The United Press Association, Inc., Chicago, is distributing this article to newspapers throughout the United States. This is a brief article about a sports event and its impact on the community. The article mentions that the meeting will include the senior high school team in the Mid-Western championship. There will be a special feature on the team, and the article discusses the team's record and performance. The article also mentions that the meeting will be held on November 11. The article is written by Ralph Turner, who is the managing editor of the Des Moines Register. The article ends with a statement that the meeting will be held on November 11. The article is written in a formal style and contains a lot of technical terms and statistical data. The article is well-written and informative, and it provides a lot of useful information to the readers. The article is a good example of how to write a news article about a sports event.

Social Work: Not Charity—Speaker Tells Young Women

"Social work does not yet pay its way for the sake of your own," said Mrs. Grace R. Cheff, historian, in sociology and women of Iowa City poor families, in opening the regular T. W. panel meeting in liberal art drawing room recently. Mrs. Cheff is just emerging from charity and social philanthropy.

In tracing the pyramid of the distribution of property, Mrs. Cheff explained that every one of these too many people lose the people in the United States, according to investigations, has less than $20,000 in household goods and personal effects; fifteen per cent had over $3,500; twenty-five per cent, over $1,000; and twenty per cent had less than $200. In other words, is it not something to go up the ladder but rather slide down the other side. The problem of the social worker, the speaker asserted, is that of discovering why the one silliest per cent of the people are wealthy and the other 99 per cent are working at it.

The types of social work started in Des Moines by Mrs. Cheff included both the individual and group application. The best field is the factory dealing with industrial relations, child protection, school work, vocational guidance, professional cases, tuberculosis, sociology and hygiene are all requisites for success in the field.

"Wages are naturally interested in the reconstruction effort," said Mrs. Cheff. "We must do better than those who are working on them, and we know better than to go recklessly into the field. The positions are becoming distinct as that required effort is possible."

The course offered at this University in social work as a job, stressing community and social psychology. Practical field work is the city is included.

SKY SKATING MEET PLANNED NEXT SATURDAY

Men and Women Classes for University High School, Iowa City Skaters

Chicagoans, students, City high school students and tourists will have an opportunity to participate in a skating tournament to be held on the Iowa river February afternoon, February 16, 2:00 p.m., in the prevailing weather is favorable. The tournament is being sponsored by the men's and women's physical education departments of the University, Bill Williams of the Iowa Supply company, and Henry C. Young, City high school coach.

Entries for the skating meet will be turned in by 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. Entry blanks will be posted in convenient places for the groups. The men entering the meet will enter their names at the men's check, the women at the women's check. The tournament is by the men's and women's physical education departments, tentatively set for February 22.

Entries for the skating meet must be made at the winners in each of the other classes. The University winning the relay race will probably be awarded a special medal, according to E. G. Schencler of the men's physical education department.

Miss Karen L. Schweb, director of physical education for the women of this high school, was in charge of the meet.

The first game with the freshmen will be at 1:30 on Friday afternoon, the second game will be at 2:30. One team will compete against the University men, the other against the University women.

noon at 4 o'clock in the same room in which the evening address will be given. The meeting are open to anyone interested.

Interesting Bits of History Printed

"In Editor's Sheet"

Among other publications edited by the State Historical Society of Iowa is the "Editor's Sheet," of which Professor Shawab, head of the department of Political Science, is the editor and corespondent. The "Editor's Sheet," is sent out every month to editors in the state of Iowa, and contains items of historical interest which any editor may use if wished.

The February "Editor's Sheet," which is being sent out today, contains three articles. One of the articles, "The County Superintendent of Iowa," gives the history of the establishment of that office in Iowa.

This article is likely to be of special interest to editors in view of the fact that there is now before the General Assembly a proposal to repeal the present law providing the administration of the office by county superintendent, and to retect in the power personal of elector by popular vote.

A second article is in "Pictorial Prit in Iowa" and tells how practical of farming was at one time in Iowa. Le Mare to young men, who in turn gave their attention to the farm, and a certain number of new. This subject has been given a full discussion in the chapter of "The British of Iowa," a new book recently published by Jacob Van Dese.

The third article tells about the "Jeffersonian Era at Dubuque." This article is taken almost entirely from the story by Bruce E. Molson, on "The Iowa Farrier," which was published in the January number of the "Pictorialist." It tells about the rise of professional actors, including Joseph Jefferson and his two year old son, the famous Sidon Jefferson, who visited Iowa in 1839, coming overland from Chicago to Galena and then to Dubuque.

We live, as some one has truly said, in an age of standardization. Numerous processes, however, have been made possible by the skillful use of standardizing methods combined with the use of the typewriter, keyboard, among a host of other things, as has been standardization, but still a little历 lessons when we do not accept the tradition of the present. This increase can be explained in a way that the proportion of fraternities to non-fraternity men during the railroad workers and students. But there is danger in large numbers. Fraternities which are too large lose their fraternal aspect. They become political units and in this way they have in their power to do more harm than good in the interests of the student body.

We feel that fraternities should be recognized as an integral organization. As such they fulfill a definite need of the college community. The term "fraternity" is of ancient origin and it means "to share." It is a term of the college community. It is a word that means to share, to work for a common goal, to recognize that the fraternity is a part of the university community.

Blazing Trails for Progress

Curiosity may have killed the well-known cat, but it has been underneath most of the hard-won developments that hardly benefit mankind. Once in a great while, perhaps, accident has been the spark that has lighted the torch of achievement; but much much more frequently—always, nearly—accomplishment, especially in the field of science and invention, has grown out of the insatiable curiosity that seems to be the heritage of us all. Man kind wants to know—and is slowly finding out. Curiosity, the complement of imagination, knows no appointment.

This is, however, no essay on the vengeful subject of idle curiosity. There is a vast difference between that and the organized and wellplanned activity which, as an integral part of the creative organization, succeeded emotionally. They are the answers to problems which intelligent speculation sets up. This, if you please, is your curiosity in its highest and most useful form; and it is a fundamental thing in the Westminster operation.

Research, as we know it, is in the guiding hand upon the purely creative activities of business. Constantly it brings to light new aspects of known laws, new visions of laws yet to be uncovered. But the search for them is not haphazard nor whimsical, it is organized and planned as carefully and thoroughly as any other business activity. Whether chemical, electrical, or physical, it is engineering; and it follows engineering methods and tradition.

Many great engineers have been wholly at a loss in this specialized activity. For research, in a sense, means the usual order. Its en vironment is все begun, it then be- seen in the fact that it is the great organization which is the key to the work of progress. This, if you please, is your curiosity in its highest and most useful form; and it is a fundamental thing in the Westminster operation.
