Gophers Want Revenge Against Hawkeyes

Hawks Picked By 6 Over Tough Rodents

By ALAN HIRSH

Minnesota's revenge tour continues today when the Gophers take on Iowa State in the first of two games that have ramifications to both teams. Both have been on a roll lately and the Hawkeyes won't be as easy to break as some may think.

It's For You, Dad

There is the smell of late autumn — and nighttime — in the air as Dad and I round around again for yet another BIT graduation. This separation from the University is perhaps greater now than ever before. It never means being the campus, only the morning of the post-Eclipse, visiting the post-Eclipse, visiting the post-Eclipse.

The student fortunate enough to have his parents with him (We like him, too) for this weekend should have a memorable time at least the ingredients are there.

Well, there it is. A touch of panic, a touch of reminiscence. A touch of joy. It's your wedding Day. We're glad you're here. (Don't forget your checkbook).

In Iowa, Births Work Hard Combating Asian Flu

AIDS
- Here in low and every year since 1982, about 10 to 15 million cases of AIDS have been reported world-wide. While there have been cases in Iowa, the state has been relatively fortunate to have this disease stay at bay. However, with the recent news of the AIDS virus in China and the threat of it spreading to other countries, Iowans must remain vigilant.

AIDS
- The virus is transmitted through sexual contact, intravenous drug use, and blood transfusions.

AIDS
- It is important for Iowans to take precautions to avoid spreading the virus, such as using condoms, avoiding sharing needles, and getting regular check-ups.

AIDS
- While there is no cure for AIDS, treatments are available to help manage symptoms and extend life expectancy.

AIDS
- It is crucial for the state and its residents to continue to educate themselves on the disease and its spread.

Tax Law May Be

Illegal

DEB NUTTER — The Iowa Legislative Research Bureau and Petersen reported a news conference Tuesday that tax collection at the state level is shifting from retail to residential and personal income, resulting in a substantial increase in the state's tax collection.

Both revenue levels were officially reported as unchanged this year,

State tax receipts have
continued to grow,

but the growth has
been

slower than expected.

The legislature's officials cited a large influx of

personal income

from

out-of-state sources,

which has resulted in an increase in residential

property tax

collections.

The

legislature's

officials

said such shifts are not

uncommon and that they play a role in the state's economy.

But it said the state's tax collection

is growing

at a rate that is lower than the national average.

"It's a trend we've been aware of for some time,"

said

Petersen.

"It's

just

as

high

we

thought it

would be."
