2; graduate of engineering, 1; master of science, 6; and associate in science.

CLASSICAL CLUB WILL GIVE PLAYSTONIGHT

Three one-act plays, which will be given by the Classical Club tonight at 8, will be in the nature of the classical dramatic form and will be given by a school of music concert, which will consist of four or five in the natural science auditorium. The first play that will be given is "Helen," which is a Latin play and will be given in simple Latin and the words of the scenes. The second play is "Helen," and will be given by a school of music, and the third play is "The Voice of the Past" and "The Voice of the Future," which are Latin plays, told in a series of dialogues. The club members will be held in a meeting next Monday night at 8, and the members of the club will be held in a meeting next Monday night at 8, and the members of the club will be held in a meeting next Monday night at 8.

If the men were as anxious to get away from their own dinner as she inflations, it would seem quite as feasible that they were just as important as the dear girls to get away from the woman's dinner in order that they might be together that evening also. But she fails to mention that when the woman's dinner was over and the woman crawled out of the banquet hall there was nary a man in sight waiting for her to come out. Of course not—the men were elsewhere, having a good time by themselves.

WENTY MAKE TRIP TO CHAIR FACTORY

A party of twenty people, intended toacasual visits, reached the Parton manufacturing company at Iowa City yesterday at 2:30 p.m. under the

The company is equally interested in the manu-

IOWA FIELD STADIUM
READY FOR CONTESTS

Homecoming Crowd Next Fall Will Be Accommodated With Little Difficulty

The new improvements to Iowa
Field which have been going on during the summer are completed and the stands are ready for the Big Ten football games to be played here this fall. The new bleachers that have been erected will increase the capacity of the field to accomodate 10,000 spectators, more than double that of last year. The large crowd of people that attended the Illinois game last fall overcrowded the stands and it was seen then that more seats were necessary.

The crowd of rooters who will see the game this year will not be bothered by the lack of seats. The athletic association is expecting the largest crowd that has ever been on Iowa Field when the bleachers come down from the Sherby stand.

Prof. Byron J. Lackert, head of the department of structural engineering, has designed this structure and as chairman of the athletic board has been in charge of the reconstruction.

The west outside of the new bleachers extends out over the river.
In addition to being able to hold up under full capacity, the stands will also support the added weight which will be caused by double deck ing.

When completed the stadium will have cost $198,000. Financing in fact has been by floating a $268,000 bond issue for ten years. The cost of the tick compares favorably with that of other similar stadiums. The seats in the Boston baseball club cost $11 per seat. The Yale bowl opened in 1914 and seating 21,000 people, costs the shows
an actual cost to the cost of Iowa Field, starting slightly over $5 for such seat.

Many inquiries have come to Prof.
Joseph Lambert from members of the Big Ten conferences and from other universities in the west, asking for information about the Iowa Field type of bleacher construction on which a patent is now pending. It has the advantage of being cheaper then concrete and can be erected in a month or less.

DOUBLES CHAMPIONSHIP

Lee J. Gillis and John M. Dorsey

The prizes were unable to keep up to the fast pace of the champion.

UNIVERSITY HIGH SCHOOL ATTENDANCE JUMPS 100 PER CENT.

The fourth annual summer session of the University high school has an enrollment of seventy-six. The duration of the session is six weeks, from June 6 to August 6. The hours are from 9 to 11 a.m.

Classes in all subjects meet twice daily, five days a week. This makes it possible for a pupil in the nine weeks to complete all semester's credit in each subject. Thomas J. Kirby is the director of the high school and Milton C. Del Mar is principal.

Mr. Del Mar says: "This is the largest summer session high school we have ever held. It is approximately twice the size of last summer's session. The high school student is beginning to appreciate the value of doing summer work. Of students registered this summer very few are taking work a second time, for a previous failure. Almost the whole student body is made up of students who are above the average and are attempting to shorten the time devoted to high school work."

"There were two reasons for the establishment of the University high school."

CONTRIBUTE $1,213 TO PINY WOODS SINGERS

Nearly 1,000 people attended the five concert given by the Cotton Bloom son Singers, a quartet of four girls and two boys from the Piny Woods country life school at Bristow, Iowa, in the natural science auditorium Monday night.

About $1,513 was added to the endowment fund of the school by the free will offerings which were given at the close of the program. Five hundred dollars of this sum was donated by Arthur J. Cox of Iowa City with the promise of an equal amount by January 1, 1925.

Lawrence C. Jones, founder and principal of the school, graduated from the University of Iowa in 1907. Mrs. Jones who is accompanying the singers is also an Iowa. The singers are touring Iowa.
