Peacemaking in Yugoslavia

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Yugoslav government, in a move expected to bring about an end to the country's 1,500-mile border war with Hungary, has agreed to withdraw its troops from the border area.

The agreement was reached during talks between Yugoslav officials and Hungarian representatives in Belgrade.

The border war, which began in November, has been a major source of tension between the two countries. It was triggered by the arrest of several Yugoslav soldiers who crossed the border into Hungary.

The withdrawal of Yugoslav troops from the border area is expected to pave the way for a formal peace treaty between the two countries.

The agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint committee to oversee the withdrawal process and to ensure that it is carried out smoothly.

The two countries have agreed to hold regular talks to discuss the implementation of the peace treaty and to address any remaining issues.

The move is seen as a significant step towards resolving the border dispute and restoring peace in the region.

It is hoped that the withdrawal of Yugoslav troops will signal a new era of cooperation and mutual understanding between the two countries.

The peace agreement is expected to be signed in Belgrade on December 15th.

The talks were held in a spirit of goodwill and cooperation, and both sides are expected to make every effort to honor the agreement.

The two countries have a long history of conflict, but recent attempts at peace negotiations have shown promise.

The agreement is seen as a major breakthrough in the efforts to bring about lasting peace in the region.

Dairymen Defend Colored Oleo Ban

From Head's Dairyman, Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin

The Wisconsin dairy cooperative has recently been asked to supply the Wisconsin Dairyman with an article on the subject of colored oleo in order to support the present federal tax of 10 cents per gallon, which is now being considered by Congress. Such a tax, it is stated, would help to retard the growth of the deleterious fat known as oleomargarine.

Further, it is stated, the tax would authorize the Wisconsin government to provide a tax on oleomargarine, which could be used in the interest of public health. Oleomargarine, it is said, is often used as a substitute for butter, and this should not be allowed.

Europe Expects U.S. to Join Alliance

By J. M. ROBERTS JR., AP Foreign Affairs Editor

Washington, March 13 - The European nations which have just met at the Hague to consider the possibility of a mutual defense alliance possibly include the United States in their plans. The only question is whether or not the United States will accept the proposal.

Belgium, France and the Scandinavian countries in the north have taken the lead in this movement. Sweden, in particular, has shown a desire for such a defense agreement, and the French government has been considering the possibility of a mutual defense alliance with the United States for some time.

The United States government has been very much interested in this subject, and has been studying the possibilities of an alliance with the European nations. The United States government has been considering the possibility of a mutual defense alliance with the European nations for some time.
