

Subzero Blast Rips Into Iowa On Heels Of Snowstorm

Iowa City
Reading Dips
To -6 Degrees

33 Inches Of Snow
Bury Oswego, N.Y.

Temperatures, which hit an unofficial low of six degrees below zero in Iowa City early this morning, are not expected to begin moving upward until about Wednesday.

Today's outlook calls for fair to partly cloudy skies and continued very cold today and tonight. Highs today are expected to be near zero in the north to 10 above in the extreme south.

Wednesday's forecast is partly cloudy and not quite so cold. The frigid temperatures, which moved into the state Monday, brought a rapid end to a snow storm which left up to six inches of snow in Spencer.

Elkader, Sibley, Boone, Dubuque, and Fort Dodge received about five inches. Iowa City received an unofficial four inches of snow Sunday and Monday morning.

Monday temperatures in Iowa City began to dip during the morning. After an overnight low of 11 degrees the mercury rose to 13 about 10 a.m. From then the temperature started dropping about one degree per hour and hit zero at 5 p.m., and was a minus four by 9:30 p.m. It was 80 in Miami Monday.

The Iowa Highway Commission issued the following report of Iowa Road conditions Monday night:

"Highways in open stretches are generally normal except in a section southeast of a line through Bloomfield, Oskaloosa, Iowa City and Dubuque. There is considerable packed snow on road surface. Motorists should be alert to watch for slippery patches in towns and in rural protected areas throughout the state."

Winter, by the calendar, doesn't begin until Dec. 22.

Iowa was among the Midwestern states United Press International reported blanketed by a cold wave sweeping out of the Arctic, through the northwest, over the Rockies, and into the Plains and Midwest.

A heavy snowstorm driving across the nation from Colorado to the mountains of Vermont, iced Chicago and piled up record-breaking snows in upstate New York Monday night.

At Rapid City, S.D., a search was called off for a group of missing teenagers after volunteers braved sub-zero weather to scan the area for them. The search ended when the four, two boys and two girls, turned up at Scottsbluff, Neb. They had last been seen when they left home Sunday night to go ice skating but one of the boys said they had gone to Nebraska to see relatives of one of the girls.

OSWEGO, N. Y., on the eastern shore of Lake Ontario, was buried under a record-shattering 33 inches of snow in 24 hours. Drifts four and five feet deep piled up in the area, blocking roads into and out of the city and cutting off mail and milk deliveries.

Mayor Vincent Corsell declared an emergency and appealed for snow equipment to free the paralyzed city. Syracuse, Rochester and the New York State Thruway responded sending 12 huge snow plows to clear roads. Milk and mail deliveries were expected to be resumed today, but schools and industries were scheduled to remain shut down.

Elsewhere in the New York snow belt, Boonville had 45 inches of snow, and Pulaski 24, 15 of it in the last 24 hours. There was 14 inches of snow at Utica and 21 at Rome.

Oswego's 33 inches of new snow raised its total to 44 inches, also a record, and three to seven inches more were expected to hit the southwest New York area Monday.

Fatalities
Although no weather fatalities were reported in the New York snow belt, five auto fatalities in Illinois and one in Indiana were blamed on the storm. In addition, a transient froze to death in Chicago's Cold.

Snow depths averaged a half foot across the Midwest and heavy snow warnings were posted from the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys during the day. But the storm eased in the Midwest, only to be followed by bone-chilling cold.

Weathermen warned temperatures would fall to 10 to 15 degrees below zero tonight in parts of Iowa and Nebraska and get to 5 below at Chicago. Earlier, the mercury hit 33 below at International Falls, Minn., and were 5 to 10 below from Montana to Minnesota.

Chicago Hit Hard
Chicago, the biggest city hit by the storm, ran into a major rush hour snarl. The city's snow was five inches deep by 9 a.m. CST and reached the half-foot level before giving way to icy cold.

Cars skidded and stalled on main arteries and the Chicago Motor Club got 700 emergency calls, three times the normal, during a few early morning hours. It took a solid hour for buses to get from the

Serov Sent Packing— Soviet Security Boss Fired

LONDON (U.P.)—The Soviet Union announced Monday night the removal of Gen. Ivan Serov, top security chief, who served as a sort of super bodyguard and advance agent for Premier Nikita Khrushchev on his travels. Serov was chief of intelligence and counter-intelligence.

Moscow Radio said he had been assigned to other work but didn't say what. In Soviet procedure this usually means demotion but not purging.

A Specialist
Serov, 53, was a specialist in security arrangements and on mass deportations.

One of his predecessors was Lavrenty Beria, who was Stalin's head hatchetman for years and who was declared a traitor and executed in 1953 after Stalin's death. A Moscow broadcast said the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet had released Serov from his security job.

An Army general, Serov took over the top police job in April 1954. He was renamed last March to the post—officially the chairman of the committee of state security.

A pudgy Ukrainian, Serov was known as the "deportation officer" for his supervision of the shipment of thousands of persons to Siberian and Arctic labor camps.

Successor To MVD
The Committee for State Security, known in Russia by its initials KGB, took over most of the secret police duties of the dread MVD during the purge of the police forces after Beria's downfall.

In March 1956 Serov visited Britain to coordinate security arrangements for a visit by then Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party chief Khrushchev. The British press gave him a scathing reception, assailing him in such terms as "butcher," "murderer," "odious thug" and "Jackal."

William P. Mitchell, Executive Secretary of the Tuskegee Civic Assn., testified that only 32 percent of all Negro applicants have been registered to vote in Macon County in the past eight years.

Macon county has a ratio of seven to one, negro population outnumbering whites, yet only 510 negroes are registered voters compared to 3,016 whites, Mitchell said. He rescribed the registration application procedures for negroes which includes writing long sections of the U.S. constitution and writing a definition of the responsibilities of good citizenship.

The applicant, he said, fills out a self-addressed envelope for the purpose of notification, but "the board never officially notifies us whether we have passed or not," he said.

NATIONAL CHRISTMAS TREE
WASHINGTON (UPI)—A 99-foot spruce tree arrived from Montana Monday to be erected south of the White House as the national Christmas tree.

The exhibition, Lechay said, will show the personalities of the artists as well as their feelings about the subjects.

The drawings include chalk, pastel, ink, conte crayon and wash drawing techniques.

Featured at the showing will be a collection of drawings by two artists, David Amland, G. Iowa City, and Franklin Sampson who received a graduate degree from SUI earlier this year.

The remainder of the drawings to be shown in the exhibition were chosen from the work done in the workshop.

The gallery of the Art Building has been redecorated for the showing which will be open to the public every day until Christmas vacation.

Alabama Poll Officials Defy Civil Rights Group

College-Grad Negroes Tell About Abuses

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—The Federal Civil Rights Commission opened hearings Monday on complaints that Negroes were refused the right to vote in Alabama but was rebuffed in its first attempts to look at registration records.

Instead the commission listened to complaints by more than two dozen Negroes from Macon County, seat of world-famous Tuskegee Institute. These witnesses, most of them with college degrees, testified they were subjected to labyrinthine procedures and complex questionnaires when they attempted to register to vote, and that they were not notified whether they were accepted or not. Only one of the first 25 was a registered voter.

The witnesses, many of them with Tuskegee connections, listed their occupations as nurses, physicians, professors, landowner-farmers or the like.

William P. Mitchell, Executive Secretary of the Tuskegee Civic Assn., testified that only 32 percent of all Negro applicants have been registered to vote in Macon County in the past eight years.

University String Quartet To Open Student Art Exhibit

The University String Quartet will appear at the student drawing exhibition which opens this evening at the gallery of the SUI Fine Arts Building. The quartet will present a concert beginning at 8:15 p.m., followed by the showing of drawings done by graduate students in the Art Department workshop class.

The work of 16 artists will be represented in the 86 drawings in the display.

The drawings include portraits, landscape scenes and animal pictures. Each is an interpretation by the artist of his subject and not necessarily a reproduction of that subject, James Lechay, professor in the Art Department, who instructs the drawing workshops, said.

The exhibition, Lechay said, will show the personalities of the artists as well as their feelings about the subjects.

The drawings include chalk, pastel, ink, conte crayon and wash drawing techniques.

Featured at the showing will be a collection of drawings by two artists, David Amland, G. Iowa City, and Franklin Sampson who received a graduate degree from SUI earlier this year.

Still Tickets For Of 'Chairs' Soldier

Tickets are still available for Wednesday's and Thursday's performances of "The Chairs" and "The Tale of a Soldier."

The dual presentation by the University Theatre opened last week and will run through Saturday. There are no tickets remaining for the Dec. 12 and 13 performances.

SUI students may receive reserved seat tickets for the two plays free of charge by presenting their identification cards at the East Lobby Ticket Desk of Iowa Memorial Union from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Federal Agency Fails To Get Voter Registration Records

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (U.P.)—Six Alabama voter registration officials defied the Federal Civil Rights Commission Monday and refused to testify about Negro voting or any other phase of their work.

Five of them even declined to take the oath as witnesses.

A sixth registrar consented to testify but gave the commission little information about the alleged denial of voting rights to Negroes. The federal agency would not disclose what action it might take against the defiant officials.

The federal fact-finding agency, in the first day of its first hearing, failed to get voter registration records in any of the six counties into which the investigation has extended. It did manage to take a look at the list of voters already registered in one county, controversial Macon, where most of the complaints have originated.

Rebuked Officials
One of the commission members, former Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia, later rebuked the balky officials for what he said looked like an effort to cover up their actions on Negro voting.

He said the defiant stand may be used by Northern Congressmen next year as a strong argument in favor of a tougher civil rights law, which he said, "will react adversely to us in Virginia and to you in Alabama."

Alabama Atty. Gen. John Patterson, who counseled and helped direct defiance of the commission, rejected Battle's plea in a blistering, "no surrender" statement.

Patterson, governor-elect, charged the commission with an unlawful invasion of the rights of the county officials and with "a clear violation of the Constitution of the United States."

He declared the officials could not legally and conscientiously comply with commission subpoenas and orders, adding:

"In fights of this nature there can be no surrender of principle to expediency. The time for retreating has come to an end."

The refusals to testify started with one member of the Macon County Board of Registrars, Grady Rogers. He agreed at first to answer some questions, but declined to discuss registration procedure.

Rogers explained that since Alabama law designates him as a constitutional officer, he felt the commission had no authority to question him about the performance of his duty.

Sketchy Testimony
In rapid order, the Macon County board chairman, E. P. Livingston; two members of the Barbour County Board of Registrars, W. A. Stokes and J. W. Spencer, and M. T. Evans of the registration board in Bullock County refused to testify under oath. They gave the same reason.

Colby C. Coleman, a member of the Lowndes County board, consented to testify under oath, but refused on the same grounds as the others to answer any questions about voter registration in his county.

A second Lowndes County board member, Mrs. Dorothy Woodruff, discussed registration procedure in general terms and admitted no Negroes are registered as voters in the county, which has a Negro population of about 14,000 and a white population of about 4,000. She said there are approximately 2,300 white voters.

Asked for an explanation, Mrs. Woodruff said no Negroes have even applied for registration in the 3½ years she has been a board member.

Intervention by state officials, meanwhile kept registration records out of the hands of the federal commission.

REPORT MOON

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet newspapers Monday published without comment a 20-word dispatch on the failure of the U.S. Army's pioneer III moon rocket.

Got Stricter When Negro Wanted In

ATLANTA (UPI)—An official of the Georgia University system admitted in Federal Court Monday that most of the strict entrance requirements in the system were imposed after a Negro attempted to enroll in the University of Georgia.

The testimony by L. R. Siebert, Executive Secretary of the Board of Regents, came during the first day of trial in the case of three Negroes seeking to gain admission to the Georgia State College of Business Administration in Atlanta.

Admitted Change
Siebert was asked if recent regulations about admission were drawn up after a Negro, Horace Ward, tried to get into the University of Georgia law school in 1950, and he finally admitted this was true.

The Negroes in Monday's case contended in the non-jury trial that they were barred from the institution solely because of their race.

The defending State Board of Regents argued that the Negroes were refused admission because they did not comply with entry requirements.

The main point of attack by the Negroes was a regulation requiring that two alumni and the county clerk or three alumni must sign applications of all college students in the system.

Under Georgia law public schools or state colleges that admit both Negro and white pupils would have all state funds withdrawn.

Denied Influence
John T. Blair, Registrar and Director of Admissions at the college; Chairman Robert O. Arnold of the Board of Regents and Siebert denied in turn from the witness stand that the racial situation in Georgia affected in any way admission policies.

Siebert did give in detail however the operation of an out-of-state aid program he said was available to Negroes who could not get the studies they wanted in Georgia institutions available to them. Accepted students under the aid program receive outright grants amounting to the difference between tuition in a Georgia white institution and the out-of-state college selected by the Negro.

Siebert acknowledged there had never been an application by a white person for this type of scholarship. It was put into operation in 1943 and hundreds of Negroes have used the money.

Arnold said the regulations requiring alumni to certify that college applicants were of good character was an effort to screen out prospects who might otherwise add to the over-crowded facilities in Georgia colleges.

Goldfine Produces Piles Of Records

BOSTON (UPI)—Bernard Goldfine, textile millionaire whose gifts stirred up a storm in Washington, bowed to a U.S. district court order Monday and produced a truckload of tax records from five of his firms.

Goldfine escaped contempt of court action here and a possible jailing by turning over the records. But the Justice Department at the same time began presenting a contempt of Congress case against Goldfine to a Federal Grand Jury in Washington.

Reason For Hope

The people of Little Rock have demonstrated that they are not all diehard segregationists. Even though the vote was light, they went to the polls last weekend and elected 3 moderates to the 6-member school board. The three, while preferring segregated schools, have expressed the opinion that they would be willing to compromise in order to re-open the schools. They were denounced by Governor Orval Faubus, who backed another slate of candidates composed of adamant segregationists. Three members of that slate also were elected.

The new school board will find it difficult to re-open the schools on any but a segregated basis, even if they should decide this would be the wisest course. Faubus, under a law he dictated to the legislature recently, can remove any school board member who does not uphold the principle of segregation. But there is reason for hope. The current situation in Little Rock is intolerable for conscientious parents. Students are being taught, if that word can be used at all, in makeshift classrooms or by correspondence. Some are not being taught at all. All of these students may find it very difficult to enter an accredited college, considering the nature of their current education.

It is very possible that many Little Rock parents, even though they are opposed to integration, would prefer integrated schools to no schools at all. And the election of three moderates, in the face of the active opposition of Governor Faubus, may give more moderates the courage to speak out on the question of opening integrated schools. If enough of the parents appear to be willing to compromise in order to get their children back in school, the governor may find it expedient to go along with the crowd.

Hurray For Sante Fe

The Santa Fe railroad is to be congratulated for making it possible for the SUI Band and the Scottish Highlanders to make the trip to the Rose Bowl. It would have been a shame if the Band had not been able to share the climax of an exciting football season, for in many ways, the recent history of the band and the football team run in parallel tracks.

The SUI Band, under the direction of Frederick Ebbs, and the Iowa football team, under the leadership of Forest Evashevski, have risen to great heights in their respective fields. Both have achieved greatness in recent years, and both are now consistently superior performers.

This year's championship football team put in many hours of hard practice to achieve its goal, and it goes without saying that the band could probably match that practice grind hour for hour.

It is probable that the football team is as proud of the SUI band as the band members are of the football team. It is fitting that they share the honor of appearing before millions of TV viewers and some 100,000 fans in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day. Iowa could have no more fitting representatives than these two excellent groups.

General Notices

THE DAILY IOWAN will issue a special Rose Bowl Edition of 20 pages or more on Dec. 17. For students and faculty desiring to send copies of this edition to parents and friends, The Daily Iowan is making a special offer of three copies for 50 cents, mailed anywhere. Orders containing the three addresses and 50 cents in coin should be mailed to The Daily Iowan, 201 Communications Center, not later than Dec. 12.

ALL STUDENTS living in off-campus housing who plan to remain in Iowa City during the holidays may continue to have The Daily Iowan delivered by notifying the Circulation Department, Room 201, Communications Center, no later than Monday, Dec. 15. Write your name and address on a card and mail or bring it to The Daily Iowan — no phone orders.

Talkathon

If Humphrey Speaks You Listen — For Hours

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — To anyone familiar with the remarkable oratorical powers of Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Min.), it was no surprise that his interview with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev lasted eight hours.

"Khrushchev probably made a tactical error," one admiring reporter said. "He probably began by asking Hubert a question. Eight hours later he had his answer, complete with historical background, statistics and some good reasons why he should always support the Democratic Party."

Humphrey came back to town Monday, to report on his trip to the Soviet Union.

And it's interesting that in this city which rarely is at a loss for words he has firmly established himself as an outspoken man who never seems to be spoken out.

Hubert (Horatio) Humphrey Jr. would be the first to admit it. All his life he has been a prodigious talker.

In his high school days in Wallace, S.D., Hubert was a star debater. Now 47, with his dark hair-line retreating rapidly, he still shows great zest in any oratorical fray. Often in the Senate, he seems almost bursting to leap into the game.

Once he takes off, he wears a half smile, like the one you may spot on a good pitcher the day he knows he has his stuff.

Incredible as it now seems, Humphrey once appeared destined to wind up far from politics. His father was a druggist, and the son followed these pharmaceutical footsteps. In 1933 he graduated from the Denver School of Pharmacy.

But it's difficult to get into a lively argument with a prescription, and soon Humphrey was back in school, studying political science.

He taught for a time, but in 1945, at the age of 34, he was elected mayor of Minneapolis. During one 2-year period, he made around 2,000 speeches.

By 1948, he was ready to enlarge his practice of political science. He traveled 31,000 miles and made 691 speeches in Minnesota's 87 counties.

Whether the voters were impressed with the New Deal wares he was selling, or whether they were simply bowled over by his unwavering energy, no longer matters.

Humphrey defeated Sen. Joseph Ball, by 243,000, and became the first Democrat ever elected senator in Minnesota.

Oh yes, a final note of this man who has a chance of talking himself into the presidency.

Khrushchev should have been forewarned. In 1957, Humphrey talked with President Nasser of Egypt, but neither had much to say. That interview lasted only in it. It is servile and subservient, adhering to mode and custom and

A Reply From Don Prall —

Things Not Always As They Seem

After the initial stage of disappointment caused by "Parade" magazine had subsided, I decided my only recourse was to accept this formal defacing before a national audience in silence, explaining the situation only to those who came forth with questions. I now disappoint myself even further to think that I am to wield my own sword in vindication, for my own ego.

But since much to my surprise my supposed quotations have hung heavily in the minds of many and have not been readily forgotten as I had hoped, I can no longer remain silent. Letters, phone calls, and personal attacks become daily more numerous and as sardonic as they were Sunday evening following the publishing of the article. These attacks are understandable in only one facet of logic; this being that the personage so delightfully depicted would naturally leave a sour tang in the mouth of any individual. The single remaining question then is merely, am I, in person, this arrogant opportunist?

I'LL STATE THE FACTS, and individually you may make your own decisions.

First of all, let me attack the article openly as I now see it. (Had I been half bright and not so flattered on the date of the article's origination I would not be writing today.) Apparently the author's intent was to degrade a certain college set, not needing further explanation. I merely had the misfortune to be his combined literary subject and target.

The only ounce of logic I can offer in refutation is that even the "dim-wittedest" politician, for this is the extent of my personality connoted by the magazine, would never publicly make a single statement similar to the many attributed to me.

Now, to the meat of my letter, let me put forth some of the important facts concerning the day of the interview. The morning was spent, as was the majority of the afternoon, with the photographer finding and taking shots of Ron Helms, Jeannie Anderson and myself. During this period a great deal of shooting the breeze was done, which I was later to find twisted into quotations as a part of the interview. It is rather obvious the amount of distortion that can be gained by bringing together two sentences or two fragments that were stated some several topics of discussion apart.

THE ACTUAL QUESTION-ANSWER interview merely gave Sid Ross several pages of notes, void of opinions and philosophies, and more or less similar to a biography of facts from the day I was born to the present. I remember wondering at the time how he was ever going to make his notes into an interesting article. As you can see, I underestimated him a great deal.

After the interview we spent two more hours together having supper. His pencil was away but his mind was alert. During this time I again made available to him sentences and fragments he could pull together with others for his own purpose.

In direct criticism of Sid Ross allow me to show you, in my opinion, three of the devices of his trade which he employed in the writing of "The Campus Hero" article: twisting opinions; bringing sentences together; and coining phrases. To accomplish this I'll use portions of the article which apparently were sore spots to readers.

1. TWISTING OPINIONS:

Article: "You have to be careful not to associate with the wrong clan of people."

Actual Account: I was asked if I ran around with a certain group of people. I answered yes, I probably spend a great deal more time with my fraternity brothers since we live together.

2. BRINGING SENTENCES TOGETHER:

Article: "I'd like a wife who's nice-looking, affable, able to get along with people," he says. "The same type of personality I'd consider myself to have."

Actual account: Early in the day I was asked what I would like in a wife. I answered, shortly, someone whose personality and likes were similar to that of mine. Later in the day I was asked to be more explicit on the same subject. I then answered someone affable, nice-looking, and able to get along with people. (Who doesn't at least want such a wife?)

3. COINING PHRASES:

Article: His grades are in the "C" range. ("I could do better if I weren't active.")

Actual Account: I was asked my grade point and replied, He then asked if I could do better if I were not so active. I said that activities were not that time-consuming. Possibly if I were not in activities I might devote a portion of extra nervous energy to studying.

In conclusion, this letter was not written to be verbose, clever, or cutting; merely candid. The final conclusion is yours!

Another Letter To The Editor —

How Genuine Was The Poll; Or Who Believes What

To the editor:

How deserving of criticism is Don Prall for his quoted remarks, whether represented correctly or not by the "Parade" writer? The University population should perhaps not recoil with righteous indignation but use some introspection.

Readers are invited to express opinions in letters to the Editor. All letters must include handwritten signatures and addresses which will be printed — typewritten signatures are not acceptable. Letters become the property of The Daily Iowan. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to shorten, select representative letters when many on the same subject are received, or withhold letters. Contributors are limited to not more than two letters in any 30-day period. Opinions expressed do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan.

Prall's — pardoning the expression — philosophy of life obviously has not an element of independence in it. It is servile and subservient, adhering to mode and custom and isms. On the contrary, he is the staunchest of conservatives. What then has made the pattern that his quoted philosophy follows? Surely the pattern could not have been formed unless a large segment of the University population explicitly or implicitly agree to it in principle.

To attend a university appears to essentially involve the chiseling of a societal niche and the utilization of an accumulated savoir-faire. The current campus objective is to be the "well-rounded" individual with his capacity for social diversity. This did not originate on university campuses. Rather it is a more general pattern — to submerge individuals into the melting pot of everybody. The idea must have some acceptance, or why should the writer have seen fit to include it?

This article was surely not critical of the ideas and expected the reader's acceptance of them. We are perhaps permeated by Prall's ideas more than we know, and we are only shocked by someone who had the honesty — or stupidity — to set them down in black and white.

Whether the author in "Parade" quoted Prall correctly or not is the matter of conjecture. I am skeptical that the quotes are straightforward, since the entire article misrepresented the way the poll was conducted. The interviewer did not ask what each person's own ideal of the campus hero was, benefiting from it. Prall is no radical battering cherished conservative but what the person observed to be other people's ideas of the campus hero. Thus, when the statistics say 30.5 per cent favored the campus leader as the university hero, this means that 30.5 per cent of those interviewed did not personally feel this but rather observed it to be true in other people.

Good Listening— Today On WSUI

AN AMERICAN HISTORIAN, Dr. Avery O. Craven, will be heard today on WSUI at 8 p.m. in another of the Simpson College Festival talks "The Root of Man's Trouble — And Man's Hope, As A World Authority Sees It." Doctor Craven is visiting professor at Cambridge University in England, emeritus professor of history at the University of Chicago, and President Eisenhower's personal representative on the Civil War Centennial Committee. His talk deals in large part with the necessity for recognizing the goals of education and intelligence as superior to and separate from quantities of educated specialists.

BACH IN THE MORNING: Marcel Grandjany has transcribed a number of familiar items from the works of J.S. and C.P.E. Bach and plays them himself today at 9:15 a.m. on the harp. At 10:05 a.m. "The Youth's Magic Horn" by Gustav Mahler; and at 11:15 a.m. two ballet scores: the Bach-Walton "The Wise Virgins" and the Scarlatti-Tommasini "The Good-Humored Ladies."

MARK TWAIN is currently the object of penetrating analysis by John C. Gerber in his morning classroom lectures on American Humor and Satire. At 8:30 a.m. you may expect to hear readings from the humorous writing of Mark Twain, and details of the tragic life of Samuel Clemens.

DON QUIXOTE IN THE AFTERNOON. Richard Strauss' musical version of Cervantes' Spanish hero is subtitled "Fantastic Variations on A Knightly Theme." It will be heard following Drei Klavierstücke by Schoenberg at 1 p.m. Prominent Swedish singers will be heard on Music From Sweden at 3:30 p.m. followed by the Symphony No. 40 in G Minor by Mozart.

TRIO TONIGHT will be full length and full tilt with artists of the calibre of Ted Heath, Frank Sinatra and George Shearing. We're not saying those are the exact artists you'll hear tonight; it's just that they'll be of that calibre, you see.

EVENING CONCERT, from 6 to 8 p.m. will offer the following: Dance Suite by Bartok, Trio in G by Beethoven, Mysterious Mountain by Hovhannes and Symphony No. 9 by Bruckner.

OUR BEST RECORDS are always heard first on KSUI-FM, the frequency modulation station at 91.7 megacycles.

"Don't Quote Me"

By JERRY KIRKPATRICK

I'll go along with these horrible new jingles on radio that pass for "Christmas" songs, but I'll draw the line if anyone composes one called "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" or "Lord's Prayer Mambo."

The Santa Fe Railroad will foot the bill for the SUI Band, Highlander trip to the Rose Bowl. All they have to do is come onto the field at halftime playing "The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe."

Christmas gift suggestion No. 9 for pharmacy students: An overdose of arsenic. The life you save may be your own.

What is worse than shelling out hard-earned money for a set of snow tires than to have your way blocked on a hill when you're late to class by a guy who thinks he can get by without them?

I wouldn't exactly say the Rose Bowl edition is going to be big, but pack mules have been ordered for the Iowa carrier boys.

Reds Reject Vote; Will Take Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — East German Communist leaders said Monday night they will take over West Berlin whether the residents like it or not. This was their answer to the humiliating Communist defeat at the West Berlin polls Sunday.

Berlin Communist Defeat Express Voter Distrust?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department Monday regarded the crushing Communist defeat in the West Berlin election as a clear-cut expression of voters' distrust in the Soviet plan to make their city a demilitarized free zone. Department spokesman Lincoln White said the Soviet proposal was the only real issue in the balloting for city council members. He noted that all parties except the Communists opposed the free city plan. "Therefore," he said, "the result of the polling... offers a clear answer to the question of whether the people of West Berlin desire any change in the present status of that city."

Industrial Executives Meet Here

The 16th Short Course in Quality Control by Statistical Methods to be given at SUI will open today, with some 50 industrial representatives registered in advance.

Dean Francis M. Dawson of the SUI College of Engineering is chairman of the administration committee in charge of the course.

To Improve Materials. Aims of techniques taught in the short course include the improvement of quality of purchased materials, savings in labor and materials, fewer rejections of products in the factory, decreased inspection costs, and better satisfied customers.

Opening day of the 10-day course has been planned especially for executives, with emphasis on the aims and possibilities of a quality-control program and on outlining a procedure for installation of such a program. Some 75 men from across the country will attend this special session, which is open to those unable to attend the full course, as well as to registrants for the entire program.

SUI Speakers. Professor Lloyd A. Knowler, chairman of mathematics will open Tuesday's sessions with introductory remarks at 9:30 a.m. in the Engineering Building. Other speakers Tuesday will be Paul M. Bogart, quality control engineer, Sylvania Products, Burlington; Robert W. Cheatham, superintendent of statistical quality control, Armstrong Rubber Co., Des Moines; and Merrill W. Bean, assistant to plant superintendent, John Morrell and Company, Ottumwa.

Supreme Court Allows Short-Cut Gas Rate Raise

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled Monday that pipeline companies which supply natural gas to millions of consumers may use a short-cut procedure to increase their rates.

The court divided 5-3 with Justice Clark taking no part.

In other actions Monday, the high court:

1. Declined in a 7-1 split to review the case of Marie Torre, a television columnist for the New York Herald Tribune. She was held in contempt and sentenced to 10 days in jail for refusing to divulge the source of a story about singer Judy Garland.
2. Announced it will hear a series of cases involving the issue of defense rights in a criminal case to see and make use of statements government witnesses may have given to government agents prior to the criminal trial.

The Reds refused to recognize the overwhelming mandate of the voters which by implication rejected the Soviet note demanding that West Berlin be turned into a "demilitarized free city," which would be open to a Communist putsch. The Reds got fewer votes Sunday than in any previous post-war election in Berlin.

"The Soviet note will be carried out even against the will of the West Berlin politicians," said Hans Kiefert, head of the East Berlin Communist Party.

East German Premier Otto Grotewohl made a veiled threat that the East German Reds would blockade the air and land routes to West Berlin if the United States, Britain and France did not withdraw.

The Western allies cannot "black-mail" the Communists, Grotewohl said in a speech to the East German Parliament.

Victorious Socialist Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin said the election was an "impressive, weaponless victory of Democracy and freedom."

Smashing West Success. It was a smashing success for the anti-Communist forces of West Berlin. Of 1,604,787 votes—93.1 per cent of the electorate—the Communists got 31,250, or 1.9 per cent.

Two staunchly anti-Communist parties won the seats in the 133-seat Municipal Council. Brandt's Social Democrats with 78 seats won the lion's share, the equally anti-Communist Christian Democratic Party of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer won the other 55 seats.

But Grotewohl, speaking in a weak voice, said under no circumstances would he accept the results of the election. He had to stop once in his speech for a 20-minute rest. Shortly after he spoke, it was announced that the 65-year-old East German leader will be unable to make a planned trip to Poland today because of what was officially described as a bad cold.

His words were menacing despite the weakness with which he uttered them.

Expects Control Soon. He boasted that his Government soon would receive from the Soviet Union control of the air, land and canal lifelines from Berlin to West Germany.

He said his Government would not tolerate the continued presence of allied troops in West Berlin.

"Soon the Government will be in a position to exercise sovereignty on the land, on the water and in the air," he said emotionally.

But Brandt, in a reception for visiting U.S. Undersecretary of Defense Charles C. Fittus, said: "Berliners in yesterday's election can be depended on. Berliners for their part are convinced that they can depend on the pledges of the Allied friends."

"The presence of American troops in our city makes it possible for the people to go about their reconstruction work peacefully," he said.

CATHEDRAL REBUILT. MANILA, (UPI) — The Manila Cathedral, reconstructed with foreign aid from the rubble of World War II bombing attacks, was reopened here Monday with a solemn pontifical mass celebrated by Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian.

The imposing Romanesque-Byzantine structure had been destroyed by World War II bombings. It was rebuilt with the aid of 1,000 bags of cement presented by Japan and donations from other countries throughout the world.

Naval Reserve Unit Here To Get Proficiency Award

Iowa City's Naval Reserve Division 9-3 will receive the Rear Admiral Hooper national award for training proficiency in ceremonies at Iowa City today.

Formal presentation of the trophy will be made by Rear Admiral H. T. Deutermann, commander of the naval reserve training command.

The local unit, commanded by Lieutenant Commander William M. Byington, won the trophy in competition with more than 200 electronics divisions throughout the country. Proficiency was evaluated on the basis of navy-wide competitive examinations.

Admiral Deutermann will arrive at the Cedar Rapids airport from his headquarters at Omaha, Neb., at 2:30 p.m. and come from there to Iowa City. He will tour the local unit's facility in the SUI Engineering Building.

A dinner and reception at the Elks home will follow. The formal presentation of the trophy will come in ceremonies to begin there at 8:15 p.m. In addition to the officers and men of the local unit, about 80 local civic and business leaders have been invited to the ceremonies.

The local unit is made up largely of students in local high schools and SUI. Members receive instruction in radio, radar, electronics and communications techniques as well as in military subjects, all aimed at preparing them to fulfill the specialized requirements of the modern technical navy.

Officers responsible for the training of the division are all veterans who have served on active duty during or since World War II. They include local businessmen, SUI and school faculty members and graduate students.

The division was formed in 1947 on a volunteer basis and was placed in pay status as an organized division of the naval reserve on Nov. 1, 1953.

Mayor Egan Sues For $5 Million. CHICAGO (UPI) — Mayor Paul Egan, almost constantly at odds with his Aurora, Ill. city administration, Monday sued the city and 12 individuals for $5-million, claiming injuries and violation of civil rights.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court here, arose from Egan's arrest and jailing on a charge of disorderly conduct at a public town meeting Oct. 14.

HST Would Take Senate Seat If Symington Is Nominated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman said Monday he'd like to have Sen. Stuart Symington's place in the Senate—if Symington should leave it for the presidency. He said so in reply to a question at a National Press Club luncheon as to whether he would be interested in running for the Senate if Symington gets the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960.

Would Fill Out Term. No, he wouldn't want to run, Truman replied, "but I'd be interested in being appointed to fill out his Senate term."

The 74-year-old Truman, who seems to stay pepper-hot no matter how old he gets, also paid his rough respects to President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Vice President Richard M. Nixon and the Republicans in general.

Of Eisenhower, he said: "I raised hell with him in the 1952 campaign when he didn't knock Jenner off the platform when he called Gen. Marshall a traitor, and he's been mad at me ever since. . . I don't give a damn."

Truman was speaking of former Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.), who had been critical of George C. Marshall, wartime Army Chief of Staff and later Secretary of State.

Hopes Nixon Is Nominated. As for Nixon, the former President said he hoped the Republicans would nominate their vice president for the No. 1 spot in 1960.

Truman explained that in his opinion Nixon would be easier to defeat than Nelson Rockefeller, governor-elect of New York.

On taxes, Truman said: "I think the whole business should be overhauled. There ought to be enough tax income to run the country no matter what it costs."

Another question was whether he takes a dim view of efforts to change a Senate rule so as to choke off endless debate, such as a filibuster.

Truman replied: "It ought to be fixed so that no man can kill a bill by talking about the coming of Christ or something like that."

When Truman made his remark about Eisenhower being mad at him, it was in reply to a question as to whether the former President thought anything constructive could come of his serving as a consultant to Eisenhower.

"I do not know," was also part of Truman's answer. "I have never been in touch with the President since I left the White House."

Says It's Not Personal. He went on to say "There isn't anything personal between the President and myself."

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, declined comment on Truman's remark that Eisenhower is mad at him and "I don't give a damn."

A reporter asked whether it was true that Eisenhower never has invited Truman to the White House. Hagerty replied that is not true. He added that Truman has been invited "twice that I recall."

Surgery Course For Iowa Medics Slated At SUI

A postgraduate course in surgery will be held at the SUI College of Medicine today and Wednesday. More than 75 doctors from all parts of the state are expected to attend.

Guest speakers for the meeting will be Dr. Merle M. Musselman, professor and chairman of surgery at the University of Nebraska, and Dr. Stanley R. Friesen, associate professor of surgery at the University of Kansas.

SUI speakers will include 15 physicians from the department of surgery, orthopedic surgery, pathology, radiology and pharmacology.

The course, one of a series held annually by the college of medicine to help Iowa doctors stay abreast of new developments in the medical field, is sponsored by the SUI department of surgery.

Oklahoma Raps Hawk Cagers 80-57

Iowa Quintet Suffers Second Straight Loss

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma found its scoring range Monday night and won its first basketball victory of the season, downing Iowa 80-57 in an intercollegiate clash.

The Sooners, who have lost to Texas Tech and Arkansas, had little trouble maintaining a strong lead after jumping off to a 4-3 margin after six minutes of play.

Oklahoma built a 31-18 intermission advantage and with 12½ minutes remaining in the game held a 2-point lead, Iowa, which has lost two games since its opening victory over Colorado, was outscored by OU, 38-26. It was the first time in two years the Sooners got more off the backboards than its opponents.

Nolden Gentry
Top Scorer

Iowa opened its basketball road season at Dallas, Texas Saturday night and was defeated by Southern Methodist 65-55. Plagued by sloppy ball handling and passing, the Hawkeyes had a cold first half and could never make up the 11-point halftime deficit.

The Mustangs used a balanced scoring attack and an alert defense to gain the victory. All-SMU starters scored in double figures.

Again Iowa lacked scoring punch at center. Nolden Gentry and Dave Gunter led all scorers with 20 and 17 points respectively.

Tris Speaker Dies; Heart Fails Former Baseball Star

WHITNEY, TEX., Dec. 8 (UPI)—Tris speaker, the great "gray eagle" of American league outfielders in days gone by, died of a heart attack while on a fishing trip today. He was 70.

The Hall of Fame outfielder was on a fishing trip with a friend, Charley Vaughan, of nearby Hubbard, Tex., Speaker's birthplace.

They had finished fishing at Lake Whitney for the day, and were hooking the boat and trailer to the car.

Dr. H. P. Sammons of Hubbard, a friend of Speaker, said Vaughan told him Speaker suddenly slumped forward over the tongue of the trailer.

Opened Eyes

Vaughan and several other fishermen picked Speaker up and lifted him into the back seat of the car. Sammons said he opened his eyes and whispered:

"My name is Tris Speaker."

Then he died.

"I have an idea Tris knew what was taking place," Dr. Sammons said. "He must have been afraid Charley (Vaughan) wasn't there."

Sammons said it was Speaker's third coronary occlusion.

His wife, in Hubbard, said they left Cleveland 13 days ago to visit friends and relatives at Hubbard.

Speaker was one of baseball's greatest defensive center fielders. He also starred at the plate, winding up his 22-year major league career in 1928 with a lifetime batting average of .344.

In 1916, he snapped Ty Cobb's nine-year reign as American League batting champion with a .386 mark.

Speaker's baseball career was a rags-to-riches story. He started out as a $50 a month player with Cleburne of the North Texas League in 1906 and eventually became one of the highest paid major leaguers of his time—earning $57,000 a year managing the Cleveland Indians to their first American League pennant and World Championship in 1920.

Entered Majors In 1907

Speaker's ability to run back and pull down fly balls—plus prematurely gray hair—earned him the nickname "The Gray Eagle." He was born in 1888 and entered the majors with the Red Sox in 1907.

Boston sold Speaker to Cleveland in 1916 at the peak of his career. He became playing manager of the Indians three years later. He hit .388 that season.

Speaker was sold to the Washington Nats in 1927 and finished his major league career with the Nats in 1928.

Rose Bowl Squad Practices

The Iowa football team worked out Monday for the first time since the season ended Nov. 22 when coach Forest Evashevski put the Hawkeyes through a light contact timing drill in the fieldhouse.

Only the 44 men slated to make the trip to the Rose Bowl Dec. 17 worked out, with the No. 4 unit getting instructions on California plays from assistant coaches Archie Kodros and Whitey Piro. California is Iowa's opponent in Pasadena Jan. 1.

Moore Tries For KO Mark In Title Bout

MONTREAL (AP)—Light-heavyweight Champion Archie Moore said Monday he hopes to break the all-time knockout record Wednesday night when he defends his crown against Yvon Durelle at the Montreal Forum. But he wouldn't go out on a limb and predict he would stop the rugged Canadian challenger.

Moore needs only one more kayo to break the record of 126 he holds jointly with the late Young Stribling, a heavyweight contender of some 25 years ago.

Won't Predict

"I don't want to make any prediction like Virgil Akins did," said the old champ. "Look what happened to him. I'm going to try and win the best way I can, by decision or by knockout."

Akins, the welterweight champion, had asserted he would knock out challenger Don Jordan early in their fight. Jordan took the title from Akins by unanimous decision in Los Angeles last Friday night.

"That Moore is a very dangerous fellow," said Durelle, a 14-5 underdog, "but I am ready for the fight of my life. I will win or they will carry me out."

7th Defense

Moore, who will be defending his title for the seventh time, said he also was aiming to set an all-time record reign as light-heavyweight champion.

That record of seven years, two months and four days was hung up by Gus Lesnevich from May 22, 1941, to July 26, 1948.

Sooners Lose Dave Baker

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Orange Bowl bound Oklahoma's starting quarterback, Dave Baker, flunked out of school Monday.

John G. Eriksen, associate dean of the college of arts and sciences, said the Bartlesville, Okla., senior was dropped because of failure to maintain an adequate scholastic standing and because of poor attendance.

Halfbacks Willie Fleming and Bob Jeter, starters in the season's finale against Notre Dame, were with the starting team Monday as the Hawks brushed up on their offense. Capt. John Nocera was still No. 1 fullback in place of Don Horn whose hip injury sidelined him against the Irish.

John Nocera
No. 1 Fullback

Merz Returns

End Curt Merz, who sat out the final game with a knee injury, worked with the No. 1 unit, but was not running at full speed.

The rest of the first team was Don Norton at end, Mac Lewis and John Burroughs at tackles, Gary Grouvinkel and Hugh Drake at guards, Bill Lapham at center and Randy Duncan at quarterback.

Ends Jeff Langston and Al Miller, tackles Charlie Lee and John Sawin, guards Gerry Novack and Don Shipanik, center Lloyd Humphreys, quarterback Mitch Ogie, halfbacks Ray Jauch and Kevin Furlong and Horn composed the second unit.

Big Ten Asks Track Ban Against Aliens In NCAA

CHICAGO (AP)—Big Ten track coaches have mapped a recommendation that all aliens be barred from NCAA championship track and field meets, it was learned Monday.

The proposal will be placed before the Big Ten faculty representatives and athletic directors at the conference's winter meeting starting Wednesday with the hope it will be carried to the NCAA convention in Cincinnati next month.

Charles Rut Walter, veteran track coach at Northwestern, said, "It has gotten to be a joke the way some coaches are going out and recruiting overseas. We no longer have national champion-

Translingua Script Told By Funke

By CORKY STERLING
Staff Writer

Just as a telephone directory is used to dial numbers and make connections, in a matter of minutes any person possessing the key can translate a coded language.

Translingua Script, developed by Erich Funke, professor and head of German, requires only three things of its user: a good knowledge of his own language, an understanding of the basic rules of the code, and a Translingua dictionary of his native language.

Funke spoke Monday night in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol under the sponsorship of the Humanities Department and Graduate College.

Unlike the translation of a language where the interpreter goes directly from one language to another, the use of Translingua requires that a language first be coded into a number script.

Once a language has been transformed into Translingua Script, it can then be decoded into any language that has been coded into Script.

Funke started working on a universal method of communication about eight years ago when he said, "one night I couldn't sleep and I thought about how difficult it is to learn a language."

Funke's system of Translingua Script simplifies communication on an international basis by the use of a code based on Arabic numerals 0 to 9 and their decimal combinations.

Common words belonging to a specific topic are expressed by group numbers and individual numbers of a concept. For instance, group 15 means medicine and health, 15.4 means hospital, 15.10 denotes physician, 15.20 means nurse, etc.

A limited number of simple diacritical marks (arrows, asterisks, etc.) denote grammatical functions like the tense of a verb.

Some of the possible applications for Translingua Script could be found in news reporting, diplomatic liaisons and scientific and business communication.

Funke describes Translingua Script as "an interlinguistic code for business purposes, not an international language."

Rayburn Disregards Demo Advisory Council; Congress Set Own Course

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Sam Rayburn politely thanked the Democratic Advisory Council for its advice Monday but served notice the new 86th Congress will set its own legislative course.

Rayburn hinted strongly that its final choice will be a moderate course, considerably less costly than the liberal program urged on Congress Sunday by the advisory group.

Republicans assailed the Council's legislative proposals as radical, socialistic, and likely to boost government spending by $20 billion a year.

Judge Sets Date For Hearing On Little Rock Integration Order

LITTLE ROCK, ARK. (UPI) — Federal Judge John E. Miller Monday set Jan. 6 as the date for a hearing here on an appeals court mandate directing integration of embattled Central High School.

His order setting the hearing explained it was necessary in the interest of the parties concerned, all persons acting in concert or participating with the Little Rock School Board, and in the interest of the public.

Judge Miller last Friday received the mandate from the U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis. It directed him to see that integration of Central High School was carried out.

Humphrey To Report Russian, German, Atom Secrets To Ike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Monday the two "secrets" he brought to President Eisenhower from Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev concerned the German problem and hitherto secret Russian atomic strides.

Humphrey, who will report to the President today on his European tour, also said the Russians would like to avoid war at least for seven years, or the duration of their new economic development plan.

TWA Strike Ends After 17 Days; Full Service Restored By Wednesday

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Trans World Airlines planes, strike-grounded for 17 days, returned to the air Monday to bring partial relief to the nation's crippled passenger flight service as the heavy holiday travel season approached.

Only Eastern Airlines, another giant carrier, remained on the ground although pilots still threatened a walkout at American, the nation's largest domestic service.

TWA said 83 per cent of its normal domestic schedule returned to normal with full flights due today. Full overseas service will be restored Wednesday.

Army's Next Moon Shot Feb. 1; Last Probe Effort Until Mid-59

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense officials said Monday the army's next attempt to send a rocket toward the moon—probably around Feb. 1—may be this country's last lunar probe effort until at least mid-1959.

No further moon shots have been scheduled or authorized for the Army or Air Force after the next long-distance U.S. space vehicle is fired.

Iraq Coup Attempt Failed Kassem Says

BAGHDAD, Iraq (UPI) — Premier Abdul Karim Kassem said Monday his Government has smashed a plot by "corrupt elements in league with foreigners" to overthrow his regime.

Kassem said a number of conspirators had been arrested and would be tried as traitors before the People's Court.

His announcement brought wild Pro-Kassem demonstrations in the streets of Baghdad within an hour. The crowds cheered the name of the Premier who sized power last July.

The Premier identified the plotters only as "corrupt elements in league with foreigners outside Iraq." He gave no further identification.

In Cairo, the United States Arab Republic's semi-official Mideast news agency said it learned the foreigners were American. There was no confirmation of this.

Baghdad radio, which made the original announcement of the plot in a broadcast heard in Cairo, interrupted a newscast to carry Kassem's statement to the country.

According to the radio, the plot was nipped in the bud and was to have taken place today and Wednesday.

At Tahrir (Liberation) Square, six young Iraqis set up a table and collected signatures on a petition demanding the death penalty for the conspirators. The men said they belonged to the United National Front which is comprised of pro-government organizations.

Kassem said arms were seized with the plotters and that conclusive evidence in the form of documents had been found.

The broadcast of the attempted plot came with the surprising suddenness similar to the Baghdad Radio Revelation last July 14 that Kassem had overthrown the pro-Western Government of King Feisal. The monarch was assassinated in the bloody one-day revolt.

Kassem, an Army general, has been consolidating his power since the July seizure, but rifts developed in his ruling Junta last fall.

SUI Speakers And Debaters Rate High

Fifteen students at SUI earned superior or excellent ratings in events of the Intercollegiate Conference on World Problems which closed here Saturday. The students participated in discussion sessions, debate and individual speaking events with students from nine other colleges and universities.

Given superior ratings in dramatic interpretation were Gregg Morris, A1, Columbus, O., and Carolyn Moran, A4, Cascade. Named "superior" in oratory was John Voight, A3, Freeport, Ill. "Superior" debaters were Dorothy House, A4, Muscatine and Norman Oberstein, A1, Oskaloosa.

Rated "excellent" in extemporaneous speaking was David Brodsky, A3, Iowa City; "excellent" in expository speaking, Louis Christ, A2, Clear Lake; "excellent" in discussion, Miss House, Larry Hutchins, A3, Belle Plaine, and Ron Stump, Keokuk.

Named "excellent" debaters were Brodsky, Kathy Kelley, A3, Newton; Morris; Ed Purdy, A1, Spirit Lake, and Voight.

Debating on Iowa teams given a superior rating were Miss Kelley, Miss House, Purdy and Oberstein. Members of SUI teams receiving excellent ratings were Judy Clark, A2, Cedar Falls; Brodsky, Voight and Morris.

Russian Film, Lecture Sunday

"Is This the U.S.S.R.?" is the title of the next attraction in the SUI Mountaineers film-lecture series, to be shown Sunday, Dec. 14, at 7:45 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium.

Photographed and personally narrated by Charles Sharp, who made documentary films for the U.S. Army before working four years as a CBS News reporter, "Is This the U.S.S.R.?" portrays the Russia that actually exists today.

In Nuclear Test Ban

Russia To Aid Control Body

GENEVA, SWITZERLAND — (UPI) — The Soviet Union, in a sudden reversal of policy, agreed Monday to cooperate with the United States and Britain in a control organization for policing an eventual East-West nuclear test ban.

The Russians accepted a binding treaty obligation committing themselves to take part in such a control body that would be set up when and if a test ban accord is reached by the three nations.

The agreement came during a three and one-half hour session of the 3-power nuclear conference which approved the key control provision as the second article of test ban treaty now under step-by-step negotiation here.

It was the second important East-West accord in three days at the nuclear test talks.

Last Saturday, the U.S. British and Soviet delegates agreed on a first draft treaty article pledging prohibition of nuclear weapons tests once a full treaty is completed.

The agreement marked the first known time that the Russians had committed themselves to cooperate in an international control organization extending to Soviet territory.

The West, which had been insisting that a nuclear test ban be linked with a control organization to police it, had been demanding such assurance ever since the 3-power conference began last Oct. 31.

The commitment, however, did not clear all the obstacles to a final test ban accord.

The three nations still must agree on the working procedure of the projected international control organization.

Much, if not all, will depend on the scope, powers and workings of a control set-up.

Venezuelan Elections Touch Off Demonstrations

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — Reports that the election of Romulo Betancourt as President of Venezuela appeared almost certain, touched off clashes here between shouting supporters of Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal and police Monday night.

Police used tear gas to disperse youthful demonstrators near Plaza el Silencio.

Larrazabal, candidate of the Republican Democratic Union (URD) who headed the Junta that has ruled since last January, also was backed by the Communists in Sunday's general elections.

Betancourt, 50, an active foe of dictatorship in Venezuela, has spent nearly a score of years in exile or political jails. He helped the Army oust Gen. Isaias Medina Angarita from the Presidency in a coup in 1945, and served as president of the Junta that ruled until 1947.

Incomplete returns gave Betancourt 1,045,697 votes, or 46.5 of the total counted, against 832,813, or 37 per cent, for Larrazabal. Calderas had 369,736.

Iowa City Council Renews Visiting Nurses' Contract

The Iowa City Council Monday renewed a contract with the Visiting Nurses' Association to provide the city with a general public health nursing program.

The contract, which runs for one year, provides for a payment of $5,000 to the association for its work in the public health field.

Mrs. Mildred Smith, director of the organization, told the Council that the association has been making slow but significant progress in its program of providing children of needy families with free immunization against communicable diseases. She also said that the association has had excellent co-operation from nursing homes on health and medical problems.

The Council adopted a resolution accepting street and paving improvements completed by the Horabin Contracting Company, requiring assessments of $246,946.67. It also adopted resolutions levying assessments for sewer and water connection work completed on First Avenue, South Gilbert, Maiden Lane, North Governor, Kimball Road, and the South Governor Street extension, and for weed cutting done by the city on private property.

Two beer permits were granted by the Council: a Class A permit to the Two Way Inn, 232 S. Duquesne St., and a Class C permit to Brady's Supermarket, 103 W. Burlington.

A letter from the Planning and Zoning Commission recommending that the Council not approve the Grandview Manor subdivision until suitable plans for sewers are completed was placed on file. The subdivision is being developed in an area south of University Heights.

The Council also heard a second reading of a new Dog License Ordinance, which will double the license fee of $2 for persons failing to license their dogs before the April 1 deadline.

Storms—

north to the south ends of the loop and thousands of commuters were delayed.

The city sent out 200 snow plows and 119 crews to spread salt and cinders along the streets and sidewalks. They were unable to prevent a rash of motor accidents, at least two of them fatal, however.

At McCook, Ill., near Chicago, a motorist was killed when his car was apparently trapped on the Santa Fe Railway tracks by snow and ice. A passenger train hit it before he could escape.

The Chicago snow was a boon in at least one way to police. Officers followed a trail through the fresh snow for a mile and a half and nabbed three men accused of burglarizing a liquor store.

The wintry weather also played a role in home fires which killed 10 persons, all but one of them children, in Michigan, Minnesota and North Carolina during a 24-hour period ending Monday. In the latest tragedy, a father and three of his children died when explosions and fire swept their 3-room apartment at Ypsilanti, Mich.

Another storm plagued the Far West. The second straight day of "silver thaw" coated roads in the Bellingham, Wash., area with a 2-inch ice cover. All whatcom County schools were closed and more than 100 utility poles were downed.

Thick fog covered Southern California along the Pacific Coast between Santa Barbara and San Diego and was blamed for at least one auto fatality on the San Bernardino Freeway.

The Midwest snow storm was expected to be off the Eastern Seaboard by this morning. Bitter cold moved in behind the snow, dropping the temperature as much as 25 degrees in less than an hour in Colorado.

Mehaffey Bridge Signed Over To Government By Supervisors

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors signed a quit claim deed giving title to the Mehaffey Bridge to the Federal Government Monday.

This action makes possible the removal of the 62-year-old bridge to clear the Coralville reservoir flood plain for storage of additional water.

Agreement on the deed was suggested by County Atty. William M. Tucker after the supervisors were advised that a petition for a writ of mandamus was ready for filing in Federal court.

The writ would have forced the county to abide by a 1954 agreement that included turning over ownership of the bridge. The portion of the agreement including the bridge was stricken from the document when it was approved by the board last April 1.

Board Chairman Oren Alt said that the county will now work for construction of a new bridge at or near the Mehaffey Bridge site.

Army Engineers estimate costs of a new bridge to be built some 40 feet higher than the old span would reach $1,080,000.

In July the Department of the Army suggested to Congress that local interests assume a share of construction costs. Apparently Johnson County is the only local interest, but the Board of Supervisors has been hesitant to accept any plan that calls for paying for the construction of a new bridge.

There is left the formality of holding a hearing on the proposal to vacate that part of the road. Property owners whose land is adjacent to the roadway or whose access is cut off can appeal this vacation notice.

Play Production Festival Slated For April At SUI

The Iowa Play Production Festival general committee has invited players from high schools and community groups throughout the state to participate in its 31st annual festival at SUI from April 13 to April 25.

The SUI Extension Division bulletins announcing the festival are being mailed this week to school executives in Iowa. 700 superintendents, 180 principals of larger schools, 400 drama teachers, directors of community drama groups, presidents of the Iowa Federation of Women's clubs and officers of the IFWC will receive the bulletins.

The high school players will participate from April 13 to 18, and community players on April 24 and 25. All plays will be presented in the University Theatre.

Those groups wishing to participate in the 1959 festival must enroll on or before March 1, 1959. A registration blank is included in each of the bulletins being mailed out.

The plays selected by each group must be submitted to and approved by the General Committee before March 1, 1959.

Arnold S. Gillette, director, University Theatre, is the chairman of the general committee of the festival.

All Iowa drama groups interested in amateur play production are eligible to enroll. All residents of a community except professional players and university, college and high school students are eligible to participate in the community division.

All high schools are eligible to enroll. All students regularly enrolled in the high school which they represent are eligible to participate in the high school division.

The purpose of the festival is to develop widespread interest in the theatre, to encourage organization of amateur players, to encourage new playwrights, and to bring together amateur players and their directors for mutual exchange of ideas.

The Iowa Play Production Festival is jointly sponsored by the SUI department of Speech and Dramatic Art, the SUI Extension Division, and the community drama committee of the Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Department of Speech and Dramatic Art and the Extension Division of SUI provide the scenery settings which are used by the groups participating in the festival.

Each play that is presented will be evaluated by judges selected by the General Committee. The General Committee will present certificates of award to groups rated "superior" or "excellent" by the judges.

A list of one act plays for use in various kinds of community theatre groups has been prepared by the University Theatre staff and has been provided for distribution by the SUI Extension Division.

Porter Authors Education Report

William Porter, professor of journalism, is the author of a newly-published report, "The Advancement and Support of Higher Education," now being distributed to colleges and universities throughout the country.

SUI participants in the national conference which discussed the question were President Virgil M. Hancher, James R. Jordan, director of University relations, and Loren Hickerson, executive director of the SUI Alumni Association.

SUI Student Wins Dental Essay Prize

Richard L. Christiansen, D4, Denton, has been awarded first prize in the 6th annual essay contest sponsored by the American Denture Society.

The $500 award was presented to Christiansen by Dr. Ralph C. Appleby, associate professor and head of the prosthetics and a member of the American Denture Society.

The annual essay contest is open to all senior dental students in the U.S. and Canada. Essays must deal with some phase of prosthetic dentistry (the making and fitting of dentures).

Christiansen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Christiansen, Denton.

MARRIAGE TAX
PEGLIO, Italy (UPI) — Outsiders who marry local girls of this Alpine community will have to pay a special tax as of Monday.

Peglio's mayor imposed the tax under a 16th Century decree authorizing the village to apply an "honor taxation" on any male from outside the community who married a girl from this Lake Como town.

Gift Ideas By Home Ec Club

Ideas for those last minute Christmas gifts can be picked up at the Home Economics Club meeting, Dec. 10, at 4:30 p.m.

"Gifts and gadgets for giving" will be the program presented by Marilyn Ware, A3, Donnellson. She will talk about inexpensive Christmas decorations and personal gifts that can be made easily and quickly.

The girls will also trim the Christmas tree in the large dining room of the Home Economics Department.

As a service project club members are asked to bring Christmas cards in stamped envelopes. The cards will be taken to the Veterans Hospital. Patients there have no opportunity to send cards unless they're donated by interested groups or people.

Anyone interested in the program is invited to attend.

Freshman Honor Students To Attend Tea Dec. 11

Freshman honor students will be recognized at a tea from 4:00-5:00 p.m. Dec. 11. Joint sponsors of the tea will be the Home Economics faculty and Omicron Nu, honorary home economics club.

A Christmas theme will be emphasized by decorations in the Home Economics Department. The tea will be held in the large dining room on the second floor of Macbride Hall.

The 400 students invited to the tea are the top scholars in the freshman class as determined by entrance examinations.

The tea will be an opportunity for the honor students to meet each other informally.

France Walks Out In Algeria U.N. Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — France walked out Monday on a U. N. debate on French-ruled Algeria. Diplomats said eight African countries were working on a resolution to have the General Assembly recognize "the right of the Algerian people to independence."

Five French delegates left the room when the General Assembly's Political Committee took up the question of what to do about the four-year-old Algerian rebellion.

France contends that Algeria is her domestic matter and notes that the U. N. is forbidden by its charter from intervening in domestic matters.

Tunisian Delegate Mongi Slim, opening the debate, expressed "profound regret" that the French had not stayed to present their arguments.

He said the committee should recommend negotiations between France and the new Algerian provisional government, which speaks for the rebels. He said that government "represents the people of Algeria and exercises control there."

Three ministers of the new regime, formed in Cairo Sept. 19, occupied distinguished guests' seats on the committee floor by special permission of U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld. They were Mohammed Lamine-Debbaghine, foreign affairs; Ahmed Francis, economy and finance; and Mohammed Yazid, information.

Some diplomats said the resolution in preparation in the African group of eight U. N. delegations would call for negotiations.

When the Assembly first put Algeria on its agenda in September 1955, France boycotted the entire session until the Assembly voted in December to drop the subject.

YOU'D BETTER BUY A HAWKEYE says Walt Barbee, A3, Spirit Lake, business manager of the Hawkeye to Jane Hubly, A4, Cedar Rapids, copy editor of the publication. Standing behind the desk and apparently approving the arm twisting technique of selling is Greta Leinbach, A4, Iowa City, editor of this year's Hawkeye. Just between you and us, the picture looks like a frame up to tell people that the deadline for buying a Hawkeye is Dec. 18.

If You Want A Hawkeye, Buy It Before Dec. 18

The deadline for 1959 Hawkeye sign-ups is December 18, and no yearbooks may be ordered after that date. Payment will not have to be made until January, however.

The 1959 Hawkeye will contain more pages and more photographs than in past years, and a special 8-page Rose Bowl section will be included. A few of the other features

Air Force ROTC Student First To Make Solo Flight

Bill Reinders, E4, Humboldt, has become the first of 14 advanced Air Force ROTC cadets to make a solo flight this year in the pilot training program.

The program was initiated last year in co-operation with the Federal Government and the Iowa City Flying Service. Six Air Science seniors received pilot training last year.

Reinders, a cadet captain, made his solo flight last week following eight hours and 50 minutes of previous dual-time with instructor Ted Pratt.

Reinders commented, "I was ready to solo before, in fact I came back from Thanksgiving vacation early in order to solo, but I had to wait because weather conditions didn't permit flying."

He added, "Most of the training is devoted to takeoffs and landings. This is the most difficult thing to master. Once you get the plane into the air there's nothing to flying."

The trainees work the one hour flights into their regular class schedules. They must have at least eight hours of dual-time with the instructor before soloing.

Reinders is following closely in the steps of his brother Paul, who was the first cadet to solo last year when the program was started.

The cadets selected for the flight training program must pass rigorous physical and mental tests before being accepted for pilot training.

Following completion of training and graduation from SUI, the 14 will begin actual combat training with regular military aircraft. They are signed up for five years in the Air Force following completion of academic work.

Air Force officials say that the program is designed to give some orientation to flying before training with heavier and faster aircraft.

The plane used in the pilot training program is an Aeronca "Champion," a 65-horsepower, two-seat, monoplane equipped with dual controls.

Participants in the program receive 36 hours of flight training, enough to secure a private pilot's license.

Fourth year cadets participating in this year's training program are: Nathan W. Baldwin, E3, Cedar Rapids; Keith D. Blaney, C4, Tipton; John H. Croy, E3, Iowa City; John R. Dockendorff, E4, DeWitt; William L. Dytrt, A4, Cedar Rapids; Robert E. Gardner, A4, Fairmont, Minn.; Richard A. Johnston, A4, Osage.

Richard J. Maurer, E4, Iowa City; Phillip C. Mills, L1, Winter-set; John F. Mitvalsky, A4, Miami, Fla.; William J. Reinders, E4, Humboldt; James T. Spaan, A4, Orange City; Richard C. Spring, A4, Madrid; and David W. Thomson, A4, Mt. Vernon.

2 From ISC Staff Explain Teaching Of Comm Skills

Two members of the Iowa State College faculty were featured at a meeting for the SUI Communications Skills staff Monday. Members of the SUI Speech and English Departments also attended the meeting which was held at 3:30 p.m. in the River Room of the Union.

Fred Lorch, head of the ISC Speech and English Departments, and Albert Walker, chairman of the ISC freshman English program, included in their speeches reports of their programs and methods of testing.

Carl A. Dallinger, associate professor and coordinator of Communications Skills at SUI, attended a similar meeting at Iowa State last year. He explained that through these "exchange" meetings, both departments hope to become better acquainted with different methods of English and communications skills.

SUI Grows: Only 20 In U.S. Larger

With 10,516 students enrolled, SUI ranks 21st in size — up from 22nd in 1957 — among the nation's colleges and universities, a new survey shows.

Raymond Walters, president emeritus of the University of Cincinnati, reported Monday on his 39th annual enrollment survey, which shows a total of 1,828,660 full-time students enrolled in 944 institutions, an increase of 4.1 per cent over 1957.

Dr. Walters reports enrollments in teachers colleges and university education departments increased 18.6 per cent; arts and sciences, 8.7 per cent; commerce and business administration, 4 per cent, and agriculture 1.9 per cent.

More students — 4.4 per cent — are attending 65 public universities than in 1957. The survey shows 2.9 per cent more men and 6.4 per cent more women attending college this year, with freshman enrollees up by 7.1 per cent.

Full-time enrollments of the nation's 25 largest institutions range from the University of California's 42,478 to the University of Oklahoma's 9,869. All Big Ten universities, except Northwestern, are among the top 25.

NEWS CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower will hold a news conference at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, the White House said.

The chief executive's last meeting with reporters was on Nov. 5—the day after the Democratic election sweep.

Baird Recommends Course To Discuss World Problems

A college course in which the students would nothing except discuss and write about major problems currently facing the world was recommended here Saturday as a means for providing leadership for the space age.

Discussion and debate of the important issues "provides those learning experiences most valid for higher education in the second half of the twentieth century," said A. Craig Baird, professor emeritus of speech and dramatic art.

He spoke at a luncheon meeting at the Union attended by debaters from 10 Midwest colleges and universities who participated in the annual Intercollegiate Conference on World Problems.

"The severe educational upheavals brought on by the Sputnik era, the clamor for more science, more mathematics, should not modify the goals of education, Dr. Baird said, adding that debate deserves a central place in the college curriculum.

"The educated man or woman's role, as always, is that of decision-making," he said. "Of all people, the educated person should see most clearly the proper road and point the way, not only by absorbing knowledge but by translating knowledge into action."

In conclusion, Dr. Baird said, "Courses which provide information, knowledge and understanding, though they provide insight, mean little to the student or his world until they are personally interpreted. By learning to communicate, the debater is prepared to share his knowledge and to provide the leadership to meet the demands of the space age."

Youth Dies—School Fire's 92nd Victim

CHICAGO (UPI) — An artificial kidney failed Monday to save the life of the 92nd victim of Chicago's Our Lady of the Angels school fire.

Kurt Shutt, 9, died in Edgewater Hospital, just one week after the west side parochial school turned into an incinerator of death. Eighty-seven children and three nuns died within a few minutes last Monday, and the fire claimed another child victim in a hospital Friday night.

Kurt had been burned over 80 per cent of his body. Doctors used Chicago's only artificial kidney to drain off body poisons, but the boy was too horribly burned to survive. His mother, Dorothy, 32, was at the bedside when her son died.

There are still 57 children in the hospitals, 10 of them in critical condition. A blue ribbon coroner's jury was named to investigate the causes of the tragedy.

Board To Make Final Building Plans Tonight

Presentation of final plans and specifications for junior high school projects and an announcement of the date for opening of bids will be made at tonight's meeting of the Iowa City School Board.

Iowa City voters May 13 approved a $1,448,000 bond issue for construction of a new junior high school and rehabilitation of present buildings.

Kingscott and Associates, Davenport, drew the plans.

The Board will meet in the junior high school at 7:30 p.m.

INTERNATIONAL LADIES' GARMENT WORKERS' UNION

David Dubinsky, President

MEMO TO: The Editor

FROM: Gus Tyler, Director, ILGWU Training Institute

Subject: A DIFFERENT KIND OF JOB OPPORTUNITY

It occurs to me that there are some in your student body who would be actively interested in a job—and a challenge—that others of their generation have accepted and turned into a rewarding way of life.

The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union conducts its own "West Point," to prepare young men and women for careers in labor leadership. The one-year course combines classroom and field work. Those who complete the course are assigned to a full time job with the union.

With the job comes the challenge—to provide the kind of dedicated and ethical leadership that will make the American labor movement the creative social force it seeks to be.

The Training Institute is now in its ninth year. 125 of its graduates now hold union office in the ILGWU. Virtually all started as organizers—to learn the labor movement at the grass roots. While some continue at this mission as their first and enduring love, others branch out to take on responsibilities as business agents, local union managers, educational and political directors, area supervisors, time study experts, etc.

There is nothing soft or cushy about any of these jobs. But then we are not looking for young people who want the easy plush life. We want those who will enjoy the sting of challenge in the three-dimensional world of flesh and blood people confronted with raw existence.

To these, we open the doors of the Institute. Write before April 15: ILGWU Training Institute, 1710 Broadway, New York 19, N. Y.
