Hint Eisenhower Willing To Run as Republican

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.

There seems to be an increasing number of spots in New York and Washington where you can get odds that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower is a willing and qualified candidate for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

President Truman has made it unmistakably clear that he has no intention of running for another term and that he will not make any public prediction as to whom he will endorse in the 1952 presidential election. This has left quite an opening for speculation as to possible candidates.

Some of these observers also think that if Eisenhower is finally decided upon by his party for the presidential nomination, his disqualification for political conciliation may be ruled out.

It is felt that Eisenhower, for certain reasons, will be prepared to offer as an eastern bloc candidate, his very willingness to disavow the American party organization which has been criticized strongly by most knowledgeable men. They will say that Eisenhower can be counted on to run a campaign free of the political clichés which have characterized most public one, that Eisenhower can be counted on to run a campaign free of the political clichés which have characterized most

Gene Eisenhower

Will He Run in '52?

Gene Eisenhower is the son of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Supreme Commander of the Allied Expeditionary Force in Europe. He has been associated with his father's political campaigns since his first appearance as a political candidate. He has been closely identified with the political activities of his father and has been active in the Republican party organization which has been allied to his father's political campaigns.

Eisenhower is a military man by trade and has served in the Army for over 30 years. He was a member of the Army's general staff during World War II and is known for his tough and effective leadership.

In 1952, Eisenhower ran for president as a Republican candidate. He was the first sitting president to seek a second term since Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936. Eisenhower was re-elected in 1952 and served until 1961.

Eisenhower is known for his strong anti-communist views and his commitment to maintaining a strong military to protect the United States and its allies.

Eisenhower's legacy continues to this day, with his emphasis on strong leadership and the importance of preparing for the future.
SUNBURN MAY CAUSE ACUTE SKIN DISEASE, DERMATOLOGIST WARNS

Sunburn may be more than skin deep, a Pittsburgh dermatologist warns. This is the first issue of TODAY'S Health, published by the American Medical Association.

Besides the immediate skin burn and possible infection resulting from excessive exposure to the sun, there may be consequences after a lapse of months to a year, according to Dr. Lester Hallander.

"The acute consequences of a sunburn are shrugged off when we consider some of the diseases it causes," he said, listing three.

Marked by Dryness

One rare disease, known as actinic poikiloderma, is marked by roughness and dryness of the skin. It affects only certain families, mostly in teenage boys and young men, and develops at the site of freckles on the face.

At first these are usuallyelopeed, later they form ulcers and the skin around them forms highly malignant cancers. Sunlight accelerates these changes.

A second intermittent disease is disseminated lupus erythematosus, which affects the skin. The disease includes a residual dermatitis, at the site of a sunburn, as a result, also leukopenia (lowering of the white corpuscles of the blood), loss of supporting connective organs and glands and permanent general weakness.

Sun's Role B limits

Thirdly, sunburn is often pointed out, there are many reports to indicate that the sun plays a protective role in the development of certain forms of skin cancer, more often in people who work outdoors and under the sun.

Commenting on sunburn problems and remedies, he said, "The best sunburn prevents graduation of the length of exposure. This allows the pigments in the epidermal layer of the skin to perform its own vital process."

"In case of an actual sunburn, local applications of cool wet bandages or non greasy creams containing olive very pale will be all in all. For amelioration of sunburn, use antihistamine tablets, four every hour or less."

Miss Fairlie Wed

To Joseph Schlenk

In Fort Madison

Miss Mary Fairlie, daughter of Alex. Fairlie of Fort Madison, and Joseph Schlenk, son of Mrs. Anna Schlenk of Davenport, were married at 8 a.m. Saturday in Fort Madison.

The double service was performed in St. Mary's church. The father gave the bride in marriage. Her filled, balaclava length gown was of organza, with cup sleeves, and a high neck. She wore an organza cap and carried white roses and lilies. Her pearls were a gift of the bridegroom.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Jean Fairlie, maid of honor. Her dress was white organza, over green taffeta, styled like the bride's. She carried white and yellow daisies.

Best man was Sylvan F. Bailey, Cedar Rapids. Bishops were Stanley Fairlie, Fort Madison and Glenn Paster, Iowa City.

A reception for 65 guests followed in the River room of the Archer hotel. The couple will live in Cedar Rapids after their wedding trip to Colorado.

The bride was graduated from St. Mary's high school and the Mercy hospital school of nursing, Iowa City.

Her husband who also was graduated from St. Mary's high school, is employed by Wilson and Co., Cedar Rapids.

Iowa City guests included Mrs. Anna Schlenk, the Misses Coletta, Hildegaard, Olive, and Helen Staudt, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Peifer, and Mrs. Leonard Glough, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Meane, Mrs. Roy Bixler, Mrs. DonaldSample.
IWAI MOUNTAINEERS

Will Leave Today
On Trip to Alaska

Twenty members of the Iowa Mountaineers will leave Iowa City today on a month-long mountain climbing trip to McKinley

National Park in Alaska. The trip will be a first for Mrs. Elizabeth Porter, director of the Mountaineers, and her husband, who have been planning the trip for several months.

The Mountaineers have been training for this trip for several months, and will be joined by 10 other climbers from various states. The group will hike, climb, and camp in the wilderness, experiencing the natural beauty of Alaska.

The trip is sponsored by the Iowa Mountaineers, an organization dedicated to promoting the love of nature and adventure. The group hopes to raise awareness about the importance of preserving the environment and sharing the beauty of the outdoors with others.

The Mountaineers are excited to embark on this adventure and look forward to the experience of climbing McKinley National Park. The group is also grateful for the support of their sponsors, who have made this trip possible.

The Mountaineers would like to extend a special thank you to all who have supported them in their endeavor. They hope to inspire others to explore the beauty of the outdoors and to appreciate the importance of nature.

Blaike To Stay As Army Football Coach

Says All But Few of Squad, Including Son, Are to Be Exiled from West Point

NEW YORK (AP) - Earl Blaike said Thursday he would stay as Army's football coach although his son Bob and "all but two or three" of "maybe 15" players probably would be among the 90 cadets facing expulsion in a crippling scandal.

The coach made his announcement at a new conference called by the school for news media. Blaike's words were probably the first news media representative to hear them.

"The point I want to make is we don't care if you think you're in with the finest of reputations. We don't care if you come from an upper crust family. We don't believe any of them is different in any really material way. There is no moral reason to send them out into army service. We're not even interested in the thing but the same type of reputation left behind in the military academy," he said.

"I wish we could stop this idea of sanctifying football. God help this country if we do away with football. We've got too many problems. But don't let's put this country on an informal basis. The real question is our greatest urge to do things comes from spiritual performance," he continued.

The squad specifically had the 90 involved cadets expelled for "offence and failure to follow the rules and regulations and thus not to act as cadets involved," Blaike pointed out.

"I want to make it clear that I'm not that in the group is my own son," Blaike said.

The Blaike's have been Army football for 31 years. Among the 47 cadets over the years who have played under Blaike, the coach said it was three runs batted in.

Bob Blaike, Army's regular backfielder, identified himself as one of the involved cadets later at West Point when asked about his father's decision.

"I'm surprised myself," Bob Blaike said. "I didn't know they were going to do it. I was still going to try and do what I was supposed to do, play football, but I'm not sure I'm going to play any more football."

"I've been surprised at all the things that are going on in West Point with the same type of reputation left behind in the military academy," he said.

The coach also indicated he had the 90 involved cadets expelled for "offence and failure to follow the rules and regulations and thus not to act as cadets involved."

The coach said approximately half the 90 involved cadets were expelled for "offence and failure to follow the rules and regulations and thus not to act as cadets involved."
