Faculty Member Charges Violation of Civil Liberties

By JANET STIHKAR

William B. Bunge, assistant professor of anthropology, charges that the geography department of the University administration is being biased toward the Republicans and is trying to suppress him. Dr. Bunge charges that there is a "shroud of secrecy" surrounding his department, and that he is being denied access to important information.

Bunge said that he has been denied access to certain course materials and that he is being denied tenure. He also said that he has been denied access to the college's computer system, which he needs to conduct his research.

Bunge said that he has been denied access to the college's computer system, which he needs to conduct his research. He also said that he has been denied access to the college's library system, which he needs to conduct his research.

Readers Criticize Article
By Kaplan on Castro's Cuba

By JOE HENRY

For the Daily

Editor Henry B. Kaplan's article on Cuba in last week's issue was responded to by several readers in this week's paper.

The theme of Mr. Kaplan's article seems to be that the people of Cuba are victims of their own government, and that the regime is more concerned with the welfare of the U.S. than the Cuban people.

Many of the readers who responded to the article were shocked by this portrayal of the Cuban people. They believed that the Cuban people are not as weak as Mr. Kaplan suggested, and that they are fighting for their freedom.

One reader, who asked to remain anonymous, wrote: "I was surprised to read Mr. Kaplan's article because I had never heard of such a thing happening in Cuba. I am sure that the Cuban people are not as weak as Mr. Kaplan suggests. They are fighting for their freedom, and I am sure that they will win."
Thesis Traces Daily Iowan Development Through 1949

Since 1949, the Daily Iowan has been a cornerstone of student life and a vital part of the Iowa City community. This thesis traces the development of the Daily Iowan from its founding in 1910 to 1949, examining the evolution of its role in student life, its relationship with the University of Iowa, and its impact on the local community.

The Daily Iowan was founded in 1910 by the State University of Iowa Student Body and initially served as a way for students to express their opinions and voice their concerns. Over the years, the Daily Iowan has grown in size and influence, becoming an important part of the University of Iowa's student community.

The thesis explores the history of the Daily Iowan, from its early days as a small newspaper to its current status as a large, well-respected publication. The thesis examines the Daily Iowan's role in student life, its relationship with the University of Iowa, and its impact on the local community.

The thesis also examines the challenges faced by the Daily Iowan over the years, including financial struggles and changes in student interest. Despite these challenges, the Daily Iowan has remained a vital part of the University of Iowa's student community and continues to serve as a voice for students today.

The thesis concludes that the Daily Iowan has played a significant role in the history of the University of Iowa and the Iowa City community, and continues to be an important part of student life.

Dental Prof

ASD ‘Fellow’

Dr. Leonard Anderson, professor of dental surgery at the University of Iowa College of Dentistry, has been named an ASD ‘Fellow’ by the American Society of Dentistry. The ASD ‘Fellow’ designation is awarded to dentists who have made significant contributions to the field of dental surgery.

The ASD ‘Fellow’ designation is a lifetime honor that recognizes the contributions of dental surgeons to the field of dental surgery. It is given to dentists who have made significant contributions to the field of dental surgery, including research, teaching, and clinical practice.

This is the second year that the ASD ‘Fellow’ designation has been awarded. In 2019, the designation was given to Dr. Anderson and Dr. Joseph Smith.

Comback-of-Year Award Goes to Cardinals’ Musical

NEW YORK — Stan (The Man) Musial, whose brilliant playing has been a source of inspiration for the St. Louis Cardinals’ fans for more than three decades, has been selected as the 1959 Comeback Player of the Year by the Associated Press.

Musial, who was named National League’s Comeback Player of the Year in 1958, was chosen in a vote among 125 American League and 125 National League sports writers. He was the only member of the Cardinals’ team to receive a vote.

Musial, who turned 32 years old on May 18, was named to the National League’s All-Star team for the fourth time in his career. He had 23 home runs and 85 runs batted in.

Musial, who has been playing in the National League for six years and will be playing in the American League next season, was chosen in a vote among 125 American League and 125 National League sports writers. He was the only member of the Cardinals’ team to receive a vote.

Stage Crew, 'Act Out' The Play Behind the Play

By ANNE STEAMS

It is ten o'clock and the rear doors are open at the State Theatre, the home of the University of Iowa's Department of Dramatic Arts. Inside, the stage is being set up for the next performance of the play "The Invaders," written by Stephen Leacock and directed by Professor J. H. Crabb.

The set is a simple one, consisting of a few pieces of furniture and a few props. The costumes are not yet finished, but the actors are already in costume and ready to begin rehearsals.

The play is about a group of aliens from another planet who have invaded Earth and are preparing to take over the world. The actors are busy memorizing their lines and learning the movements of their characters.

"I can't wait to see the final result," said one of the actors. "The play is going to be amazing."
Day of the Finger Man

There's going to be a lot of excitement over tomorrow's news. The Finger Man, Charlie Chaplin's old friend, will be covering the world's big story. The Finger Man's telegraphy method was being given great publicity, indicating that the Finger Man had an important story to tell. The Finger Man's predictions were always accurate, and this was no exception. The Finger Man's latest prediction was that the Finger Man would be spending the coming days in the Finger Man's studio, working on the Finger Man's latest creation, a new type of Finger Man. The Finger Man's fans were eagerly waiting for the Finger Man's latest creation, and the Finger Man was confident that the Finger Man would not disappoint.
