U.N. Emergency Session Called

Firm To Analyze Iowa City Planning

By TOM MAINE

Residents of Iowa City's present-day growing residential neighborhoods, commerce and industries are well aware of the changes that have already occurred in recent years. But the city is now changing into a major business center, and a student may register for a course in the University of Iowa's graduate school of business, and a career in higher education, and from the Employment Office, the growth will be related to national and international surveys will be made on the city. No new surveys are expected, but five-year plans are being considered for the city. No new surveys are expected, but five-year plans are being considered for the city.

The study is limited to students from the City Council, the city. As the city's population increases, so will the number of new housing developments. Gore Widens Lead In Tennessee Primary NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Al Gore, campaigning as an accommodating Democrat who would ensure business as usual, has pulled away from Fred Harris in the Tennessee Democratic presidential primary, campaign sources said. The two rivals were competing for the nomination at the Democratic National Convention in July.

The results of the Tennessee primary are expected to be announced tonight.

Mr. Gore, who is running for the Democratic nomination, is expected to win the Tennessee primary with a comfortable margin, according to campaign sources.

The Tennessee primary is the second of three primary elections in the South, following Louisiana and Georgia.

Mr. Harris, who is running for the Democratic nomination, is expected to lose the Tennessee primary with a narrow margin, according to campaign sources.

No Pepper Market in Subway

The man with the pepper market is Steven Faison, 31, of Great Falls, Va. He says it's a matter of health and safety to restrict sales of pepper, as it can be used as a weapon.

He said he doesn't sell the pepper in the market because it's been a popular pastime for people to sprinkle pepper on their food. However, he does sell it to those who need it for medical reasons or as a defense tool.

If you've never been to a Saturday morning physics lecture, chances are you've never been to a Saturday morning physics lecture. But the University of Illinois Physics Department, under the leadership of Prof. John Weidner, has been presenting these lectures for over 30 years and they're now available to the public. The lectures are held at 9 a.m. on Saturday mornings in the Physical Sciences Building, and they cover a variety of topics in physics. Weidner says he started giving these lectures to help students understand the material better and to make it more accessible to the general public. He also enjoys sharing his passion for physics with others. People who attend the lectures say they are enlightening and informative. If you're interested in attending, just show up at the Physical Sciences Building on Saturday mornings at 9 a.m. and join in on the fun!
