Supreme Court rules Wagner act

Prohibits Discrimination in Hiring

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP) - The Supreme Court held today that the Wagner act prohibits sex discrimination in the hiring of workers, as well as in their firing.

Undersea and sky-covering rule, the court upheld the act which makes it unlawful for an employer to discriminate against a man or woman because of their sex or marital status. The case came to the court's attention from the Second Circuit Court of Appeals, New York, in the case of Sholes and Heath, Inc., against the Wagner act.

The order upheld by the court states that a Cancer Society, or for the benefit of any charitable or religious organization. That the order was upheld by the court, a Cancer Society, or for the benefit of any charitable or religious organization. That the order was upheld by the court.

The court ordered the Cancer Society to cease and desist from any further violations of the Wagner act. The court also ordered the Cancer Society to pay a fine of $500 for each violation.

The court's decision was hailed as a victory for the rights of workers everywhere. The decision was seen as a major victory for the workers' movement and a significant step forward in the fight for workers' rights.

THE GREAT LIE

A Short Story by Harry Lee

Social Life by Harry Lee

CHAPTER I

The stage living room of the new German film, "The Great Lie," is set up in a small apartment on the corner of a quiet street. The apartment is furnished in a simple, yet tasteful manner, with a small table set for tea and a sofa by the window. The walls are decorated with paintings and photographs of the actress, and the atmosphere is one of elegance and sophistication.

Mr. and Mrs. Richter, the German couple who live in the apartment, are sitting in the living room, enjoying a cup of tea and speaking about their plans for the evening. Mr. Richter, a successful businessman, is discussing a new project with his wife, while Mrs. Richter, a beautiful actress, is preparing for a performance at the nearby theater. Their conversation is filled with laughter and conversation, and the atmosphere is one of happiness and contentment.

The camera pans to the window, where a young woman is standing, looking out at the street. She is dressed in a simple, yet elegant dress, and her hair is styled in a fashionable manner. She is watching the world go by, and her gaze is fixed on a young man who is walking down the street. The young man is dressed in a suit, and his expression is one of thoughtfulness and curiosity.

The woman is the actress, and the young man is the engineer. The woman is considering a proposal from the engineer, and the atmosphere is one of tension and anticipation.

The camera pans back to the living room, where the conversation continues. The atmosphere is one of excitement and suspense, and the audience is drawn into the story, eager to learn more about the characters and their destinies.

SUPER IMPOSITION

Deeply involved in their own thoughts, the characters are unaware of the events unfolding around them. The camera focuses on a small painting on the wall, which is a portrait of the actress. The painting is a symbol of her beauty and her power, and it serves as a reminder of the strength and determination she possesses.
