NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

The Secrets of The Invisible Hilton

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 10. - The man who claims to be a member of the secret society of the Invisible Hilton here, and who has been known in Washington for years as a society figure, has been arrested and charged with the crime of bigamy.

The man, known as "The Invisible Man," was arrested last night by the police department after charges were made against him by his wife.

The police say that the man has been living in the city for some time with another woman, and that he has also been living with his wife.

The police were called to the man's apartment shortly after midnight, and they found him in the company of his wife.

The man was charged with bigamy, and the police are now investigating the case.

THE BOOK PARADE

St. Paul, Minn., April 10. - The Book Parade, a popular annual event, was held in St. Paul today. The parade, which is sponsored by the St. Paul Public Library, featured a float depicting a book with a 100-year-old printing press.

The parade began at the St. Paul Public Library and ended at the Minnesota State Capitol.

The parade route included stops at several bookstores and book-related establishments.

The parade was well-attended, with many people lining the streets to watch the festivities.

The parade was led by the St. Paul Public Library float, which depicted a book with a 100-year-old printing press. The float was decorated with a large book and included a print shop where visitors could watch the printing process firsthand.

The parade also featured a float from the University of Minnesota, which showcased a variety of books related to the university's history and culture. The float was decorated with a large book and included a display of old textbooks and other historic documents.

The parade continued past many bookstores and book-related establishments, including the St. Paul Bookstore and the St. Paul Graphic Novel Shop.

The parade ended at the Minnesota State Capitol, where a ceremony was held to honor the contributions of the book industry.

The ceremony was attended by many politicians and community leaders, who spoke about the importance of books and the role they play in society.

The ceremony was followed by a book giveaway, where attendees were able to receive free books.

The Book Parade is a popular annual event in St. Paul that celebrates the importance of books and the book industry. The parade is sponsored by the St. Paul Public Library and is held every year on the first Saturday in April.
