Quick Recovery Leaves Iowa In Tie For First

Iowa's Defense Against Everything But Poor Team

(By United Press) Atlanta, Ga. Nov. 20--Quick recovery of a fumble punt was all that saved the Hawkeyes from defeat in the last game of the season yesterday against Ohio State in the mauling in the Memorial Stadium. The Ohio State team, which was favored by many bookmakers, was held to a draw, 7 to 7, in the last game of the season.

The Hawkeyes, which were favorites, were led by Coach Foster in the game. The game was played in very poor weather conditions, with rain and mud making the field very difficult to play on.

The Hawkeyes scored early in the game, and held the lead until the end. In the last quarter, the Ohio State team scored a touchdown, tying the game at 7 all. The Hawkeyes then scored a field goal, winning the game 9 to 7.

The Hawkeyes will now prepare for the next game, which will be against Michigan State. The game will be played on Saturday, November 23, at 2 p.m. in the Memorial Stadium.

Although the Purple team who aspire to become class officers in the University of Iowa complex of a set and therefore cannot be used in the analysis of the election results. Mr. Bryan and his associates in the war on evolution base all their arguments on the inadmissibility of the King James translation. Yet it is now judicially ruled that there are other translations; that, in fact, not all Christians have their faith on the wording which Mr. Bryan trusts, that the King James version is not a final authority against political pressures.

Of course, this has always been obvious, but the campaign never before given to the Bible, in the same legal status as the Book of Mormon, Science and Health, the Tolstoy, the Kropotkin, or other books, so the decision of the California court undoubtedly does. In so doing it prohibits the school from using the King James version in both other versions of the Sunday-school textbooks. In basic religious education in Christianity altogether. This will shock many people, but the decision seems to be definitely in accord with the Constitution, the other hand, the King James Bible is a literary heritage from the days when England was written great prose poetry. It has survived in spite of literature.

Classes Come and Go

They say that a college generation consists of only four years. As classes come and go, new faces are seen on the campus, and the First National Bank adds new friends to its roster.

We have seen many college generations pass by on their way to the outside world, and in helping students of succeeding class with our complete banking service we have gainedmuch experience of value to this and coming generations.

The fruits of this experience in the form of friendly service and helpful service are at your disposal. Make full use of them.
