An announcement which will be of interest to students and the people of Iowa City in general:

Mr. W. K. Englemann has assumed his duties as chef at Reich's with full supervision over the kitchen.

Mr. Englemann has been chief in leading Iowa hotels for the past thirty-eight years, and is second to none in the preparation of real meals.

SWENSON CAPTAIN OF TENNIS TEAM

Cou May First Senior Match on Iowa Court One Day Next Week

Told recently, all of Dakota Ripple was elected captain of the Iowa tennis team last night in a meeting of the men who will go to the tournament. Arrangements are being made to have one play a return match here next Tuesday or Wednesday on the courts on the west ground. "Although these are reserve men," said E. O. Belovsky, director of physical education, all who wish to try for the team should report immediately because they will be under the press of the match and it is necessary that they should only be a few men trying for the team. Those men will have their positions ranked because any one of the reserves may challenge those by playing the challenge in the senior tournament and the first three days before a match, and playing off the match immediately. This means that each man must work hard to remain on the team.

Swedish matches will undoubtedly be scheduled with other Big Ten universities next spring. All men taking part in these matches will be summer in the same as in other sports.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

AN AMERICAN PLEDGE

by Theodore Roosevelt (Extracted)

A good many men and women in recent years have felt that the colleges and universities of the country have become fighting places for various shades of madness, irrationalism and other "isms" whose object is to lower a hallowed down of American tradition and of the sense of national loyalty and patriotism which so much of our old fashioned folks still deem highly desirable to be tremowled in the wild generation.

But at the University of Iowa, recently, the annual procession of pledges, as it has been called for many years, President Jessup delivered an ad-
