Battle Nears Shown Down

Third Shocks More Than Eight Miles Into Nassalient

PARIS, Thursday (AP)—The battle of the Dijon bridge marks the seventh stage in the coming of the Allied forces from two directions to complete the encirclement of two parts of the German divisions throned in areas taken this past month in the Moselles.

In a statement of the French Ministry of War, the spokesman said: "The French government is pleased to announce the latest development in the battle for the Dijon bridge, which has now been taken by the Allied forces. The bridge was essential to the advance of the French army towards the Rhine, and its capture is a major victory for our forces. We are confident that this advance will continue and that the French army will soon reach the Rhine River, which is our final objective."

Do You Like to See Girls Wear Blue-Jeans?

By ADAMS H. BONNIE

In a recent study of the habits and fashions of college women, it was reported that 95 per cent of the students wear blue-jeans. This is a significant increase from the previous study in 1945, where only 70 per cent of the students were reported to wear blue-jeans.

The study was conducted by the Department of Sociology at the University of Illinois and included 1,000 female students from various college campuses across the United States. The results showed a significant increase in the popularity of blue-jeans among college women, with over 95 per cent of the students reporting wearing them.

The study also found that the popularity of blue-jeans has increased across all age groups, with the majority of students aged 18-25 reporting wearing blue-jeans. The study suggested that the increase in popularity is due to the relaxed and casual nature of blue-jeans, which have become a staple of college fashion.

The study concluded that blue-jeans are likely to remain a popular choice for college women, with continued increases in popularity expected in the future.

Costly SKID FOR FIGHTER-BOMBER

Bombers Sustain Attack on German Bullet Supply Routes

LONDON (A.P.)—Many hundreds of planes rained down a deluge of explosive ammunition on German positions last night, killing and wounding thousands of German soldiers. The attack was made by American and British fighter-bombers who were flying at low altitude.

The American fighter-bombers were stationed at an airfield near the English Channel, while the British planes were based at another airfield on the coast.

The American fighter-bombers were flown by pilots who had been trained in the United States, while the British pilots were flown by pilots who had been trained in Great Britain.

The attack was designed to destroy the German supply lines and to prevent the enemy from reinforcing his forces.

WASHINGTON (A.P.)—The Federal Communications Commission was presented a gold medal by the American Bar Association today.

The medal was presented by A. B. Cullen, chairman of the Commission, and Dr. E. W. MacEwen, counsel for the ABA. The medal was presented in recognition of the Commission's outstanding service to the public.

The American Bar Association has been active in the promotion of the public interest in telecommunications.

British Publishes Verified Account Of Nazi Atrocities

In a new book, "Nazi Atrocities," Dr. A. R. M. Rees, a British historian, has published a detailed and documented account of Nazi atrocities committed during World War II.

The book is based on extensive research and includes numerous eyewitness testimonies and official documents.

Rees has been critical of previous accounts of Nazi atrocities, which he认为 were often sensationalized and inaccurate.

He has stated that his book is the most definitive account of Nazi atrocities to date, and he has urged other historians to use his work as a basis for further research.

Dr. Rees has been an expert on Nazi atrocities for many years and has published numerous articles and books on the subject.

The book is expected to be published in the United States in the near future.
