

4 File for Council Right on Deadline

Four candidates filed Tuesday for the City Council election Nov. 5, beating the 5 p.m. deadline by seconds. All four are endorsed by the Council-Manager Association (CMA).

They are:
EMORY L. KELLEY, 1707 Muscatine Ave., president of a dry cleaning firm.

MRS. THELMA LEWIS, 300 Lucan Dr., wife of an SUI psychology professor.

RAY THORNBERRY, 654 S. Governor St., president of an awning company.

RICHARD T. FEDDERSON, 250 Black Springs Circle, auto dealer.

CMA officials delayed filing petitions for the candidates until they were certain no others had filed for the council race, Robert H. Lind, Sr., said. He is chairman of the CMA board of directors.

"We would have welcomed any competition," he explained, "but we didn't want to burden the people with the expense of a primary election."

If more than four candidates had filed, a primary would have been necessary Oct. 22 to narrow the field for the municipal election. Two council posts will be filled then.

A ballot filled entirely with pro-manager candidates means that Iowa City will not see the stormy campaigning of 1955 when a faction opposed to the city manager form of government attempted to gain office.

Led by former Iowa Atty. Gen. Edward O'Connor, the group called itself the Non-Partisan Taxpayers League (NPTL). They demanded the ouster of City Manager Peter F. Roan and an end to city manager government in Iowa City.

The NPTL candidates were soundly defeated in the municipal election, a seeming indication of public support for the city manager government adopted here in 1950.

Lind released a statement Tuesday for the four candidates which said they "are not running against each other." But he added there would be "a certain amount of campaigning."

"There will be speeches," he said, "and the candidates will present their ideas on city government."

Lind asserted all four are "highly qualified" in the eyes of the CMA organization and are "dedicated to the principle of council-manager government."

"The selection of any two will provide Iowa City with the assurance of continued good management of municipal affairs."

The statement by the candidates reads:

"We have consented to run for the City Council for two reasons. "1. The council should be made up of persons dedicated to the principle that council-manager government has proven its effectiveness in Iowa City."

"2. The voters should have a choice among several candidates. We are not, therefore, running against each other. We are running for the two positions so the voter may have a choice."

All four candidates have been active in Iowa City business or civic activities over the past years. Kelley, 51, is a graduate of Iowa City High School and attended SUI and the University of Wisconsin. A resident here 49 years, he served as a civilian adviser to the Army special services during World War II.

Mrs. Lewis, a resident here since 1931, is a past vice-president of the Iowa League of Women Voters. In 1947 she was a delegate to the council of foreign ministers meeting in Moscow. She served with the U.S. State Department during World War II.

Thornberry, a resident here since 1940, is a director of the Chamber of Commerce. He is a native of the Pocahontas area and attended Cornell College.

Feddersen, 38, is a graduate of SUI and permanent president of the liberal arts class of 1941. He is a colonel in the Army Reserve and a member of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The successful candidates will fill the posts of Councilman Dale W. Welt and Mayor Leroy S. Mercer. Both announced earlier they would not seek re-election.

Holdover councilmen are George P. Dvorsky, Louis Loria and Prof. Philip F. Morgan, SUI Engineering Department.

Ground Power Could Shut Batteries Off

By WILMOT HERCHER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Naval Research Laboratory reported Tuesday night it has not received a radio signal from the Soviet satellite since 4 p.m. (EDT). It said indications are that the satellite's radio batteries have been exhausted.

At the same time a Navy spokesman conceded the batteries might be recharging or even that radio transmissions might have been cut off by Russian scientists directing the historic experiment.

"You would almost have to be up there to know," the spokesman said. "It is possible to turn them (the batteries) off and on; we have considered it for our own satellites."

The Navy's loss of the satellite's radio signal followed reports from listening stations in other parts of the world that the speeding sphere had quit beeping.

A Moscow radio report picked up in London acknowledged that signals from the satellite may stop due to exhaustion of its batteries. But it announced observations will continue "with the aid of optical instruments and radio locating stations."

Prof. A. A. Blagonravov, a Soviet scientist visiting Washington, said last Saturday he thought the batteries would last more than two weeks.

RCA communications in New York reported their monitoring indicated that a part of the satellite's radio mechanism may have broken down—although the possibility of some Russian ground control was also raised in this connection.

The Navy's minitrack headquarters sent a message to all ships and stations requesting continued monitoring for a 12-hour period.

Phi Epsilon Pi Wins Scholarship Trophy

Phi Epsilon Pi Tuesday was awarded the Sigma Chi Foundation Trophy as the social fraternity with the highest scholastic average for the school year 1956-57, with an average of 2.53.

The award was presented at the second annual Inter-Fraternity Scholarship Banquet, held by the Inter-Fraternity Scholarship Committee.

Also awarded were: Pledge Scholarship Trophy, to Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity; and Scholastic Improvement Trophy, to Delta Chi social fraternity.

The Scholarship Committee also announced the election of two new members to Phi Alpha Mu, honorary scholastic society for fraternity men. Elected were D. T. Doan, L. Hillsboro and Bill Whitney, A.S. Aurelia.

Membership in Phi Alpha Mu requires a 3.6 grade average for 60 semester hours at SUI, and membership in a social fraternity.

Featured speaker at the banquet was Dr. William C. Lang, head of the department of social science at Iowa State Teachers College.

Remember!

Student fees must be paid by Friday, Oct. 11. A fine of $2 will be assessed Oct. 14 for late payment and $1 will be added each day thereafter. Fees may be paid on or after dates listed on the following schedule:

A to F — Oct. 8. G to L — Oct. 9. M to R — Oct. 10. S to Z — Oct. 11.

Fees should be paid at the treasurer's office in the basement of University Hall.

CANCER SOCIETY MEETS

DES MOINES (AP) — A former U.S. State Department official and a University of Wisconsin researcher will be the featured speakers at the annual meeting of the Iowa division, American Cancer Society here Oct. 12-13.

John D. Healy, executive director of the Iowa division and former cultural officer for the State Department in Germany and Iran, will speak Saturday evening on "International Politics in Our Own Backyards."

U.N. Debate Planned for Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — At the urging of both the United States and Russia, the United Nations agreed Tuesday to begin immediate detailed debate on disarmament.

The action was taken in the 82nd annual Political Committee, where U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge declared:

"We want no time lost in discussing disarmament, the most urgent problem of this Assembly."

Soviet Dep. Foreign Minister V. V. Kuznetsov declared that "The most important, the most urgent issue before us is a solution of the disarmament problem."

While the Soviet Union and the United States were in rare agreement on procedure, they remained far apart on how to achieve disarmament.

The debate will begin Thursday. Before the committee acted, India's V. K. Krishna Menon urged in the General Assembly that the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain express joint willingness to suspend nuclear tests as a first step toward disarmament in the new "international planetary age."

SUI's Kirk Porter:— Interim Committee's Powers Questioned

Prof. Kirk Porter, head of the SUI political science department, questioned the powers of the Interim Committee Tuesday after Gov. Herschel Loveless said a special session of the Legislature is unnecessary to provide funds for capital improvements under a new plan advanced by an Iowa State College economist.

Dr. W. G. Murray, ISC, suggested that perhaps $500,000 could be provided in a special session to finance plans, blueprints, and specifications for needed new buildings, especially at state educational institutions.

Murray, a possible Republican candidate for governor next year, said money for construction could be provided by a later regular session. He pointed out that it takes considerable time to prepare plans before construction money is needed.

Gov. Loveless stated that a special session would not be necessary. He said the Iowa Legislative Interim Committee could authorize use of some of its $2 million fund for the planning.

"I do not presume to contradict the Governor, who has doubtless had legal consultation on the matter," Prof. Porter said, "but I would not have supposed that it was possible."

"It is my opinion that this was not the kind of thing for which the Interim Committee would or could use its funds."

The Interim Committee was originally set up to meet emergency situations in the various state departments, Prof. Porter explained. He gave as an example the first in the SUI chemistry building in 1953.

"The committee was to take care of things for which the legislature could not have planned," Prof. Porter said. "Such a committee is necessary when the legislature does not sit for such long periods of time (once every two years)."

Prof. Porter said the authorization of the Committee is exceedingly broad and their powers have been construed broadly.

Possibly the $500,000 plan fund could be authorized by the Interim Committee, Prof. Porter said, but, in his opinion, a special session of the Legislature would be necessary.

Weather

SHOWERS

It's showers and cooler for Iowa City, the weatherman says. Highs will be in the high 50s after Tuesday night's low of 51.

The outlook for Thursday is partly cloudy and cool as a cold front moves into Iowa from the northwest.

Airplanes Obsolete: Khrushchev

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev said Tuesday manned warplanes are no match for Russia's intercontinental ballistic missile.

"The age of bombers is over. They might as well put bombers and fighters in the museum," he commented, citing Soviet scientific achievements.

"Our intercontinental ballistic rocket shows that it is no good sending humanly controlled machines against missiles."

The Communist party chief's words were reported by two British members of Parliament who talked with him 80 minutes.

They quoted Khrushchev as saying "it is dangerous" for the United States to take the view it is dealing with a peasant country.

The British MPs, Conservatives Cyril Osborne and Capt. Henry Kerby, said Khrushchev told them ICBM is "only one of the many things we are doing."

Asserting this missile has made warplanes obsolete, Khrushchev said:

"This all points to the fact we have even more things up our sleeves. You can't send human flesh and blood to fight things like that."

Tuesday's cases numbered less than 30, bringing the total number of flu cases between Sept. 17 and Oct. 7 to about 910. Some of the students were confined to bed in the student infirmary and in special wards prepared in advance as a precautionary measure. Most were instructed to remain in their rooms and rest.

Although tests have indicated that some of the students had an Asian flu type of ailment, University physicians are not certain as to the exact number of cases falling into this classification.

Dr. Miller points out that knowing precisely the virus involved is not as important as starting early treatment and care. There is little if any variation in treatment for the various types of flu.

The physician hopes that the worst is over for SUI students, although he explains that another "wave" could develop later in the year or during the early months of 1958.

There is a possibility that the immunity being built up in students currently having or being exposed to the flu would soften the effects of a second flare-up on the campus, he said.

Dr. Miller's talk before the Hardin County physicians was on the general topic of virus infections, with emphasis upon flu and infectious mononucleosis, a relatively common disease among young adults. Early symptoms of "infectious mono," as it is popularly called, are those common to many disorders such as ordinary colds, sore throat and flu.

Demo Urges 'Crash' Plan For Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.), called on Congress Tuesday to strip the separate armed forces of responsibility for developing missiles and satellites. He said a new super-organization should be created to do the job.

Mansfield joined other congressional Democrats in a growing chorus of complaints that rivalry among the services may have given Russia a priceless lead in reaching into space with deadly rockets and trail-blazing baby moons.

The Montanan, assistant Democratic leader of the Senate, said in an interview that he understands hundreds of millions of dollars have been wasted on overlapping projects by the Army, Navy and Air Force.

He said an agency like the one that developed the atomic bomb during World War II would provide "coordination and concentration" on the problem of mastering space for peace and war.

Satellite Talk

"Implications in the Russian Launching of an Earth Satellite" will be the topic of a panel discussion at 7 p.m. today on SUI radio station WSUI, heard at 910 kilocycles.

Professors Vernon Van Dyke (political science), Arthur Mendel (Russian history) and Frank McDonald (physics) will join Col. Charles G. Kirk, head of air science and tactics at SUI, in the half-hour discussion.

It said the Navy's worldwide string of listening posts would continue to operate for at least another 24 hours in hopes of picking up fresh signals.

Changes in the eerie voice of the Russian man-made moon led to widespread scientific speculation.

Dr. Hans Karl Paetzold, a leading German scientist, said the speeding sphere appeared to be losing altitude and might strike the earth's denser atmosphere within hours and burn up.

Synchronized Swim— Coeds Tryout for Seals Club

More than 40 eager SUI girls this year will again try to meet the strict qualifications for membership in the SUI Seals Club.

Tuesday night the girls displayed their swimming talents to the old members of the club who will decide who will take part in the traditional Seals show presented by the club on Mother's Day weekend next May.

To the strains of soft waltz music, the girls showed their ability in synchronized swimming and the difficult movements of water ballet.

Visitors in the Women's Gym swimming pool Tuesday night saw daring stunts such as back dolphin, kip and ballet leg. The girls seemed to enjoy themselves.

"Although our tryouts look like fun," Diane Cherry, A2, Cincinnati, O., publicity chairman of the Seals Club, said, "it is hard work."

The Seals Club is the oldest existing club on the SUI campus. Seal's shows have been featured since 1921. The club is sponsored by the Women's Recreation Department.

Last year the Seals Club had 50 members and about the same number of girls are expected to take part in activities this year.

Until Mother's Day weekend, May 2 and 3, 1958, the girls will be pretty busy, Miss Cherry said.

Sputnik Signals

SHENANDOAH (AP) — Two Shenandoah amateur radio operators reported Tuesday night that they had picked up what appeared to them to be the signal of the Russian satellite.

The men are Curly Dale, an amateur announcer for radio station KFNH, and Wilson Bartels. They said that at about 8:10 p.m. they picked up on 20 megacycles a chirping sound that sounded like the signal for the letter F. At the time they were manning equipment at the home of Bartels.

Station KFNH later broadcast a recording made at the Bartels home.

Iowa Polio Cases

DES MOINES (AP) — Two new cases of polio reported in Iowa last week brought the total so far this year to 72, the State Health Department reported Tuesday.

That compares with 523 cases reported by this time last year. Of the 72 cases reported so far this year, only 14 were diagnosed as paralytic polio, with 53 non-paralytic and 5 unspecified. The new cases were in Black Hawk and Plymouth counties.

PASSPORT TROUBLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eighteen American students who defied a State Department travel ban to visit Red China have refused to hand over their passports to American Embassy officials.

Dulles Set to Talk With Reds on Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles disclosed Tuesday night after meeting with President Eisenhower that the United States is ready to talk with Russia about international control of space missiles.

However, Dulles held to the U.S. position that any such talks would have to be held within the United Nations.

Dulles told newsmen at the White House the United States is hopeful Russia will accept a Western proposal to study means of making space objects sent through outer space will be used only for peaceful purposes.

In what appeared to be a major reversal of U.S. policy, Dulles offered to consider space control apart from the highly controversial questions in the West's Aug. 29 disarmament package plan.

Dulles made this offer less than six hours after a State Department spokesman had said any talks with Russia about international control of space missiles would have to be part of the package plan.

Dulles' comments, as well as those from the State Department earlier, were in reaction to a proposal by Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev.

Mortar Board Doughnut Sale

Donuts and more donuts will be on hand today since the Mortar Board is holding their annual Donut Day.

Mortar Board members will sell donuts around the SUI campus. This sale has become a tradition of Mortar Board on this campus for many years.

82 dozen donuts have been sold to housing units for breakfast.

Carol Crawford, A4, Iowa City, is in charge of the sale.

"This Is Where The Last One Goes"

King Features Syndicate

1985

EDITOR'S NOTE: The editorial below and the one appearing in tomorrow's editorial column are reprinted by popular demand from two July issues of The Daily Iowan.

(With apologies to George Orwell)

It was a crisp fall day in 1985, and the sun was just beginning to rise over the eastern horizon as Karl Kampus and Caren Cood pulled into a parking space relatively close to their campus. It was metered, to be sure, but they were determined to make their 8:30 class.

"We were lucky to find one this close," Karl said, getting out of the car.

Caren's eyes opened wide in amazement as she watched Karl stuff a $32 bill into the shiny new meter in front of his car.

Caren was new at the University so Karl explained that this was one of the cheaper meters.

"Of course," Karl said, "we can only park here legally for 49 minutes."

Amazed, Caren reminded him that classes were 50 minutes long.

"That's right," Karl chuckled. "Some joke, huh?"

As Karl thought this over, he decided it was such a great joke that he burst into uncontrolled laughter. In fact, he almost cried.

"But what happens when the meter runs out?" Caren asked innocently, obviously pretending she didn't see what was so funny.

"They give us tickets," Karl said (by now he actually WAS crying). "Tickets for things like street storage, littering a public thoroughfare, casting a shadow . . ."

"But why do they charge so much for parking in the first place?" Caren asked.

Regaining his composure, Karl shrugged. "We're students," he said simply.

Karl then went on to explain that the city had decided to hit the students in the pocket-book because the University had seemed unable to come up with any other means of combatting the rising number of student cars.

"But why don't they just limit undergraduate cars?" Caren asked, with typical idiotic feminine logic.

Karl pointed to a small sign hung on the meter which said in bold letters that glowed in the dark:

"The Freshmores Are Watching You!"

"Not so loud," Karl whispered. "They're everywhere."

"Why are the Freshmores so important?" Caren whispered back.

Karl's face went blank as he realized he had never thought about this before. A vague memory stirred in his subconscious and he seemed to remember something about a Student Council asking the same question.

"We shouldn't be talking like this," he said, erasing the troublesome memory.

Just then a Freshmore drove by in three cars and Karl wondered if he should be seen with Caren. On the other hand, he wasn't certain he could trust her. Perhaps the Freshmores were testing him.

But no, it couldn't be. As he looked into her eyes, he knew she was just a simple mixed-up kid who had been unfortunate enough to take undergraduate work at the University of Minneapolis. He knew she was just a simple mixed-up kid who had been unfortunate enough to take undergraduate work at the University of Minneapolis.

Caren interrupted his thoughts.

"Why," she asked again in a loud voice, "Why are Freshmores so important?"

Out of the corner of his eye, Karl noticed a passing Freshmore scrutinizing them.

"You're right, Caren," Karl said quickly to change the subject. "The University's absolutely correct in studying the problem carefully before taking any drastic action."

At this, the Freshmore was reassured of Karl and Caren's faith in University policy.

He smiled, got into his 7 cars, and drove off.

Karl watched the cars fade into the distance.

"You've got to be more careful what you say," he said.

Fascinated, Caren watched as Karl stuffed a $69 bill into a shiny new meter which had just sprouted from the other shiny meter.

"When did the City put in all these meters, anyway?" Caren asked.

Karl explained that it began back in 1957 while the University parking committee was studying the situation.

"They're still studying the situation," Karl said.

Caren's brows furrowed in deep thought as Karl squeezed his last ounce of blood into a reservoir attached to the shiny new meter's shiny new meter.

A moment later, the two students climbed aboard a passing bus for the 26-mile ride from the Cedar Rapids airport - where they were parked - to their class in Apathy Hall.

Karl was silent most of the trip, wondering if Caren would ever learn the ways of her adopted campus.

Later, as they stepped from the bus, Caren looked at Karl with troubled eyes.

"I guess I just don't understand," she said. Breathing a sigh of relief, Karl took her hand in his.

"I knew you'd come around to our way of thinking," he said.

Capital Improvements

Iowa needs a special session to re-enact money for capital improvements. That has been the position taken by the SUI Student Council as representatives of the 10,200 students here on campus.

The Student Council has delved seriously into the entire problem of capital appropriations ever since a proposal was launched last spring to raise tuition fees and allocate a portion of them to provide the needed funds. This "Senate File 4" bill died in the House Sifting Committee of the last General Assembly. Since then the Council has taken the following steps:

—PROTESTED the plan the raise tuition to provide capital funds without a guarantee from the legislature for replacement.

—PROTESTED the Governor's veto of the building appropriation.

—SENT representatives to Des Moines last June to discuss the possibilities of a special session with Governor Herschel C. Loveless.

—EMBARKED on a program of making the student aware of the serious nature of the current building crisis.

Yet these actions by the Student Council can only be as effective as the entire student body wishes them to be. The role of the student in relation to the capital improvements problem can be crucial. If the students remain indifferent to this problem, a powerful progressive element of the state falls in its duty to Iowa's future.

THE IMPORTANCE of a firm student voice urging a special session has implications extending far beyond the limited perspective of campus life. When the current student body enters the general stream of the Iowa community, their attitudes toward establishing a sound, long-range capital improvements program will be an important factor in this state's attempt to more adequately support higher education in Iowa.

Today students are becoming more aware of the present crisis — partially through various political allegiances in the state-wide debate on the question, and partially through the dismal impression which the physical plant makes on any SUIowan.

AMONG THE SPECIFIC projects of immediate need during the 1957-1967 period are: a new law center and necessary equipment; extensive utilities; a volatile solvent storage building and equipment; a pharmacy building and equipment; an additional wing to the chemistry building, and improvements at the lakeside laboratory. Some of this $6,250,000 was in the appropriation measure vetoed by the Governor.

The long-term needs of SUI include the following: 1. PERMANENT buildings must be constructed to accommodate activities now housed in temporary and obsolete buildings. Present operations now use 96,749 square feet of floor space in temporary buildings and 408,413 square feet of floor space in obsolete buildings. Estimated replacement cost — $5,130,000.

2. NEW BUILDINGS and additions to present buildings are needed to provide expanded facilities for offices, laboratories, auditoriums, classrooms, etc., for the additional enrollment expected. Estimated needs: 353,000 square feet. Estimated cost — $8,830,000.

Novel Tactics

Race Track Campaigning Is Most Successful

By GEORGE DIXON

King Features Syndicate

WASHINGTON — I had the privilege of observing one of our more solid senators campaign for re-election at a racetrack the other day, and it was an educational and absorbing experience. In fact I became so fascinated with the political-haymaking of Senator J. Glenn Beall, of Maryland, that I almost forgot to go to the windows a couple of times to lose money.

The scene of this unorthodox electioneering was the Fairgo track, at Cumberland, Md., a picturesque half-mile in the Alleghenies near the headwaters of the Potomac. Thumbing through the official program, I noted that the President of the track was J. Glenn Beall; and the Treasurer, J. Glenn Beall, Jr.

I was sure it must be a couple of other J. Glenn Bealls, because United States Senators and their families simply do not own race-tracks, especially those where the parliament meets. In fact, I know senators who wear smoked glasses to racetracks and sneak to the betting windows for fear a voter from home may be watching. I told Senator Beall I knew he couldn't be the head man of this horse parlor, but to my surprise he said he was; and that the track treasurer was his eldest son. He said that alliance with horse racing was a political liability in almost every other state of the union, but that in Maryland it was an asset.

Well, you might think this was enough new knowledge for me to encompass in one day, but I am greedy. I asked Senator Beall why he was campaigning in an off year when he didn't come up for re-election until the fall of 1958.

"This is the right time to campaign," he replied with disarming frankness. "People invite me to places to speak now. Next year, when I'm a candidate they won't be so anxious to hear me."

"Now they put me on the radio free and the newspapers report my speeches. Next fall they'll be wanting me to pay for the radio time, and the papers will be throwing most of my speeches in the waste-basket."

I said I was receiving a new insight into the operations of practical politics. Senator Beall said that a major reason for the defeat of many unsuccessful candidates is that they start campaigning too late.

It was quite an experience to follow the lawmaker around the track. Also with him was Rep. James Patrick Sinnott Devereux, a retired Marine brigadier general. Track patrons kept greeting Rep. Devereux with "Hello, Governor!" and I asked the ex-Marine what he was governor of. He said he was thinking of running for governor of Maryland, and the trackgoers were merely being premature.

I asked him if he considered campaigning at a racetrack to be rewarding and he said if he had a choice of rewards he would take the daily double.

I met many other interesting people with Senator Beall, among them John J. McMullen, distinguished publisher of the Cumberland Times and News. Mr. McMullen is a Democrat, but he went into an earnest huddle with the GOP senator. I trust, however, that publisher McMullen was not shaken in his political convictions.

General Notices

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 201, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

SOCIOLOGY AND ANTHROPOLOGY COLLOQUIUM — An organizational meeting Thursday, Oct. 10, at 7:30 p.m. in 305 Macbride Hall.

RECREATIONAL SWIMMING — Monday through Friday, 4:15-5:15 at the Women's Gymnasium. All women students are invited.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS, INC. — Students interested in filling an unexpired term on the Board of Student Publications, Inc., should apply by mail to Student Trustees, 205 Communication Center, by Oct. 11.

The letter should include year in school, college, grade point average, present and past college activities, past journalistic experience (if any), and the applicant's reasons for wishing to be on the board.

BOOK EXCHANGE — Anyone who was unable to pick up his money or unsold books at the student book exchange may do so Oct. 14 at the Student Council office by the Pentacrest Room in the Iowa Memorial Union from 1:15 to 5:00 p.m. Complaints may be registered at the same time. Bring your receipt cards with you.

FULBRIGHT PROGRAM — Applications for study abroad during the 1958-59 academic year under the United States Fulbright Program must be completed by Nov. 1. Applications may be obtained from Mr. W. Wallace Maner, 311 University Hall.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS — Applicants for two years' study at Oxford are offered to unmarried men students with junior, senior or graduate standing. Nominees will be selected in mid-October. Potential candidates should confer with B. R. Dunlap, 301-1 University Hall, 322B.

COOPERATIVE BABY-SITTING LEAGUE — The University Cooperative Baby-sitting League book will be in the charge of Mrs. Frank Nelson from October 1 to October 15. Telephone her at 8-4420 if a sitter or information about joining the group is desired.

STUDENT RECREATION — The North Gymnasium of the Field House will be opened for student recreational use on all Saturdays on which there are no home football games scheduled. Hours are from 1:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Saturday and from 1:30 to 4:00 on Fridays. Students must present their I.D. cards at the cage door in order to gain admittance. The Weight Training Room will be open Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays between the hours of 3:30 and 5:00 p.m.

BLUE CROSS — Staff members who wish to join the Blue Cross Blue Shield program have until Friday, Oct. 11, to fill out the necessary application forms in the SUI Personnel office.

SENIOR AND GRADUATE MEN AND WOMEN — (Except Engineering Students) who expect to receive degrees at one of the 1958 Convocations and who are interested in business and industrial positions should take advantage of the services of the Business and Industrial Placement Office. Registration papers should be picked up immediately. People graduating in February should have their papers completed by mid-October and those graduating in June or August should have their papers completed before Christmas vacation. Employers coming to the campus want to see all graduates, regardless of military status.

PH.D. "TOOL" EXAMS — The "tool" examination in Economics will be given in Room 210 Old Dental Building beginning at 1 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 14. Students expecting to take this examination should notify the secretary, Room 220 University Hall by October 9.

The "tool" examination in Business at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 15. Students expecting to take this examination should notify the secretary, Room 106 University Hall, by October 10.

The "tool" examination in Accounting will be given in 1 CSTC (Clinton Street Temporary C) beginning at 1 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 16. Students expecting to take this examination should notify the secretary, Room 213 University Club Rooms, by October 11.

I went over to the stadium the other day to look up some long lost trees. . . found the trees and also discovered that football is back, yep, you can smell it.

I was rather impressed with the reaction of the student body to the Washington state game. It seems that the cheering section has finally changed its embalmment fluid. There were a lot of spirits in the crowd, let's hope the students will keep high for the next game.

After the Utah state game, I heard it said that the only time the cheerleaders lead cheers, was when they were cold, of course, the lack of spirit hasn't been all the fault of the cheerleaders. They were able to get more noise out of me during a rehearsal than they did out of the whole student section during the Utah state game . . . and I've been dead for three months.

I understand that the communications skills department is trying to ban the present cheers as being a contributor to poor english and mumbling on campus . . . and the board of regents is trying to ban them for being immoral, therefore the suggestion is being forwarded to the pep club, to find another literature three year old to write some new cheers.

I have to give the highlanders and band credit . . . without their pageantry and the applause they get from those outside the student section . . . another Utah state fiasco will compel the pep club to hire someone to go around and wake up the card section just before the half. Credit and undying gratitude must also be given to those nine people in the student section who sang the words to "old gold" at the last game.

but I don't know what to do about those people who kept yelling e-o-wa-wa during the last quarter of the Washington state game. It was an exciting game, and every one probably wanted to e-o-wa-wa, but there's no sense in making a spectacle of yourself. Directions to the appropriate places are listed in the scorecard under "Iowa stadium information."

Yesterday I wandered over to a football practice, even though the team has been hard hit by flu. Most of the players looked in good condition, and those survivors and refugees from student health were giving their all . . . all over the field.

reno sessi was the surprise of the Utah state game, now I understand the coaches have another surprise for the Indiana game. His name is baby-face salary.

baby-face is only seven years old, but it's ok because he's married and has a kid. He makes up for his youth in size. Baby-face is two feet seven and weighs 287 pounds . . . he's all heart and sharp as a bullet. Baby-face will be playing end, he's not like some athletes, after signing up for the team with his bold, it was discovered that he has a phi beta kappa key, a mortar board key, and a key to the Macbride hall women's room, yes, he's all heart.

If things go rough, rumor has it that a fellow who just regained his eligibility has athletes foot up to his knees. His job would be to walk through the opponent's dressing room each week.

and don't forget to look for my canine companions at the homecoming game . . . we're already practicing running onto the field at the crucial time, I sometimes think that sui's canine corp has more school spirit than many suiowans.

'What's a Tpk?'

By W. G. ROGERS

Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — If you take your little daughter for a ride on the Merritt Parkway and a sign reads "Tpk" and she asks, "what's a Tpk?" and five years later you write a poem called "Do you plan to speak Bantui?" then your name is Ogden Nash.

The poem, embellished with other items like "twp" and "mdse" to baffle the eye and twist the tongue, recently appeared in Nash's "You Can't Get There From Here," his sixth volume of verse.

They are all in print too. For Nash, a round-faced, bespectacled fellow, a grandpa, with a touch of gray, a broad mouth and a ready smile and laugh, is one of the few men who lives in comfort and some luxury from the money he gets writing poetry.

"I work four or five hours a day," he says. "I'm not very energetic. I lecture. I have been doing a TV program. Once in a while there's an advertising job."

Put it to a vote, and Nash would certainly win as the funniest versifier in English today. I'd vote for him too.

"But I was very serious when I began," he says. "I wrote sonnets, poignant pain. That was what the people I read wrote about too: Keats, Shelley, Byron, the classical English poets from the Elizabethan to the Victorian."

No one flouts the rules of poetry so subtly and wittily without of course being solidly grounded in those rules, and Nash knows the poetic conventions with a scholarly thoroughness or he couldn't play fast and loose with them so entertainingly. He does not clown, he's a wit.

How did he get from heavy to light? "I thought I'd better laugh at myself before anyone else laughed at me. I remembered all the sonnets I wrote for 'The Dragon,' the magazine published at the son of Hugh E. Fletcher, 807 E. St. George's School that I attended Fairchild, Iowa City."

in Rhode Island. I'd kept on with that kind of writing too."

He didn't earn money at that? Not a penny.

"I went to Harvard for a year and then the family fortunes collapsed. I tried Wall Street, then Dumbledays for seven or eight years, and then I sold my first poem, in my late 20s. It was a topical piece, 'Invocation,' about 'Senator Smoot (Republican, Utah)' who 'was planning a ban on snut.'"

Nash's rhymes are plays on words at the same time that they are near rhymes: Madison and medicine, the "Audubon that I audubon," and the name Satchell used for "several."

"Sometimes," he says, "a poem is suggested by some human foible" — for all his joking, he is a fond but penetrating critic of his society — "and sometimes by the play on words. I'm very fond of the English language. I tease it, and you tease only the thing you love."

YOUTH GETS 100 YEARS

CHICAGO (AP) — Five youths pleaded guilty Monday to the robbery murder of a 54-year-old man. One received a 100-year prison sentence.

He is Donald Ware, 21, who admitted firing the shot that killed Patrick Callinan, a patron in a tavern which the Negro youths attempted to rob May 28.

The shooting occurred in a West Side tavern.

William Derrig, an off-duty policeman and friend of Callinan, exchanged shots with Ware.

Community Players Present Wilder's 'Our Town'

THOUGHTS OF LOVE fill the heads of George Gibbs (Richard Norris) and Emily Webb (Helen Bocken- thien) above, as they sit in their "rooms" at home gazing at the moonlight. In center stage, Mrs. Gibbs, Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Soames (Betty McNally, Mrs. Edward Lucas and Mrs. Hood Gardner) stop to gossip.

Imaginative Play Opens Thursday

Imagination will be the keyword Thursday and Friday when the Iowa City Community Theatre presents the Pulitzer Prize winning play "Our Town."

Stage props will be limited mainly to three step ladders and the audience will have to use its imagination to visualize other settings. The few other props used will be changed in full view of the audience.

Performances of the Thornton Wilder play will begin at 8 p.m. in Iowa City High School Auditorium. The story concerns the search for understanding and more superficially, the love and marriage of two of the town's young people.

The play boasts a cast of 40, including many prominent Iowa City-ans such as the Rev. P. Hewison Pollock, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and Oliver A. White, chief of police. The Iowa City Community Chorus will also take part in the production.

Tickets, available at Jackson Electric Co. and Whetstone's, are one dollar.

Jack Sobel Gets 7 Years For Spying

NEW YORK — Jack Sobel, who for a decade headed one of Russia's biggest spy rings in this country, was sentenced Tuesday to seven years in prison.

He could have gotten 10 years. But Sobel, after his arrest last Jan. 26, underwent an apparently complete change of heart. He said he deeply regretted betraying his adopted country and helped federal authorities trace the far-flung web of the espionage ring.

Sobel's wife, Myra, 53, and Jacob Albam, 64, another conspirator, had previously been sentenced to five and a half years in prison.

Federal Judge Richard Levet Tuesday reduced Mrs. Sobel's sentence to four years and Albam's to five.

The Sobels, seated close together in court, glanced nervously at each other. Albam seemed stunned.

Levet said "there is, I believe, strong indication of remorse on the part of these defendants in varying degrees. . . . Rehabilitation is not a factor here. . . . In this instance we must aim at protection of society and deterrence."

Savings and Loan Associations Are Quadrupled

DES MOINES — During the last 10 years Iowa savings and loan associations have quadrupled in size, U.S. Rep. H. O. Talle (R-Iowa) said Tuesday.

Talle said assets of the associations have grown from 117 million dollars to 463 million in that period. He spoke at the convention of the Iowa Savings and Loan League here.

The growth has been accompanied by a shift of the assets to place a greater percentage in first mortgages while a smaller relative amount was kept in government bonds and cash, he said.

This makes the position of the associations less liquid and indicates that care should be taken to keep the trend within safe limits, Talle said.

Choke Up—Phooey!

MILWAUKEE — Whether or not the Milwaukee Braves win the 1957 World Series, they certainly can not be called a "choke up" team.

Although it appeared that they might fold under the tremendous pressure put on them by the St. Louis Cardinals in the last few games of the season, they won when they had to.

However, the Braves impressed me even more during the three games in Milwaukee. They took a sound wallop on Saturday as the Yankees pounded them, 12-3. But they came back on Sunday in sensational fashion, beating the Yanks at their own game, the home run.

They had the game seemingly won in the ninth, when leading 4-1, Elston Howard followed singles by Yogi Berra and Gil McDougald with a long home run to tie the count. Then a more discouraging blow came in the tenth when Hank Bauer's triple put the Yanks in front, 5-4.

If a team was ever going to fold, that was the time. But the Braves bounced right back. Nippy Jones was hit on the toe by Yankee hurler Tommy Byrne. Red Schoendienst sacrificed pinch runner Felix Mantilla to second where he scored on Johnny Logan's line double to left. Then Eddie Mathews finished it with a long blast to right that sent Milwaukee fans wild.

Lou Burdette then added injury to insult to the proud Yanks by shutting them out, 1-0, on Monday.

Talking to Eddie Mathews in the Braves' clubhouse after Sunday's game, Ed said that although the Yankees had gone ahead in the tenth, the spirit had not gone down in the Milwaukee dugout.

"The chatter was still there," said Eddie. "This ball club doesn't get down. The Yankees going ahead didn't get our spirits down, it just made us mad."

Another locker room observer was talking about the Braves. The observer, Joe Garagiola, former major league catcher and now St. Louis Cardinal announcer said, "The thing that gets me about this team is that they're not whooping it up. They're a team and they know they have another game to win."

Maybe the Braves will blow sky high today or tomorrow, but I don't think so. At least, they sure didn't show it in Milwaukee.

I WAS PARTICULARLY happy to see Eddie Mathews get the game winning blast against the Yankees Sunday. Eddie hadn't had a hit up until then. Before the game, he was discussing it with us. "I sure would like to get a hit," said Ed. "It's about time." He didn't appear tense like someone might when there's that much pressure on you; he seemed real relaxed, as though it were going to be his day, and it was.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST laughs during the Series was before Sunday's game. Several writers cornered Hank Aaron and were ribbing him about not catching Gil McDougald's long fly in the first inning of Saturday's game. Pictures afterward made it appear Aaron dropped the ball.

Said Henry: "Sure, I caught the ball, why should I lie to you, I know when I catch a ball." He was then asked if it should ever happen that he would trap a ball that the umpires thought he caught, would he tell them he trapped it?

Aaron hesitated for quite a while, then finally replied, laughing: "Well, I'd tell Mr. Haney (the Braves manager)." The way he answered really sent the scribes away laughing.

THE BRAVES' FANS really love their ball club. The games are the center of everyone's attention and you can go nowhere without hearing talk of the Series.

After Sunday's dramatic win, downtown Milwaukee was noisier than on New Year's Eve. Horns started blowing immediately following the game and didn't subside until about one the following morning.

MANY OF THE Milwaukee fans were very unhappy over the treatment their fine reception was given by the Yankees, and probably justly so. In explaining the situation, Casey Stengel probably was right in the fact that they were there to play baseball, not to be welcomed with a wild celebration. Casey said that if they had stayed for the welcoming, they would have been unable to practice on Friday.

This was quite excusable and I'm sure Milwaukee fans would have understood Casey's reason for leaving. However, the Yankees tried to ignore the welcoming party completely, and topped it off with a remark about "bush league" stuff.

A simple word of explanation would have been sufficient. It might have been a lot easier for the Yankees had they taken an extra minute.

Definite—Bums to L.A. in '58

Wrigley Field Will Be Site Of '58 Games

NEW YORK (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers finally made their long-awaited move Tuesday. They definitely are going to Los Angeles in 1958.

The official announcement made at a press conference by public relations director Arthur (Red) Patterson, was so anti-climactic that Walter O'Malley, the club president, didn't even bother to attend. He was at a meeting of the club's board of directors.

Patterson's announcement, contained in one brief printed statement, said simply that in view of the action of the Los Angeles City Council Monday, the Dodger stockholders had unanimously agreed to take the necessary steps toward drafting the Los Angeles territory from the Pacific Coast League.

The City Council Monday endorsed, by a 10-4 vote, the proposed contract between the city and the National League club which would give O'Malley the 300-acre Chavez Ravine site for a ball park in exchange for Brooklyn-owned Wrigley Field in Los Angeles.

Thus California is assured of two national league teams for next year and New York will have none. The New York Giants committed themselves last Aug. 19 to move to San Francisco next season.

The Dodgers announcement was greeted with mixed reactions on the part of all interested parties. In Los Angeles, Mayor Poulos hailed the coming of the Dodgers and Giants as a "tremendous boost to California's economy and its position in the sports world."

"The Dodgers have played their last game in Brooklyn," he proclaimed. "We have taken out of the biggest city in the nation two of its most coveted institutions."

"I have every reason to believe that the Los Angeles Dodgers—or Angels—will set new attendance records, once we get the new baseball stadium that Mr. O'Malley plans to build here. With the support that the team is certain to get, it ought to be a cinch to grab the National League pennant next year."

The team, incidentally, will still be called the Dodgers, according to Patterson.

Whether it's the Dodgers or the Angels, the team is certain to receive an enthusiastic welcome in Los Angeles. Only minutes after the official announcement, the newspapers had such screaming headlines as "We Get The Bums," and "Los Angeles Is Big League."

The people in the streets hailed the news with wild enthusiasm although it did not come exactly as a surprise.

The reaction in New York was quite different. Although the shift was expected, die-hard Dodger fans just could not make themselves believe that they no longer had "The Bums."

"Who are we going to boo now?" one of them asked. "Not them Yankees. They don't deserve even that."

New York City Mayor Wagner accepted the news with sadness and he vowed to start working immediately toward getting another National League for New York.

"Naturally," he said, "I regret that they are leaving. O'Malley thanked me for all I did to try to help. In view of his statement, I will appoint a group of citizens within the next few days to help us get another National League club."

Asked if the city would give serious consideration to building a Municipal Stadium in Flushing Meadows, Queens, the site rejected by O'Malley, as an inducement to attract another baseball team, the mayor replied:

Naturally, they have got to have a place to play."

Brooklyn Borough President John Cashmore, who tried unsuccessfully to keep the Dodgers, promised he would leave nothing undone to have major league ball continued in Brooklyn.

Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, was unavailable for comment but President Warren Giles of the National League, in a prepared statement, had this to say:

Because O'Malley's proposed 50,000 seating stadium cannot possibly be completed before 1959, the Dodgers next season will play weekday games in the 22,500-capacity Wrigley Field and weekend and some night games in the 101,523-capacity coliseum. The Giants too will play in a Coast League park — 22,000-seat Seals Stadium — until their new park is completed in 1959.

Iowa Picked To Win Over Indiana, 33-7

CHICAGO (AP) — This week of Big Ten football prognosticating is so tough, men Swamis can be separated from the boy Swamis.

The Ol' Swami, whose 100 percent last week boosted his season mark to 15-4 for .789, makes his stand:

IOWA 33, INDIANA 7 — Ranked eighth nationally, the Hawkeyes open defense of their Big Ten title in the first of six straight conference tests. Despite a team that was weakened by flu and lacking practice polish, Iowa managed to knock Washington State from the unbeaten bracket, 20-13. The Hawkeyes now are getting their momentum back. The Hoosiers are trying to get untracked after absorbing that 54-0 pasting by Michigan State, Michigan State 20, Michigan 14 — This blockbuster as usual is a key game in the conference title race. MSU, holding the No. 2 spot in national ranking, has smashed Indiana 54-0 and California 19-0. Michigan tipped Southern California 16-6 and blanked Georgia 26-0 and is rated No. 6 on the national scene. The balance through the Spartans' first three teams appears to be the edge needed for victory.

Ohio State 19, Illinois 13 — The Illini don't have a J. C. Caroline to pull another surprise upset of several years ago, but they seem to be improving and had much of their confidence restored after manhandling Colgate 40-0. Ohio State, after a sputtering start, looked as if it were jelling in crushing Washington 35-7. This one is a regionally televised attraction from the Buckeyes' home.

Minnesota 23, Northwestern 19 — The unbeaten Gophers, No. 4 nationally, are concerned about quarterback Bobby Cox' sprained ankle and other injuries to key personnel. Northwestern will be starting six sophomores. The Wildcats just lack the experience and depth at this time of the season to cope with Minnesota, which is far from being held together with adhesive tape despite reports.

Purdue 14, Wisconsin 13 — So far the Badgers have been the Big Ten sleeper in rolling over Marquette and West Virginia. They have more backfield depth than in several years, but it will be difficult to beat a team like Purdue with a sophomore-dominated lineup. Six rookies will be starting for the Badgers, who have yet to be tested defensively. Purdue dropped its opener to Notre Dame but bounced back to outplay Minnesota before succumbing 21-17.

Holy Cross 39, Marquette 7 — The Warriors haven't even come close so far. They are putting on plenty of wampout for this one. Arrows still too dull.

Hawks Work On Offense In Long Workout

For the first time in over 10 days there were no new cases of the flu reported on the Iowa squad. Frank Bloomquist, No. 1 left guard, did not work out with the rest of the team. He was admitted to the hospital Monday morning with the flu.

The Hawkeyes worked on their pass defense against the Indiana defense. Offense then took over the spotlight as the first and second teams worked on their timing, first against dummies and then against the Mau Maus.

Practice regained some of the spirit that has been lacking for approximately 10 days as most of the signs of the flu were gone. Small injuries still remained a problem though.

Fullback Fred Harris is nursing the twisted knee he received in the season's opener against Utah State. He is mentioned on the doubtful list for this week's Big Ten opener against Indiana.

Don Bowen, who has been hampered by a sprained ankle received in practice last week, replaced Bloomquist on the first team. The ankle still slowed him somewhat. Bill Happel, who missed Monday's practice, seemed to be moving at near full speed in Tuesday's drills.

IKE TO GRID GAME

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower plans to go to a football game Friday night — his first since the fall of 1952.

The White House announced Tuesday the President will attend the game at Griffith Stadium here between the Air Force Academy and George Washington University.

Schoendienst, Mantle May Miss Game

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle and Red Schoendienst probably will be out of action Wednesday when the World Series resumes at Yankee Stadium with Milwaukee's Bob Buhl trying for the clincher against the New York Yankees' Bob Turley. The Braves hold a 3-2 edge going into the sixth game.

Mantle, crippled Yankee center fielder who hurt his shoulder in Saturday's game, appeared at the stadium for diathermy treatment after x-rays proved negative. It was reported he couldn't raise his right arm. Barring an unexpected change, he won't be able to swing a bat or make a throw.

Schoendienst, who pulled a groin muscle in Monday's thriller at Milwaukee, still was hobbled. Normally it takes several days for such an injury to heal.

Neither Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees nor Fred Haney of the Braves would say positively that the two men won't play. Stengel was hoping against hope that another day's rest would make the difference in Mantle.

If Mantle can't make it, rookie Tony Kubek probably will be in center field again. Schoendienst's replacement at second base would be Felix Mantilla, the Puerto Rican who did such a fine job filling in Monday.

This will be the second time Buhl and Turley, a pair of fast ball pitchers, have been the opposing pitchers. They started the Saturday game at Milwaukee, won by the Yanks 12-3. Buhl failed to survive the first and Turley was taken out in the second inning.

The first time the Yanks saw the 29-year-old Buhl they chased him in two thirds of an inning. He gave up a homer to Tony Kubek and a single to Harry Simpson. The 18-game winner also walked two and threw wild on an attempted pickoff play during his brief stay.

Turley didn't have much better luck than Buhl. The 27-year-old right-hander gave up three singles and walked four in 1 1/2 innings. After he passed Eddie Mathews on a 3-2 pitch to load the bases, Stengel brought in Don Larsen who went the rest of the way to win the game.

Undoubtedly, Stengel will have Larsen ready in the bullpen if necessary although he probably will start last year's perfect game pitcher in the seventh game — if there is one. Tom Sturdivant and Bobby Shantz will be ready to relieve Turley.

Johnny Kucks, a Yankee relief pitcher in 1957 but a starter and series winner last year, was in the hospital overnight with the flu. He may be out in time for emergency action Wednesday.

The Braves received a jolt when Warren Spahn, winner of Sunday's 10-inning thriller, came down with a touch of the flu and a sore throat. Spahn will be the pitcher Thursday if the Yanks tie it Wednesday. Lew Burdette, a two-time winner, will back him up.

The odds now favor Milwaukee by 2 to 1 for the series. The Yanks are 7 to 5 favorites to win Wednesday's game which should be played under good weather conditions. The forecast is mostly fair with temperatures around 70 degrees.

MSU, Wolves In Key Game Of Big 10 Play

CHICAGO (AP) — This year, Michigan will try to win the game and let Michigan State lead in statistics.

Michigan State's Spartans, No. 2 in the AP's national poll, and Michigan's Wolverines, ranked No. 6, collide Saturday at Ann Arbor, Mich., in what could be a key game of the Big Ten football season.

Coaches of both teams, speaking via telephone hookup, told the Chicago football writers Tuesday their starliners were in good shape and anticipating a rousing battle.

Michigan's Bennie Oosterbaan was reminded the Wolverines dominated in everything except the score last year as the Spartans took a 9-0 decision.

"Statistics don't prove much to me," said Oosterbaan. "Last year we won the statistics and lost the ball game. This year, we hope we can reverse things."

Michigan State currently is rated a 6-point choice over Michigan. After rolling over Indiana, 54-0, and California 19-0, there has been strong Big Ten title and Rose Bowl talk about the Spartan campus.

On this subject, MSU Coach Duffy Daugherty jokingly told the Chicago writers: "All these folks say we have one foot in the Rose Bowl, but I remind them the other may be on a banana peel and anybody could make us slip."

Daugherty denied the Spartans have been playing under wraps, aiming at Michigan. "We use everything we have for every game," said Duffy. "We don't hold anything back purposely. But we may add something every week."

Oosterbaan said practically the same thing when asked if Michigan, going all out, might not have "knocked the socks off Southern California and Georgia."

"We're not a club to knock the socks off anybody," said Bennie. "We play our best to win and that's that."

Touchdown Tendencies—

Iowa Stays in 5th As Sooners Lead

By DR. ALLEN N. SMITH

Despite edging Washington State by only one touchdown, Iowa's flu-bitten Hawkeyes remained in the No. 5 position in Smith's Dozen. Oklahoma and Michigan State continue to hold the top two positions among the nation's college football teams in this week's Smith Touchdown Tendency System of Ratings.

Rating itself No. 1 for the third consecutive week, Oklahoma romped over Iowa State 40-14. Michigan State's 19-0 victory over California maintains 2nd place for the Spartans. Chopping down Purdue, 21-17, plus a 46-7 romp over Washington the previous week, Minnesota advances to the No. 3 position. Oregon State's sparkling Beavers won by less than expected over Northwestern, and, as a result, the Beavers fall from third to 4th. Texas A.M.'s offense-minded Aggies routed Missouri, 28-0, to vault from tenth to 6th in the rankings.

Michigan's convincing 26-0 win over Georgia enables the ball-hawking Wolverines to move up from eighth to 7th, barely shading Duke's formidable Blue Devils. Georgia Tech, idle last week, occupies the 9th rung. Auburn, having little difficulty in breezing past Chattanooga, 40-7, enters the select list in 10th place.

Wisconsin's gridiron stock shot upward by virtue of its 45-13 pasting of West Virginia. The surprising Badgers are No. 11. Arkansas rounds out the top dozen in 12th.

Cyclones In Light Drill, Replacement Worries For Myers

AMES — Coach Jim Myers of the Iowa State football team started looking in earnest Tuesday for a fullback to use against Kansas next Saturday.

Myers said that his foremost problem of the moment and indicated that he will do some sifting on the squad to replace Bob Harden who is out with a dislocated shoulder.

Ron Pohl, who normally fills in at fullback, is nursing a knee injury which is expected to keep him out of Saturday's game and Prentiss Lamont also is on the injured list.

Tailback Terry Ingram, Chuck Lattin, who has been used at several spots in the backfield and end Gale Gibson, were possibilities for the fullback post.

Myers kept the Cyclones busy Tuesday in a drill that lasted for nearly three hours but staked for his decision to avoid further contact work. A number of his players, including center Jack Falter, are recovering from bruises received in the Oklahoma game last Saturday.

NEIGHBOR REPLACES BROWN
SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Ernie Jackson will have some large shoes to fill at Syracuse this fall. He will take over the left halfback spot vacated by All-America Jimmy Brown who comes from Manhasset, Long Island. Jackson resides in Port Washington, a few miles from Brown who this fall is with the Cleveland Browns in the National Football League.

Both Army, Irish Praise Each Other

PHILADELPHIA — Army and Notre Dame spokesmen said Tuesday the cadets and Fighting Irish have their "most representative" football teams in years but they offered different interpretations.

Capt. Gil Stephenson, Army scout and coach of the academy plebe team, and Charley Callahan, soft-spoken director of sports publicity at Notre Dame, broke bread with the Philadelphia Football Writers Club, later previewing Saturday's Army - Notre Dame game at Municipal Stadium here.

Capt. Stephenson said Army, under coach Earl (Red) Blaik, "even with certain weaknesses, probably has its most representative team since 1950."

Pressed to elaborate on his remarks, Stephenson said, "The coaching staff at the academy approached this season with the most hope for success in seven years." The 1950 team won eight and lost one—to Navy.

Callahan, who followed Stephenson as a speaker, said Notre Dame's 1957 team also was its most representative team in years. "We have boys from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Louisiana, New York, Ohio, Nebraska, New England, etc.," said the Irish drum beater. Stephenson said Army scout Dale Hall, who watched Notre Dame in its first two games has reported the Irish are "tough, alert and intelligent."

Callahan said Notre Dame scout Bill Early came back to tell him that he (Early) didn't think the Irish could win this first Notre Dame - Army game in 10 years. "This Army team is the best since Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard were at the Point," Callahan quoted Early as saying. The ND scout described Army's line as its biggest in history and said the Cadets have speed to burn.

Callahan described coach Terry Brennan's Notre Dame squad as "a unit" in comparison with previous Irish teams which featured a Johnny Lujack, George Gipp, Paul Hornung, or some other All-America candidate.

Brennan has a bunch of kids who want to play and offset the sting of last year's terrible season," Callahan said. Both spokesmen said their respective teams would be at full strength for this first meeting of these two arch rivals since Notre Dame won 27-7 in 1947.

British Champion Outpoints Carter

LONDON — Willie Towel, South African holder of the British Empire lightweight title, Tuesday outpointed American Jimmy Carter, a former world champion, in a non-title 10-rounder at London's Royal Albert Hall.

Each scaled the 137-pound limit. Towel's victory put him in line for a crack at the world title held by American Joe Brown.

The 23-year-old Towel, the world's fifth ranking lightweight, opened a cut over Carter's left eyebrow in the first round and from then on was on top. There were no knock-downs.

The Associated Press gave 7 rounds to Towel, 1 to Carter, with the other 2 drawn.
