IOWA 7-6 IRISH

Take A Look at This--

Here are three reasons why Iowa scored an upset 7-6 victory over unbeaten and untied Notre Dame in Iowa stadium yesterday afternoon. In the upper photo Nile Kinnick, Iowa's candidate for all-American honors, knocks down Harry Stevenson's pass that was intended for Lou Zontini, Irish back. The center photograph was taken as Kinnick was sending one of his punts booming down the gridiron in the third quarter. Paul Lillis, (75), and an unidentified Irish player are rushing in to block the kick. Mike Enich, Iowa tackle, is shown taking out John Kelly (18), Irish captain and right end. The lower shot was taken just as Bill Green, speedy Hawkeye fullback, leaped over the Notre Dame forward wall for a three yard gain. Erwin Prasse, (37), Iowa captain, is shown on the ground in the foreground while teammate Bruno Andruska takes care of Joe DeFranco, Irish center. Milt Piepul, (71), who ac-

War in Europe Casts Shadow on Ceremonies As Roosevelt Pays Tribute to Unknown Soldier

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP)—Europe's new conflict cast its shadow across impressive Armistice day ceremonies at the shrine of America's unknown soldier where President Roosevelt led the nation today in tribute to the men who died in a war to end war.

On that quiet Virginia hillside in Arlington national cemetery, dotted with crosses of the nation's war dead, the chief executive participated in placing a wreath on the tomb of the doughboy "known but to God."

Mr. Roosevelt did not speak, but in the white marble amphitheater nearby other national figures united in voicing the hope that America's sacrifices in the World war would help to keep the nation out of the present conflict.

Back in the White House, the president appealed for a "new and better peace" in the world in which men would lay down weapons of hatred.

Speaking over long-distance telephone to the faculty, students and graduates celebrating the 100th anniversary of Virginia Military Institute, Mr. Roosevelt declared the road to such a peace must be the goal of all whose "dearest desire is a quiet peace under liberty."

"We as a nation, like V.M.I. are determined to pursue our way within the scriptural command not to 'remove the ancient landmarks which thy fathers have set,'" he said.

Alpha Delta Pi 3,338
Totals 12,282

Three Iowa sororities showed that Hawkeye gridders have no monopoly on sensational scores yesterday by ringing up a total of 12,282 sales as the first division of the Homecoming badge sale closed at game time.

The Alpha Xi Deltas held their first place lead in the second day of the Homecoming badge sale, totaling 5,054. With 3,890 total sales, the Chi Omegas nosed out the Alpha Delta PIs for second place. The latter sorority has made total sales amounting to 3,338.

The first day of the campaign Friday showed results better than any first day in 10 years. The first division of the badge sale closed at game time yesterday. The sale will begin again at 7 a.m. Thursday and will last until game time Saturday.

With Iowa approaching one of the greatest Homecoming celebrations in its history, the faculty committee in charge of the celebration expects all previous sales records for badges to be smashed.

Troops Sent To Posts Near Russian Line

Soviet Demand For Additional Territory Meets With Rebuke

MOSCOW, Nov. 11 (AP)—Official Russian charges of Finnish recalcitrance tonight produced a new crisis in the month-long negotiations in which Russia is striving to strengthen her strategic position through acquisition of Finnish territory.

Tass, the official news agency, declared that the Finns had increased their army strength on the frontier "overhanging Leningrad" from two or three to seven divisions, "thus demonstrating their uncompromising attitude."

Said Tass: "According to the information of Tass, the Finns not only do not meet the minimum proposals of the Soviet union but on the contrary intensify their irreconcilability."

The statement came as Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, head of the Finnish mission, awaited another call to the Kremlin for a parley on Russian demands for territorial concessions and the establishment of a naval base on Finnish soil at the eastern entrance to the gulf of Finland. Conferences were resumed Thursday after being interrupted by Russia's celebration of the communist revolution anniversary.

Auto Accident Mars Victory Celebration--

An accident early this morning at the intersection of Burlington and Dodge streets marred the Iowa City celebration of the Hawkeyes' victory over Notre Dame.

A Chevrolet sedan driven by Dean A. Knudson, C3 of Ames, crossing the Burlington intersection on Dodge, was struck by a Ford sedan traveling west on Burlington, according to reports of bystanders at the scene of the accident.

The impact sent the north-bound car across the street, where it struck a telephone pole, damaging the side of the car. The pole prevented the car from overturning.

Injuries to the occupants of the two automobiles had not been reported early this morning.

The Band Was There--

The band was there at the half-time, displaying humor and significant, stirring realism in brilliant formations and musical back grounds. The humor: much of it came with the formation shown at the top above, as bandmen formed a smiling face and played "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling,"—but hair stood on end and the mouth turned down as this picture was taken from the west stands. The band had struck up "On Iowa." Fifty thousand people sang "America" when the band entered the Liberty Bell formation shown here at the bottom. And to top off the humor, the members of Iowa's band formed a dozen circles on the green field and danced Irish jigs. More than just show went into the dances. Iowa led the Irish, 7-0, at the half, and even the fans in the stands were doing jigs!

All-American, Every One!

Whatever It Takes, Those 1939 Hawks Can Produce It

The time is not yet here to pick all-American teams, and the teams that the experts decided on may be different than the players line up now, but nearly 50,000 people picked their own all-American team in Iowa stadium yesterday. There will probably be but two or three members of this squad, including Nile Kinnick, Mike Enich and Erwin Prasse, mentioned in the national team picks, but we present here the all-American team chosen by those who saw Iowa whip Notre Dame yesterday.

Center, Bruno Andruska (Iowa).
Right guard, Ham Snider (Iowa).
Right tackle, Mike Enich (Iowa).
Right end, Dick Evans (Iowa).
Quarterback, Al Coupee (Iowa).
Left halfback, Nile Kinnick (Iowa).
Right halfback, Buzz Dean (Iowa).
Fullback, Bill Green (Iowa).
Alternates: Line, Charles Tolleson (Iowa) and Max Hawkins (Iowa); backs: Ray Murphy (Iowa) and Ed McLain (Iowa).
Honorable mention: Jim Walker (Iowa), Bill Diehl (Iowa) and Henry Luebecke (Iowa).
Coaches: Dr. Eddie Anderson (Iowa), Head Coach.
Jim Harris, (Iowa), Line Coach.
Frank Carideo, (Iowa), Backfield Coach.
For us, they're All-American!

Lightning struck for the second time in a 20-year period above the crossbar of the Hawkeyes' home field yesterday and Dr. Eddie Anderson's men of iron ended a brilliant Notre Dame winning streak by the scant margin of 7-6, before a crowd of nearly 50,000 awed spectators.

It might well have been that famous contest of 1921 in which an all-American, Aubrey Devine, booted the field goal that spelled the Hawkeye margin of victory. For, yesterday, it was another great Iowa back, Nile Kinnick, who turned back the pages of history with a perfect dropkick to bring the Hawks that single, but all-important point after he had smashed for the one Hawkeye touchdown in a dramatic conflict between two of the nation's most powerful elevens.

Ground Work

It was not quite the sort of a contest that had been expected, as the Hawkeyes, leaving the aerial fireworks to the Irish, stayed on the ground, counted on their one golden scoring opportunity, and then stopped all but one of the enemy thrusts as the Irish smashed back with all the fury that had swept them to six successive triumphs.

In those final moments it might have been another note lifted from the thriller of 1921. Like the line hero of that previous battle, Duke Slater, there was a mighty tackle who, in the end, piled up the enemy plays by titanic defensive efforts that were worthy of a place in Iowa's hall of fame.

Enich Comes Through

It was Mike Enich, rightfully called an "Iron Mike," who sparked the line that boasts six 60-minute men to the final stands which protected the slender lead, and it was Enich who drove Harry Stevenson to earth for an unregainable loss to wreck a desperate Irish passing attack in the closing minutes.

And those closing minutes were desperate too, for with Milt Piepul pounding thunderously into the Hawkeye forward wall, the Irish marched once across the Iowa goal line and roared again to the attack after Lou Zontini's attempt at the extra point had soared wide to the left to leave the Irish without the tying score.

It was, without doubt, an Irish bobble that set up the Iowa touchdown and it was the alertness of the Iowa iron men which converted the chance into points, shortly before the first half came to its close.

Iowa Break

The break came suddenly as the climax of 30 minutes of a see-saw punting duel in which the Irish seemed to be besting the efforts of Nile Kinnick with their offering of mighty near 60-yard boots by Harry Stevenson. One of the many Irish aerial efforts backfired in a devastating shock as Kinnick, a demon on pass defense, raked a 30-yard toss out of the sky on his own 43 and pounded back to the Irish 35 before swarming Irish tacklers stopped him for the moment. From there Kinnick launched his one aerial effort of the day when he whipped the ball into the distant end zone only to see it fall into the hands of Steve Sitko, one of the many brilliant quarterbacks who have worn the colors of Notre Dame. Sitko raced out of the end zone, but disaster met him near the five yard line when Bruno Andruska, Iowa center, smashed down upon him and Sitko, jolted by the power of the tackle, fumbled, with Ken Pettit charging up to reclaim the ball from a horde of both Iowa and Irish players. The ball in the scramble rested for brief intervals with Dick Evans and Buzz Dean, but Pettit fell upon the oval to bring it safely into Iowa's possession.

It looked for a few moments as though this opportunity might come to naught as Kinnick and Dean both smashed without gain against a stone wall Irish line. Then, on third down, with four yards still to go, Kinnick blasted through to the left, drove four Irish tacklers ahead of him and shoved the ball into the end zone, after which he dropkicked the point that proved the final margin of victory.

Irish Drive

In the middle of the third quarter the Irish made their first drive at revenge as the drives of Piepul carried them down the field for four straight first downs, but again it was their own passes which spoiled the chances.

With the ball on the 16, Stevenson faded back to toss one and Al Coupee, Iowa's powerful line-backing quarterback, drove through Stevenson's ring of blockers to bring the Irish star down for a 10-yard loss. Another passing attempt brought failure and Stevenson tried a field goal from the 26, but "The Luck of the Irish" didn't include kicking and Iowa took the ball on its own 20.

Stalled for but a moment, Notre Dame bore down upon the goal line again after Kinnick's kick rolled out of bounds in midfield. This time the Irish tried through the air and thrust down to Iowa's 23 on a heave from Stevenson to Kerr. Piepul resumed his pounding this time with success, Piepul Scores

Our Hats Are Off!

THE EYES of the nation are on Iowa's Hawkeyes!

Next Saturday when Iowa's "sixty minute men" meet the Minnesota Gophers, that game will hold the attention of probably more football fans in the nation than any other game of the day. And with good reason. Iowa played yesterday against a team which stood first in the nation so far as football went. Now Iowa has defeated that great team.

The Notre Dame squad must have come to Iowa City anticipating a "practice" session—an easy Saturday. The team's advance men came to Iowa City complaining that this would be the smallest crowd and the lowest gate price that Notre Dame "the great" would play to this season. By 4:30 yesterday afternoon as that defeated Irish team slowly left Iowa's playing field, they realized that they had met their equal—they had found among Iowa's cornfields a team that had more of what it takes than they had.

Above all, that team was coached by one of Notre Dame's own alumni and that makes the defeat hurt worse.

But the whole line of Saturday events brings glory to Iowa and to the man who coached that team on to victory over the team of his alma mater.

Our hats off to Dr. Eddie Anderson and the Iowa boys!

Armistice Comes Of Age

YESTERDAY, the day when the Armistice came of age, so far as the international scene is concerned, was a day of doubts.

There is no other course than forward for the United States. There can be no mood except optimism. Once we get pessimism about the future of the world, we may as well give up the battle for liberty and security and even for life.

But yesterday—Armistice day—was a day of doubts, a day in which the president of the United States spoke in words that do not ring as sincere as that man's words once did.

We have subscribed to a philosophy that says America must not enter another war, that permanent peace must somehow be established and that democracy must be preserved.

The most immediate danger, it appears to us, is that the administration will fail to keep the faith America placed in it. We supported the neutrality act, taking the administration's viewpoint. We would still do that. But we thought the president would be the first to uphold the moral implications surrounding the act and not written there in words.

The United States Line's transfer of nine of its ships to the flag of Panama is a deal which is obvious to both factions who battled over the neutrality bill. The administration has not kept "good faith" with the public in allowing such a deal to be made. We hope that if any of these ships are sunk by the German submarines that the American public will remember and not cry for revenge in order to compensate with blood the monetary loss of American pirates.

Columbians Pearson and Allen comment that the president was probably the first to know about the shipping transaction, that shipping is a fetish with him, and that he is surrounded by friends and ex-officials of the United States lines. This does not add to our confidence.

Is there any reason why we should believe the president is honestly working for the people's interests after such betrayal? He says, "And like our ancestors we work for peace, we pray for peace, and we arm for peace."

Perhaps, with Armistice of age, we are arming for war. As much as we have approved of the greater share of new deal policy, as much as we have praised the Roosevelt foreign policy, we have reasons for doubt. America must not go on blindly, but must closely study the developing situation.

When Is 'Education' Education?

"THE UNIVERSITY," they repeatedly said, "will teach you 'how' to think." Unfortunately, however, what they really meant to say was, "The University will teach you 'what' to think."

A professor is hired to impart certain knowledge, knowledge of which he is the reputed master, to whatever students desire to learn. The simplest method of pedagogy is to ladle out fifty minutes of facts, sigh deeply, and go home satisfied with an obligation well met. Contact between teacher and student is thus kept to a minimum, thereby insuring the safety of both parties: neither can find the other out.

What, exactly, the student is supposed to do with the facts given, expect perhaps return them to the professor, intact, during the next examination, does not seem to enter into consideration. Each course is seen as a new experience, an experience which will automatically broaden the outlook, make a better citizen, increase the fund of useful knowledge—or teach one "how" to think. It may do all these things if the student possesses a strong enough psycho-digestive system; it usually results in a severe case of mental cramps.

The professor who indulges in this kind of teaching, and unfortunately there are many, has a peculiar conception of the learning process. It is quite apparent that he believes that a student head is an empty ball into which it is his duty to pour as many facts as possible within as short a time as possible. Obviously he believes that once the facts enter the student's head there will result a wonderful kind of chemical reaction which will make one the various ingredients mixed together.

Unfortunately this is not the case. The professor who bewails the poor quality of his students usually has only himself to blame. Unaided, the student cannot possibly utilize the material given him.

It is when the professor tries to draw something out of the student, when he inspires the student to learn by building on facts that education is successful. There are some professors who have learned to mold student minds. We need more of them.

COST OF A WAR

In view of the fact that many groups in this country—industry, retailers, farm organizations, labor, and various others—have come out with strong stands against this country's participation in a war, it is important at this time to see just what lies behind their aversion from a realistic point of view.

Evidence continues to pile up that the opposition in America to the idea of war is based, more than anything else, on the rack and ruin that war causes along all fronts.

What were some of the costs of the last war? It may help to avoid ever entering another one to have these matters brought clearly to light.

Here is at least part of the sad story: To pay for our actual participation cost this country 22 billion dollars. Loans to our allies, largely unrepaid, ran to more than eight billion more. That's a direct cost of 30 billions, then, paid mostly in productive wealth of our retailing, our farming, and the hard work of Americans in every branch of productive enterprise.

To make the picture even worse, these direct costs hardly begin to account for the burden a war imposes. It takes no account, most of all, of the losses that come directly to industry, on whose prosperity the welfare of the nation depends, from the dislocation of an entire economy and from idle factories, idle men and idle investments, the inevitable aftermath of war. As one authority puts it, "In the calculation of war cost there is literally no end."

No wonder all these productive groups in this country who help to create the wealth that is poured down the drain of war want only peace!

Stewart Says Controversy May Develop Over Roosevelt's Attempt in Interest of Peace

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

BETWEEN now and next January, when congress will meet again, there's bound to be a bit of controversy between American groups as to whether President Roosevelt shouldn't exert himself in the interest of peace in Europe. This dispute was muffled during the legislators' extra session by the debate relative to our neutrality, but it has broken out violently since adjournment until the first of 1940.

In the olden days (and not so very olden either) our solons largely hushed up during Capitol Hill's periods of recess. That was because they lacked a sounding board, except in Washington, to reflect their utterances throughout the entire country. Now, however, they have the radio to do it for them, session or no session.

That is to say, once on a time a congressman was heard only by a small audience in his own constituency between speeches in the capital. Now he "goes on the air" and is audible everywhere. They've started it already via numerous "forums."

It's a good thing doubtless. It keeps the public up to date. But it's different from what things used to be like.

Authorities Differ
For instance, over the radio the other evening, Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado gave it as his opinion that John Bull ought to be urged to "state his war aims definitely," thus enabling the White House to act as an intelligent intermediary between the Allies and Germany. He said that it's a puzzle to him to see how our president can act as much of ... a 140-pound orang-utan, whose hobby is playing the harmonica, will head the list of guests on Dave Elman's "Hobby Lobby" this afternoon at 4 o'clock over CBS.

As his selection for the evening Jiggs has chosen "The Bee," a number made famous by that eminent violinist, Jack Benny. Several years ago Fred Allen made the statement that an ape could play "The Bee" as well as Mr. Benny, and now Jiggs has come forward to prove Mr. Allen's assertion.

OTHER GUESTS
... who will tell about their spare time activities are Dana Lamb, modern Robinson Crusoe; E. S. Darlington of Schenectady, N. Y., who tends his baby via short wave radio, and Gilbert Heddin of Elizabeth, N. Y., whose hobby is searching for buried treasure.

DANA LAMB, the author of "Enchanted Vagabonds," will tell of this 16,000-mile journey from San Diego to Panama, which included a four-month stay at the famed Cocos Islands.

R.O.T.C. AND ME...

(In Indirect Reply to an Article "R.O.T.C. and You.")

I was only a bare-faced boy when I first met up with R.O.T.C. ... Before I arrived in Iowa City I thought it was a chemistry formula.

I was wrong as I discovered when I went to drill first time ... The first classes had been easy. I studied my freshman English while an old duck in uniform told us what he'd done in the last World War and what we could plan for this one. ... As I gathered it, this fellow had spent most of his time drinking absinthe in Paris cafes and repeating (in the general words of General Sherman) "Ain't War hell?—Oh, boy"

It sounded swell, but then we drilled. ... Maybe I got off on the wrong foot, but the fellow who inspected, a green-faced chap with a tiny blonde mustache, took a dislike to me at once. ... I disliked me almost as much as I did him. Maybe it was because I'd once read a magazine article saying only morons wore mustaches.

Owing to certain physical peculiarities, all of which are obvious, it is impossible for me to look like anything but an under-stuffed mattress in a military uniform, and that first day I'd worn tan oxfords and a green tie.

The lieutenant got me for that ... And he got me for various other things for the rest of that semester, unpunctured shoes, dirt on my shirt collar, unorthodox performance during the manual of arms, and talking in ranks. ...

It was on this last charge that I got to visit the lieutenant-colonel for the first time. I saw him many times since, and we got very well acquainted in a dislikable sort of way. ...

On this particular day, the colonel was directing the whole affair from the middle of the fieldhouse. ... I turned to my companion with a side-of-mouth comment, and the student lieutenant was on me in a flash. ... "What're you doing?" he barked. ... "Commenting," I replied. ...

"What'd you say?" he demanded. ... "I said the colonel looked like a Kewpie doll." I answered with a demure little smile. ...

"Say, sir," the student lieutenant yelled, and I thought he'd surely split a tonsil. ... "But he doesn't look like a Sir Kewpie doll," I answered.

The reply of the lieutenant was almost indistinguishable with rage, but I spent most of that afternoon with the colonel. ... It seems he didn't think he looked like a Kewpie doll.

After that things weren't so bad for awhile, although it was some months before I found out that in about-face you not only have to turn around but that it makes a difference how you do it. ...

Then came rifle practice. ... And I have bad eyes. ... Each of us had five cartridges and a gun and a target, and the major-instructor told us we ought to look through what he called the "sights" to see the markings on the target. I looked and couldn't see a thing, but I thought maybe that came with time. ...

After that each of us lay on the floor and shot. ... It was a big target, and most of the boys hit the center, but some of the shots strayed off to the edge of the cardboard.

I shot all five of my cartridges with considerable precision and care, aiming each at the exact center of the target. ... This military wasn't so bad after all, I thought.

The major went up to look at each of the targets, glancing at several with considerable satisfaction. ... When he came to mine he stopped short, stooped to look more closely and then across the fieldhouse at me with a glance of promise.

It was obvious, I thought, that I had done well. ...

The major walked across the floor, my target in his hand. ... "When are you going to do your shooting?" he inquired in a voice of stone. ... "I already have, sir," I quipped. ...

"What do you mean you al-

'Let Us Dedicate Ourselves To American Peace' -- Miles

A plane droned overhead. A few minutes later bombs burst. But all this did not terrify the civilians nor saw the uniformed men to anti-aircraft guns yesterday, for the plane and bombs had no forbidding significance.

Iowa City was observing the armistice of World War I. The bomb was the signal to honor America's war dead by facing east, where khaki-clad men fell a generation ago and where another armistice must be fought for now.

"Keep the Armistice," was the topic of the main speaker, Frank Miles of Des Moines, editor of the Iowa Legionnaire, and it was the tenor of the entire program.

"Let us dedicate ourselves to preserving our democracy, solving our internal problems, and keeping America at peace," Miles urged.

Before thinking of entering the current European war, the speaker declared, Americans should count the cost—"destruction of democracy, a million deaths, several million wounded, and a huge national debt."

"My sympathies are with the allied powers, but they are not ready. You can't have. ... There isn't a mark, not anywhere. ... How can you 'already have'?"

It was tragedy, but it appeared my five carefully placed shots had not only failed to hit the bull's eye but the target as well. ...

That was the beginning, and as it was in the beginning so shall it ever be. ...

By the way, has anybody heard what M-day plans for ME?

Gophers Crush Michigan; Wildcats Beaten

Gophers Show Power Against Harmon's Crew

Wolverines Suffer Second Straight Conference Defeat

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 11 (AP) — Thrice-defeated Minnesota, which has taken a gridiron culling most of the season, displayed some of its old-time power to crush Michigan, 20 to 7, today before 64,945 shivering fans.

Wolverines Outshadowed
The Big Ten champions completely took the play away from the favored Wolverines by rolling up touchdowns in the first, third and fourth periods.

In doing so the Golden Gophers, winning their first conference victory of the year, also accounted for their sixth consecutive triumph over Michigan in the "little brown jug" affair.

Minnesota, carrying the fight all the way, counted its first touchdown after less than eight minutes of play, halfback Harold Van Every hitting pay dirt from two yards out.

From then until the third period the two teams battled on fairly even terms. Then Van Every's running mate, halfback George Franck, cut loose with a 59-yard touchdown run that took the heart out of the scrappy Michigan crew.

Still the Gophers kept driving and in the final period, after a pass interception had given them the ball, they staged a 64-yard march down the field that ended with Bruce Smith, substitute halfback and a star in his own right, going over from the two-yard line.

Michigan was a constant threat, but the mighty men of the north held Tom Harmon and his mates in check until the last stanza when Harmon fired a touchdown pass to halfback Paul Kromer to climax a 73-yard drive.

Statistically, the Gophers had the best of it, piling up 292 yards from scrimmage to 83 to beat the Wolverines at their own game. The Gophers had an edge in first downs, 11 to 10.

Franck, one of the speediest backs in the midwest, set the stage for the first Minnesota score when he got off a 61-yard boot, the first of two superb punts, that Kromer let roll out of bounds on the Michigan 4. The next exchange of kicks gave Minnesota the ball on the Michigan 39 and the drive was on.

On third down Franck took the ball on a reverse, circled his left end, eluded Harmon, and went to the two yard mark from which Van Every slid through the Michigan left tackle for the score. Quarterback Joe Mernik added the point from placement.

It looked for a time like anybody's ball game as the third period opened, but Franck took things into his own hands. From the Minnesota 41 he broke through tackle, reversed his field, pulling Michigan's secondary wide to his right, and ran to the goal line without a hand being laid upon him.

For Michigan, whose season started brilliantly, it was the second successive loss. Illinois upset the Wolverines last week 16 to 7.

Cornell Wins Over Colgate

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 11 (AP) — Cornell, by converting two points after touchdown while Colgate didn't, today beat back the season's most determined assault on its unbeaten, untied record, and won by 14 to 12.

Resourceful Mal Baker, whose passing and running illuminated the ponderous Cornell attack, made sure of the first Cornell extra point after he had tallied the opening touchdown. Recovering the ball when Nick Draho's placement try was blocked, he skirted right end for the precious point.

Then, when Mort Landsberg had scored the second Cornell touchdown in the ensuing period, a Colgate offside gave Cornell another chance at the extra point after Draho's placement was low. On the second try Baker ran around end for the point.

Colgate lashed back immediately after the Cornell second score. It required only two passes, both from Wally Davids to Ed Donnelly, to turn the trick. One went for 25 yards, the other for 55. With Donnelly carrying the ball the last 25, but Davids' placement try was wide.

A fumble recovered on the Cornell 31 set the stage for the Red Raiders' next score in the final session. Two passes from Hal Lube to Joe Hoague brought 25 yards, and five bruising line plays resulted in Hoague's going over. Once more a placement of Hoague's was wide.

Dolphin Follies Closes Before Capacity Crowd

Hoosiers Meet With Trouble

Fordham Rams Roll Over Indiana, 13 to 0; Eshmont Stars for Winners

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (AP) — Looking stronger every week, Fordham's flashy Rams hung a 13 to 0 licking on the Indiana Hoosiers today with two stunning offensive thrusts.

The first of these covered 59 yards in five plays for a second period touchdown and the other went 96 yards on three plays in the third chapter with Len Eshmont galloping 74 yards for the score.

Eshmont stole the show and the hearts of the 20,000 spectators with his sensational running, passing and punting. He gained 144 yards from scrimmage compared with a net of 43 yards for the entire Indiana team.

In addition he originated two of the four passes Fordham completed, one of them good for 31 yards, and handled the punting chore during the 35 or 40 minutes he was in the lineup.

of the second period and steered the Rams to their first touchdown.

They made their bid after Hal Hursh sent a weak 10-yard punt out of bounds on Fordham's 41. Blumenstock picked up eight yards on one trip and 33 on another and Pete Holovak eventually circled his own left end six yards to score.

The Hoosiers only important threat came early in the third when Eddie Herbert intercepted a pass in midfield and went to Fordham's 39. A pass from Hursh to Russ Higgenbotham was good for a 34-yard gain, but the Rams held for downs on their four and immediately headed for their own second score.

Dom Principe got 17 yards and after a five yard penalty for Fordham offside, Eshmont sprung through a "mouse trap" opening at right guard on his spectacular dash.

Altogether Fordham ran up 287 yards from scrimmage and out-downed Indiana 14 to 8.

4,000 Attend Final Show

Water Show Boasts Biggest Attendance In Event's History

A crowd of 4,000 spectators packed the Iowa fieldhouse pool last night to climax the biggest year the Dolphin water show has ever had in the 21 years of its history.

The "Dolphin Follies of 1940" was a smash hit in every sense of the word. The carnival was given before a packed house every night of the three nights for which it ran. Gate receipts have not been totaled, but it was conservatively estimated that a total of 7,500 people saw the water carnival this year.

Comedy seemed to particularly appeal to the audience last night, the diving horse of Russell Dotson getting a good share of applause.

The "Flying Collegians," Iowa's own aerial trapeze act was another hit of the carnival. The trapeze act was a huge success in last year's show, but with an enlarged troupe, this season's performance was better than ever.

Pontoon Q. Marmalade, billed as a world famous swimmer, brought a laugh as he gave imitations of the "Hitler Crawl" and other humorous performances.

An innovation to the show, Harold Baker's demonstration of water safety, especially with canoes, was well received by the audience. He demonstrated the best manner of rescuing a person in the water with a canoe and also how to right a canoe which had rolled over in the water.

Erwin Praske, captain of the victorious Iowa football team, was introduced by Coach Armbruster at the intermission. He was given a big hand by the audience, most of whom had viewed Iowa's win over Notre Dame earlier in the day.

The tableaux, an act put on by six men covered completely with silver paint, seemed to appeal greatly to the crowd. The act was given with a series of black-outs. Each time the lights came on, the "living silver statues" appeared in a different sports pose.

The "biggest and best" Dolphin show was closed with a series of "double dives" by six of the crack varsity and freshman divers, the performers plunging off the 40-foot platform to the water below. Nick Connell capped the climax with another 40-foot plunge into a pool of flaming gasoline.

Panthers Eke Out 6-0 Win Over Carnegie

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11 (AP) — On the strong right arm of Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones, the Pitt Panthers sailed through the air to a 6-0 victory over Carnegie Tech today and avenged the 20-10 setback of their "dream team" last year.

With less than two minutes to play the lad from the hard coal regions faded far back to his own 45, wriggled away from two tacklers and uncorked a mighty heave into Bob Thurbon's arms in the Carnegie end zone.

All afternoon the Tigers had alternated with long drives but they bogged down in scoring territory. Late in the fourth quarter Pitt drove to Tech's five yard line but Narick fumbled and Tech recovered.

A moment later Jack White, Carnegie fullback thrilled the 55,000 spectators when he broke away on a weak side spinner and dashed 64 yards to the Pitt 31. Tech stalled, however, and the Panther took over on its own 34.

An exchange of kicks gave Pitt the ball on their own 31, setting the stage for the touchdown drive.

Pitchin' Paul Christman Leads Missouri Win Over NYU, 20-7

Maroons Take Another One On The Chin

CHICAGO, Nov. 11 (AP) — Chicago's courageous but out-classed football team took another terrific beating today, bowing to a powerful Ohio State eleven, 21 to 0, in a western conference engagement.

A scant 2,000 spectators witnessed this latest slaughter of the Maroons. Chicago now has scored 12 points in 6 games as against 262 for the opposition. The Maroons played hard, alert football but they simply couldn't match the big conference-leading Buck team, which now has four big victories and no defeats.

Chicago fans who came to see the massacre got their only chance to cheer when Jim Strasbaugh fumbled the first Maroon punt on Ohio's 19-yard line. Davenport got a first down in four tries, but the Bucks stopped the run, taking the ball on their own nine.

Twelve minutes after the game got under way and Esco Sarkinen set up the first touchdown with a 33-yard jaunt on an end-around play to the four. Frank Zadworney cracked left tackle for the touchdown, and Don Scott placekicked the point.

Scores Twice, Passes For Another Marker In Brilliant Game

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (AP) — The big blond king with the don't-care manner just stood back there loose as a rubber band. Sometimes he'd throw, sometimes he'd run, sometimes he'd kick, and when finally, after 57 long minutes, he jogged to the sidelines he had piloted the Missouri Tigers to a smashing 20 to 7 victory over New York University.

The 30,000 fans this balmy afternoon never saw better pitching in Yankee stadium when Red Ruffing was in top form, and they never saw anything quite like the way this Paul Christman adroitly mixed that pitching with running to keep the willing Violets back on their heels for all but five minutes of the game.

The 30,000 who had come with the names of Christman and Long Ed Boell on their lips straggled away with just one muttered word — Christman.

The big kid from the corn country scored twice himself, pitched to the other touchdown, called signals, intercepted passes, punted, tackled, blocked and in general had a field day.

On the opening scrimmage play, Christman shot the ball down the field to Currence who snared it, lateraled it to Bud Orf for a 23-yard gain, and the Missourians were on their way.

Smith Tallies Lone Score

Final Period Drive Brings Wisconsin To One Foot Line

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 11 (AP) — A scrappy little back named Jimmy Smith refused to be cornered today and the way he fought his way out of a hole produced a sensational 82 yard touchdown run and a 7 to 0 victory for Illinois over the Wisconsin Badgers before 18,000 spectators at Memorial stadium.

Smith, a 165 pound sophomore, came through with brilliant scoring sprint in the second period, but it wasn't the only big thrill of the hard-fought contest. The Badgers, fighting to the last second, made a gallant final period bid which carried them to the Illinois one-foot line just as the final gun exploded — and it was Smith who made the game-saving tackle.

The lone scoring play came with startling suddenness, Illinois being in possession at its own 18 after taking a punt. On the first play Smith faded back to pass. Unable to find a receiver he ran toward the sidelines. There he apparently was trapped by four Badgers, but broke away into the open and then outran every one on the field, crossing the goal line 25 yards ahead of his closest pursuer.

The Badger attack, with George Paskvan and Bill Schmitz ripping off consistent runs, piled up huge yardage. But penalties or a stubborn Illinois line always checked the Badger threat when it became serious.

It was on an aerial game that Wisconsin tried to save itself from a shut out. Late in the final period, after a short Illinois punt, Wisconsin opened up. Claude York shot a 29-yard pass to John Loehrke, who was dropped at the Illinois 9. Another pass failed, but a second aerial tossed by H. Peterson was pulled in by Fred Gage. He caught the ball at the Illinois 3, then was hit and stopped by Smith at the one-foot line as the game ended.

Kansas State Scares Sooners

MANHATTAN, Kan., Nov. 11 (AP) — Kansas State stopped Oklahoma's night today but couldn't do a thing with Oklahoma's mite, Beryl Clark, who chaperoned the Sooners to their eighth straight Big Six victory, 13 to 10, in as thrill-studded a game as the conference has seen in years.

Twice in the final period, Kansas State rapped on the touchdown door only to have dame misfortune respond to its knock.

Once in those heart-pounding seconds the Wildcats fumbled on the Sooner three yard line and the Oklahoma Sooners recovered. Seconds later they were back and again a miscue gave the ball to Oklahoma, this time on the 19.

And it was only a desperation block by Oklahoma's lanky Bob Seymour who bunted Elmer Nieman out of bounds on the four

Cornhuskers Stop Kansas Eleven, 7-0

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 11 (AP) — Nebraska threw a wet blanket over a smouldering Kansas aerial bombardment, deflected a last second pass into the end zone and emerged a 7 to 0 victor today in the 46th annual football game between the two schools.

The underdog Kansans kept the Cornhuskers between the 30-yard lines for the most part of the contest—an unimpressive affair from the standpoint of the approximately 20,000 homecoming spectators. After the teams swapped fumbles and exchanged several punts in the first quarter, Nebraska settled down. Then the second period opened and the cornhuskers got down to business. They took the ball on a punt on the Kansas 32 and five plays later crashed through to the winning touchdown.

Herman Rohrig alternated at the ball totting with fullback Henry Rohm, and on two tries each they took the pigskin to the Kansas 8. Then Rohrig shot through left tackle, squirmed away from two would-be tacklers, cut off to the right and lunged over the goal line as Jayhawk Frank Bukaly downed him. Without more than a chance to catch his breath, Rohrig kicked the extra point from placement.

Nebraska made only one serious attempt to score, late in the third quarter. Rohrig punted out on the Kansas one yard line, and on the return kick galloped to the Jayhawk 19. The Huskers made only 4 yards in 3 tries, so Rohrig attempted a field goal. The ball sailed wide of the uprights.

Teachers Upset Favored Coyote Eleven, 14-0

VERMILION, S. D., Nov. 11 (AP) — Iowa State Teachers college upset a favored University of South Dakota eleven here today snapping the coyotes' conference victory string at fourteen games and throwing the leadership of the northcentral conference into a three-way tie.

The Iowans scored early in the second period when Burckhard intercepted a pass and sprinted 80 yards behind good interference to count six points. McCabe's placement brought the total to seven. The final marker climaxed a 58-yard drive with Charles Pastring the spearhead of a successful aerial attack which accounted for most of the yardage. Dutcher went over from the two-yard line and McCabe again converted.

Fumbles cost the Dakotans several scoring chances, and once the Panthers took the ball on downs on their own one-foot line. The coyotes outgained their lighter foes from scrimmage 175 yards to 141.

fans who have seen any one game this year.

Some of the credit for the victory yesterday, we are told, goes to a bulldog that was about the field as a charm to balance the lucky Irish green worn by Notre Dame in the second half.

Purdue Grabs Big Ten Win From 'Cats, 3-0

Montague Boots Goal As Boilermakers Get First Conference Win

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 11 (AP) —Purdue, hungry for its first Western conference victory of the season, stunningly upset highly-favored Northwestern in a bitterly fought game, 3 to 0, before 40,000 spectators today.

Decisively outplayed in the first half, the Purdue Boilermakers with their stellar halfback, Mike Byelene, playing the hero's role, came back with a furious attack in the fourth period to carry the ball from their own 35-yard line to Northwestern's 14. Then dramatically, Fred Montague, substitute quarterback, slid off the Boilermakers' bench and trotted on the field to successfully boot a goal from placement to give his team its precious three points.

Purdue Outplayed
With the exception of the score, the Wildcats outplayed their conquerors, chalking up 18 first downs to 7 for their opponents and gaining 339 yards to 182.

The Wildcats blew at least seven scoring opportunities and woefully lacked the scoring punch when in position to register.

On the first eight plays of the game, with Clawson, Chambers and Hahnenstein sparking the attack, they marched 55 yards to Purdue's six, losing the ball on downs when Hahnenstein attempted to pass to Daly over the goal line.

In the second period, Northwestern failed on four scoring opportunities. James Smith, a substitute end, attempted a placekick from Purdue's 34-yard line, but it was pitifully short and low. The highly touted William DeCorrevont was in position to score from the 14 but a low lateral pass from Clawson hit the ground in front of him, with Brock recovering for Purdue.

Punt Blocked
Twenty seconds before the half ended, Smith blocked Brock's punt, recovered it and ran to the Purdue 14-yard line. DeCorrevont passed to Clawson to Purdue's five. Then Nick Contes, born Illinois line always checked the Badger threat when it became serious.

The Boilermakers achieved their victory, when Byelene intercepted a pass and sprinted to his own 35. On the next play he broke away with a 44-yard gallop to Northwestern's 20 and then passed 17 yards to Rankin. After two line smashes and a pass failed, Montague came into the game for his placekick, with Brown holding the ball.

Aerials Stopped
Another pass interception by Felix Mackiewicz, Purdue end, brought the ball to Northwestern's three yard line. Penalized five yards for offside, the Boilermakers attempted to score by aerial shots, but failed and the Wildcats gained the ball on their six. With less than 60 seconds to go, DeCorrevont shot the ball to all corners of the field without success and in the furious climax, Nick Cutlich, Northwestern tackle, and James Miller, Purdue guard, engaged in a fist fight and were expelled from the game.

Previous to today's victory, the Boilermakers had won only one game, defeating Michigan State, losing to Santa Clara and Iowa, and holding Minnesota to a 13 to 13 tie.

DeCorrevont, while failing to get away on thrilling runs, played an exceptional game, gaining 37 yards in nine tries and completing seven out of 15 passes for 66 yards.

yard line and into the overflow crowd of 17,500 persons after a 46-yard gain on a pass-run play that kept the inspired young men of Manhattan from winning.

AMONG IOWA CITY PEOPLE

John Van der Zee, son of Prof. and Mrs. J. Van der Zee, Richard and George McNichol, all of Selfridge Field, Mich., flew from Boston, Mass., yesterday for the Iowa - Notre Dame football game in army pursuit planes. They left for Selfridge Field after the game.

Among the out-of-town guests who came to Iowa City for the football game yesterday were Bruce Baumgartner of Marshalltown, Winifred Schumacher of Darnville and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Carrell Jr. of Keokuk. They are all former students in the university school of journalism.

Week-end guests in the George Dvorsky home, 409 E. Bowery street, included John Kevlin, Jim O'Hara, Richard Foley, Tom Kelly, Clave O'Hern, Ev Panther, John Micoc, Tom Walsh Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Hal Jergens, Sue Kerndt, Herb Gergardt, Marg Janssen, Dorothy Coonan, and Lou Dvorsky, all of Davenport; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Collins of Bloomington, Ind., Tom Poffenberger of Wheeling, W. Va., Marg Wheeler of Rock Island, Ill., Frances Swineheart of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kelly of West Branch. The group also attended the Iowa - Notre Dame football game yesterday.

Larry Keegan, G of DeKalb, Ill., 316 S. Johnson street, and William Berg, G of Gary, Ind., have gone to DeKalb, Ill., for the week end.

Mary Rita Ehrhardt, A4 of Elkhart, and Ruth Drewelow, A2 of New Hampton, 819 Iowa avenue, are spending the week end at Miss Drewelow's home in New Hampton.

Doris Whitney, A1, 819 Iowa avenue, has gone to her home in Osage for a few days' visit.

Two former students of the university school of journalism attended the Iowa-Notre Dame football game yesterday. They were Art Lorch of Rockwell City and Don Filbert of Council Bluffs.

Jack Watson of Council Bluffs and Washington, D. C., was a week end visitor in Iowa City. He now holds the position of secretary to United States Congressman Ben Jensen of Exira.

Jane Hutchinson of Woodward is spending the week end with her aunt, Ida Hutchinson, 11 E. Davenport.

Marjory Inness of East Chicago, Ind., is visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Inness, 319 S. Lucas street, this week end.

Attorney and Mrs. Charles E. Cornwell of Mason City are spending the week end with the former's aunt, Mrs. Deborah Hurley, 525 N. Van Buren street. Attorney Cornwell is a graduate of the university law school.

TIPS on the SHOPPING MARKET

By JUDY WEIDNER

UNIVERSITY WOMEN — ATTENTION!! This week is NATIONAL FUR WEEK and stores from coast to coast are celebrating with exceptional values. STRUB'S have been famous for 68 years for their fine quality furs and this week are outdoing themselves in giving you exceptionally low prices. With fur prices rising because of world conditions every woman who intends buying a new fur coat this winter should participate in this big event. Among the featured furs at STRUB'S are beautiful mink-blended muskrats at only $125. And for only $98 is a lovely selection including Black Caraculs, Mink-dyed-Marmot, Natural Grey Kidskin, Merit Beaver, and Victoria Seal — dyed — Coney. STRUB'S also have many gorgeous one-of-a-kind originals of Chinese Mink, Otter, and Persian. You can win no matter how the game goes by keeping snug in one of STRUB'S lovely new furs.

If you're budget conscious then the LE VORA'S VARSITY CLEANERS should be your choice when frocks or suits need freshening or renewing. You can have a NEW coat for just a few pennies as that is all it costs to have your winter coat dry cleaned at the VARSITY, but it will look good as new. While their excellent cleaning can't cure an ill man, he will look better with his clothes carefully cleaned and pressed — and he's apt to feel as well as he looks and we know he'll feel better about the cost. It's a tonic to the budget when you have your dry cleaning done at the VARSITY CLEANERS.

Student Pep Meeting Friday To Open Homecoming Program

Mass Roundup To Take Place East of Capitol

Registrar Barnes Serves as Chairman For Large Event

A student mass pep meeting on the east approach to Old Capitol next Friday evening at 7:40 will officially open the University of Iowa's 1939 Homecoming program of events.

A very elaborate and interesting program is being planned by the committee in charge of the Homecoming mass meeting and accommodations are being made for what is expected to be one of the largest pep meetings the campus has known.

Anticipating a large crowd of enthusiastic students, the committee has changed the place of the meeting from the west approach of Old Capitol to the east side. This, Registrar Harry G. Barnes, chairman of the mass meeting committee, explained, will enable a greater number of students to attend and see the proceedings and will also allow for a better display by the bands in attendance.

Student parades from all parts of Iowa City will precede the pep meeting. These parades, planned much as they were last year, will leave from several parade centers led by detachments of university bands.

In addition to the Homecoming mass meeting committee consisting of Registrar Barnes, Prof. George D. Haskell, also general chairman of all Homecoming activities; Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, in charge of the speakers program; Prof. Charles B. Richter, director of university bands, and Pipe-Major William L. Adamson, director of the Scottish Highlanders, in charge of parades and band display, Pi Epsilon Pi, national pep fraternity, will aid the committee in notification of campus groups concerning the parades and parade centers. Arnold E. Levine, A3 of Centerville, is the Pi Epsilon Pi representative on the mass meeting committee.

A speaking program for the mass meeting has been planned to include representatives from the campus, Iowa City, the athletic department, university alumni and the university football team. Pi Epsilon Pi will send out letters to all campus organizations this week notifying them of the parade center from which they will come to the mass meeting. Then, on Friday evening, during the dinner hour, they will telephone each fraternity, sorority and dormitory to remind them of the meeting.

Other Homecoming events scheduled for Friday evening are the Triangle and University club receptions at 8:30 in the respective club rooms in Iowa Union.

English Students Commissioned By Britain To Argue in States

Home Ec Girls To Make Trip For Field Day

Four Will Leave Next Thursday To Tour Chicago

Four university girls of the home economics department will leave Thursday night for Chicago where they will attend the annual business field day, Prof. Mate Giddings, acting head of the home economics department, announced yesterday.

The girls are Eulalia Klingbeil, A4 of Postville; Lorraine Beneke, A4 of Palmer; Helen Ries, A4 of Iowa City, and Virginia Vaupel, A4 of Vinton. They will be accompanied by one or more faculty members whose names have not been announced as yet.

Senior home economics girls from 20 mid-west colleges and universities will send representatives to the meeting, scheduled to begin Friday morning. The Chicago home economists have arranged a full day for the visitors, which is planned to give the senior girls a picture of home economics positions available in the field of business.

Tours outlined for the delegates include the merchandise laboratories of Sears Roebuck and company, the economics kitchens of Kraft Phenix Cheese company, style shows and various commercial home economics departments. The program of activities for girls interested in textiles and clothing will differ from that of the ones specializing in foods and nutrition.

Robert Louis Stevenson and Mark Twain did their best work while in bed.

Will Meet Team Here Wednesday To Debate Policies

Two English students especially commissioned by their government will come to the University of Iowa Wednesday to debate against two-Iowans. The debate will be at 8 p. m. in Macbride auditorium.

For a time it seemed doubtful whether the debate would be held. Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of debate at the university, said, for the European war threatened cancellation of the event.

However, the British government drafted and then especially assigned George Bean and Hugh Parkinson to the debates in the United States.

The question to be argued was dictated by present world affairs. The English team will argue that the American government should actively aid the allies in the war, while the Iowans favor an aloof foreign policy.

Representing the university will be Loren Hickerson, A4 of Iowa City, and Merle Miller, A4 of Marshalltown. Both have had several seasons of experience, with Hickerson a veteran of last year's international debate. Miller, columnist for The Daily Iowan, is active in three radio programs from WSUI.

Both British debaters are members of the National Union of Students of England and Wales. Bean is a graduate of the University of Liverpool in 1937 and is now reading for his bar finals.

The university since 1924 has had at least one international debate each year, entertaining teams from Ireland, Germany, Australia, Holland and England.

Ferdinand Vies With Scarlett O'Hara for Popularity--It's Children's Book Week

(Editor's note: Book week is being celebrated throughout the nation beginning today. In the article which follows Mrs. Gordon tells you about the selection of children's books, a subject which is, we feel, of prime interest this week.)

By Mrs. Jessie B. Gordon
(Head, Iowa City Public Library)

Book week was established to bring before everyone, concerned with the welfare of children, the importance of cultivating that precious gift—the reading habit. When first observed some twenty years ago it was called Children's Book Week but because so many young people and adults wished to participate it was changed to Book Week.

Much good has been accomplished by this observance for many parents are realizing the importance of making the right selection for the child's library and they are taking advantage of the exhibits sponsored by the libraries and bookstores and the guidance offered by librarians and others qualified by their knowledge of books to give it. Also Book Week has, because of the interest aroused in children's books, stimulated authors to write books which were a real contribution to children's literature with the illustrations falling in line in producing beautiful illustrations even in the inexpensive volumes. I think book ownership aids greatly the child's interest and relationship with books. I would start his own library myself by making his first picture book. It would not be given him as another toy but something quite different to be enjoyed with his mother or father who would link the pictures with his growing knowledge. He should be taught the care of all books from this first one he owns. Clean hands—smooth pages and a book case, preferably his own, in which to put the book away after the reading of it is finished. And so from this home made picture book, his personal library should grow. I would add very soon: Mother Goose—because all small children love rhythm. Peter Rabbit—because it is a favorite with all children. Little Lamb—because of the lovely illustrations. Ferdinand—because of its humor. The Little Family—because it is small in size and about something they know. Manners Can Be Fun—because it helps in teaching how they should behave. The 500 Hats of Bartholomew Cubbins—because of the imagination. Joan Went a Kitty—because the child can read it so soon himself.

I think Sarah Byrd Askew has expressed better than I what to include in a child's library. She says "Be sure to include some books in the child's library that will teach the beauty of words, some book which will fire the imagination, some book which will open the eyes to the beauty of the world, some 'make and do' book, some book of beautiful old stories, some book of lovely poetry, some book of citizenship.

It is quite impossible to buy all the good books for the child's own library, but it is necessary for the child in addition to his books at home to have access to a good public library. There he will find a carefully selected well-rounded collection and not only does he have a good collection from which to choose but an understanding friend to help him in his choice. Encourage him to come to the library—see that he is exposed to books either in his home by building up his own library which can always be supplemented from the public library, or if to purchase books is out of the question, get books for him even if you must get them at the library yourself. Take advantage of the exhibits this week and the guidance offered. Renew your own acquaintance with the old titles and be introduced to the new. The boy or girl who reads easily and happily has within his reach great realms of information and recreation which could never otherwise be his. "Many times the reading of a book has made the future of a man," says Emerson. Unquestionably books and experience are the two greatest interpreters of life. A child's reading carefully guided will deepen and strengthen his future ability to make the most of himself and his opportunities.

Chicago U. Scientist To Speak At University Hospital Tuesday

Rockwood Memorial Presents Dr. Geiling In Lecture Series

Dr. E. M. K. Geiling, head of the department of pharmacology at the University of Chicago, will speak before university students and staff members at University hospital Tuesday afternoon at 4:15 in the third "Paul Reed Rockwood lecture" to be given on this campus.

Dr. Geiling's subject will be "The Comparative Anatomy and Pharmacology of the Pituitary Gland." He has collected some of his hypothesis in whaling excursions into the Pacific northwest and his report will be based in part upon this material.

Dr. Geiling was a close friend of the late Dr. O. H. Plant, former head of the department of pharmacology here, and succeeds him as chairman of the executive committee of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology. Born in the Orange Free State, South Africa, he received his A.B. from the University of South Africa in 1911, and an M.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Illinois. He graduated from Johns Hopkins university in 1923, where he was an assistant to the late Dr. Abell, discoverer of adrenalin. He has held his professorship at the University of Chicago since 1936.

The guest speaker will spend the day Tuesday in visiting the medical laboratories. Following the lecture, an informal dinner will be tendered him at the hospital by the college of medicine. A select group will be entertained afterward by a movie of the pituitary gland of the whale, which is peculiarly adapted for laboratory experiments. The Chicago lecturer will be the guest of Dr. Harry P. Smith, head of the Pathology department, while he is in Iowa City.

The Rockwood lectures are brought to the College of Medicine every year through an endowment left to the university by the late Paul Reed Rockwood, who graduated in 1921. Since the university accepted the gift in 1936, two lectures have been given by prominent men in the field of medicine.

The first was given by Dr. Thomas M. Rivers of the Rockefeller institute in New York. Dr. Charles Austin Doan, professor of medicine at Ohio State university was a speaker last year. In accordance with the terms of the trust indenture, the lecturers are selected by a faculty committee appointed by the dean of the college of medicine, and the invitation is extended the speaker by the president of the university. Each year the lecture covers a different field in medicine.

Paul Reed Rockwood was the son of the late Dr. E. W. Rockwood, who had been head of the chemistry department and a member of the faculty for 47 years at the time of his death in 1935. The former died in 1927.

Iowa City Publisher Plans Volumes By University Authors

"Man's Adventure in Government" by Ethan F. Allen, the first of a group of books scheduled for fall publication, will go on sale throughout the nation tomorrow under the imprint of an Iowa City publishing house. For its initial book, Midland House, of which Norman O. Froiland of Iowa City is founder and president, chose the volume by Professor Allen of the political science department. This first volume will be followed immediately by several others by University of Iowa faculty members and graduates. Professor Allen's book is an outgrowth of his course in government, but is not a textbook following the class course of study. The book is written and printed in style designed to popularize the subject of government.

Red Cross Helps Iowa

Bad Disasters Hit New Top in Nation; 700 Iowans Aided

During a record-breaking year of 157 disasters in the United States requiring Red Cross assistance, Iowa was one of 44 states in which the Red Cross gave emergency relief and rehabilitation aid, F. A. Winfrey, assistant manager in charge of disaster operations for the mid-western area, announced yesterday.

Among victims of 14 types of catastrophes, 130,000 persons received aid, he declared.

The Red Cross spent $1,800 to help more than 700 persons in relief operations following floods in three Iowa counties during the fiscal year, Winfrey said.

Two hundred fifty persons were aided in Fremont county after floods along the Missouri river early in July, 1938, had routed many families from their homes. During this flood, 100 persons were given assistance in adjoining Mills county. Early spring floods this year along the Missouri and Des Moines rivers necessitated relief for approximately 400 persons in Fremont and Wapello counties.

Local Red Cross chapters, assisted with national Red Cross resources, fed, clothed and sheltered many of the refugees until the flood waters subsided, then aided in necessary rebuilding or repair of homes and other buildings. All assistance was given without obligation to repay.

In all disaster relief operations, money spent by the Red Cross is contributed entirely by the public, either during the annual Roll Call or by specific donation, Winfrey explained.

The 23rd annual membership appeal will be held from Nov. 11 to 30.

ROLL CALL

Red Cross To Begin Drive Monday

All the dormitories on the campus have been given Red Cross supplies for the Roll Call drive that will begin Monday, according to Dale Welt, chairman. The fraternities and sororities have been requested to make collections for the drive. Welt announced that nurses will be stationed at the First Capitol National bank and the Iowa City Bank and Trust company on Nov. 20, to sell Red Cross supplies.

Modern Mixers Will Meet Tuesday With Mrs. Ben Davies

The Modern Mixers will have a business and social meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., in the home of Mrs. Ben Davies, 108 McLean street. All members are urged to be present.

Scientists say that a pig rates next to a chimpanzee in the violence of its emotions.

Rev. H. F. Lyte, author of "Abide With Me," attended the Royal school, on the outskirts of Enniskillen, North Ireland.

Out of each dollar of operating revenues, United States railroads in 1938 paid 46.5 cents for labor.

Ship which local chapters send in to the national Red Cross treasury for Red Cross work following the annual Roll Call makes possible financial aid such as the national organization gave in Iowa during the year," the Red Cross official emphasized.

The 23rd annual membership appeal will be held from Nov. 11 to 30.

"The Private Lives of ELIZABETH AND ESSEX"

A Warner Bros.-First National Picture Starring Bette Davis and Errol Flynn. Screen Play by Norman Krasna and Robert Riskin. Music by Max Baer. Stage Play by Maxwell Anderson. Produced by the Theatre Guild, Inc. Directed by Michael Curtiz.

Serialized by HARRY LEE

THE STORY THUS FAR: London, 1596. The Earl of Essex and his subordinate, Sir Walter Raleigh and Lord Howard, are just back from the storming of Cadix, when the Queen—whose mad infatuation with Essex is notorious—summons them. Essex, enraged because Elizabeth elevates Raleigh and Howard instead of himself, protests, is struck across the face by the Queen, and leaves London. Her armies defeated in Ireland, she sends Bacon to bring back Essex, who consents only when Bacon tells of the intrigues of Raleigh and the rest. The Queen tries to prevent Essex from heading her army in Ireland, fearing he may be killed. Dared by the Council, however, he vows to go. Receiving no news from Essex, because his letters have been purloined, she orders him back to England. He marches on Whitehall meaning to take the throne. Elizabeth meets him, all is forgiven, and the old love restored, until he tells her that he must share the throne with her, when, without further warning, she consigns him to the Tower.

CHAPTER VI

THE GRIM COURTYARD of the Tower of London was flooded with morning light. Men-at-arms, the Queen's Guard, and other troops were being marched into position to form a "hollow square"; in a corner, the headsman, a brutal-faced man with a shaven head, sat on the execution block whetting his axe and whistling "Lord Essex at Cadix." A kitten sidled up to him. He fondled it, and went on testing the edge with gusto.

When the protesting shouts of the populace grew louder, he lifted his head, listened to the confused sounds, shrugged, grinned, and went on with his gruesome work.

High within the Tower, chained to the wall of his cell, sat Essex, dirty and unshaven, on the edge of his pallet. Silent, he turned Elizabeth's ring around and around on his finger. Two men-at-arms were on guard, and a monk was intoning Latin prayers. Like distant surf the roar of the crowd came up, and at last Essex spoke dully, "Is Her Majesty here in the Tower?"

"Yes, my lord," said one of the guards, "she took residence in her apartments above, two nights ago."

"And... no word for me?"

"No, my lord."

At a narrow casement in an outer room of the Queen's apartments stood Lady Penelope Grey, looking down at the preparations for the execution in the courtyard, and weeping bitterly. "But crying won't help, dear," said Mistress Margaret Radcliffe, softly. "Why do you cry for him?"

"Heaven knows," sobbed Penelope. "The never cried for me!"

"The Queen will not let it happen..."

"The half hour's struck... He's to die at six!"

"And she's sent him no word?"

"Not she! She's waiting for word from him! Sitting there all the night before last... all yesterday—all last night... in that room... on her Chair of State, sleepless... staring... waiting... waiting for him to beg her pardon... But he's too proud... too... too..."

"Heaven help us women... Is there nothing we..."

"Yes, there is! Perhaps there's one last chance! I'm going to tell her about those letters... I can't keep silent any longer... Even though it's my head that rolls in the dust... beside his!"

Moved to tears by Penelope's plea, the Queen sent for Essex. When, haggard and grim, he emerged from the trap-door and stood before her, she dismissed the guards.

"You spoil me for death, Elizabeth..." he said in a low voice. "Wouldn't it have been kinder to leave me with my thoughts?"

"Are you so set on dying?"

"If it comes... it's best that I go forth quickly and meet it..."

"You know, Robert, that I never meant that you should die."

"I've been found guilty of treason and treason is punishable by death..."

"I waited... thinking you would send the ring... but the

"No... for if I did I'd be your death or you'd be mine... and you... and England must live! Goodbye then... my darling..."

"Oh, I'm old... I'm old... With you I could have been young again... Robert... take my throne... take England..." But he was gone.

She stood staring as the drums increased... reached their peak... stopped suddenly. Then the single, heavy thud of a drum. Then silence.

THE WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS OUTLAW

HERE'S THE WAY Jesse James looked while robbing trains and holding up banks. Behind the mask is handsome TYRONE POWER, who portrays the daring desperado in Darryl F. Zanuck's brilliant Technicolor production, "Jesse James," the 20th Century-Fox epic, showing at the Pastime Thursday.

Epic of 'Jesse James' Opens Thursday at Pastime Theater

Zanuck's Greatest Technicolor Film Stars Tyrone Power

The most romantic outlaw in the history of America, the desperado whose daring colored a whole era and endowed it with the title of the "Serious Seventies" — the man who invented bank holdups and introduced train robberies — has been brought to the screen at last in Darryl F. Zanuck's production, "Jesse James," the 20th Century-Fox Technicolor epic, starring Tyrone Power, Henry Fonda, Nancy Kelly and Randolph Scott, which opens at the Pastime theater on Thursday, Nov. 16.

One of the most difficult problems facing producer Darryl F. Zanuck, who had already shown his good judgment by casting Tyrone Power in the title role, was to ascertain a fairly accurate picture of what Jesse James was really like, and then to present that picture with as much authenticity as possible, taking care neither to whitewash nor blacken the character of the man.

Two years of research went into the life and times of this fascinating character before the actual production of the film was begun.

Henry King, the distinguished director of such Zanuck hits as "Lloyds of London," "In Old Chicago" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band," was entrusted with the megaphone, and made a trip into the Ozark region to select actual locales. The little town of Pineville, Mo., was finally chosen, and it was here that a vast company, including, besides Power, Fonda, Miss Kelly and Scott, Henry Hull, Slim Summerville, J. Edward Bromberg, Brian Donlevy, John Carradine, Donald Meek, John Russell and Jane Darwell, travelled to shoot this gripping photoplay.

Nunnally Johnson, the author of some of the screen's greatest successes, was selected to weld this colorful mass of story material into a screen play that throbbled with life. Johnson also acted as associate producer on the production.

'Flight at Midnight' Is Second Hit

"Flight at Midnight," the co-hit, promises local audiences something new in thrills! An airplane story geared to delight the most jaded action drama fan — it makes use of a series of highly dramatic situations which are developed skillfully into one of the best air pictures of the season.

Phil Regan is cast as "Spinner" Magee, devil-may-care mail pilot, who volunteers his courage and skill for the task of raising $100,000 with which to save a small airport from being condemned.

Roscoe Turner, popular hero of the air speedways, is cast as himself, and joins the gallant quest of $100,000 to prevent "Pop" Hussey's airport from being condemned.

'Strand Theater' Features Film Of Americana

Stewart, J. Arthur Star in 'Mr. Smith Goes to Washington'

When better pictures are made, Frank Capra will make them!

Until that time, however, we'll sit tight and unhesitatingly declare Capra's "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" the greatest picture of his hit-packed career... and, therefore, the greatest picture ever to come out of Hollywood!

The film that opened this week at the Strand theater, a Columbia production co-starring Jean Arthur and James Stewart, is a stirring human spectacle created by Capra out of the very heart of America, filled with all the laughter, the love, the pain and the joy of everyday business of living! Deep in its understanding of the average human being, "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" possesses, as well, all the thrilling beauty of an American nation governing itself, all the strength and scope inherent to a brilliant narrative whose principal thesis is rooted deep in the glorious traditions of a great democracy.

"Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" is more than great entertainment, it is a great emotional adventure, a study in character and in social forces.

Jefferson Smith, a small-town youth who is strongly imbued with American ideals, suddenly finds himself thrust into the seats of the mighty. Somewhat of a local hero, he is appointed to fill an unexpired term in the United States senate.

'Invitation To Happiness' At Iowa Theater

One of the greatest love stories to reach the screen in many a year has its local premiere today at the Iowa theater where Paramount presents "Invitation to Happiness," co-starring Irene Dunne and Fred MacMurray, and featuring Charlie Ruggles, Billy Cook, William Collier Sr., and Marion Martin.

Fred MacMurray is cast as a prize fighter who is managed by Charlie Ruggles. When Charlie goes to William Collier Sr., for backing for his boy, Fred meets Collier Sr.'s daughter, Irene Dunne, a society girl who is more or less accustomed to having her own way. And so, Fred marries Irene.

They are happy for a while, but happiness soon yields to heartbreaks. Fred is determined to become champion of the world, and must leave Irene alone so that he can barnstorm around the fight circuit. While he is away on one of his trips, a boy is born to the couple. As broken up as any woman could be at the absence of her husband at such a time, Irene manages nevertheless to forgive him because she loves him so dearly.

As the boy grows up, he comes to hate his father. He realizes that his mother does not relish his father's continued absence. Fred cannot understand the boy's hate for him.

Despite their separation, Fred and Irene love each other. Fred's efforts to win the boy's affection leads to a dramatic conclusion of the narrative.

Bryan, as a grown-up. The daughter grows up without knowledge of her true origin, and gives her love and affection to the woman she calls "Mummy," (Miriam Hopkins) rather than to her true mother. It is only on the eve of the girl's own wedding that she comes to realize some measure of the sacrifices that her "old maid aunt" has made for her. And after the wedding, the two women go back to the empty house to live out the rest of their lives together.

INVITATION TO HAPPINESS

The marital bliss of Irene Dunne and Fred MacMurray, as they appear in "Invitation to Happiness," is almost shattered by prize fighter MacMurray's ambition to be champ. Poignant drama, rather than violent fistfights, marks the tenor of the Paramount film which opens today at the Iowa Theater.
