SUI Faces Finals Dilemma--Punt To Pass or Book It?

Party, Drink, Be Joyous To Get 'C's' Final Week Advice From Underdogging--His Acumen is 2.16 By a 4-0 STUDENT

The suspense is high--many classes are in the third to last week of final period work. First of all, if you have about a month or so left to get ready for a test, you've been doing some studying the whole time. It is probably too late to try to learn everything at once. Instead, try to review the most important material for the test. Just go over the main points and try to understand them. If you do this, you'll be better prepared for the test.

First, you must make sure that you have read all the necessary text material. Then, try to make a list of the key points that you need to know for the test. This will help you focus your study time. You should also try to practice answering questions on the test material. This will help you to see how well you understand the material.

In the final week, try to get a good night's sleep. This will help you to be more alert and focused during the test. You should also try to eat a healthy breakfast on the day of the test. This will give you the energy you need to do your best.

In summary, the key to doing well on the final tests is to study well in advance, focus on the most important material, and get a good night's sleep on the day of the test. If you do these things, you should be well prepared for the test.

Money in the Gutter

H. B. Green, Iowa's Third District Republican representative whose chief claim to fame is that he's any­thing but black, has made a point of making the money in the gutter a topic of conversation.

Green, who has served on the House Foreign Aid Committee, recently reported that one of the foreign aid programs in the House, the one that he is so fond of, has been used to funnel money into the pockets of conservative Republicans.

This is a matter of considerable concern to the Democratic Study Group, which has been working tirelessly to expose the House's efforts to funnel money into the pockets of conservative Republicans.

Today the liberal Democrats in the House held a news conference to discuss the issue. "We are concerned about the way this money is being spent," said Representative Clark, one of the Democratic Study Group's most vocal members.

"In one instance, we have been able to trace the money from the House to the pockets of conservative Republicans," said Clark.

"We are appalled by the way this money is being spent," said Senator Young of Ohio, another member of the Democratic Study Group.

"We are determined to get to the bottom of this issue," said Senator Young.

Today's news conference was part of the Democratic Study Group's ongoing efforts to expose the House's efforts to funnel money into the pockets of conservative Republicans.

"We will continue to investigate this issue," said Senator Young.

"We will continue to expose this issue," said Senator Young.

"We will continue to fight for the people," said Senator Young.

Minnesota Officials Choose 13 First-Year Men, 6 Vets

NEW YORK (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings grabbed quarterback Hugh McElhenny, Don Cline and Bill Buckner from the 1964 National Football League draft for a 3-pointer victory at the state University of Minnesota.

The Vikings, who needed a quarterback to complete the draft, were in this year's top 10 picks and limited the work of a quarterback in a 1965 pro league.

Jim Ramsey, a fullback, was the only other football player drafted by the University of Minnesota.

Buckner, a center on Iowa's 1949-50 teams, was selected by the New York Giants in the 1960 NFL draft. He was the first man to sign a contract with the Giants.

Amanda Trans, a fullback, was selected by the Baltimore Colts in the 1960 NFL draft. He was the first man to sign a contract with the Colts.

The Vikings also selected receiver Bob Douglas from the University of Minnesota in the third round of the 1960 NFL draft.

Flash Card: Secret Out
How Caltech Did It

BY JOE REICHLE

After April 28, the New Yorkers played the Wash­ington Senators in Yankee Stadium for the second time. After an apparent victory on the previous occasion, they had tied the Senators on the last play of the game. This second game was not so close, and the Yankees won.

The Yankees took the lead in the third inning, scoring two runs on a home run by Gehrig. The Senators closed the gap to 2-1 in the fifth, but the Yankees scored again in the sixth to take a 3-1 lead.

The Yankees' bats were hot in this game, with Gehrig hitting a double and a triple. Dickey also had a triple. The Senators' best chance to score came in the seventh inning, when they loaded the bases with no outs. But the Yankees' pitcher, Elliston, got out of the jam with a double play.

The Yankees' bullpen was also effective, with Elston pitching the last three innings. The Senators' star pitcher, Rizzuto, was limited to a scoreless outing.

The Yankees won the game, 3-1, and improved their season record to 29-16.
