Can We Understand Russia?

In an attempt to understand Russia, it would be necessary to consider different viewpoints. For this we have considered different approaches to the nature of our relations with Russia, how we have pursued different policies, and whether we have been able to satisfy Russia and others more friendly.

Fedchenko, who has been in Russia, considers it necessary to embrace a position favorable to our survival in the coming world. He states that the Soviet Union has always been a victim of the West's desire to dominate it. He suggests that the Soviet Union is now ready to collaborate with the West in the interests of peaceful coexistence. But he says that the Soviet Union still wants to retain its identity and its independence. He warns against the dangers of a new cold war.

Iowa City Food Prices Climb

Costs Rise
In 10 of 24 Basic Items

The average student family of the University of Iowa should expect to pay more for a market basket of food this fall than it was two years ago, according to a recent survey conducted in Iowa City this week. The survey showed that food prices in 10 of the 24 basic items were higher by 10 per cent or more over the same period. The rise in food prices is due to the increased cost of food, which is in turn due to the higher prices of food products. The survey also showed that the cost of food is rising faster than the cost of living, which is rising at a rate of about 5 per cent per year. The survey, conducted by the University of Iowa, is the first of its kind to be conducted in Iowa City and is expected to be of interest to students, parents, and the general public.

South America Next for the Schanzers

A Riverside couple and their 18-month-old daughter have left Iowa City for a three-month tour of South America. The Schanzers, who are traveling with a group of other families, plan to spend most of their time in Argentina and Brazil. They hope to see as much of the continent as possible and to experience the local culture and traditions. The Schanzers are looking forward to their trip and are excited about the opportunity to learn more about the people and places they will visit.

Residents Mean As—Birds Rule Root
