Somebody's Mistake-

In yesterday's ad for our contest it reads “the pictures should not be larger than 5x8.” This is WRONG.

It should read they MUST be 5x7 or OVER.

Think of the many features of Racin's stores which you can work up. The fountains that serve those wonderful drinks. Those excellent Pool and Billiard tables, the comfortable booths, the candy counters, etc., etc.

STUDENTS NOT NATIVE OF STATE TELL WHY THEY CAME TO IOWA

The University directory contains names of students from almost every state in the union, as also students from foreign lands as India, Japan, China, and the Philippines. The most interesting reason for choosing Iowa in preference to other state or institutions given to a reporter is interviewing about 200 students from different states and countries was, "I knew that Iowa was the best university, as I came here. I felt it was the honor to graduate from the University of Iowa."

We are in a most perplexing situation. We have one class, the instructor of which invariably fails to reach his class, and in addition, we have another class, the instructor of which tries to reach his class, but fails to do so. What to do? What to do!

A restaurant patron wondered why it took so long to fill his order, but the mystery was solved when the waiter had been shrinking the steak.

"Men's Fashions" and "What's the Dress in Man's Ward" seem to be attracting some attention in the ladies' department. Numerous discussions have arisen as to how to make really good grocers are making.

Our own columnists have found that a man in good health who never sleeps has just had a haircut yet never appears to need one. He is wearing a beard now and yet never appears to be shabby.

No wonder the librarian variable when a new student in the school of music asked for M.oz's "Piano Fundamentals."

When we reviewed recently, with mention to "Town and Gown," we found that the great thing about such a book was that it contains so few worthwhile steps. It is admitted that every college and university has its favorite group of its students, but the few which are interested in "Town and Gown."" There are a few in the book which are of some interest, but the rest are just as interesting as the few which are not. The great fault we find with the book is that it is not written in such a way as to make it interesting. Even English students would find boring to see such a book written. We do not think it worth while to read such a book.

The best episode, by far,

of the various episodes featured by the book is "Peter Hughes did not make it as good as it was supposed to be."

PETER HANSEN—I want to say that the book is well written and that it is indeed a "good" book.

The book is well

Women Watch Bank Stubs and Overdraw Less Often Than Men

"Women are much more careful with regard to their bank accounts than men. They watch their checks much more carefully and overdraw less often. Checks written on their bank by girls are seldom bad, and girls have savings to their names, but we have more trouble with boys in this matter. A great many students write checks without having money in the bank because they do not keep their accounts closely enough, and we have to return some checks to them. Girls and boys who are working their way through school are much more careful. Of course, the general opinion of Iowa City bankers is that we have all in this same regard, a fact that we are supposed to have a better head for business than men.

"We have very little trouble with girl's accounts" said Mr. Giese of the Johnson County Savings bank. They watch their accounts closely on the whole, and we never hesitate to call any of them. Students run on a very low cash margin while in school but the most part. Their average balance is only a little over a dollar. But in the event of being made to make a deposit, their bank accounts drop down to making the end of the month and then replenish them with a check from home. Some of them try to have a balance of fifty or more for accounts, less than fifty cents for accounts.

They have very little trouble with account. Some girls actually have a balance of fifty cents for accounts.
