The Eye Of The Storm

From now on in Iowa City after a string of rather unpleasant incidents, the University of Iowa administration has decided to train a rather large flock of hawks to be used as a rather unpleasant form of discipline. The hawks will be trained to attack and capture unsuspecting students who are caught breaking any of the university’s rules. This decision was made after a recent prairie fire in the vicinity of the university, which led to the loss of several valuable research projects. The administration believes that the hawks will be an effective deterrent against future instances of misconduct.

Speakers Are Objectionable

To The Editor:

For the past several years, I have been watching the University of Iowa’s Card Section, which seems to be a rather peculiar institution. The section is responsible for selecting speakers who are deemed to be objectionable. The selection process is not transparent, and the criteria for objectionability are not clearly defined.

Many students have expressed concern about the Card Section’s role in limiting freedom of speech on campus. The University of Iowa has a history of suppressing certain speakers, particularly those who challenge the dominant narratives of the university. The Card Section’s actions have been criticized by the Department of Student Life, which has called for greater transparency and accountability in the selection process.

Political Party

Friday evening we attended one of Iowa City’s “entertainments” until the wee small hours of the morning; the occasion was the birthday party. There were quite a few present to help celebrate, though in truth any animation was due to the garb-gleam of the host who when the presence of the guests, the scene looked like dozens entirely careless of the speaker’s identity. We are not sure of that (or our confusions.) But the birthday pleased indeed an interested audience.

Birthdays after all are associated with parties in our社会s. From the infant’s first solid meal to the aged man’s demise birthday celebrations are universal days. Even the beast has his birthday. Special days dined among our ancestors feel a little self-celebration on their birthdays and like themselves something extra for. You have only to go to Washington to see yourselves.

In fact, going to Washington was mentioned at Friday’s notice. One Secret was Dismissed from the council hall during a political meeting. The trouble was that he wanted to be a senator, but he couldn’t get elected because the capitalist employers pay one worker much more than they are disposed to.

The person of our present interest was our neighbor, although we know that the latter, be, in politics, might race one of our bow and feathers. And there will be other presidents, Delegates and Senators—be it said by the university whose ambition is by far his to encompass the people of the public spirit. Who knows what some of these mighty statesmen are already in D.C. in the garb of our state’s economy of the emigrant public?

And so we slumber into the local popular—Upon the great unfolding wave of history the S.C. public is but a very small ship, which has no chance but to lie at the base of the sea of history’s change. We are not, the mighty state always in garb of an emigrant population?

Reluctant Vanguard Rocket Terminated Successful Failure

By MARKED ROGERS JR. Managing Staff Writer WASHINGTON—Vanguard's rocket,立项, did not launch this morning at Cocoa Beach, Fla., the second time in two days that the rocket was scheduled to take off. The rocket, ordered by the U.S. Navy, was being tested in preparation for a future mission to launch a satellite into orbit.

In the first place, the rocket was not expected to take off for another week, if at all. At the moment, however, it was not clear whether the rocket would fly at all. The task of launching the rocket is a major undertaking, involving the coordination of many different organizations and personnel.

Von Grabill To Discuss Work Abroad

Dr. William Von Grabill, a professor of pharmacy, will speak at 3:30 p.m. today in the State Services Building.

The candidates are Wayne Stanton Young, vice president of the U.S. Senate, and John Huntley, a member of the House of Representatives.

The Vanguard is a three-stage rocket, designed to carry a single satellite into orbit. The first stage is about 160 feet long and weighs about 27,000 pounds. It uses four engines to achieve a velocity of about 6,000 miles per hour. The second stage is about 60 feet long and weighs about 8,000 pounds. It uses two engines to achieve a velocity of about 22,000 miles per hour. The third stage is about 30 feet long and weighs about 3,000 pounds. It uses one engine to achieve a velocity of about 25,000 miles per hour.

The candidates are Wayne Stanton Young, vice president of the U.S. Senate, and John Huntley, a member of the House of Representatives.

Unblemished Goal Line Has Yale Partisans Agog

NEW HAVEN. Conn., Nov. 16 (AP)-The Yale goal line has been established firmly in the minds of the fans of the Elis.

The Bulldogs have in sight the second and defense in an agreed-on contest. Smith, Florida, Colgate, and Cornell. He still has to face Cal. Denver, Notre Dame, Syracuse, and traditional rivals Princeton and Harvard.

The Blue should get a battle.

Enrollment Of Iowa Colleges Shows Rise Of 3.4 Per Cent

A total of 11,500 students—nearly 4,000 more than last year—were enrolled at the Iowa colleges and universities last fall. This year marks the second straight year of enrollment increases, and the trend is expected to continue. The increase is attributed to several factors, including an increase in the number of freshmen and more students returning for additional coursework.

Of these students, 6,500 are enrolled at the University of Iowa, the largest single institution in the state. The University of Iowa has seen a 5.2 per cent increase in enrollment, which is the highest among the public institutions.

The enrollment figures show that Iowa’s colleges and universities are playing a vital role in educating the state’s future leaders. As the demand for skilled workers continues to grow, these institutions will be more essential than ever.

Turkey Leads in U.N. Fracas

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Turkey's surprise position as a major player in the United Nations Security Council was underscored Monday as it won a pivotal vote to extend its authority to the East-West bloc at the United Nations.

Turkey, which has been a member of the East-West bloc, has been actively seeking re-election to the council, which is composed of 15 members. The bloc, which is made up of five permanent members — the United States, the Soviet Union, France, Great Britain and China — and 10 non-permanent members, is due to be re-elected in May.

Turkey's recent efforts to re-elect itself to the council have been seen as a strategic move to strengthen its influence in international affairs. The bloc, known for its alignment with the United States and Western allies, has been a key player in the council's decision-making process, often siding with the U.S. and its allies in votes on issues related to the Middle East and other regional affairs.

Turkey's re-election to the council could bolster its standing in the region, especially in the context of ongoing disputes with other countries over territorial issues and access to resources.
