London Observers See Invasion

Plan in Pattern of Nazi Bombings

LONDON, April 25 (AP) - London observers and other Allied leaders today expressed satisfaction over the results of a mission to London by President Harry S. Truman, who was received by Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

The mission was undertaken to familiarize the Allies with the situation in Europe, and to determine the extent of the threat to England from the German air forces. The mission included a visit to the London Observer's School of Flying, where the President was briefed on the latest developments in anti-aircraft defense.

Mr. Truman was also briefed on the new United States Army anti-aircraft system, known as the "Shark" system, which is said to be superior to any other system in the world.

The mission ended with a meeting with President Churchill, where they discussed the future strategy of the war and the possibility of a joint American-British invasion of Europe.

The President and Prime Minister agreed that the invasion should be launched as soon as possible, and that it should be preceded by a large-scale air offensive against Germany.

The mission was considered a success, and the Allies are said to be preparing to launch the invasion in the near future.

Flying Cadet Examination Board To Be In Des Moines, Cedar Rapids

A thriving thing could have come to pass if P.A. Kondor's doctors in the University hospital had not been afraid to operate on him. Kondor is the 23-year-old University junior who was operated on yesterday afternoon. The operation, which lasted about 90 minutes, was performed by Dr. E. L. Rendell, head of the University's medical department.

In the past few days, the doctors had been trying to decide whether or not to operate on Kondor, who had been suffering from a rare disease known as cancer. The disease had been diagnosed several weeks ago, and the doctors had been waiting for the results of tests to determine the best course of treatment.

Yesterday afternoon, the doctors finally decided to operate. The surgery was a success, and Kondor is expected to make a full recovery. The doctors are now preparing a detailed report on the case for publication in a medical journal.

Slacks, worn by some women, are gaining in popularity. In skating, riding, and on the tennis court, slacks provide comfort and convenience to the wearer. For Methodist women, the slacks suit of Luana Cloth trousers with a tuck-in ensemble of collar, cuffs, and shirt collar and the golf jacket provides a comfortable and attractive outfit for men and women alike.

Although none of them ever actually thought about it, the tea was a "must" for the day. Ray's family encouraged him to take it. It was served on the day before the initiation ceremony in London.
