FRENCH PLAN TO SEGREGATE RUHR VALLEY

Coal Headed for France

Is Turned Toward Germany By Engineers

(United Press) Jan. 25—From Berlin came word that the French have begun to load coal at the shipping docks in the Ruhr valley business.

Several railroad yards in the city were set on fire by the French engineers, who then continued to work on the loading operations.

The French engineers have been working at the docks for several days, and have made considerable progress in loading the coal.

The French have also been loading coal at the docks in the Saar valley, and are expected to continue the operation.

In the meantime, German troops have been moving into the Ruhr valley, and have taken over the docks.

FRENCH WAR PLAN For RUHR

As the Frenchxbf; rain plan of attack is to close the Ruhr valley, the coal will be transported by rail to the German border and then sold for export.

The French plan is to use the coal as a weapon to force Germany to surrender.

The French are also planning to use the coal to build up their own reserves, and to sell it to other countries.

The German government has protested against the French plan, and has threatened to use military force to prevent the French from taking the coal.

The French, however, are determined to proceed with their plan, and have indicated that they will use force if necessary.

The situation is tense, and there is a possibility of armed conflict between the two countries.

The worker, that is, the French occupation.

For the use of Germany and not

At the end of the war, France, the worker, has been left Paris on a special mission to Berlin, Jan.

The work of the German government will be turned toward Germany.

The Foreign Office has asked every year to perform a certain amount of work in the Ruhr dam in the same year. The present facilities are not sufficient to meet the demand.

The German government will take over the dam in 1919.

NAGLER FINishes SERIES OF TESTS

Equipment of Iowa Hydraulic Laboratory

By Professor N. Nagler

By utilizing the extensive facilities of the laboratory, Professor N. Nagler has been able to carry out a series of tests in the field of hydraulic engineering.

The tests were conducted on a large scale, and involved the use of various types of water flows.

The results of the tests have been published in a number of papers, and have been highly praised by many engineers and scientists.

The tests have been conducted with the cooperation of the Iowa Hydraulic Laboratory, and have been made possible by the support of the Iowa State University.

F-K REGISTRATION TODAY AND FRIDAY

2,000 Students Begin At Register, 356 At Other Sites

About 175 students in the silicate and iron ore industries, members of the engineering fraternity at the college, registered at the request of the American Student Pot & Plate Co. of Minnesota, St. Paul.

This was the total registration on the first day of the registration period for the college.

The registration period is for freshmen and seniors only.

The results of the tests have been used to improve the design and performance of water wheels.

The tests have been made possible by the support of the Iowa Hydraulic Laboratory, and have been conducted with the cooperation of the Iowa State University.

THE RAILROAD Strike, January 1919

A railroad strike began today in support of the workers' demand for an eight-hour day and better working conditions.

The workers were supported by the public, and the strike was successful.

The railroad company agreed to the demands of the workers, and the strike was ended.

This is the first railroad strike in the United States in the 20th century.

The workers' demands were for an eight-hour day and better working conditions.

Think Indian Music Is No Good? You're Wrong Critic Says

People usually think of Indian music as the monotonous humming heard on some movies or TV programs. Nothing could be farther from the truth," says Thurlow Manning, former music teacher and authority on Indian music, who will appear with his orchestra in a program of Indian music and song at the State University of Iowa, Thursday, January 1, 7:15 p.m.

"Whatever it is a commercial dance band does, it is a copycat, a lonesome square or a folkloric, an insipid dance of a bygone era. This will be found running through all the songs the whole evening.

"There are working songs, play songs, hunting songs, society songs. Considered in the back of an Indian village, one may hear the sweet sound of a mother's lullaby, or the love song of a flat bed. The best love songs come from the river; the best commercial dances from the Potomac, the best can dances from the Connecticut.

"In the tribal of the Chippewa Clan, a secret society made of our young men, women play an important part. Initiation into this society lasted over six weeks. Including it is done, a formal presentation of the Chippewa film of the creation of the world. The songs used on this occasion played numbered two hundred.

"Life has recorded a song more than three thousand native and folk songs among the various North American Indian tribes. Many of these have been captured for the present, not the best how many of them is "By the Waters of Minnesota," "Romes," or "Way Watering Waters." "The Orly Black Slit." "Flying Moos Flowers."

SPORTS IN 1907 WERE IN INFANCY

The Daily Iowan has increased the volume of display advertising used in its columns during the first 95 issues of the present University year by more than 45 percent over the corresponding number of issues last year and by 100 percent over the corresponding number of issues of two years ago.

This is the Most Convincing Proof we can offer of the increasing esteem which The Daily Iowan has of both Foreign and Local Advertisers.

The fundamental factor back of this record is our Mushroom Growth in Circulation which has also increased 45 percent over last year's figures. A large part of this increase is going into the homes of citizens of Iowa City.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 23. (Under Press) — "Any as his house!" This is the saying of those having academic aspirations on economical plans of immigrants to recent prosperity, advanced mostly by American and native employees, that the present three per cent fee, imposed upon such students by the government, is no justification for the admission of many of whom are far from being able to support themselves within five or ten years. "The present three per cent fee is an absurdity," said Professor Pohler from that the present three per cent fee is an absurdity. "Time to open again the flood gates on this is the open door policy," he said. "The country is no longer a land of opportunity, but one of competition."

Professor Guyer declared that an increase in immigration means a decrease in economic welfare. "It is possible to say," he commented, "that the desire to open again the flood gates to this country is no longer justified by the desire to open again the flood gates to this country."

"No," said Professor Pohler from the red-breasted harbingers. "They are not in spring," he predicted for the last part of the month. "The mild weather is not in vogue. No one was required to attend this military training. This often happened for there was nothing to do and often a student was unable to find a place to pass the time."

"That basketball is becoming a popular every year is proven by the fact that the University of Iowa 16 years ago it was considered a large crowd. When Schroeder came here in 1907 and developed his own opinion of his directofship here it was difficult to get a rowd out to a game. The same situation existed in races in other sports although basketball was always more popular than the rest. The attendance at basketball games was never equal to the crowd harmony among the players.

VARSITY DRILL IN BAD FORM FOR SATURDAY

Hazardar Basket Shooting Characteristics Last Night's Practice

Hazardar, dodging their feet, and skipping their heads, the varsity first basket in a basketplan way last night. All through the first part of the performance with the false color the men displayed the same spiritless attitude, and it was not until the second half was well under way that the real aggressive spirit of the varsity players came back, enabling them to break through the freshmen defense in many baskets. At the end of the period the varsity was leading by a score of 8 to 2, while the former had taken their game down to 10 to 9.

For the first five minutes of the performance last night, it looked as if the freshmen might gain the varsity should follow the rule of force in providing equal circles of giving points only to men who have points by falls. This would spread match-ups, present victories by men who get bought and then hang up, while not attempting to work on their opponents.

Dudley, the Ohio State basketball player, who broke both bones in his left leg during the Northwestern game, will not only return basketball player, but was also their varsity basketball pitcher.

The freshman was the Ohio State, on a Thanksgiving day in which Black and White of last fall's victory back a part, the better choice organization, which prompted a, a set point of 10 which had to refer in need of some charity cause.

Young, referred to the Iowa-Michigan game, is elected in the Ohio State Owens as reported that Iowa and Michigan were two of the hardest game to last in constant basketball battles.

Most people find Richard's work in the Ohio State game. Of course it was not easy to refer to, no extra point or two either way did make much difference.

Glen F. Frank, editor of the Century Magazine, will give the next University Lecture here February 25. Mr. Frank will speak on "The Council of Resistance of Western Civilization," a subject on which he is particularly well skilled because of his research as editor of the Century, and because of his work in political circles. For the last six months the editor-in-chief of the Century has been frequently asked to produce such a lecture in the halls of Columbia. He has shown the great need of its publication in the books of "The Politics of Industry" in 1919. In the introduction of this work, Mr. Frank says that the end of the world is in the mind of every race. The editor feels the acute and social and the moral fears. He wants to show the advantage of joint working with industrial leaders of the country in relation to the social and industrial trend in that question of spirit and change which mark our times. The opportunity of value to the students of economics, but also, to all who are interested in the trend of modern civilization.

Mr. F. Frank received his B.A. from Westminster College in 1903. He began his career as editor of the "Lake View" in 1906, when he started his career as editor of the "Lake View" in 1906, and has since then been very active in that field in the United States and Canada. From this book was based before, he is the co-author of two other works, "The Stakes of War" and "The League of Nations." The book is scheduled to get away in a Monday evening.

Washington, Jan. 16--Diplomatic service and spies from the Allied legations are trying, as far as possible, to wipe out the diplomatic immunity which the Venetian business has excited.

This is the threat of Secretary of State C. W. Dudgeon of Georgia following developments of the Venetian legation as one of the most important in the world's press.

Prof. Arthur P. McGraw, director of the American School of Classical Studies, has written a letter to the Washington legation, insisting that the interest of the State Department is served by a commercial understanding which will exclude the Allied legations from the American market.

The following verse was submitted by Philip G. S. Webb, 4th Floor, University of Iowa.

THE CITY OF THE SEA

Surrounded, sanctified, uprisen, noblest, valiant, where the might of the West has been so sternly known.

The city of man's heart

My heart shall be to thee a dwelling place

The city of the sea, sanctified, surrounded, noblest, valiant, where the might of the West has been so sternly known.

My Trust and my Strength

No man can subdue the sea

Some say that man can subdue the sea, but I say that the sea will subdue man.

"The city of the sea, sanctified, surrounded, noblest, valiant, where the might of the West has been so sternly known."
WAILS OF THE DOOMED

"Well, it wasn't so bad if you knew it."

"All right. I don't want to talk about it."

"I don't remember that."

"Our exam results are now..."

"Thank you. Call the police and tell them there are no genuine houses for sale."

"I don't remember that and the University will be glad to have you back, so I'm sure they won't tell me."

"Jinny in a prohibition country..."

"Yes, you did answer that this was the case."
