HAWKEYES LOSE TO BADGERS, 31-13

Thoughts In Passing

SIGNIFICANT STATEMENTS!

1. It is common talk that Wisconsin legislators have the privilege of offering scholarships to prospective University of Wisconsin students. Why?

2. George Paskavan, who saw action with the Badgers yesterday, gave the University of Iowa a lot of consideration before enrolling at the University of Wisconsin. Why?

3. An all-state freshman football player checked over his budget here at Iowa last week and found that he could afford to spend approximately $1.50 a week for food. Why?

4. Wisconsin 31; Iowa 13. Why?

CONCLUSION — You can't play the fiddle when it isn't strung.

Now, Iowa lost a ball game yesterday, and I, along with several thousand others, was greatly disappointed; however, this is neither an attempt to shield the coaches — they are not to blame — or to blast the players. This is an attempt to lay the blame on the right doorstep — the alumni.

Before you alumni groan in your "persecution," let me paint a picture for you. John Smith, in his senior year in high school, is picked on the mythical all-state football team. In the neighboring town, Jimmy Jones, also a senior, is given a similar honor. Hard-working alumni in both cities — and there are a lot of hard-working alumni — send the boys here to Iowa City to see what sort of employment they can find to finance their college education. After a consultation with officials, the boys, because they satisfy the qualifications as needy students, are informed that they MAY receive an NYA job to the extent of $30 a month. Incidentally, this $30 grant is the "top" grant.

All this has happened in the early fall. Now, in early September we find Johnny Smith enrolled safely in the fold at S. U. I. with his $30 a month NYA job. On the other hand, Jimmy Jones has been "approached" by the alumni from Whoozis Tech. Jimmy needed a job, too, so he was given $75 a month for winding an eight-day clock. Jimmy needed tuition, too, so he was awarded a scholarship. Jimmy needed clothes in order that he might appear presentable; a merchant took an "interest" in Jimmy and now Jimmy has clothes. Jimmy's books, board and room appeared the same way. Jimmy had trouble with his class work in high school; Jimmy doesn't now because he has a tutor to help him with his reduced schedule. Yes, Jimmy has done all right.

Let me carry you back from this pleasant picture of the Jimmy Jones situation at Whoozis Tech to where we find Johnny Smith enrolled at S. U. I. Johnny's NYA job pays him 34 cents an hour so he works three hours a day on this schedule digging ditches, scrubbing floors or mowing lawns in spring and fall. Johnny needs clothes, books and tuition so he budgets his $30 in order to supply these demands. If Johnny can't make ends meet, there are several public-spirited merchants in the city who will give him a board job, if they can use him in any way. He registers for between 13 and 16 class hours and must spend on the average 4 or 5 hours a day in classes. Then, (See STATEMENTS, page 3)

Commerce War With Germany Threatens Over Balkan Trade

U. S. to Try to Save 170 Million Trade In Central Europe

By ANDRUE BERDING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's economic drive into central and southeastern Europe will run into an effort by the United States to retain her $170,000,000 stake in the commerce of that region. Officials here are working out an American defense against Hitler's commercial legions. His absorption of the Sudetenland of Czechoslovakia is just the beginning, they believe, of a gigantic German trade offensive in central Europe and the Balkans.

The German minister of economics, Walther Funk, is now touring the Balkans. He has just concluded a commercial agreement with Yugoslavia, considerably extending the present one under which 30 percent of Yugoslavia's total trade is with Germany. He has gone on to Ankara, Turkey, where a Turkish-German trade agreement was concluded yesterday.

Experts here say that a determined effort to retain trade must be made not only by this country but also by Britain and France to prevent the Balkans from becoming a commercial appendage of Berlin.

They are apprehensive that the German dream of "drang nach Osten"—drive toward the east—is developing into reality, commercially.

Experts say they expect Germany to obtain considerable control over the commercial life of Czechoslovakia. Acquisition of the Sudetenland will strengthen Germany in her foreign trade with Poland and Hungary. It will give her new products to sell the other nations of central Europe.

Nations to which United States experts are turning their attention are Czechoslovakia, Turkey, Hungary, Poland, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Greece, Bulgaria and Albania. Imports of those countries from the United States in the first eight months of 1938 amounted to $61,935,000. At the same rate, they should total about $93,000,000 for the whole year of 1938.

Exports to the United States in the same period of eight months amounted to $50,597,000, and for the year will probably amount to $76,000,000. This is a total trade of about $170,000,000.

Italy Tries Settlement

Mussolini Attempting To Settle Differences With England, France

ROME, Oct. 8 (AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini cleared the way for settlement of Italy's differences with Great Britain and France by arranging for withdrawal of part of his troops from insurgent Spain.

An official announcement said insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco was "preparing immediate withdrawal of Italian legionnaires who have more than 18 months' uninterrupted campaigning in Spain."

Private sources estimated 10,000 soldiers thus would be withdrawn from the force which the Italian government on Oct. 18, 1937, asserted never reached more than 40,000 men.

Some foreign observers estimated that as many as 80,000 Italian troops were fighting with Franco at one time.

Political circles expected the decision to withdraw part of the troops would figure in Il Duce's international affairs declaration tonight before the fascist grand council.

Originally foreign policy was placed second on the agenda but it was believed in fascist circles the discussion was postponed until tonight in view of continuing negotiations between the Italian and British governments.

Stefani, official Italian news agency, carried the withdrawal announcement in the form of a communiqué from Franco's headquarters in Salamanca, Spain. It said:

Will Withdraw Troops
"General Franco is preparing immediate repatriation of Italian legionnaires who have more than 18 months' uninterrupted campaigning in Spain."

"Nationalist Spain, in effecting this substantial withdrawal of volunteers, is contributing in an efficient manner to the reestablishment of international confidence and at the same time satisfying in this manner the desire manifested by the non-intervention committee."

Mexican Supreme Court Dismisses Appeal By Oil Companies Against Land Expropriation

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Mexican supreme court today dismissed an appeal of American and British oil companies against expropriation of their properties by the Mexican government March 18.

The court held the foreign companies had not exhausted other administrative recourses open to them and that the matter thus was not one for the supreme court to rule on.

A petition for revocation of the expropriation decree, the court ruling pointed out, still is under consideration by the department of national economy.

Holdings of 17 American and British concerns were included in the expropriated property which the companies valued at $400,000,000.

One oil man said today's decision meant that determination of the legality of expropriation would be "indefinite" since the national economy department's ruling must be waited before starting up through the courts again to get a final supreme court decision.

"Inasmuch as it took approximately six months for the dismissal case to go through the courts, we may assume it will take as long for the next case to reach a decision," he said.

Hitler to Speak In Saar Valley

German Government Acts Against Jews; Revokes Passports

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

BERLIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler sped tonight from Sudetenland, Germany's newest acquisition, to the Saar valley, her first gain under nazi rule, to speak tomorrow at the opening of a new theater in Saarbruecken.

The belief was general he might seize upon his proximity to French territory to make another gesture of friendship to the western democracy.

Meanwhile, German troops moved into the fifth zone of Sudetenland which was delimited by the international commission in Berlin.

In the German capital itself, the government revoked all German passports in the hands of Jews. This action came in a decree of the ministry of interior. It applies to Jews who are German citizens and they were given two weeks from yesterday, when the decree was signed, to surrender their passports.

As a result United States consulates found a wrench thrown into their visa machinery since several thousand visas issued recently will prove worthless unless the ministry of interior agrees automatically to restore and revalidate passports for such Jews as have been given United States visas.

Will Hold Conference
Consulate officials here said they had asked the ministry for an early conference. It may be held Monday.

The decree provided that Jews will be given police identification cards in place of their passports. If a Jew wishes to travel abroad his passport may be made valid again by a special amendment entered into it.

Hitler will speak at 2 p.m. (7 a.m. C. S. T.) in the Saarland which officially became a part of Germany March 1, 1935.

He already had made gestures of friendship toward France in two previous speeches, on Sept. 12 at Nuernberg when he reiterated his renunciation of any claim to Alsace-Lorraine and on Sept. 26 in Berlin when he renounced all further territorial claims on the European continent after annexation of Sudetenland.

Berlin diplomatic circles awaited the speech with interest but no German in authority was able or willing to disclose the probable nature of the talk.

Officials pointed out that Hitler is interested in art as well as foreign affairs and therefore his speech might easily be devoted to the theater and its place in German cultural life. It will be broadcast throughout the nation.

INTERNATIONAL SITUATION At a Glance

By The Associated Press

ROME — Italy clears way for friendship with Britain and France by arranging to withdraw part of Italian troops from insurgent Spain; estimated 10,000 soldiers to be recalled.

LONDON — Anglo-Italian accord and Prime Minister Chamberlain's hopes of general European appeasement move nearer realization through Premier Mussolini's troop withdrawal.

PARIS — Premier Daladier confers with former Socialist Premier Blum and Labor Leader Leon Jouhaux in effort to block communist plan to wreck government by resurrecting people's front.

BERLIN — Adolph Hitler leaves Sudetenland for Saar valley for Sunday speech; expected to voice another gesture of friendship toward France; government revokes all German passports held by Jews.

VIENNA — Nazi crowd smashes windows in Theodore Cardinal Innitzer's palace, invades his offices in revenge for Catholic demonstration Friday night; cardinal slightly injured by splintered glass.

PRAGUE — Gloom and resentment mount as German and Polish troops push further into republic; negotiations on Hungary's territorial and minority demands start today.

MEXICO CITY — Supreme court dismisses appeal of British and American oil companies against March 18 expropriation.

LONDON — King George VI and Queen Elizabeth to visit Canada next summer; official quarters silent on prospects of United States visit by royal pair.

HANKOW — Chinese acknowledge Japanese cut Peiping-Hankow railway; Japanese report new gains on other fronts.

HENDAYE — Fourteen Americans freed after long imprisonment by Spanish insurgents; exchanged for similar number prisoners captured by government forces.

British Royalty May Visit U. S.

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP) — King George VI and Queen Elizabeth will become the first reigning British sovereigns ever to set foot in "the new world" by a visit to Canada next summer which may take them to the United States.

A brief official announcement today from Balmoral castle in Scotland said the British rulers would make the precedent-shattering trip "in early summer" and spend "about three weeks" in Canada.

No mention was made of the United States, but many believed it was possible their majesties might go there as a gesture of Anglo-American solidarity for international reasons and increasing pressure here for closer ties between the United States and Great Britain.

Alpha Xi Delta Wins in Badge Sales Contest

More Than 7,000 Emblems Are Sold By Winning Group

Alpha Xi Delta sorority, a leader since the second day of the past week's Homecoming badge sale race, ended the contest well over 1,000 badges ahead of Alpha Delta Pi, second-place winner in the contest.

Chi Omega, who won last year's contest, finished third this year.

The Finish
Alpha Xi Delta	7,003
Alpha Delta Pi	5,324
Chi Omega	5,082
Total	17,409

The badge total was approximately the same as last year. Since the sale first began in 1925, more than 200,000 of the emblems have been sold, financing a wide variety of essential Homecoming expenses.

A new contest for next year's badge design will be begun after the first semester is concluded.

Japanese Push Armies Onto China's Capital

TOKYO, Oct. 8 (AP) — In the eyes of the Japanese public the drive on Hankow has become the entire Chinese-Japanese conflict at the moment.

General disappointment is apparent over the fact that China's provisional capital still is uncaptured.

At the beginning of September Japanese leaders predicted Hankow would fall by Oct. 1 at the latest. Now the public is talking of the capture in terms of late November.

Nevertheless, the Japanese press reports "steady and satisfactory" progress on all three of the fronts from which the Japanese are attempting to converge on the city.

Newspapers today featured dispatches stating the Peiping-Hankow railway had been cut south of Sinyang. Other dispatches said heavy fighting was in progress in mountains flanking the Hankow plain, but admitted no reverses.

The newspapers reported the Chinese had massed 130 divisions, totaling about 2,000,000 men, around Hankow. They stated Chinese casualties since Sept. 1 were about 50,000. No estimates of Japanese forces in the Hankow drive or Japanese casualties were given.

Ritz Bros., Others, Sued for Plagiarism

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Ritz Brothers, along with Twentieth Century Fox, Darryl Zanuck and half a dozen others were sued for $1,050,000 damages today on a charge of plagiarism in the picture, "Kentucky Moonshine."

Writers Ned Washington, Hal Green and Sam H. Stept filed the action which also named David Butler, director; and Jack Lait, Jr., M. M. Musselman, Art Arthur, Sid Feller and Ray Golden, writers.

Time Sued For Damages

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—A suit for $250,000 damages was filed in federal court today against Time, Inc., publisher of Life magazine alleging that publication of an x-ray photograph showing a pair of scissors that had been left inside a woman patient after an operation violated her right to privacy and impaired her health and social standing.

fun the Badgers were on the long end of a 31-13 score.

It was Wisconsin's day and the Badgers made the most of it. The Hawkeyes were never in the ball game after the first few moments of the opening quarter and were able to score only after the Wisconsin crew had piled up a 10-heavy lead of 31 to 0.

Seldom has a smarter team been seen in Iowa stadium than that representing Wisconsin. It had the happy faculty of doing everything right. Iowa fumbles, so costly to Hawkeye chances during the past few years, were eagerly gobbled up by the alert Badgers, and, on one occasion, was converted into a touchdown when the ball was recovered before it had even touched the ground.

The Badgers blocked with the precision of delicate machinery. They tackled with a sureness and viciousness that kept the Iowa attack well under control throughout the afternoon.

In contrast, the Hawkeyes missed tackles, blocked delicately and, in general, made Wisconsin look good.

Weiss and his companions in the Wisconsin backfield, were just too much for the lumbering Hawkeyes as they ran the Iowa squad ragged and blocked it silly.

In the opening quarter Weiss and Bellin, as sweet a pair of backs as anybody would care to see, alternated in carrying the ball on the first of a long series of Wisconsin touchdowns jaunts. Weiss finally broke into the clear, raced along behind beautiful interference and didn't stop until he had carried the ball from his own 44-yard strip down to the Iowa 17, a run of 39 yards. Bellin smashed through tackle for six, and Weiss completed the job by smashing over his own right guard for the touchdown.

Neither side gained a great deal during an exchange of punts and the game had slowed down to a walk when the Badgers got the break that led to their second touchdown. Several minutes before the end of the half, Kinnick took one of Paskavan's long punts on his own 35 and returned to the 40. McLain then fumbled on the Iowa 37 and Wisconsin recovered. Two passes were good down to the Iowa 14. Schmitt then stepped back, heaved a pass into the waiting arms of Bellin who received the ball in the end zone with no Iowa players in sight.

The quarter ended shortly after and the Iowa band—far more impressive than the football team—took the field to give the Homecoming throng its only thrill of the day.

The slaughter began in earnest shortly after the second half opened. The Badgers had three touchdowns just about as fast as the huge new score board could record them, three touchdowns in a little over four minutes. The first of this series came on the first play after the kickoff, which Bellin had returned to the Wisconsin 35. It was Schmitt again, as he broke around his own right end, straight armed several tacklers and romped behind his interference the distance of 67 yards to the Iowa goal line, making the (See HAWKEYES, page 8)

—And We Can All Take Heed

AT HOUSTON, Texas, last week, Joseph Jones, president of the Mine Workers' Federation of Great Britain, told American labor some rather significant facts.

They're worth consideration by everyone:

"The imperative need of our time is an impartial examination and consideration of the steadily expanding economic aspirations not only of European countries but of the world," Jones said.

"Let us all," he continued, "endeavor by all means to create efficient honorable and mutually beneficial boundaries for our separate organizations, but let us approach such delicate tasks, not in an atmosphere of antagonism but in the spirit of harmony and concord."

Meanwhile, in Washington, D. C., the president of the United States urged American labor to work for harmony.

And again in Houston, the American Federation of Labor's William Green declared, "in effect, we are willing — it's the CIO."

In Pittsburgh CIO President John L. Lewis said, "We await the action of William Green."

All of us must recall the words of Abraham Lincoln. We must all stand together, he said. Otherwise we shall all stand separately.

Those words are equally true whether they refer to nations or to labor unions. We might say, particularly labor unions.

Need We Comment Further?

"COLLEGES which want to teach young people how to live an examined life may disregard the business index. Whether jobs are scarce or plentiful, the country will wish to be intelligent. In the light of what has happened in certain impoverished European countries, it may be that intelligence is most important when jobs are scarcest," President R. M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago.

A Little Thought Makes a Lot Of Difference

While your clock ticks off the next 60 seconds, three people will be injured somewhere in the United States in traffic accidents.

Within the next 13 minutes, some person will be killed on our broad highways and streets, according to the averages compiled by the National Safety Council.

But the tragic part of these accidents is that they do not have to happen.

Accidents are caused. They are not inevitable. If we could compel every person to watch his step, to drive carefully, to cross the street with common sense—those three people would not have been injured while you were reading this, and that person would not be doomed to die in the wreckage of an automobile.

Caution is your best protection. Use it!

More than 8,000,000 bicycles are in use in France, the number having increased by 527,000 from 1936 to 1937.

The U. S. census bureau has put about 200 employees to work checking files to obtain proof of age for persons seeking old age assistance.

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Some day, when my typewriter fingers (both of them) are too weary to hit another key, I'm going to get me a hobby. Not just fishing, which ends with the first snowfall. And not just canning and preserving, which is over when the fruits and watermelon rinds are all in. But something I can do all the year around; something in a department in which I'll be the only one there is and know all there is to know about it.

Maybe I'll collect perforated typewriter ribbons—guess how I thought of that?

Or doormats—there's a welcome idea. (Ugh!)

Or discarded church steeples. Now I'm getting warm. I'll bet I could be the only church steeple collector in the world.

Don't think for a minute that this is just the ramblings of a columnist's idle hour. I've been talking to Dave Elman. Dave's the gent that originated that Hobby Lobby program on radio a couple of years back and more recently started what he calls a hobby clinic. He didn't know what he was letting himself in for on that.

The master hobbyist learned a couple of things about hobbies, too. And before you chuck the garage business to start a collection with the swiss-cheesy inner tubes cluttering your place, cast your eye over these fundamental rules that Elman evolved.

First, there is no hobby so far-fetched, so unusual, that it cannot be made to pay. All right, collecting shredded inner tubes is okay.

Second, your hobby must absorb and interest you for its own sake, and not for the money in it. Well, that's fine, too. Of course you love the ripped tubes for themselves and you can't tear yourself away from them.

Third, you must become the supreme authority on the subject. Since you'll be the only one in the field, your word, ipso facto (or something) will be law. Pass.

All right, go ahead. Now you've got your hobby, collecting shredded inner tubes. The rest is up to you and the stretch of your imagination. I throw out this idea gratis, bearing in mind that Elman has unearthed far fancier hobbies which are money-makers.

For example, the raising and training of angelfish. Elman is something of a fisherman himself, so he was tickled pink to hear of this one.

It seems that an Izaak Walton devotee got pretty disgusted one day when he was out fishing because the worms were so weak they fell off the hook. Then and there he decided to raise his own. He got together a couple of hardy wrigglers and started a worm farm. Other fishermen heard of his worms and begged for them. Now he packs them in cans and ships them all over the country—the finest, fattest worms any fish ever grabbed at.

Elman now has 500,000 hobbies on file. Here are some of the more unusual ones: the school teacher in Huntsville, Ala., who paints

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—In this land of silk and money you get accustomed to thinking most big movie people are millionaires. At least, you think, they have a firm grip on their first half - million.

So we all laughed, a little more than a year ago, when Tay Garnett sat down at the piano and twiddled off a tune about a serious round - the - world expedition in his yawl, Athene.

"Going to work, eh?" we all laughed.

"Yeh, work," said Tay. "Heh, heh," we chuckled. "Work. That's a good one. But will you please say that with a twinkle in your eye, like the song?"

Tay obligingly twinkled. He usually does, anyway, being the son of one William Muldrough and slightly Irish. So we land-bound oafs stood on the docks and watched the slick Athene cleave a clean path toward the open sea.

Well, Tay came back, and it seems that he did work. He's keeping it up over at Walter Wanger's place now, whipping up a piece of celluloid called "Trade Winds." He has Freddie March, Joan Bennett, Ralph Bellamy, Ann Sothern and Robert Elliott acting out and filling in a story that Tay photographed on his trip.

It was just a "pleasure cruise" but—

"I gambled practically everything I owned to make it. Went in hock, and came back broke with a bill for back income tax waiting for me," Tay grinned today. "That boat had a complete film laboratory on board—and you don't fix one of those up with peanuts. The trip, all told, set me back about $170,000—but I think it's going to be worth it."

He brought back about 60,000 feet of film, exposed in various parts of the world—and every foot of it, he said, "is going to be useful in this picture or in the next one I make. That's to be 'World Cruise,' and I've got the story for that one, too."

GARNETT set out with a fairly complete shooting script of "Trade Winds"—he's the author—to go by. He shot backgrounds that he would need for his story of a San Francisco girl accused of murder and pursued through the Orient by a heel of a detective. He wrote that kind of story—mostly a "chase"—for a definite reason.

Like all directors, Tay Garnett wants to be his own producer. It's tough for a director to get backing for his independent production efforts. The money-lenders lend to those who HAVE produced, not to those who'd like to. So Tay's password—he hopes

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Every one is glad, of course, that another world war was staved off by the recent Chamberlain - Daladier - Hitler - Mussolini conference in Munich. Nevertheless, a certain undertone of comment is audible in diplomatic and domestic official circles in Washington to the effect that a major conflict was not averted (maybe only temporarily) exactly as genuine peace lovers might have wished.

What these folk had hoped was that Herr Hitler would have his hand so obviously called as to make it impossible for Germany itself not to recognize him as a bluffer. Had this occurred the best guess is that he would have been sufficiently deflated at home to terminate his fuhrer-ship in short order. Instead he has been strengthened, if anything. And, while Adolf remains in power, not many observers believe that international tranquility can last long. To his promises not the slightest weight is given.

Neutral spokesmen would like to see Mussolini eliminated, too. However, Benito is given credit at least for being sane. The fuhrer's sanity is seriously questioned. Besides, Italy alone is not strong enough to precipitate a very formidable war. Germany, plus complications, is.

War—if and when

War would (or will, if and when) be terrible.

Still, it generally is agreed, outside Germany and Italy, that it couldn't end otherwise than in the dictatorial pair's defeat. Hitler would be killed or jump the fatherland, like the ex-kaizer, or be interned on an island, like Napoleon, or some such thing. Ditto Mussolini, probably. Which would be tragic and dignified and all that. But it would be permanent. The drawback is that it would cost some millions of lives and untold misery and, in addition, perhaps put a period to present day so-called civilization.

Calling the dictator's bluff and making them look ridiculous would have been much better.

Only—it was tried and didn't work. Hitler stood pat. Mussolini the more rational of the two, yielded a trifle. Yet the dictators got away with it, the democracies hadn't quite enough nerve.

Personally I think Russia ought to have been invited in on the democratic side. The trouble is that the democracies so hate communism as to balk, 100 percent, at any partnership with Moscow. Well, communism is unlovable to the democratic mind.

—will be "Trade Winds," done for Wanger.

"There's been a great deal of process photography used in pictures," Tay explains, "but I don't believe its full possibilities have been realized. I'm hoping that 'Trade Winds'—utilizing some of those backgrounds we got on the trip—will demonstrate something new in the field. If it does, then I think I'll be set to make 'World Cruise' on my own."

TODAY'S PROGRAMS

SUNDAY CONCERT
... series at 12:30 today will feature Glenn Darwin, returning from the Worcester festival to rejoin Charlotte Lansing and the NBC concert orchestra. Darwin will sing a request, "The Green-Eyed Dragon" by Charles, 13 tails and all!

Darwin's other solo selection will be "Beautiful She." Miss Lansing will be heard in "Oh, My Love is a Fisherman" by Strickland and "In the Silence of the Night" by Rachmaninoff. Their duet will be "Only A Rose" from Friml's "Vagabond King."

VINCENTE GOMEZ
... NBC's outstanding guitarist, will feature a few of his own works on his Blue network program at 4:30 today.

THE METROPOLITAN
... opens its Sunday audition series today—for the fourth season. The time is 4:30. Always the first activity of the season in musical circles, the auditions are the backbone of American opera.

They search for talent, train the talent, present the talent, and by these means endeavor to bring opera closer to the public.

Milton J. Cross, one of the deans of network announcers, will replace Howard Caney. There will be three musicians today.

Anna Malenfant, mezzo soprano, will sing "O Mio Fernando" from "La Favorita" by Ciniotti, and "Do Not Go My Love" by Hageman.

Mack Harrell, baritone, will sing "Ga Weh!" from the third act of Wagner's "Parsifal" and Colin Taylor's "The Wind Mill."

Margaret Carlyle, soprano, will sing "Mi Chiamano Mimì" from Puccini's "La Boheme" and Clare Olinstead's "All My Heart."

An ensemble selection, "Music on the Water" by Schubert, and incidental music from Valordini's "Prince Igor" will round out the first of a splendid series of broadcasts.

BILLY HOUSE
... will be on the air with his Laugh Line program at 5:30 tonight. "Change Partners," the tune that could be chosen among a select 50 as Irving Berlin's own, will be the orchestral highlight of the show. Jack Fulton's featured number, with the musical assistance of the glee club, will be "So Help Me."

CHARLIE MCCARTHY
... will be back tonight at 7. He always is. At 8 o'clock you've Manhattan Merry - go - round, and at 8:30, Lucille Manners and Frank Munn—the American Album of Familiar Music.

TOMORROW NIGHT
... You'll want to hear Deanna Durbin and Bobby Breen, both of whom made their first radio bow on Eddie Cantor's program, when they return to the Cantor show as guest stars at 8:30 p.m.

In addition, Cantor's newest discovery, a young mystery singer for whom he prophesies stardom, will be featured on the program. Cantor also will interview another pair of newbies as to their future plans, as he did on the opening broadcast last Monday.

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

THE BLOOD gets blamed for a great many things of which it is entirely innocent. One hears of poor blood, thin blood and bad blood, and complaints are made that "My blood is acid." And so on and so on.

But the fact is that the blood visits all the tissues and parts of the body, partakes and shares in all their qualities. If the blood is "poor," then the tissues are also poor, and it may well be that the pooriness of the tissues is the cause of the pooriness of the blood.

When it comes to the term "bad blood," that must refer to hereditary qualities; these are more inherent in the nervous system than in the blood.

Simply a Tissue
The blood is simply a tissue like any other tissue. It has the unique distinction that it touches every other tissue in the body. That is its purpose and that is why it is a liquid tissue. It touches all the tissues with astonishing rapidity and frequency. If it were possible to tag a single particle of blood, it probably would be found that it visits every part of the body several thousand times an hour, and it gets from one end of the body to the other in seconds rather than minutes.

As proof of this, it is a familiar fact to the practicing physician that when he is giving an injection in the vein of the arm of a patient—a solution of arsenic, for instance—before he has injected as much as a quarter of the solution, the patient will complain of a metallic arsenic taste in the mouth.

In considering the functions of the various systems of the body during the last few weeks, we started out with the digestive system because that prepares the energy-producing substances for consumption. Then, in order to produce energy, the food must be oxidized and to furnish oxygen is the function of the respiratory system. That we studied last week.

Function of Blood
To carry these substances to the tissues is the function of the blood. It is naturally an extremely complex tissue, containing from time to time all sorts of chemicals. It varies a good deal in composition from time to time. I have seen blood drawn from the arm after a meal that looked like milk, so loaded with fat particles was it—a condition called lipemia.

Essentially, the blood consists of a clear protein or serum fluid of extreme complexity, called the plasma. In this float the blood cells; one kind, the red cells, whose essential function is to carry oxygen to the tissues, and the other kind, the white cells, which repel invasion and also probably carry chemicals to and fro. Where these originate will be the subject of the article tomorrow.

Yankees Approach Record by Beating the Cubs Again, 5-2

Chicago Entry Fails Again As Yankees Turn on Power

Pearson Handcuffs

In Notching Win

By PAUL MICKELSON
YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—Gaby Hartnett's once glorious Chicago Cubs, cut down by Monte Pearson's five-hit pitching and a home run attack that lent a Roman holiday atmosphere to the whole proceedings fell for the third straight time today as the hilarious New York Yankees neared their goal as the first ball club in history to win three successive world series titles.

Balked
Balked and held hitless for 4 2-3 innings by Clay Bryant, the big mountaineer pitching man from Lynchburg, Va., the world's champions, sparked this time by their sensational freshman hero, Joe Gordon, wiped out a 1-0 deficit with seven timely blows, two of them homers, to race off with victory, 5-2.

Champions
As in the first two Yankee routs at Chicago, the world's conquerors played like champions. Pearson, after a shaky start, gave them their best pitching of the series with nine strikeouts, four short of the record. The team displayed superb defense in the pinches though it did commit two errors, and the batting attack found just itself in time to turn the game from a thriller into another rather pathetic Cub rout witnessed by a disappointing crowd of 55,236.

No Douth
From the standpoint of the contest, which drew a cash gate of $209,258, far short of the record that was expected, one could feel the tension. As Bryant fooled the heavy swinging enemy in the first inning and even was presented with a one run lead through a flare-up that almost incapacitated Umpire Charley Moran in the fifth inning, the suspicion always was there that the Yankees would bust loose. And they did break loose in the fifth and sixth innings.

Santa Clara Wins, 7 to 0

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8 (AP)—Santa Clara, football toast of the Pacific coast, turned one yard-gaining thrust of 52 yards into a touchdown today to defeat the formidable Texas A & M eleven, 7-0, and remain in the race for mythical national championship recognition.

The Santa Clarians, off their smashing 22 to win over Stanford a week ago, lined up as overwhelming favorites, but the final decision came only after the hardest kind of fighting.

A Massacre! Maroons Fall Before Michigan, 45-7

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 8 (AP)—Michigan's football revival struck a new high today as the Wolverines romped to a 45 to 7 victory over a courageous but sadly undermanned University of Chicago eleven.

Twenty thousand spectators witnessed the touchdown parade that gave the Wolverines their first conference victory under Coach Herbert (Fritz) Crisler and their most impressive point total since their 40-0 triumph over Cornell in 1933.

Runaway
Less than two minutes had elapsed when Norman Purucker, veteran Michigan halfback, raced 44 yards for the first Michigan score. Thereafter the rampant Wolverines hit pay dirt in every period, climaxing the afternoon by tallying three touchdowns in the final quarter.

Nice Goin'
The only Chicago score came 35 seconds before the first half ended when Lewis Hamity passed from his five-yard line to John Davenport, Big Ten indoor sprint champion, who caught the ball at midfield and outfooted three Wolverine pursuers on a 50-yard run to the goal line.

Michigan's second touchdown came early in the second period on a 25-yard sprint by Paul Kromer, sophomore halfback Dave Strong, who placekicked Illinois to a 3-0 victory over Michigan here in 1936, tossed a 25-yard pass to Ed Czak, sophomore end, for the third Michigan touchdown, in the second period.

Tom Harmon, sophomore halfback, galloped 59 yards for Michigan's only touchdown of the third period.
A weak Chicago punt late in the third period set the stage for the next Michigan touchdown and on the second play of the final period, Fred Trosko, halfback, plunged over from the five-yard line. Howard Mehaffey, sophomore fullback, climaxed a 63-yard drive with a 31-yard run for Michigan's sixth touchdown. The final score, seconds before the game ended, came on a 14-yard plunge by Strong, after the Wolverines had recovered a Maroon fumble on the Chicago 19.

Panthers Get Revenge; Beat Duquesne 27-0

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8 (AP)—Pitt's Golden Panthers licked an old wound today and smashed out a 27 to 0 triumph over a gallant Duquesne university eleven—the team which rocked the football world with an upset victory over Pitt in 1936.

All of the heroics were handled by the Panther starting combination with all-America Marshall Goldberg throwing passes for two of the touchdowns and counting another on a one yard plunge off tackle.

It took Pitt no time at all to get started. As soon as the Panthers got the ball on a punt in the first period, Dick (Bandy Legs) Cassiano and Harold (Curly) Stebbins started reeling four and five yard gains in monotonous fashion which ended in Cassiano sweeping through right tackle 14 yards to a touchdown.

Fullback Howie Weiss, who scored one of the touchdowns for Wisconsin yesterday in the 31-13 rout of the Iowa Hawkeyes, is shown above as he goes off his right tackle for a three yard gain in the second quarter. He was brought down by Capt. Jack Eicherly (50).

Wildcats Claw Bulldogs; Flash Potent Attack

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 8 (AP)—A slashing running attack sparked by sophomores, particularly by one "Red" Hahnenstein, of Aurora, Ill., carried Northwestern to a 33-0 football triumph over Drake university today before a crowd of 25,000.

The Wildcats, warming up for their Big Ten opener with Ohio State next week, ran up 14 first downs from rushing and three more from passing as they scored in every quarter. Hahnenstein contributed two of the five touchdowns, one a 72-yard sprint at the start of the second quarter on his first play of the game.

He scored again at the end of the period from one yard out after his pass to Jim Smith had netted 45 yards and advanced the ball to Drake's six-yard line.

Hahnenstein carried the ball six times in all and gained 148 yards. Francis Purtell of Milwaukee, another sophomore, scored in the final period. Other touchdowns were made by veterans, Bernie Jefferson on a 15-yard drive in the first period and George McGurn in the third.

Drake demonstrated a fine running game of its own led by little Bob Underwood and twice penetrated Northwestern's 10-yard line, once going to the five, but in each instance fourth down passes failed.

Drake made seven first downs and gained a net of 185 yards to Northwestern's 509.

Bruins Upset Huskies By 13 to 0 Score

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8 (AP)—The University of California at Los Angeles rose to one of its greatest gridiron triumphs today when its gold-suited Bruins defeated the highly favored Huskies of Washington, 13-0, in a Pacific coast conference battle.

The win marked the first time the Bruins had been able to score on the stocky lads from the northwest in the four games played since 1932, much less the first time the U. C. L. A. colors had waved in victory.

Battling the Huskies to a standstill in the first quarter, the Bruins turned a Washington fumble into a spectacular touchdown play with ambling Kenny Washington, the Bruins' big Negro back, on the receiving end of a lateral pass that was good for 45 yards and the first score.

Norsemen Tally In Final Quarter To Down Tough Foes

By JAY VESSELS

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP)—Minnesota opened its 1938 Big Ten title bid by defeating Purdue 7 to 0 before 52,000 persons today, but the gallant Boilermakers fought so stubbornly that the Golden Gophers fared poorly. The Golden Gophers needed almost three complete periods to produce the winning score.

So unyielding were Purdue's stalwarts that Minnesota got 16 first downs and vast stretches of yardage before Fullback Christian-son blasted over from the one yard line with seconds to play in the third quarter.

Tough
After that the Boilermakers withered and the Western conference champions smashed to a first down on the Purdue five. But Coach Mal Elward's squad braced and took the ball on its own one yard line.

The Indiana huskies asserted their defensive strength in the opening period, turning back a Minnesota drive on the Purdue 15 from where Quarterback George Faust missed a field goal.

It was another big day for Minnesota's brilliant halfback, Wilbur Moore, and it was no fault of Moore's that the Golden Gophers didn't get some touchdowns earlier in the game. The rugged Minnesota senior was just as hard to stop as he was in the Washington and Nebraska contests and had runs of 22, 20 and 15 and many shorter drives when yards were needed for first downs.

Checked
Purdue's attack was thoroughly checked both by hand and by air. The Boilermakers made only one first down and that in the last period and got no closer to Minnesota's goal than the 45-yard line where they quickly yielded the ball.

Coach Elward's fast backs were stopped cold and they were in position to pass so seldom that only two forwards were attempted, both unsuccessful, and one of the two was intercepted by Minnesota.

After the Gophers finally scored, Coach Bernie Bierman trotted out a pair of new backs—Halfback Joe Jannik and Fullback Ed Steinbauer. They were headlining the power parade when Minnesota drove to within one yard of Purdue's goal in the final quarter.

These promising youngsters got their chance after Halfback George Franck, pinch hitting for the injured Harold Van Every, was hurt in the second period.

Irish Defeat Georgia Tech; Iowa Boy Stars

ATLANTA, Oct. 8 (AP)—Overcoming unexpected stubborn resistance Notre Dame unleashed two offensive thrusts today to conquer an inspired "Rambling Wreck" of Georgia Tech, 14-6, in renewing inter-sectional rivalry before an overflow crowd of close to 30,000.

Elmer Layden's smoothly functioning gridgers drove for touchdowns in the opening and closing periods. Otherwise, the offensive penetrated no farther than the 29-yard line.

The Irish backs, Lou Zontini, Neil Tonelli, Bob Saggau and one Edward Francis Simonich, spearheaded an attack that humbled the gallant efforts of the southerners.

Georgia Tech, employing a deceptive double reverse play, marched to a touchdown early in the second period, drove 67 yards to the Irish two-yard line in the closing minutes where a fumble lost the ball and on two other occasions invaded the scoring zone.

The Zontini-Tonelli combination set the stage for the first Notre Dame touchdown. The speedy Zontini intercepted a Georgia Tech pass and raced back 16 yards to the Engineers' 42. Tonelli cut through tackle on a 24-yard sprint. On third down, Tonelli swept around end to score from the 9. Harry Stevenson added the extra point.

Army Downed By Columbia

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—Columbia's fighting football forces, rocked on their heels by Army's superior drive and manpower in the first half, came roaring back with a second-half surge that put over two touchdowns and added the valuable extra points for a well-deserved 20-18 victory before 25,000 in Michie stadium.

Army started off as if bent on a runaway. Woodrow Wilson, on a 49-yard sprint around Columbia's left end, scored the Cadets' first touchdown within four minutes of the start. Columbia had the ball briefly on the following kickoff, was forced to punt, and Army rolled again.

This time the Cadets covered 54 yards in eight plays for first down on the Lion 14, lost the ball on downs as a passing attack failed, then regained possession on the 10 as Columbia fumbled on its first play. Wilson was called on again, and crossed the Columbia goal line standing up.

Alert Trojan Team Outplays Ohio Squad

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 8 (AP)—Tradition and an alert Southern California team wrecked Ohio State's hopes of football glory here today before a crowd of 62,378, the Trojans winning, 14-7, although outgained in every department of play.

Ghosts
Grenville Lansdell, Trojan quarterback and one of the finest backs ever to sink a cleat in Buckeye soil, probably could have taken care of the Ohioans alone, but these ghosts of former years haunted the Buckeyes.

Ohio has never beaten a west coast team; Ohio in four attempts has never beaten a team coached by the crafty Trojan mentor, Howard Jones; Ohio has never beaten a team which has scored against it since the middle of the 1935 season, the week after Notre Dame tagged the Bucks 18-13.

Fumbles
Fumbles and intercepted passes spelled Ohio's doom, the alert Trojans snagged three Buckeye bobbles and added six pass interceptions. Ohio gobbled up but one Trojan fumble and did not get a hand on any of 14 aerials tossed by the westerners.

Lansdell took care of the "scoring against Ohio" ghost in the first minute of play. He snagged a punt from co-captain Mike Kabeola of Ohio and threaded 83 yards through a broken field for a touchdown. Phil Gaspari donned his magic kicking toe to boot the extra point.

Ohio Scores
Ohio counted in the second period when End Keith Bliss blocked Lansdell's punt on the 18 and recovered on the one-yard line. Fullback Jimmy Langhurst plunged over for the touchdown a minute later and Center Charles Maag kicked the point that tied the count.

The Trojans made the thrust that won the game in the third period. Oliver Day, who replaced Lansdell at quarter, passed 18 yards to Stonebraker, sophomore end, then fired a touchdown pass from the 25-yard line to Alvin Krueger in the end zone.

Great Line
Ohio had marched 79 yards in the second period, but a placekick failed with 16 seconds to play. In the last period, the Trojans moved to the Buck two-inch line after a pass interception, but were checked by a stonewall line.

Ohio made 14 first downs to the Trojans' five and in all departments of play outgained the visitors, 318 yards to 234, but was impotent in scoring range.

Thriller
BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—A field goal with only seconds to play gave Louisiana State university a thrilling 3-0 victory over Rice Institute last night in a game that left more than 40,000 fans gasping.

Iowa State in First Victory Over the Nebraskans Since 1919; Rally in Third Frame

as soon as possible after 3 p.m., he hurries to the practice field to don his gridiron equipment for a lengthy drill. Johnny's time for the day will be budgeted something like this: NYA, 3 hours; classes, 4 hours; football, 3 hours; board job, 2 hours; studies, 2 hours minimum. Total—14 hours. The remaining 10 hours may be spent in sleeping, writing letters, and recreational pursuits. Hardly a pretty picture, but it's essentially true, and it is also a fact that those $30 NYA jobs which Johnny received are the exception and not the rule.

In 1921, Iowa had a championship team. Why? Ask any man close to Iowa affairs during this time. He probably knows more of the inside than I do. At least the men weren't suffering from malnutrition and lack of sleep!

The University of Iowa can't help athletes, no matter how deserving they may be; it's up to the alumni to take up the torch and see that the men representing the University of Iowa get support from them in a big way. If a miracle could raise the great Knute Rockne from the grave and put him at the Iowa helm he would fare the same as Coach Tubbs did yesterday. Psychology and trick plays go for naught when the men on the field have financial worries and empty stomachs.

Let this hint be taken too broadly, let me hasten to add that I personally know a dozen men who have scraped to help students through the university—there are hundreds more who will never be known. But this is a crucial time in Iowa athletic history. In time of necessity extraordinary efforts must be put forth if the measure is to carry. It is now or never and we might just as well realize it and do something about it. Coaches and systems may come and go; that is not the answer to this question. Who ever heard of placing an expensive limousine chassis over a motorcycle engine?

In knocking around athletic teams I once heard a slogan which a football team used with great success. The team lined up facing the opponents and in unison chanted, "Let's Dig. One. Two. Three." The alumni, if they ever hope to see Iowa in the upper percentage again must adopt this or a similar slogan.
John Mooney.

Kischer Scores From Nine Yard Line To Give Cyclones Win

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 8 (AP)—The Iowa State Cyclone swept a dark cloud over Nebraska's hopes for a fourth consecutive Big Six conference football championship by leveling the Cornhuskers, 8-7, here today. It was the first time Iowa State defeated Nebraska since 1919.

The revenge was sweet also for all gridiron enthusiasts of the state where the tall corn grows, for the Huskers defeated Iowa university three times in recent years by one point. The result wasn't so pleasing to Coach L. M. "Big" Jones, however, for today was his 43rd birthday.

Iowa State scored all its points in the third quarter, after a seesaw battle in the first half. Soon after play was resumed following the intermission, Center Jack West blocked a Nebraska punt. Quarterback Harry Hopp recovered in the end zone for the Huskers, but it was two points for the visitors.

Late in the period Iowa State put on a drive which ended with Quarterback Everett Kischer scoring a touchdown from the Nebraska nine-yard line. Kischer's kick from placement was wide.

Nebraska shook off its listlessness as the final quarter opened, and in short order put over a touchdown, on a 30-yard pass from Hopp to End Raymond Prochaska. The wingman caught the ball just inside the playing field. Halfback Herman Rohrig placekicked the extra point.

The Huskers continued to threaten during most of the remainder of the period, but let down in the dying moments and the game ended with Nebraska vainly trying to put the contest out of the fire via the forward pass route.

easy pickings for the next two scores. Kinnick's attempted pass was intercepted by Weiss on his own 45-yard line and he promptly registered another touchdown with a 55-yard gallop to the goal line.

Iowa finally broke into the scoring in the closing moments of the third quarter. A series of passes—Kinnick doing the heavy-lifting—brought the ball down to the Wisconsin 10-yard stripe. Kinick then flipped a pass into the end zone where Al Schenk was waiting to receive it for the touchdown.

The try for point was no good and Iowa trailed 31 to 6.

After five minutes of play in the final quarter, Iowa scored again. An exchange of punts left the ball in Wisconsin's possession on its own 15-yard line. The Badgers then attempted a pass but it fell incomplete and Wisconsin was penalized back to the one yard stripe for unnecessary roughness on the play.

Hartman then kicked to the Wisconsin 35 where Busk gathered it in and raced it back to the 20. Niles then tossed to Pettit who carried it to the Badger five. Niles hit the center of the line twice, taking the ball across on the second attempt. The try for point was good, the score read Wisconsin, 31; Iowa, 13, and the Hawkeyes kept their record—of not winning a game in Iowa stadium for the past five years—unsullied.

University's Symphony Orchestra to Launch New Season

First Concert Will Be Given In November

Christmas Oratorio, 'The Messiah,' And 3 Concerts Listed

The University of Iowa 95-piece symphony orchestra will present its first concert of the year soon after the first of November, as it launches another banner year.

Under the direction of Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department, the Iowa symphony has earned a reputation through past years as one of the finest university orchestras in the country.

During the coming year, the symphony will present three concerts, will participate in the massive presentation of Handel's "Messiah," Christmas oratorio, and will play for Sunday vespers services and the first semester convocation, as well as at other functions to be named later.

More than half the members of the symphony this year are students who are not majoring in music. Members have joined the group from such far-away states as California, Massachusetts and Texas.

During the past two years, the orchestra has presented a variety of concerts, including such numbers as Mozart's G Minor symphony, Schubert's "Symphony No. 7," Brahms' Symphony No. 4, Beethoven's Symphony No. 8, tone poems by Franz Liszt and some of Wagner's most famous works.

Prof. Hans Muenzer has appeared as violin soloist on different occasions, presenting well-known concertos, and Mrs. Muenzer has also appeared as piano soloist.

Two orchestras are included in the symphonic group—the complete group, and a smaller chamber orchestra.

Professor Clapp has announced that this year's orchestra will be one of the finest since he came here following the World War. He is well known as a composer of orchestral and chamber music.

Addison Alsop is manager of personnel and assistant conductor of the orchestra.

The personnel of the symphony orchestra follows:

Violin: Arnold Small, concertmaster, Lorene Liston, Virginia Agrell, Eileen Youngdahl, Jack Borg, Jean Opstad, Robert Driggs, Miriam Boyesen, Evelyn Thomas, Harriet Harlow.

Lucy Russett, Betty Ellett, Helen Winterberg, Walter Haderger, Albert Muenzer, Corinne Goodland, Bernice Anderson, Richard Soucek, Merrill Shelley, Evelyn Alexander, Mary Moore, Franklin Kiesel, Eloise Hattberg, Lowell Jobe.

Martha Bell, Joan Freund, Katherine McClary, Harold Webster.

Viola: Otto Jelinek, Patricia Trachsel, Mildred Jensen, Carol Pickering, Leo Dvorak, Mrs. Leo Dvorak, Katherine Reeds, Cynthia Ash.

Cello: Prof. Hans Koelbel, Alan Richardson, Hans Witschi, Edith Smartley, Rollo Norman, William Simpson, Jean McKnight, Dorothy Martin.

Bass: Eldon Obrecht, Hugh Gunderson, William Meardon, Glenn Wessenberg.

Flute: Robert Collins, Grace Small, Ruth Barlow, Margaret White.

Piccolo: Roger Galer.

Clarinet: Himie Voxman, Robert Titus, Marian Lybbert, John Tiedemann.

Bass clarinet: Pearl West.

Oboe: Ruth Williams, Sidney Johnson, Jean Hedlund.

English Horn: Prof. L. E. Ward.

Bassoon: Chris Schrock, Carl Paarmann, Ann Serup.

Trumpet: Donald Olson, Louis Newmark, Sidney Magdanz.

Trombone: Robert Andrus, Ronald Smith, Howard Robertson, Lloyd Swartley, Russell Sapp.

French Horn: Robert Hardwig, Robert Gaskill, Robert Crose, Stanley Willson.

Tuba: Carmen Waller.

Percussion: Dorothy O'Hearn, Ronald Smith, Howard Robertson, Charles Eble.

Symphony Director

Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department, is director of the University of Iowa symphony orchestra, one of the finest in the nation. The orchestra, almost 100 pieces, will present the first of a full schedule of concerts and other appearances soon after the first of November.

Carl Paarmann.
French horn: Robert Hardwig, Robert Gaskill.
Percussion: Dorothy O'Hearn.

Pioneers In Politics

Historical Society Records Show Vital Interest in 1838

The Iowa pioneers were vitally interested in politics in 1838, records of the Iowa State Historical society show. The Organic Act for the Territory of Iowa provided for the election of most of the public officials.

The 13 members of the council were to be elected for two years and the 26 members of the house of representatives were to be elected every year.

Besides the legislative assembly, "all township officers and all county officers except judicial officers, justices of the peace, sheriffs and clerks of courts" were to be elected by the citizens in the territory.

A Dubuque editor asserted that the large number of candidates gave "the appearance of great thirst for office."

Long before Aug. 15, 1838, when Gov. Robert Lucas fixed the election districts and apportioned the seats in the legislature, a large number of citizens had announced their candidacy. The campaign through the hot summer of 1838 revolved around several issues.

Candidates for congress debated provisions of the preemption law, the Iowa-Missouri boundary question and internal improvements. Local office seekers were interested in establishing county seats and county lines, the location of the territorial capital, education and formulating a code of laws.

The first campaign was conducted largely by the method of stump speaking. Several of the candidates would visit a town at the same time and a holiday was made of the event. Usually each office seeker addressed the crowd and explained his views.

When the smoke of battle cleared away it was found that the first legislative assembly of Iowa was composed of young men who were predominantly farmers. Twenty came from the south and 19 from northern states.

The story of the election of 1838 is told by Dr. Jack T. Johnson in the September issue of the "Palimpsest," the monthly publication of the State Historical society of Iowa.

Prof. Wylie to Talk Before Botany Club

Prof. R. B. Wylie, head of the botany department, will speak to the Botany club at 4 p.m. tomorrow in room 408, physics-botany building.

"Learn to Go by Going" will be the department head's subject.

Well-Equipped Lecture Room Available In Fine Arts Building for Students

University of Iowa students have the use of a well-equipped lecture room in the fine arts building.

The room was completed last year and is used for history of art classes and beginning art. It will seat approximately 250 people.

One of the unusual features about the room is the automatic electric lighting system. There are 14 separate switches, including one to operate an electric screen. The switches are controlled at the front of the room by the speaker at his table.

As Prof. L. D. Longman, head of the graphic and plastic arts department, indicated, this system is extremely worthwhile, especially in art classes in which slides are shown. By pushing a button a speaker can show two slides side by side, lecture about them, and have the lights dimmed, enabling the students to take notes at the same time.

Winning D. U. Display—

Alpha Xi Delta Wins—

Gamma Phi Beta Decoration—

Winners of sorority, fraternity and cooperative dormitory decorative Homecoming displays were announced yesterday after judges had viewed the various entries before each house. The top picture of this series shows the winning fraternity display, conceived by members of Delta Upsilon, winners in this division for the past four years. The middle picture is the Alpha Xi Delta decorative design, winner of first place in that division. No other places were given. The lower picture is the sorority display of Gamma Phi Beta, one of the outstanding displays although not a winner. Coast house, 530 N. Clinton street, new cooperative dormitory on the campus this year, won the cooperative dorm display. In the fraternity group, second prize went to Sigma Chi and third to Sigma Nu, while Phi Kappa Sigma won honorable mention. A trophy will be awarded each of the winning groups.

Mrs. McCabe Will Be Hostess to Club

Mrs. Margaret McCabe, 407 S. Dubuque street, will open her home to the members of the Two-Club tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. Bunco and 500 will provide entertainment following the regular business meeting.

Mrs. E. S. Oldis will assist the hostess.

Program Committee for Religious Emphasis Week Announced by Chairman Carl Ettinger

The program committee for Religious Emphasis week, Oct. 29 to Nov. 4, was announced yesterday by Carl N. Ettinger, A3 of Cedar Rapids, chairman.

Members are Robert O'Meara, A2 of Cedar Rapids; John L. Cockrill, A2 of Livermore; John A. Hutch, A3 of Cedar Rapids; Arnold E. Levine, A2 of Centerville, and Betty L. Osnowitz, A3 of Sioux City.

This committee will help in arranging the schedules of the 17 or more speakers who will be on the campus for that week. Engagements will include faculty luncheons, service club meetings, seminars, class room discussions, individual interviews, fireside chats and public addresses.

A letter explaining plans for the week was mailed to organized houses yesterday by Clinton H. Moyer, L3 of Iowa City, and Jane Anderson, A4 of Cedar Rapids, general student chairmen.

According to a report received from the University of Oregon, where a similar enterprise was conducted last week, there were so many invitations from the organized houses that all of them could not be met with the number of speakers available. Each speaker is limited to three major engagements each day, Dean Francis M. Dawson, general chairman, announced.

Plans for city participation in the events of the week will be made at a meeting of the city committee in room 303 of the Jefferson hotel, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The meeting was called by Irving Weber, chairman.

Members of the city committee are: Attorney F. B. Olsen, Attorney Will J. Hayek, Mayor Myron J. Walker, Attorney Burke N. Carson, Attorney R. G. Popham, Mrs. Nagle, Frank D. Williams, Mrs. Arthur Cox, Mrs. Roscoe E. Taylor, Charles A. Bowman, Attorney Dan C. Dutcher, Joseph Glass-man.

Edward S. Rose, Ben S. Summerville, Attorney Thomas E. Martin, Charles A. Beckman, L. R. Spencer, Jay McNamara, Thomas Farrell, Joe Braverman, H. J. Dane, Mrs. O. E. Van Doren, Iver A. Opstad, James Stronks and Attorney William R. Hart.

City pulpits will be filled by visiting speakers Sunday forenoon, Oct. 30. The first general public meeting of the week will be addressed by E. Stanley Jones of Lucknow, India, Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

There will be a public meeting each evening, closing with an address Friday evening by T. Z. Koo of Shanghai, China.

Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Upsilon Win in Contest

Coast House First Among Cooperatives For Decorations

Alpha Xi Delta sorority and Delta Upsilon fraternity yesterday were named the winners in the Homecoming decoration contest, sponsored by Iowa City Kiwanis and Lions clubs.

Coast house, new cooperative dormitory at 530 N. Clinton street, won a similar contest among the cooperative dormitories.

Kiwanis club annually awards a trophy to the winning fraternity on the campus, and a similar award is made by Lions club to the winning sorority.

Delta Upsilon won the fraternity contest this year for the fourth consecutive year. Second prize in the group went to Sigma Chi and third to Sigma Nu, while Phi Kappa Sigma was awarded honorable mention.

The three judges of the cooperative group were Prof. Harry G. Barnes of the speech department, Prof. George Haskell of the college of commerce and Assistant Dean of Men Alonzo Jones.

Three University Graduates Pass State Bar Exam

Three University of Iowa students were among the 48 persons who successfully passed the state bar examination at the state house in Des Moines Friday.

They were Davis B. Evans of North English, Michael Murray of Logan and Elton L. Gross of Malcolm.

Among those who passed was William A. Kelley of Rolfe, who said he was "a little over 60." It was the fourth time that Kelley had taken the examination.

Three women were among the successful candidates. Twenty-eight who took the examinations failed to pass. Burton Joseph Jr., of Des Moines had the highest grade in the class.

Divorce Granted In District Court

A divorce was granted to Harold Shaw from Judith Shaw in Johnson county district court this morning by Judge James P. Gaffney on the grounds of cruelty. The couple were married Nov. 21, 1933. Attorney Harold W. Vestermark represented Mrs. Shaw.

Carrier's Auxiliary To Have Exchange Of White Elephants

White elephants will be exchanged at the meeting of the Letter Carrier's auxiliary Tuesday at 2:15 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Fred Hiscock, 718 Oakland avenue.

Mrs. Edgar Vassar will preside at the business session, which will be followed by a social hour.

Mrs. Mary Hayes To Report on Artist At Circle Meeting

Mrs. Mary Hayes will report on George deForest Brush at a meeting of the Art Circle Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the Public library.

Preceding the program there will be a short business session.

Tonight's Vesper Speaker

The Rev. Charles R. Brown, noted alumnus of the University of Iowa, will present the first of this year's vesper services at the university at 8 o'clock tonight in the main lounge of Iowa Union. The Rev. Mr. Brown is dean-emeritus of the Yale divinity school. Music will be provided tonight by the university chorus; Prof. Arnold Small, concertmaster of the university symphony, and Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department, pianist.

Iowa History Comprehensive Book Is 'Iowa Guide'

During the past decade a large amount of literature has been published on Iowa history, largely by the State Historical society.

An additional opportunity to become interested in state and local history is now offered by the publication of the first comprehensive Iowa guide book.

The new book is entitled "Iowa: A Guide to the Hawkeye State." It was compiled by the Federal Writers' Project of the W.P.A. for the State of Iowa and forms one of the American Guide series which is being promoted by the federal government for the 48 states.

Although planned as a guide for strangers visiting or passing through Iowa, it will likewise serve in acquainting Iowans with their own state.

The Iowa Guide is sponsored by the State Historical society of Iowa in accordance with an act of the 47th general assembly.

The book is divided into four parts. Part one, entitled "Iowa: Past and Present," aims to give a "reasonably comprehensive survey" of the economic, religious, political and cultural development of the state. Part two gives descriptions of 17 cities that have been removed from the tours proper because of their length.

Part three is devoted to 17 main towns and nine minor towns. By calling attention to nearly every point of interest along each tour, the guide covers virtually the entire state.

Part four is brief, consisting simply of a chronology of dates, a bibliography and an index.

Zion Lutheran Will Not Meet Tonight

The Zion Lutheran church will not hold its regular devotional luncheon hour tonight at the church as was originally planned, according to an announcement issued yesterday.

The regular program will be resumed next week, however.

Seventeen Different Indian Tribes Lived In Iowa Before Days of White Explorers

Seventeen different Indian tribes lived in what is now Iowa in the period between the advent of Joliet and Marquette in 1673 and the coming of the white settlers in 1833, reports of the Iowa State Historical society disclose.

Some of these tribes had sought brief refuge only, as did the tribes of the Illinois Confederation in the 17th century. Others maintained permanent residence in the area over a long period of years. Chief of these were the Ioway, whose 150 years or more of habitation here gave the state its name.

The story of these historic Indian tribes in Iowa is told by Mildred Mott in a recent issue of "The Iowa Journal of History and Politics," the quarterly publication of the State Historical society of Iowa.

Miss Mott has studied scores of historic maps and read many books of travel. The Marquette map of 1673 is the oldest map among the 97 listed in the appendix. Lieut. A. M. Lea's map of 1838 is the latest, appearing just two years before the establishment of the territory of Iowa in 1838.

The maps of William Delisle, cartographer to the French king, are among the most accurate of the early maps. They appeared in 1701, 1702, 1703, 1718 and 1722.

In addition to the Ioway, the Oto and the Omaha probably had villages in Iowa for at least 50 years. The Ottawa, the Huron and the Miami were driven west of the Mississippi by the warlike Iroquois, but their stay was brief.

The Kickapoo, the Kickapoo and the Mascoutin found their way into Iowa land at an early date, the latter giving their name to Muscatine county.

Some of the early maps show that the Pawnee once inhabited western Iowa. Better known among the tribes of today who once dwelt in Iowa are the confederated tribes of Sauk and Fox and those two bitter foes, the Chippewa and the Dakota.

The members of the Illinois confederation who briefly lingered in Iowa were the Peoria, the Moingwena, the Tapuaro and the Coiracocentanon.

Esther Harding to Become Bride of Dr. Lester Hoyt Today

The Rev. Garrigues To Perform Service In Christian Church

Esther Louise Harding, daughter of Mrs. Mary Harding, 124 N. Madison street, will become the bride of Dr. Lester Hoyt, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Hoyt of Scranton, Pa., this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Christian church.

The Rev. Caspar C. Garrigues will read the vows of the single service. Preceding the ceremony, Edna Rahlf will present an organ recital of nuptial music.

The bride, who will be given in marriage by her brother, Joe, will wear a white satin gown, fashioned with a short train, shirred bodice and Peter Pan collar. Puffed at the shoulder, the sleeves will extend to points at the wrist. She will wear a finger tip length veil and will carry a bridal bouquet of white roses.

Attending her sister as maid of honor will be Delma Harding. Her gown of teal blue stain will have a short bolero jacket and a stand-up collar. Her bouquet will also be of roses.

Serving as best man will be Dr. Verne Hoshel of Manchester. Ushers will be Carl Henneberg of Linn Grove, Bill Yarwood of Eldora and Levitt Lambert of Iowa City.

Charlotte Johnson, five-year-old niece of the bride, will serve as the flower girl. Her ankle-length gown of blue silk which is gathered at the waist has a white collar and puffed sleeves. She will carry a basket of tiny white chrysanthemums.

The bride's mother will wear blue silk crepe fashioned with a pleated neckline. She will wear a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

Immediately following the ceremony, there will be a reception in the church parlors for 150 guests. Decorations will be in the bride's colors, blue and white, and Mrs. William Rohrbacher will serve as hostess.

After the reception the couple will leave on a short trip during which they plan to spend a few days with the groom's parents in Scranton. They will return to Iowa City before going to their home at 1740 N. Pennsylvania avenue, in Indianapolis, Ind., where Dr. Hoyt is resident physician in the Methodist hospital.

For travel the bride will wear a blue brook with a pleated skirt. Trimming the neckline of the dress is darker blue velvet. Her accessories will be black.

Miss Harding was graduated from Iowa City high school and entered nurse's training in the university school of nursing, from which she was graduated in June. Dr. Hoyt attended Simpson college and received his degree from the university college of medicine in 1937.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding will include Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Hoyt of Scranton; Gladys Hoyt of Scranton; Beryl Hoyt of Indianapolis; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hoyt of Bagley; Lila Harding of Montezuma; Frank Harding of Webster; Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Choate, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schump, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Harding, all of Cedar Rapids.

IPS on the Shopping Market

By Betty Harpel

THOSE frequent sodas and sundae amount to much on your school budget. Why not find a place that offers delicious and tempting ones for a small sum in pleasant and comfortable surroundings. TONY MARLAS' CAFE across from Strub's is your answer—just try one. They also serve wonderful lunches and dinners.

It's time to start thinking about the Hawkeye, all you juniors. You want your picture in it, of course, one that does you justice.

For a natural and charming portrait have it taken at KADGHN'S. Have it taken early before the wear and tear of school takes zest from your appearance.

Ann Winslow, Kappa, is favoring matchmaker skirts and sweaters. Annabelle Anderson, Pi Phi and YW pres, also has one of these models in tiel blue.

FOR a cozy chat by a homey fireplace amidst an atmosphere of friendliness and good cheer, you can always count on the congenial company of GREEN GABLES. Don has quite outdone himself in the new addition, with modern indirect lighting and cheery red-topped tables. Bring your friends and trek on out to listen to the Chicago-Lou game next Saturday, or to Dizzy Dean and the boys every afternoon.

Have you seen the jitterbug shirts?

School is well on the way and studying is really catching up with it. Why not arrange an intermission with your roommate with a good Maidrite sandwich and a refreshing drink so as to concentrate well the remainder of the evening.

All can be had in a jiffy by dialing 4595 for the MAIDRITE. (Free delivery over 50 cents.) The MAIDRITE is a good place to go after the game too.

UM, UM—Did I hear one of the girls say a spread was in the offing for tonight? What could be better, especially if some of those delicious chocolates and other candies from the STRAND CONFECTIONERY are included? You will find their sweetbreads "tops". And, listen, fellows, after the dance or show, take your girl to the STRAND CONFECTIONERY for a sandwich and some good, old-fashioned homemade ice cream. It's the best in town, and their prices are low, too!

One Chi O badge saleswoman was rebuffed by the answer, "I don't buy from beggars." Some people never learn to refuse gracefully!

Let the AMERICAN BEAUTY SHOP individualize your outfit. Pile it high for that week-end formal or curl it beneath your tilted chapeau. You will be pleased with their excellent service and original styling. Feel at ease under any circumstances with every hair in place, clean and shining. Have firm fingers massage your scalp until it tingles with new life. Then you will feel perfectly self-assured with a beautiful head of hair. Make your appointment now at the AMERICAN BEAUTY SHOP.

One Homecoming got into the spirit by spiking catsup, gravy and even water when his coke money ran out.

ARE YOU particular about the food that you eat? Do you like lots of service with your meals? You will find that you can get both at the SAVOY CAFE. They catered to Homecoming guests yesterday, but they cater to you all the time. Go to the SAVOY for good food.

Joy Workman and Betty Niles, Pi Phi pledges, are enthusiastic on the subject of natural colored, squared-toed flays.

Another Homecoming badge story is that one co-ed saleslady had to hold two bottles of whiskey so that her customer could hunt for his dime.

NEXT time you get that feeling that nothing but a sundae can cure, drop into SWANER'S. They have just the prescription you need in any flavor you choose. A big sundae made with their good ice cream makes SWANER'S the first step in curing the blues.

Don't fail to see the big display of California Pottery at THE GADD HARDWARE. New items in bulb bowls, Ivy baskets and flower pots in wrought iron hangers.

Dorie Evans, DG pledge, is of the bows in the hair school.

THOSE new housecoats at ZIMMERMAN'S MILLINERY SHOP are what every coed will want. The more taffeta with a long slid zipper is very stunning and practical. And on these chilly evenings the Powder Puff schville is just the thing, for it is so soft and warm. You can also get your favorite color in a Dirndl style or a man tailored striped satin. For your housecoat stop at ZIMMERMAN'S tomorrow.

AFTER your day is over, it's time to relax with music, and a chocolate milk shake. The combination is a honey and can be found at the MEREDITH TEA ROOM on Dubuque street. Their nicolodeon has some of the latest hits just waiting for you to play. The MEREDITH is handy for noon day lunches and after dates.

They all laughed — when they saw the Phi Delt question mark, but that decoration proved to be slightly more appropriate than some others that came to mind.

You'll want to see Sonja Henie and Richard Greene in the tuncful hit, "My Lucky Star," with Joan Davis, Cesar Romero, Buddy Ebsen starting Tuesday at the STRAND THEATER. This is a musical campus picture that can't be beat for good entertainment. Too, you all have a chance in the Movie Quiz $250,000 Contest. Secure your booklets which explain the Movie Quiz Contest from the manager's office.

THE formal season is almost upon us, so for that first big party be sure that you have one of those lovely evening wraps from WILLARDS. That Erinette cape will be the talk of the campus. Its simple lines are charming and the little black tails are smart decoration.

In one of those floor-length capes of black velvet trimmed with white fur or in one of black velvet with the inside of bright red velvet that can be worn either side out, you'll feel like the belle of the ball.

Be one of the first to see them at WILLARDS!

Bob Fridholm, Sigma Phi Epsilon, has a topcoat which can be turned into an overcoat just by zipping in a lining. Plenty smooth!

Chink-o-checks! The new game that is sweeping the town. See it at the CAMPUS SUPPLIES, 117 Iowa avenue.

Compete With Queens To Sell Beer

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—To cope with an increasing demand for Kaffir Beer in native beer halls, a new brewery with an output of 20,000 gallons daily is to be built.

Native municipal beer halls were instituted to check activities of "Shebeen Queens"—native women who run illicit liquor halls. They have been so successful that the shebeen Queens are gradually moving beyond the municipal limits.

Cochrane Turns Dude; Buys Softballs

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP)—There was a sheepish grin on the face of Mickey Cochrane, vacationing former manager of the Detroit Tigers, when he came into a Billings store to do some shopping. "I want two softballs and a bat," said the gentleman who has been on the receiving end of fast baseballs most of his life.

"You understand, they are for the ladies at the ranch," he was quick to explain when the clerk glanced at him with raised eyebrows.

Cochrane came to a Billings dude ranch for a rest. Decked in 10-gallon hat, cowboy breeches, horsehair belt and fancy shirt, he said he "liked the life" of a dude ranch cowboy.

'Creeping' Bridge Has To Be Anchored

CHICAGO (AP)—Engineers are figuring out how to keep a section of Chicago's new $12,000,000 outer drive Chicago river bridge from creeping toward Lake Michigan. President Roosevelt dedicated the bridge last October.

Expansion due to temperature changes, shifting of concrete footings and even the force of thousands of automobiles braking sharply to make a right-angle turn have been considered as probable causes.

Meanwhile the section has been anchored underneath with steel cables to keep it from sliding toward the lake.

CHAPTER 36

"I HAVE ASKED a certain party to meet me here," Ronald explained to Judy when he entered the long, low living-room, gay and comfortable with its cushions, flowered chairs, and books and lamps. "Mind if I slip a plain white card over your name on the door bell?"

"No, Ronald." Odd what implicit trust she had in anything this tall man with the unafraid gray eyes might do.

He was under fire. He was being watched. He had asked for the secrecy of her apartment. Why, she did not know and did not think to ask. It was enough that he had come to her, trusted her.

He paused at the top of the stairs, turning back as he spoke slowly.

"You're a real person, Judy Rogers. You may wonder—but you don't ask." For a moment his face was high-lighted with the quickness of the brilliant smile that had flashed when she first knew him.

Then she heard him running down the steps, noted the space of seconds that it took for the transfer of the card, heard him coming back.

She went away then to wander down to Eighth street, cross over to Sixth avenue, and buy Italian bread and some pressed meats and black olives. She hummed softly, throwing her brown head back to let the spring-haunted breeze stir her curly locks. She stopped at a flower vendor's cart and bought red roses.

The elevated rumbled overhead as she walked up the avenue where the weary old trains still follow a noisy path through the air. Boys and girls passed, carrying brief cases or portfolios, talking in rapt tones about stories that were "slanted" for this magazine and that, the value of Van Gough's paintings, the portraits that were showing at this gallery or that.

Judy smiled in the violet darkness. No one mentioned parties unless they were parties where young people, imbued with the spirit of endeavor and creation, would talk and talk of those who had achieved, where they themselves only strived. But so long as one held a cord to the vision, and kept eyes on the distant gleam, life was good.

Judy wanted to fall in step with some of the young people and tell them she belonged. She was their age, but she felt so many years older. She had lived so many more lives in her brief span of years, she explained to her questioning self, and then wondered if, after all, she had. What did she know of these other boys and girls?

She saw herself reflected in a plate glass window as she passed. She might have been any school girl with her plaid skirt revealing slim, shapely legs and ankles; her brown hair blowing under the suede beret whose green matched her suede jacket. It was an ensemble she had designed for Cordell which the great courtier had publicized.

So she came to her own doorway. The lantern lights at either side of the entrance were blinking sleepy eyes. Two people sat on the wide white steps, eating peanuts from a big brown bag.

"Hi, Judy," Bob Cushing said. "Want to join us on the stoop—the peanuts are good—or would you rather ask us up?"

"It is cold out here," caroled Marjorie, "and we've got an arm load of wood for a fire."

But Ronald? Had he finished his business and left? If he hadn't, what would Marjorie and Bob think when they found him upstairs? But she could explain that—she could say that she ran out on an errand.

She wished for a moment that Bob wasn't a newspaper man. If he got wind of the fact that Ronald had met someone here tonight, he might scent news. A good reporter had to be loyal to his sheet. She couldn't ask him to close his eyes. She couldn't explain that whatever happened was all right because, after all, she had only her own faith to support her words.

She gave a quick glance at the card above her door bell. Then she let a relieved breath escape. The blank card was gone. Ronald's visitor had left and her name had been inserted again.

But Ronald—had he waited? She slipped her key into the lock. The lamps still shone. The fire crackled. The room was empty.

But pinned to a lamp shade was a note written in large letters that flashed across the room to the three who had entered.

"Thanks for the use of the room, Judy. Sorry I can't wait to see you, RONALD."

There was a studied quietness in the room. Each one of the three people knew that the other two were searching for some word that would restore the easy comradeship of three months ago.

Simultaneously they realized there was no such word. The import of that message, scrawled across a sheet of drawing paper with a stick of black charcoal, had to be faced.

It was then that Bob drew an evening paper from his pocket and tossed it to Judy.

"Have you read this, Judy?" She took it to the low hassock near the fire and read, the green beret still on her brown curls. When she finished she looked up, a little line of worry between her eyes.

"The New York Bar association is investigating? Is that true, Bob?"

He nodded. "Only formality, Judy. Birrell is mighty well liked. Nobody wants him to be guilty."

"Then why do people act as though he is?" persisted Judy, tossing the beret across the room where it lay like a green ball on a window seat.

Bob sat down, too, and cracked another peanut. "Nobody wants him to be found guilty as I just told you. Nobody is acting that way. Don't you see, my dear Miss Rogers, that it is just as important to clear him as to convict him?"

"Yes, yes, I suppose it is."

"Now that we've stumbled on a secret, Judy, is there anything you can tell?" the newspaperman continued. "We might help, you know."

It was evident as the old brass andirons on the hearth, the brass platter above the fire on the smooth wooden shelf, that Ronald had used the room for a conference. No use denying that. So Judy answered:

"There isn't anything to tell except what you know. Ronald asked to use my room for a little while."

"You didn't see who came, who went out?" Bob was leaning forward, his brows drawn, his eyes narrowed in thought.

"I didn't watch."

"You might have helped. If someone is trying to frame him and he met that man—"

"I never thought!"

The fire began to go down and Bob tossed another log on the low blaze. Marjorie declared she was hungry, took the bundles Judy had brought from the delicatessen, and began to make sandwiches. Bob helped her.

Judy did not move from that hassock. Why hadn't she kept her eyes opened? She could have lurked in the shrubbery. She might have helped Ronald. But she had thought of nothing but obeying him—leaving him a free field.

"White or rye bread, Judy?" Marjorie called.

As if anyone cared—when Ronald's honor was at stake! But she answered steadily enough: "Rye, Marg, and no mustard."

Through the screen that mention of Ronald's trouble had thrown across her mind, a new thought presented itself—Marjorie and Bob seemed to know each other pretty well on such a few weeks' acquaintance. Marjorie and Bob—well, why not?

A spider is not an insect. Spiders belong to the class Arachnida, which includes scorpions, mites and ticks. They differ from insects in several respects. Spiders have no feelers or antennae, as insects have. They also have four pairs of legs and two pairs of jaws. Insects have three pairs of legs and three pairs of jaws.

Liechty Heads Employes' Group For Community Chest Campaign

Roscoe E. Taylor,
General Director,
Makes Announcement

E. J. Liechty, circulation manager of the Iowa City Press-Citizen, will head the employes' division for the Community Chest campaign, according to Roscoe E. Taylor, general director.

Mr. Liechty will be in charge of solicitations from employes of Iowa City's business establishments for donations to the 1938 drive.

The eight divisional directors for the current campaign are selecting workers who will donate their services in an effort to meet this year's quota of $19,890 which will make possible the continuation of Iowa City's service and character building organizations.

This year's drive will get under way Oct. 17.

Iowa History Film Released

Motion Picture Of
Centennial Year
To Show in State

"Iowa Comes of Age," a three-reel sound motion picture, is ready for theatrical showing throughout Iowa, M. L. Hutton, Iowa State Conservation director, announced through the office of R. J. "Dick" Jones, county recorder.

Iowa's centennial year is the theme of the production, with re-enactment of significant bits of early history and their relation to present day Iowa, the conservation program in Iowa, and Iowa today, agriculturally, industrially and educationally.

Following theatrical runs in Iowa, the picture will be used in the Iowa section of the World's fairs in New York and San Francisco. A print will also be preserved in the archives of the Iowa State Historical society for memento-showing, years from now.

The picture was produced by Burton B. Jerrel, producer of "Iowa News Flashes," Iowa's weekly newsreel, for the state conservation commission. It contains almost 500 different scenes taken in almost every county in Iowa. Although most of the scenes were filmed this year, some of the more significant shots taken from the Iowa newsreel library are used to illustrate contemporary Iowa life.

Among the groups whose work in the advancement of Iowa is shown and commented upon in "Iowa Comes of Age" are the Iowa state conservation commission, the centennial commission, the Iowa highway commission, the teaching

Duck Hunters' Licenses Good Along Missouri

Iowa duck hunters will enjoy the privilege of hunting anywhere on the Missouri river on their resident Iowa licenses, according to a report received from the Iowa State Conservation commission by R. J. "Dick" Jones, county auditor.

Nebraska and Iowa game officials have entered into a reciprocal arrangement, as in previous years, whereby the Iowa hunter may hunt anywhere on the Missouri river between the two states and his resident license will be recognized by Nebraska authorities.

The Iowa hunter, under the arrangement, may not hunt on islands taxed by the state of Nebraska or on bars, windmills or any land attached to the mainland of Nebraska.

Nebraska hunters, under like restrictions, have the same privileges in Iowa territory on their resident Nebraska licenses.

It's Fire Prevention Week

Chief Clark Urges Removal of Combustible Material From Homes, Stores

National Fire Prevention week begins today, with J. J. Clark, acting fire chief, urging that all places of business, factories and homes make a special effort to remove all rubbish, trash and junk of a combustible nature from their premises.

Among the common causes of fire in the home are:

1. Chimney not high enough above the roof.
2. Wood exposed above the chimney.
3. Soot in chimney.
4. Chimney on bracket.
5. Sweepings in register.
6. Rubbish in basement.
7. Unprotected points above the furnace.
8. Fireplace without fender or screen.
9. Unprotected joists above the smoke pipe.
10. Ashes in wood container.
11. Sagging smoke pipe, defective joints.
12. Joists resting on brick chimney.
13. Inflammable cleaning fluids, oil heater.
14. Oily rags or waste furniture polish and paints.

15. Exposed wood lath.
16. Gasoline stored or used in house.
17. Car with defective fuel or ignition system.
18. Knotted drop cord.
19. Electric iron connections.
20. Oil or gasoline stores.
21. Wood box close to stove.
22. No stove board protecting wood floor.
23. Matches within reach of children.
24. Bridged electric fuses.
25. Inflammable curtains too close to stove.
26. Service wires in attic.
27. Stove pipe too close to ceiling.
28. Unstopped or paper covered flue hole.
29. Radio antenna not properly grounded.

The fire department urges townspeople to make personal inspections of their homes and immediately correct any existing fire hazards, to defeat the worst enemy that confronts any community.

"Habitual carelessness is the safe and sane road to fire prevention," remarked Chief Clark. "Make no detours and help reduce Iowa City's fire loss."

Board Defers Action on SUI Coal Problem

For the second time, action of awarding of contracts for the University of Iowa's coal supply was deferred by the state board of education at its meeting here yesterday.

W. Earl Hall, spokesman for the group, said the action was taken in order that the facilities of the Iowa coal operators might be investigated.

Hall denied charges of Otto Muntz, chairman of the Greater Iowa commission, that the university has been using Illinois coal.

"The last Illinois coal used here was in April of 1937," he said, "and then only 2,000 tons. Iowa strip mines were unable to meet the demands at that time."

The bids for furnishing the coal to the university were thrown out by the board last spring when an Illinois firm submitted the lowest bid. The bids will be let at a special meeting of the board at Ames in two weeks.

Grid Warrior

Millions of U. S. football fans will each week-end this fall jam thousands of college and university stadia to cheer on those chosen to "do or die for dear old alma mater". They'll cheer ball carriers and linemen alike, but most acclaim will be for the stellar backfield men such as Young Bussey, Louisiana State University tailback, whose photo here is so truly emblematic of the spirit of the nation's number one amateur sport.

Fashions for the Fashionable

Almost a "must" for campus wear this fall are these outfits displayed at a recent New York college fashion review. Betty Hapworth paraded in a plain jacket and coat, Bette Ribble in a tweed jacket, and Rosemarie Mackey in a suede jacket and checked suede skirt.

DON'T LET YOUR NERVES GET TIRED, UPSET!

Irish Setter

Native of Ireland. Believed to be a cross of English setter, spaniel and pointer. Originally red and white in coloring. Today's standards call for solid mahogany red or rich golden chestnut. Essentially a gun dog. Bold, hardy, yet remarkably gentle nature.

He's giving his nerves a rest...

and so is he

THE DOG pictured above has a nervous system amazingly similar to yours, with this difference: It is the nature of the dog to rest when he needs rest. It is the nature of mankind to drive on...until nerves jerk and twitch...until you are cross and irritable...tired out without knowing it. No matter which of the common forms of tenseness you feel, try this experiment: Ease up and enjoy a Camel. Camels are made from costlier tobaccos. They are so mild and comforting. Smokers find that "LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL" puts more zest into life, and that Camel's costlier tobaccos soothe their nerves.

"Let up—light up a Camel" puts more joy into living

Terrell Jacobs, lion trainer, and "Tony" Concello, circus aerialist (right), both testify to the value of "Let up—light up a Camel." "Animals can spring into instant action—then relax," says Jacobs. "We are apt to get our nerves all wound up with our tense way of living—can't let go. I find that Camels soothe my nerves." "Terrell's right," Miss Concello says. "When my nerves are tired, a Camel helps them to rest."

DID YOU KNOW:

—that one tablespoonful of tobacco seed will sow 100 square yards? Right down to the day of harvest, Camel tobacco experts watch the development of the crop in each locality. The Camel cigarette buyers know where the mild, choice, aromatic tobacco is, and buy accordingly.

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic

Fred L. McDaniel, cowboy (right), says: "When I feel nervous I let up, and light up a soothing Camel. Camels are mild—I smoke 'em steadily. They are so comforting, and never tire my taste."

TRAILER TRIP

I'M GLAD WE DECIDED TO STOP AT THIS OLD INN, DADDY. JUST LOOK AT ALL THESE WONDERFUL ANTIQUES--

SUPPOSE WE SIT BY THE FIREPLACE FOR A WHILE. MAYBE OUR HOST WILL TELL US SOMETHING ABOUT THE PLACE

WELL, THE INN'S BEEN IN OUR FAMILY FOR GENERATIONS, SIR. THOSE BEAMS IN THE CEILING WERE HEWN BY HAND, WAY BACK IN STAGECOACH DAYS

I'LL BET THE TRAVELERS WELCOMED THIS FIREPLACE AT THE END OF A COLD JOURNEY

I CAN ALMOST SEE THE MEN SITTING IN THIS VERY SPOT, SMOKING THEIR PIPES JUST THE WAY YOU'RE DOING NOW

HO-HO, YOUNG LADY. YOU DON'T MEAN JUST THE WAY WE ARE NOW--WE'RE GETTING A LOT MORE PLEASURE FROM OUR PIPES THAN THEY DID

AFTER ALL, THEY DIDN'T HAVE A MILD, TASTY TOBACCO LIKE PRINCE ALBERT IN THOSE DAYS!

YOU'RE RIGHT, SIR. IT TAKES MODERN PRINCE ALBERT TO GIVE A MAN ALL THE PLEASURE THERE IS IN A GOOD PIPE

NO BITE...YET PLENTY OF RICH-TASTING, MELLOW GOODNESS... THAT'S WHY PRINCE ALBERT'S MY PIPE TOBACCO!

SMOKE 20 FRAGRANT PIPEFULS of Prince Albert. If you don't find it the mellowest, tastiest pipe tobacco you ever smoked, return the pocket tin with the rest of the tobacco in it to us at any time within a month from this date, and we will refund full purchase price, plus postage.
