Feigl, Sudeten German, Talks Before Panel

Sees Further Nazi Expansion, Declares Bitter Hostility

An overwhelming crowd, overturning the seating capacity of the Student assembly chamber, attended a panel and open forum discussion on the crisis in Europe in Old Capital last night. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Student Peace committee, the Iowa Student Federation, and the Iowa Committee for the American Republic.

A panel discussion--broadcast immediately over WMT--was given by Prof. Herbert Feigl, of the philosophy department, and Prof. Howard R. Brown, of the English department.

About the European Crisis

Feigl, a Sudeten German, was invited in order that the student audience might be made aware of the whole problem of the present crisis in the Sudeten lands. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Student Peace committee, the Iowa Student Federation, and the Iowa Committee for the American Republic.

There is no question that the British people through their newspapers, again, are out to minimize the preparations for war. There are rumors in London that big forces are being concentrated in the north of England, and that heavy naval gun fire is going on off the coast of Maine. But all this is denied by the British people.

The British Cabinet has been trying to reduce the value of the pound sterling, and this has been successful to some extent. The British people, therefore, are striving to make the pound as valuable as possible. This is being done by sending large quantities of gold to the United States, and by buying American securities.

The French and British governments have been trying to reduce the French budget, and this has been successful to some extent. The French people, therefore, are striving to make the French franc as valuable as possible. This is being done by sending large quantities of gold to the United States, and by buying American securities. The French have also been trying to make the French franc as valuable as possible.
