Far Better Berlin Situation Than Unusual

BERLIN, May 20 — If the Berliners really want to see a new Cold War, they have no need to look any farther than the language of John F. Kennedy and Robert S. McNamara. The President and his Defense Secretary are the ones who have just declared that Berlin is under serious threat of attack from Communist East Germany.

This is not to say that Berlin is not under threat from East Germany. It is. But the threat is not as serious as Kennedy and McNamara claim. The threat is real, but it is not as serious as Kennedy and McNamara claim.

Kennedy and McNamara have been putting up a strong argument for a large-scale military buildup in Berlin. They have been saying that Berlin is under serious threat of attack from East Germany. They have been saying that Berlin is under serious threat of attack from East Germany.

But the threat is not as serious as Kennedy and McNamara claim. The threat is real, but it is not as serious as Kennedy and McNamara claim.
