Facing east and facing west, with walls of stone and classic dome, the Old Stone Capitol for nearly a century has dominated the scene in the little town on the banks of the Iowa river which was destined Iowa City, the permanent seat of government of the Territory of Iowa. From the day that it was turned for the laying of its foundations, the Old Stone Capitol has been the focus of human interest in Iowa City. Here the territory of Iowa came into existence in the early 1830’s. Here the Constitution of Iowa was born in 1846. Here the State University of Iowa was founded in 1857. And here the Constitution of Iowa was drafted and the State Historical Society of Iowa inaugurated in 1872. In this place the statutes of Iowa were made from 1852 to 1865. Here the Code of 1854 was compiled. Here five governors administered and 11 Supreme Court Justices interpreted the laws. Here in 1856 the Republican party of Iowa was born. And from this place the Whigs of Iowa took leave and disappeared. Here 40 University presidents, hundreds of University professors, and thousands of University students have lighted their candles in the desire of higher learning. All this and much more give the Old Stone Capitol memories. With the passing of the years the Old Stone Capitol has come to be looked upon as something more than a building, something more than stone and mortar combined, something that is pleasing to the eye. Somehow through the panorama of time it seems to have acquired a kind of spiritual personality that speaks to us of memories—memories of bygone days—days when the Constitution was young and the people were pioneer. Iowa City Citizens Were Members Of Brown Army

Did you know that the Brown Army, a group of citizens who fought for the Union during the Civil War, had members in Iowa City? The Brown Army was formed in 1861 and consisted of men who were not eligible for military service due to age or other reasons. The members of the Brown Army were organized into companies and regiments, and they fought in various battles throughout the war. The Iowa City Brown Army was known for their bravery and their contributions to the war effort.

Quick Delivery Service of 1839

An estimated crowd of 1000 people turned out to watch the delivery of the first mail from the eastern United States to Iowa City on the evening of June 21, 1839. The mail was transported by stagecoach and covered a distance of over 1000 miles in just a few days. This was a significant event in the history of Iowa City, as it marked the beginning of regular mail delivery to the city.

Robert Lucas, 1st Governor, Was Arrested

"Wild Cat of A Man"
Dragged to Jail
For Voting Bills

When Robert Lucas, Iowa's first governor, was arrested and dragged to jail in 1839, he was described as a "wildcat," a term that reflected his passionate and often unpredictable behavior.

Lucas, a delegate to the Territorial Convention of 1838, had supported the Charter of the Territory of Iowa, which granted him the office of Governor. However, his actions during his term were controversial, and he was eventually arrested for voting illegally.

Iowa City’s Centennial—Association Head Discusses Local Celebrations

George Kramer, president of the Iowa City Centennial association, has issued the following statement in view of the unexpected news given the group by Iowa Citizens in the wrong connection with the city’s centennial celebration.

"The project for the Iowa City and of the Iowa City centennial celebration is a big step in defraying the costs of the celebration. This part of the project is in preparation now and the Iowa City centennial committee feels that everyone has been well taken care of in the right spirit, making it possible to have the biggest birthday in Iowa City history.

"This year’s celebration will be a success in every respect and everyone can be proud of the Iowa City Centennial committee work. The celebration will be held at noon on July 4th, and the Iowa City Centennial committee will be represented by the following:

New York—Although New York's great new South Street - the portion of the city that has been called the " developing " part of the city — is still an uncompleted con- stuction, there is a strong feeling in the business district that it will be developed as soon as the con- struction is complete.

The theory is that the new district will be a bur- gundy color, and that it will be used for the purpose of providing a new source of employment for the people who are now unemployed, as well as for the purpose of providing a new source of income for the city.

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP) — Gives no indication of being the least bit sluggish, Joe Moulder, 31-year-old Scottish tennis star who gained a lot of name recognition last year by winning the U.S. lawn tennis title, is in New York to compete in the U.S. indoor tennis tournament which begins tomorrow at the Madison Square Garden Club.

Moulder is scheduled to face
the U.S. champion, Paul Haines, 25, in the opening round. He was defeated by Haines on the outdoor court in their recent match.

Six-Man Football Summer Session Begins Wednesday in Field House

While college football players are still on vacation, six-man football coaches are busily preparing for a new season which will start in August.

The June session, which will be held at the University of Missouri, is designed to help high school coaches prepare for the fall season.

Few college football players participate in the session, but many of the assistant coaches are in attendance to learn from the experts.

New York City Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr. was on hand to open the session.

Three Divisions To Take Part In Mule-Line Centennial Parade

Three divisions of the Mule-Line Centennial Parade will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

The first division will consist of floats, bands, and other groups.

The second division will feature the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the city police department.

The third division will be made up of the high school marching bands.

The floats will be judged on their theme, decoration, and overall presentation.

The parade is being held to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Mule Line, a historic freight railroad.
