UN Delegate Introduces Six Propositions On Control Before Sub-Committee

NEW YORK (AP)—Six propositions on which all nations of the world must co-operate to develop atomic energy were submitted today by Dr. E. C. Schmidt, of the United Nations, as a basis for discussion by the conference which opened here today for the consideration of the most important international problems.

The propositions are:

1. That the international authority be created to require private and public plans for the development of atomic energy for peaceful purposes.

2. That scientific information on atomic processes and devices be made available to peaceful purposes.

3. That no nation have the right to refuse to supply materials or equipment for peaceful purposes.

4. That each country which has atomic energy shall have the obligation to station peace officers in all countries which have atomic energy.

5. That a policy of control of atomic energy be established for preventing any destruction of its peaceful uses.

6. That the international authority be vested with all necessary power to carry out these propositions.
