Heating Hazards Cause Fires
In Winter, Fire Chief Warns

December-January and February are the most dangerous months for fires caused by heating hazards, according to Fire Chief Al Detollot.

Fire Chief Detollot warned that with the advent of winter, fires must be anticipated and precautionary measures taken. He pointed out that there are four particularly dangerous places in the home where fires are likely to start:

1. The furnace and its chimney, which should be cleaned and checked at the end of the heating season.
2. The attic, where the wood shingles should be checked and the attic door kept closed.
3. The garage, where the oil-powered garage door opener must be insulated and made safe from combustible materials.
4. The kitchen, where the stove and oven should be checked and the grease traps cleaned.

Chief Detollot recommended that homeowners check their heating systems and take steps to prevent fires. He urged everyone to be alert to the dangers of fire and to take steps to prevent them.

Iowa City Coal Dealers Supply Down: SUI Situation 'Not Acute'

Coal supplies to local dealers will last approximately two weeks if no more ships come in as in the weather conditions about the same as in previous years, said Mr. Truman, president of the SUI Coal Dealers Association, Tuesday.

Local dealers generally carry at least a week's supply of coal, but with demand for coal and a waterfront park in Iowa City, local dealers and coal companies are currently operating on a "hand-to-mouth" basis.

Airforce Explodes Mystery About 'Flying Saucers'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The airforce Tuesday exploded the "flying saucer mystery." It said it has submitted five-year investigations of reports of strange disk-like objects soaring along at tremendous speed, but established no such thing.

The report, it said, resulted from "interpretation of government-erected objects, a cloud of hysterical rumors."

The airforce added that it will now审查 a special "project" in the "flying saucers" field by the airforce to investigate reports of unidentified objects.

The airforce is supposed to study the reports "without discovering any facts."
