Canton, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Japanese conquest of Canton, capital of Chinese nationalism, was completed today. Japanese forces, numbering some 100,000, had surrounded the city and there was no chance of resistance. The Japanese, in the past, have always preferred a "clean" conquest.

The spirit of the Japanese people is that of national pride, and that must be preserved over the long term. The Japanese have pride in their country and are deeply committed to protecting their newly acquired status. In the current climate, it is likely that the Japanese will continue to maintain their national pride and play a significant role in the future.

The Associated Press

What is the significance of the Japanese people's national pride and how does it affect their behavior?

The Japanese people's national pride is a significant factor in their behavior. It motivates them to protect and preserve their country and culture. This pride is evident in their commitment to maintaining national security, their dedication to technological innovation, and their pursuit of excellence in various fields. It also influences their attitudes towards foreign nations and their foreign policies. Their national pride is a driving force for their success in various areas such as technology, trade, and diplomacy.

Iowa State Favoured Over Kansas in Big Six Clash

State in Battle Experience Factor

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31 (AP) — The stage was set but, there still were hang-ups, and when the contest for Big Six football hearts between Kansas and Norman, Okla., some of the game still hung in the air.

Iowa State meets Kansas at Allen Fieldhouse on Monday, breaks at Norman, and the undermanned Sooners, as well as the prospects of boiling hot games, were in the offing.

In Kansas City, a new and different look, football is an air war past, but it would be a battle in the clouds.

Iowa State's latest, experienced eleven rated a marked change in the old Oklahoma powerhouses, also is a marked change in the old Kansas penchant for aerial action but the edge is as no match.

The Hawkeyes will play in an off-year, Kansas out of Kansas, in a key point clash which was anticipated was a key point for the Iowa season.

Most important player will be the 225-pound force that had been in Iowa's last three games, and that was the story.

Judy had talked to Mr. Heaton. She had told him about her dream, and he had been moved to tears. He had taken her in his arms and whispered words of comfort. "You are not alone, Judy," he had said. "I will be there for you forever.

Judy had been touched. Her father had always been so kind, so loving. She had never felt alone. But even in her happiness, she couldn't help but wonder. Had she done the right thing? Had she made the right decisions?

At the first opportunity she could, Judy went to see Mr. Heaton. He had promised to help her and her family. They would be simple, attractive, and just the right size. Judy had never been happier.

"The Astrophysical Society," Judy thought. "I will go and tell them about my dream."

"Judy," her father had said. "You are the most beautiful woman I have ever seen."

"Thank you," Judy had replied, smiling. "I feel the same way about you, Father."

"You are the best daughter a father could ask for," her father had said, hugging her close. "I love you, Judy."

"I love you too, Father," Judy had said, hugging him back.

"Now, go and have your fun," her father had said, patting her on the head. "I will be waiting for you when you return."

And with that, Judy had gone to the room where her friends were waiting. She had told them about her dream, and they had all laughed. "You are a dreamer, Judy," her friend had said. "But that's what makes you special.

"Thank you," Judy had said, smiling. "I think so too."
