Reports Fill Ankara Turkey to Back Greek Soviet Ambassador Meets Turkish President

Spokesman Denies Knowledge Of Smail Aid Pact

ANKARA, Turkey, Oct. 19 (AP)- Retired Army Gen. Fevzi Coban, a strong friend of both Britain and Greece, yesterday denied that the Turkish government has approached the Greek government with offers of aid from Turkey. Coban, who has been considered a possible candidate for the Turkish presidency, said in an interview with an American reporter yesterday that he had not been approached by Ankara and had not discussed such a possibility with any Turkish official.

Coban, who is a former chief of staff of the Turkish army and a former minister of defense, said that he had not been in contact with any Greek official and had not discussed the possibility of Turkish aid to Greece with any Turkish official.

Miss Gertrude Wetzel, executive secretary of the Iowa City chapter of the American Red Cross, was recently appointed to the post of executive assistant to the chief executive officer of the chapter.

The American Red Cross is a voluntary organization that provides disaster relief and assistance to those affected by flood, fire, or other emergencies. The organization also provides education and training to prepare individuals for emergencies.

The appointment of Miss Wetzel is significant as it will allow the Iowa City chapter of the American Red Cross to continue its critical work in the community.

This information is important for those interested in the work of the American Red Cross and the role of volunteers in disaster relief operations.

If you would like to learn more about the work of the American Red Cross or volunteer, please visit their website or contact your local chapter.

Population Counts
Show Residents Fewer Than Registered Voters

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — Agents for the war-time campaign conducted nationwide for the enrollement of all men are investigating whether any men in West Virginia failed to register for the draft.

The investigation is being conducted by the National Defense Investigating Service, a Federal agency set up for the purpose of finding out the number of men who are not registered for the draft.

On Friday, an examination was made of the population in the county, and on Saturday, of the city.

McClory's Recently Published Studies Show Speed Inherent to Strength

You can't be a good athlete and not be a strong athlete, "Professor McClory, head of the Department of Physical Education and founder of the American Institute of Sports Science, told the New York Times recently. "You can't be a good athlete and not be a strong athlete."

Professor McClory, who has been studying the effects of speed on strength and agility in athletes, has shown that "speed is inherent to strength." He explained that in order to improve the strength of an athlete, it is necessary to increase the speed of their movements.

McClory's recent studies have focused on the relationship between speed and strength in athletes. He found that athletes who are able to move quickly are also able to generate more force than those who move slowly. This is because the force generated by an athlete is dependent on both the speed of their movement and the mass of their limbs.

McClory's work has implications for both coaches and athletes. Coaches can use his findings to develop training programs that focus on improving both speed and strength. Athletes can use his work to improve their performance by working on both aspects of their game.

Four Graduate Students Join German Staff

Four new graduate students have joined the German faculty at the University of Iowa. They are:

1. Prof. Margaret J. Fischer, head of the German department, who is starting her third year of graduate study.
2. Prof. John A. Clements, a former graduate student at the University of California, who is beginning his second year of graduate study.
3. Prof. John M. Beyer, a former graduate student at the University of Michigan, who is beginning his first year of graduate study.
4. Prof. John P. Morgan, a former graduate student at the University of Illinois, who is beginning his second year of graduate study.

Physicists Install, Clean, Test New Generator for Nuclear Study

The installation of the first in a series of new equipment in the physics building now is in progress.

“Applying high volumes of air, we can clean this generator,” said Mr. A. B. Keating, A4 of Waterloo, Ia., who is in charge of the project.

Mr. Keating explained that this equipment will be used in cleaning the generator.

“By using high volumes of air, we can remove any dust or debris from the generator,” he said.

“This is a necessary step in the cleaning process.”

For more information, contact Mr. A. B. Keating, A4 of Waterloo, Ia.

Aiming For the Target—

Mr. J. E. Smith, president of the school's F.S.R. and S.M.A. club, was given the assignment of placing the target on the generator.

Mr. Smith explained that the target is placed in a slanted position in order to prevent any possible damage to the generator.

“We are taking all necessary precautions to ensure the safety of the generator,” said Mr. Smith.

For more information, contact Mr. J. E. Smith, president of the school's F.S.R. and S.M.A. club.
