SUMMARY (Radio Text) — The United States Navy announced that it had come temporarily in sight and was proceeding to the scene of the sinking of Santa Maria, a Dutch steamer, in the South Atlantic.

Capt. Galvao, the captain of the Santa Maria, had turned over 11 American passengers to the United States. He probably will turn over 18 British and French passengers before he leaves.

The steamers will arrive in the Portuguese colony of South America on Saturday, and the British will then search for wreckage.

The ship was wrecked on Tuesday at 9:30 a.m., and the Portuguese government announced the loss of 112 persons. The British government has not received a message of the loss of the Santa Maria.

President Kennedy warned Congress

He urged Congress to speed up the defense program and to avoid cutting defense funds.

The President said that the United States was facing a critical situation.

"We are at the moment of truth," he said.

He urged Congress to avoid any cuts in defense funds.

"The time for talk has passed," he said.

"We must act quickly," he said.

"The time for thoughtfulness has passed," he said.

"The time for action has come," he said.

New Judicial Approach

A new approach to handling cases of rule infractions was adopted by the Waterloo City Board of Education, after being unanimously approved by 19 city unit parents.

The new plan provides four alternative methods for correcting infractions which have violated the school's rules. Which of the steps will be used is to be based on recommendations of the individual case.

Although the study group which has been meeting, it is to be used "only in extreme cases and for repeated violations.

Credit should be given to the Waterloo board for the method, in which the approved proposal system. Credit should also be given to the type of system itself.

After holding meetings with parents, the board reviewed all cases of infractions and for repeated violations.

The new plan imposes responsibilities upon the board, however. For the board to be kept informed, the plans must be followed through the school system in applying cases.

Only one if a case warrants severe action, the third step will be used. Then it will be reviewed with the school and the violations.

Questions Value of Nuclear Ban
Without Any Inspection

By ROCHELLE CHANDLER

WASHINGTON -- A Kennedy administration official today reaffirmed that any agreement to avoid nuclear explosions would be worthless without inspection, as the president has indicated.

The report dated today with the president's signature by the president's press secretary, is based on the president's view that the arms control agreement be in force until all nations can assure their own territories are free of nuclear explosions.

New Africa Common Market May Be Result of Meeting

PARS

The announcement today here that Mr. Jean-Charles Lacaze, Premier of the Ivory Coast, has signified his intention to bring about the creation of a Common Market in the French-speaking area of West Africa, and that he will organize the meeting of heads of government in the French-speaking countries of West Africa next month, is important evidence of the determination of African leaders to tie together by economic cooperation the territories they now control.

This French-speaking area is the largest non-Commonwealth group of countries in Africa and includes Nigeria, the largest of the British colonies, the Belgian Congo, the French colonies and the Portuguese territories.

It will be the third time that statesmen have tried to bring together the French-speaking territories, and the last two attempts have failed. In 1936 France and the Belgian Congo set up a customs union for the trade in rubber, and in 1939 a customs union for trade in other products, but the market remained separated.

Dr. Lamine Faye, one of the leaders of Senegal, is trying to set up a customs union between the Senegal and the French and Spanish African territories, but has so far failed to get any response.

Mr. Lacaze has argued for the creation of a common market for the French-speaking territories, and has quoted the failure of the last attempt as an indication of the need for one.

He has also argued that the Common Market should be based on the same principles as those of the European Economic Community and that in his opinion it should have certain economic functions, rather than being a political union.

Mr. Lacaze is a member of the French parliament and a member of the French government.

The announcement today indicates that he has now decided to carry out his plan and will organize a meeting of heads of government to discuss the possibility of creating a Common Market.

The meeting is expected to take place next month and the leaders of the French-speaking territories are expected to attend.

The creation of a Common Market would be a major step towards the unification of African territories, and would have important economic and political implications.

The European Economic Community has been a model for many African leaders, and the creation of a similar organization in Africa would be a significant development.

The announcement today is therefore a major development, and it is to be hoped that the meeting of heads of government will be successful and that a Common Market will be created.
No Change in Poll; Ohio 1st, Iowa 6th

By Joe Franz

Ohio State continued its big gallup lead in the final NCAA basketball coaches polls to be released today by Sports Information Directors of America. The Buckeyes were named No. 1 for a third straight time, and Iowa was at No. 6 for the seventh straight week.

Other scores were: Michigan State, 27; Wisconsin, 13; Notre Dame, 12; St. John’s, 10; Duke, 7; Marquette, 6; North Carolina, 5; Illinois, 3; and Bradley, 2.

Many Reasons Behind Iowa’s Climb to Top 10

By Pat Wilmot

Five of the so-called "experts" have Iowa listed in the top 10, but as ISU’s first semester comes to a close, the Hawkeyes are in a position that they never before have been in the last 20 years.

The Hawkeyes won their third straight game last Thursday when they beat Bradley, 77-58, in the Annex. They have now been in the Top 10 of all three polls this year, the Associated Press, United Press International and Sports Information Directors of America.

Here are some of the reasons why the Hawkeyes are ranked sixth in the Associated Press, seventh in the UPI and eighth in the ISDA polls:

1. The way they play cricket, which is in the Top 10 of all three polls this year, the Associated Press, United Press International and Sports Information Directors of America.

2. The way they play cricket, which is in the Top 10 of all three polls this year, the Associated Press, United Press International and Sports Information Directors of America.

Ingo Rests; Spar Mates Too Bruised

By Paul Richards

PALM BEACH, Fla. — Ingo Pappas, canvassed himself Saturday with punching the bag instead of his Olympic partner who consequently shed their bruised faces.

The weather conspired against the Brooklyn heavyweight and the New Yorkers. Last year’s 1-10-0 record was washed out for his unbeaten mate, Joe Louis, who now must scratch his way to a record.

Pirates Selected ‘Team of the Year’

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

Associated Press writer

For team of the year in 1968 for the Pittsburgh Pirates, 1968 looks much better.

The Pyrates were this year’s Team of the Year, edged out Ohio State’s national champions by one point from the Associated Press, United Press International and Sports Information Directors of America.

The Pirates worked hard enough and washed well enough for the honor. It would have been even more over the past year with their previous world championships.

An unusual and creative art form known as pantomime was presented by the SU Department of Speech and Dramatic Arts in December. Directed by Prof. James Gauss ff, the pantomimes featured 23 students in white faces, smocks and caps. The students cavorted and emoted through three acts and 17 scenes—all without uttering a word.

Presented here are a few of those scenes, taken during the actual performance.

Big, Big Bubble

Spring Herman, A1, Belleville, Ill., in "Street Scene" portrays a "mean middle kid" about to blow a giant-size bubble from a large wad of gum, which causes all sorts of trouble in front of a store with a revolving door.

A Hat for Her

"Hats Make the Woman" and Bonnie McBeath, A2, Des Moines, is about to make this discovery. Once she places the badge of authority on her pretty head, (a large floppy hat) roles reverse themselves.

It Might Bite

"Ah ha," thinks Cassandra Brugman, A1, Morton, Ill., as she slyly figures how she is to get her pet dog into a store which doesn't allow the little dear. (A large round hat)

Will You Paint My Picture?

In "Exhibitions at a Picture," Barqara Peeters, A1, Tipton, is caught annoying a would-be artist, Ed Bruce, G, Iowa City, who is attempting to copy a painting in an art gallery.

Changing Channels

In the climactic moment of "Anniversary Faults," Jo Lofton, G, Memphis, Tenn., and Ron Roger's, A4, Iowa City, show what often happens in typical American households today where the old demon TV holds sway. Anniversary gifts of automatic channel-changers result in a duel reminiscent of the old West.

Chip Off the Old Block

In a tender and moving moment of "Cycle," a newborn child is handed to its father, Bill Rappel, G, Manitowoc, Wis., by the mother, Miss Brugman. The scene depicts the life cycle of a couple living for each other.

Broadway, Here I Come

"The Late, Late Show" shows how the evil producer wants the innocent little favor girl to go with him or to see "put her name in lights." Mark Hermann, LL, Smith Lake, also unfortunately proves to Miss Aretha that showbiz is not all lights and honey.

Heading for Mars

Will You Paint My Picture?

Steve Strauss, A3, Iowa City, as "The Astronaut." (No, it's not misprinted) is all set to blasts off for brave new worlds, but nothing happens. Guess what? He forgets to turn the key.

That's All There Is

Here is the whole group who presented these delightful scenes with endings of truly humorous and dramatic entertainment. And the audience had just as much fun as the actors.
Science Research Grants Awarded to 3 SUI Pros

Three SUI professors have received basic research grants totaling $15,000 from the National Science Foundation. The purpose of this research is to investigate and gather data on the creative consciousness and the creative process. Professors will be awarded $5,000 each toward the evolutionary history of this group of tales.

Prof Leaves For Bristol

Miss Hall will leave at the end of this semester to accept the challenge of the chairman of the French Department at the University of Bristol. She earned an M.A. degree from Caracas, Venezuela, and an M.F.A. degree from the University of Southern Illinois. The effects of two great wars on France will be included in the curriculum of the French Department at the University of Bristol.

Today On KWAD

Throughout the week "Folk Songs of the American West" will be presented. The show, being broadcast on KWAD from 3 to 4 p.m., will feature music of the American West and feature some of the early folk singers of the region.
