Hope For The Future

You have just graduated from high school and soon you will be here at the State University of Iowa. There have been plenty of speeches made and plenty of sessions conducted for you.

They've all tried to tell you that you are a future leader and you are America's hope. You're probably tired of hearing it and you probably don't believe it. We're not going to tell you that.

Because we don't believe those things of you—not yet.

You've got a long way to go and you've got to do a good start, You've chosen one of the better schools in the nation. Maybe you don't believe that yet and maybe you're coming to UI because you couldn't go anywhere else.

Or maybe you're traveling thousands of miles to come here. Either way, you've got to be good at it.

But where do you go from here? How do you become America's hope for the future?

The coming years that you will spend here at the university, probably will either make you or break you. You're out of high school now and away from its rigidity. And you will no longer be living with Mom and Dad. Your life is becoming your own responsibility now.

We can't tell you how to become a leader, We can't tell you what you should do to fulfill America's hope. But we know that from among you there will be outstanding 'Chics' and outstanding 'Iowans.'

We know, because we've been told by experts, that there are impressive gains in your life. What exactly we and experience have will impress you.

There are certain things that you expect from the university academically and socially that there are certain things that the university expects from you.

In the coming weeks you'll be told about these things. You will be called the 'pupils' of the school and your responsibility to it will be emphasized.

This is true. This is a part of the molding that will make you the future for America's hope for the future.

The high school crowds are going and that long-awaited senior prom is a thing of the past now. In a few weeks you will be going to college dances and doing the things that college kids are supposed to do.

You will be studying and you will be learning.

For the next four years or so, the school is yours. And we hope you do a good job because what you do here will probably directly what you will be doing for the rest of your life.

You must become a future leader and you may be our hope for the future. We hope so.

Presentation of 'Miss Profile's' Climax Annual Style Show

When a new freshman class of the University of Iowa next month, more than a thousand young people will join the world-wide family of SUI alumni.

If you are to be a member of that class, you will remember the student body as the alma mater family you are joining. For you will belong to the family from the very start of your SUI student days and two years later, as the graduate, the SUI alumni association, founded in 1854, will be your family for life.

The SUI alumni family has been unbroken since 1854, when a young lawyer named Dunham was elected the first president of the guild. The alumni association was organized by the State University in 1938.

The couple will make their home in the Iowa City vicinity and are engaged in their work as interviewers, selecting a variety of graduate models for the show with the assistance of the alumni association's publicity committee.

The finalists will be judged on their individual achievements, on their personal and general stage presence, on their education and experience in the university, and on their service to the community. Their selection will be made by the alumni association's publicity committee, and the winners will be announced at the university's annual alumni banquet.

Miss Heefner is a member of the State University of Iowa, University of Iowa, and the University of Iowa Alumni Association. She is a member of the University Women's Association of Iowa City, and the University Women's Association of the UI.

The winner will be announced at the university's annual alumni banquet, and the announcement will be made by the university's alumni association.

Information Service Dispenses News on SUI

A function that everyone at SUI inseparably identifies with many days each week is the Information Service located in the mailroom. Besides handling the mail and managing the phone, it is responsible for keeping all mailboxes organized and orderly, and it is open every day and weekly, with its staff of six so that everyone in the campus is well informed.

As Jorden says, "We do a big job because we are the only centralized system that will handle all the mail and do it efficiently. The idea is to make sure everyone in the department will be able to get the mail and are not frustrated by it."

One of the chief responsibilities of the Information Service is to keep the public relations office supplied with as much information as they desire, especially for the Iowa Daily. The staff frequently receives requests for personal information about members of the staff and university, as well as requests for general information about the campus and its activities.

The Information Service is also responsible for maintaining the computerized mailing list for the University. This list is used to distribute the university's official publications, such as the SUI News and the SUI Bulletin, as well as other internal communications. The list is updated regularly to ensure that all recipients receive the most current information.

In addition to the computerized mailing list, the Information Service maintains a physical mailing list of the university community, which is used to distribute physical copies of publications and other materials.

The Information Service also assists the public relations office in coordinating the distribution of promotional materials and other marketing efforts. This includes the coordination of advertising campaigns, the design and printing of promotional materials, and the distribution of these materials to the appropriate recipients.

Overall, the Information Service plays a crucial role in ensuring that the university community is well informed and connected. Its staff works tirelessly to ensure that all members of the university are able to access the information they need in a timely and efficient manner.

CAMP MOYNIHAN, Iowa City—Two weeks of training for the Iowa Army Reservists ended with the last of approximately 1,000 reservists going on a mission to prepare a military exercise.

But the reservists worked hard.
It's not easy to rise at 6 a.m. and sit through four hours of training and then spend two hours at lunch and dinner.

Although the physical training was difficult, many reservists said they enjoyed the experience.

Other members, however, took part in an early Friday morning. The end of the annual two-week ses-tion was marked by the visitors.

The epic struggle between the "aggressor" and "defender" was "the most training that is given them.

was held in the annual two-week ses-

The report made the Iowa

Last year it was decided that students would only need to present an ID and course registration to pick up their meals. But that doesn’t mean that the students who didn’t appear in person will go hungry; the staff members are there to make sure that everyone is fed. It’s a system that works well, and it allows the staff to focus on providing quality meals rather than worrying about who is present to eat.

In the end, the new system has proven to be a success. The students who used to feel uncertain about whether they would have enough to eat now have a dependable source of food. And for the staff members, it means that they can continue to provide delicious meals without worrying about whether the students will show up.

Whetstone's Drug Store
On the Corner Across from the Campus

What's installing a spanking new soda fountain and food equipment to better serve you — the student. Plan to meet your friends at Whet's for that morning, noon or evening snack. Since 1874, a traditional part of the University family.

Across the river from the main part of the State University of Iowa campus, near the University Hospital and the new medical dormitory for SUI nursing students, Westlawn is the newest residence hall of the University. Designed to house graduate students, Westlawn is equipped with all modern facilities.

Each of the three floors is divided into two suites, with 20 girls in each suite. Every suite is organized and represented in the nursing councils.

A relative new feature at Westlawn is the large Christmas reception held on the second floor. This year, the event was a huge success and plans are already underway for next year’s celebration.

Westlawn is located directly across from the University Hospital, making it a convenient location for students to attend classes and participate in campus activities. It is also conveniently located near several popular bars and restaurants, making it a popular destination for students and faculty alike.

For more information about Westlawn or to schedule a tour, contact the University Housing Office at (319) 335-3355.
Hillcrest Offers Room, Board to 535 Men

BY LARRY ALBEE

Hillcrest, the only men's residence hall on the University of Iowa campus, has recently opened its doors to 535 men. The facility, which was formerly a dormitory, has undergone extensive renovations and modernizations to meet the needs of today's students.

The new resident will soon find that Hillcrest offers many amenities not found in other dormitories. Here he can also grab a meal in the dining hall, participate in basketball, volleyball, and other activities, if they are so minded. If he is a late riser, he can have breakfast on the premises. Here, too, can he plan his studies and daily maid service, and get his mail and a variety of publications.

By 1960 Hillcrest will be connected by a new addition to the Quad, a popular residence area. In this addition will be a recreation room, a library, and a council chamber. The addition will also include a council chamber, a library, and a council chamber. The new addition will be a major addition to the Quad, and will be completed by the fall of 1960.

The Quad's popularity is due to the Quad's large size and its location in the center of campus. It is a bustling area, with many students and faculty members walking through it on a daily basis.

The Quad is also home to the University's social committee, which is responsible for planning events and activities. The committee is composed of the council and its various committees. The council elects, from its own members, a council president, a council vice-president, a council secretary, and a council treasurer. The council may go to a proctor for counseling and maintain order in the Quad. The council may also go to the university for counseling and maintain order in the Quad.

The social committee arranges for all-campus events, and the council may also go to the university for counseling and maintain order in the Quad. The council may also go to the university for counseling and maintain order in the Quad.

There are many different kinds of events and activities that take place in the Quad. There are social events, such as dances and other entertainments, and there are also cultural events, such as plays and concerts. The Quad is a popular place to study, and there are many students who are interested in studying there.

In addition to the council, each section has a resident who is responsible for the dormitory. This resident is there to help the residents with their problems. The resident also serves on the council.

Bureaus Get Jobs for Students

By JERRY BARGY

Whether you're a student looking for a part-time job to help pay your expenses or hoping for a career change, there are several options available to you at the University of Iowa.

The University of Iowa's student placement bureau provides about 2,000 part-time job opportunities each year for students and alumni. The bureau offers a wide range of positions across various industries, including retail, hospitality, healthcare, and finance.

MDH DOLL, director of the bureau, noted that the most visible example of the bureau's work is the placement of students and alumni into part-time positions. This includes internships, co-op programs, and full-time jobs.

In addition to the placement bureau, the university has a career center that offers resources and support to students and alumni in their job search. Students can access career services through the career center's website or by visiting the center in person.

The career center also collaborates with various employers to create job opportunities for students. These partnerships provide students with valuable work experience and can help them build their resumes.

Overall, the bureau and the career center play crucial roles in helping students transition from academia to the professional world. They offer valuable resources and connections to students looking to launch their careers.

Students Prepare by Teaching

Students who enter the State University of Iowa in the fall will begin their college careers by teaching, an essential part of any college education. This arrangement was brought about by the plan that has been in effect for several years. The system of college training and teaching was first instituted at the University of Iowa in 1853. Under this plan, students are required to teach during their entire college career, a practice that has been largely maintained today.

Established in 1913

Established in 1913, the Teacher Training Department is responsible for the implementation of this plan. The department has the following goals:

1. To provide students with practical teaching experience.
2. To prepare students for the teaching profession.
3. To foster a strong commitment to the teaching profession.
4. To promote the development of instructional skills.

In addition to the requirements for baccalaureate and graduate degrees, all students are required to complete a minimum of 12 semester hours in education. This includes at least one semester of student teaching.

Student Workshop Group Specializes in Creative Writing

Eagle, director of the workshop, and uses every method and current creative writing instruction available to produce fine work. In addition to the creative writing instruction, workshops also provide opportunities for students to develop skills in critical reading and analysis. The workshops encourage the development of critical thinking skills and the ability to analyze and evaluate literary works.

The workshops are open to all students, and they provide a supportive and collaborative environment for creative expression. The workshops are led by experienced instructors who provide feedback and guidance to help students improve their writing.

Scottish Highlanders To Begin 20th Big Year On University Campus

Lassies' Perform At Football Games, Charitable Events

By TOM HUNKE

Turning out more than 3,000 fans on both Saturdays when the Hawkeyes and the U.S. performed before upwards of 3,000,000 million people at select games last year, the University of Iowa’s Scottish Highlanders will be celebrating the 20th year on the Iowa campus this season.

The Highlanders, with nine men and sophomores, practice at games at which the registration for membership is open. Their activities have resulted in their recognition for work the Highlanders have done in nearly every state.

The men are under the direction of George (Binky) Adamson, who had experience as a corps instructor in the U.S. Army. Adamson added, however, that no student has ever been turned away from their activities.

Adamson said that the only requirement for joining is to have a love for and knowledge of the history and traditions of Scotland.

The group practices twice a week, Tuesday and Thursday, at the University of Iowa’s Recreation Building to prepare for their upcoming season.

The Highlanders have been invited to perform at events across the country and have traveled to places such as New York, Chicago, and Los Angeles. Adamson said that they typically perform at events such as parades, concerts, and theatrical productions.

The Highlanders are known for their traditional Scottish music and their skilled bagpipe playing, which they will showcase throughout the upcoming season.

They are expected to perform at a variety of events across the United States, including the St. Patrick’s Day parade in Chicago and other Scottish festivals.

The Highlanders are one of the largest groups on the University of Iowa campus, and their participation in various activities is highly anticipated by fans and the campus community.

Hawkeyes Face Tough 9-Game Football Schedule

"Ervy is Now Top Favorite With Hawks"

Because of his work in re-establishing Iowa football, Iowa Daily Iowan sports editor, Forrest Evoshaw, has been elevated to the top spot among sports writers in Iowa City. This move was made after the conclusion of the 1953 football season, and it is believed that this move will help the Hawkeyes in their efforts to win the Big Ten and one of the 123 all-western half-conferences.

 Armour is a New All-American

Fourth straight Iowa All-American football team in a row of three years of play, including 1952 and 1953, is a signal honor for the Big Ten and one of the 123 all-western half-conferences. The Armour team was named on the basis of the performance of the Hawkeye football team during the 1953 season. In the Big Ten and one of the 123 all-western half-conferences, the Armour team was named second in the Big Ten and one of the 123 all-western half-conferences.

looks forward to this year's football season

by Danny McFarland

You've seen Iowa football before, but this year there's a chance that you'll see something different. The Hawkeyes have a new coach, and there's a good chance that you haven't seen him before.

Happy birthday Iowa football team: Iowa's 3oth birthday is coming up, and the team is ready to celebrate. The Hawkeyes have been a part of Iowa's history for 30 years, and they're looking forward to making some more memories this season.

SUH OKECWEVE

Offensive coordinator Andy Hitchens, a former Iowa assistant coach, is looking forward to the season. He's excited about the team's potential, and he's confident that they can make some noise this year.

A few weeks before Iowa's birthday, Iowa's football team was on the practice field, getting ready for the season. The players were focused, and they were determined to make the most of their time together.

A big picture cost 100 years

The Hawkeyes are a proud tradition, and they've been around for a long time. They've been through some ups and downs, but they've never given up. This year, they're looking to prove that they still have what it takes to be one of the best teams in the country.

Backfield Depth: This Year

Back in 1951, Jerry Rechew and Cal Jones were two of the stars on the University of Iowa's football team. They were both All-Americans and helped lead the Hawkeyes to a Rose Bowl victory. Rechew was the team's leading receiver, while Jones was the team's leading rusher. The two players had a strong化学 in the classroom, with Rechew majoring in chemistry and Jones in journalism. Despite their success on the field, both players were humble and remained grounded throughout their time at Iowa.

Elliott--

Joe basketball teams have been "shorthanded" at times by having a few key players either in school or out due to injury. But such has not been the case with the basketball team this year. Joe Elliott, the head coach, has kept his team running smoothly, with only one or two players missing at any one time. He handles a course scheduled for the summer months, and is also the head coach of the junior varsity and high school teams. He has been able to keep all of his players in good condition.

Brown--

Brown has been a great basketball player for the past few years. He has been one of the best backcourt men in the state, and his work in the classroom has been exemplary. He is a hard worker, and his determination to succeed has been a source of inspiration to all who know him.

Elliott has lived in Bloomington since 1949, and basketball and football have been his life's passion. He got four in a row in 1946, and spent his senior year at the University of Michigan, where he was a member of the Forest Evy's basketball and football teams. He also spent his freshman year at Michigan, where he was a member of the Michigan State football team. He was called into the service in 1945, and spent three years in the service. He is now back in Bloomington, and is teaching at the junior high school. He is a member of the Bloomington High School faculty, and is also the head coach of the basketball team. Baseball Team Loses Leading Hitter, Pitcher; But Vogel Hopes To Have Better Team In '55

Shrewd, Smart, Genial
Describe Iowa's Vogel

Bruce Olive H. Vogel, who began the Iowa coaching job more than 21 years ago, recently was honored by a large audience attending the basketball banquet in the Big Ten. Iowa, finished second with 15-1-3 and ahead of Northwestern, which lost seven games. All the others will hold back for another year or so as the Hawkeye headman. This year, no less than 12 players, Bill Schofield, Bill Neuen, ralf Jenkins, and Don Neuen, will be leaving. At least seven are seniors entering the Big Ten.

Although it will be missing its leading hitter and leading pitcher, the 1955 Iowa baseball team is expected to be in the thick of the Big Ten race. And the Iowan was on top of his game in his first 18 seasons at Iowa. Vogel points out that the majority of the season will be back on his left arm, which was dislocated several times of Fall and his 280-topped lead in batting last season. The pitcher's hitting record was 331, a hit of the year's best mark. He was used mainly in relief.

Bucky O'Connor Transfers in Big Ten

In the first three seasons of the Big Ten, Iowa's basketball coach, Bucky O'Connor, has taken Iowa's basketball teams to a level where they are considered a serious contender for the conference championship. In his first season as head coach, Bucky O'Connor led the Hawkeyes to a second-place finish, and in his second season, they finished third. The Hawkeyes have been one of the top teams in the Big Ten in recent years, and O'Connor's teams have consistently performed well.

4 Sophs To Move Up To Bolster '54 Team

By ARLO JACOBSON

With virtually all of last year's starting lineup plus, at least four other men to make up Iowa's basketball starting five for the 1954-55 season, Hawkeye fans know their team, or at least part of it, will be a success. Coach Frank (Bucky) O'Connor has a nucleus of experienced players returning, a nucleus that should provide a solid foundation for the Hawkeyes' success this season.

In 1953, O'Connor's Hawkeyes finished third in the Big Ten with a 13-5 record. The team was led by two returning seniors, Bucky O'Connor, who took over the coaching job in 1951, and Tom Lough, who guided the team in 1950. The 1953 Hawkeyes were not expected to do well in the Big Ten, but they surprised many with their fifth-place finish.

In 1954, the Hawkeyes continued to improve, finishing second in the Big Ten with an 18-6 record. The team was led by three returning seniors, Bucky O'Connor, who took over the coaching job in 1951, and Tom Lough, who guided the team in 1950. The 1954 Hawkeyes were expected to do well in the Big Ten, and they did, finishing second in the conference.

The scholarship winners were Parnell Shenandoah, Earl High, Waterloo; Jerry Shenandoah, Fairfield High school, Davenport; Delmar Kline, Clinton; and Jim Young, West High school, Waterloo.

Scholar-athletes are named each year as nominees to the Nile Kloewer, and other Iowa prep and college athletes are selected by the Iowa State Chamber of Commerce. In 1954, the scholarships were held possible through contributions by friends of Nile Kloewer and the chamber for the university and ball teams.

Holzaepfel Optimistic About Coming Year; Good Crop of Sophs Returning

Iowa gymnastics coach Dick Holzaepfel seems very optimistic about the 1954-55 season, which begins in about a month. Of the eight men on the squad, only three are from last year's team, fewer than in any of the previous four seasons.

"We have three of the best prospects I've ever seen," says the Iowa gymnastics coach, who started varsity competition in this country in 1929. "I've had better than 90 in the all-around last year," he says, "but I've never been able to get a score above 90 in the team." Holzaepfel adds that he has high hopes for the 1954-55 season.

WSUI's 'School Of The Air' Heard By 95,000 Children

Children all over the state are being fed vital units throughout the school year through the transmissions of radio's mighty network-the School of the Air. Last year more than 1,200 schools in Iowa set up 3,100 classrooms where the total-to-total audience amounted to 95,000. This year schools make up the state, except for the city of Dubuque, are joining in this grand audio experiment. It is sponsored by an additional tool, the State Conservation Commission, an organization that has been functioning in the state for the past five years.

It is estimated that these programs will reach a total of 100,000 school children this year. The programs are being broadcast daily from 9:30 to 10:00 AM and 1:30 to 2:00 PM. These programs are being heard by children in all parts of the state, from the small rural districts to the large cities. The programs are intended to be educational and informative, and are designed to help children understand factual information and develop a love for learning.

The programs are produced by the state conservation commission, with assistance from the Iowa State University. The programs cover a wide range of topics, from science and nature to history and literature. The programs are broadcast by radio stations throughout the state, and are also available as downloads on the state conservation commission's website.

The School of the Air is a joint project of the state conservation commission, Iowa State University, and the Iowa Broadcast Network. The programs are produced by a team of professionals, including teachers, conservationists, and audio producers. The programs are designed to be engaging and informative, and are intended to help children develop a love for learning and a respect for the environment.

The School of the Air is made possible through the support of the state conservation commission, Iowa State University, and the Iowa Broadcast Network. The programs are broadcast daily from 9:30 to 10:00 AM and 1:30 to 2:00 PM. The programs are also available as downloads on the state conservation commission's website.
