Mighty Mattress-Movers
Preparations are being made by the SUI Mattress Movers for the annual move on Wednesday to various high school garages throughout the city. The Junior Chamber of Commerce, under the direction of Chairman B. Radulovic, has arranged that the truck will leave the Chamber of Commerce garage at 10:30 and will be at various high schools about 1:30 or 2:00. The truck will be in the hands of seven volunteers, including some of the SUI merchants and students. The move is expected to take about three hours. The SUI Mattress Movers are: R. Radulovic, F. E. Krueger, W. Patterson, R. Radulovic, and J. R. Muller. The move will be from the SUI garage to the Chamber of Commerce garage, where the mattresses will be stored until they are ready for delivery to the city schools.

The Lucky Irish—Find Blarney Stone
Prohibition-era Blarney Stone looters recently marked their third anniversary by visiting the three oldest stones in the city, where they found them to be much altered.

Proposes Protest Picket Signs

To the Editor:

In the March 4th issue of The Daily Iowans, Picket Signs, a group of students, showed interest in the proposed picket signs for the Friday evening protest. I am writing to express support for these signs. They are bold, clear, and effectively communicate the message of our protest. Your support is crucial in ensuring the success of our demonstration. Thank you for considering our request.

Sincerely,

The University of Iowa is located in the heart of Iowa City, a city known for its vibrant arts scene and charming architecture. The campus is nestled between the Mississippi River and the University of Iowa Hospital and Clinics, with beautiful gardens and walking paths throughout.

In the heart of the city, the Iowa City Public Library is a popular destination for book lovers and those seeking a quiet place to study or relax. The library houses a vast collection of books, including a significant number of rare and out-of-print titles. The library's design is inspired by the principles of the Library of Alexandria, with its grand staircase and architectural beauty.

Next to the library, the University of Iowa Art Museum is a treasure trove of art from around the world. The museum's collection includes works by renowned artists such as Pablo Picasso, Vincent van Gogh, and Jackson Pollock. The museum also features rotating exhibitions and educational programs, making it a popular destination for students and visitors alike.

While Iowa City is known for its artistic and cultural offerings, it is also a city of contrasts. The city's thriving arts scene coexists with a cityscape that is not immune to the challenges faced by many urban centers. The high cost of living and the housing crisis are significant concerns for many residents.

As we prepare to celebrate the arrival of spring, it is important to remember that there is a need for social justice and equality in our city. The University of Iowa and its students have a responsibility to be advocates for change and to work towards creating a more inclusive and equitable community.

The University of Iowa is known for its commitment to the arts, and one of the most exciting venues for music lovers is the Hancher Auditorium. The auditorium is located in the middle of campus, adjacent to the University of Iowa Student Union, and is used for a variety of events including concerts, lectures, and performances.

The Hancher Auditorium is home to the University of Iowa Jazz Ensemble, a group of talented musicians who have performed at prestigious venues around the world. The ensemble is led by Dr. Donald Hunsberger, who is known for his innovative approach to teaching and mentoring young musicians.

The Hancher Auditorium also hosts the annual University of Iowa Wind Ensemble Festival, which brings together high school bands from across the Midwest to perform and compete. The festival is a significant event for students and music teachers alike, and provides a valuable opportunity for students to learn and grow in their musical abilities.

As we look towards the future, we can be confident that the University of Iowa will continue to be a leader in the arts, and that the Hancher Auditorium will remain a hub of musical excellence and creativity.

Panell Training Program

The Women's Panellist Association will have a meeting on Monday evening at 7:30 in Schaeffer Hall beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Each college group will be represented by a Chairman and the secretaries of each group will call the meeting to order. Following the introduction of officers, the group will then go over its by-laws for addition or deletion as the case may be. The group will discuss the plans for the coming year and the annual program. The evening will close with a discussion on the district and the state meetings and the annual program of the National Association of Women's Clubs.

Bradley, Providence Win; Move into NIT Final Round

Tom Hancome and Joe Morton, two of the biggest players in the second round of the National Invitation Tournament, scored a combined 40 points in the Providence-Bradley game Thursday to lead the Friars into the NIT final.

The Providence-Wolverines game turned into a showdown of two highly ranked teams. Providence had won six in a row and was ranked No. 2 while Bradley was ranked No. 3.

Bradley took a 52-43 lead into the final minutes of the game and held on for a 65-59 victory. Providence was led by Hancome with 22 points and Morton with 18.

The Friars are the No. 1 seed in the NIT and will face the winner of the Iowa State-Clemson game, which is set for Saturday at 7 p.m. in Madison Square Garden.

Bradley, on the other hand, is the No. 2 seed and has a bye to the semifinals. The Bears will play the winner of the Michigan State-China game, also set for Saturday.

The Friars won their sixth straight game and are looking to repeat as NIT champions.

Providence's Hancome and Morton scored a combined 40 points in the Friars' 65-59 victory over Bradley.

Hancome, a senior forward, scored 22 points while Morton, a junior guard, added 18. The duo combined for 18 of Providence's 21 rebounds.

The Friars led by 17 points in the first half and never looked back.

Providence is now 21-8 on the season and will face the winner of the Iowa State-Clemson game in the semifinals.

Bradley, on the other hand, is 22-7 and will play the winner of the Michigan State-China game.

The Bears have won five straight games and are looking to make some noise in the NIT.

The Friars have a bye to the semifinals while Bradley will play for the third time in a row.

Providence is the No. 1 seed in the NIT and Bradley is the No. 2 seed, so the Friars have the upper hand.

Hancome and Morton will be key for Providence as they look to continue their hot shooting.

The Friars have been on a roll lately and are looking to repeat as NIT champions.

Bradley, on the other hand, is looking to make some noise and is a solid favorite to win.

The Friars and Bradley will meet for a third time in the NIT and it should be another good game.
SUI Prof Tells Population Growth Patterns in Iowa

Population, growth patterns now have been charted: since 1850, according to Clyde F. Pitts, physical geographer at the University of Iowa.

Twenty-four of Iowa's counties have been experiencing continued growth patterns, according to Pitts. All of these counties, he says, are located in the major urban center of the state.

In Iowa, he says, the trend toward urbanization was not the same everywhere. The pattern of urbanization was found to be concentrated in the state's industrial counties. There were several counties without any growth at all.

Pitts differentiated these counties into two groups. The first group included counties with a higher than national average of population growth. These counties included the industrial counties of the northwest and northeast part of the state. The second group included counties with a lower than national average of population growth. These counties included the agricultural counties of the southwest and southeast part of the state.

The general pattern of growth was found to be characterized by a high rate of growth in the industrial counties and a low rate of growth in the agricultural counties. This pattern was found to be consistent throughout the state of Iowa.

Snowbound Doctor Uses Helicopter To Reach Sick

Working against tremendous odds, Dr. Earl Zabel, Waukon, Iowa, used a helicopter to fly his patient 1½ miles southeast of Lone Tree. The area was covered three-quarters of an inch of snow, the doctor gave up his "last ditch" efforts to return on foot to the patient. Zabel arrived three-quarters of an hour after leaving his patient. After making the landing, Zabel taxied a short distance to the patient’s home, where he was able to get his patient into the hospital just in time to save the patient’s life.

To Vote on Ideal Man

Eight eligible K-State headquarters will be held in the K-State Union. Of the three places where the votes will be cast, the one with the lower number of votes will be eliminated. The final four will play. The poll will be open from March 12 through the campus election. The winners will be announced by the Student Council as the winners of the election.

All women students may vote for the three categories of the Ideal Man. Voting will be done by placing your name on the ballot. The ballot must be turned into the Student Council office by March 12. The three winners will be announced by the Student Council.

Clause Voted Into K-State Bill

A clause was voted into the K-State Bill that will allow students to vote for the president of the Student Council. The clause was proposed by Sen. Robert M. Johnson and approved by the Student Council. The clause will take effect at the beginning of the next academic year.
