Iowa City Again To Lose Emergency Vehicle Service

Iowa City will be without public emergency vehicle service as of Jan. 1, as the city council voted Tuesday to close the department.

The department was created in 1912 specifically for emergency service. It has had a very successful record of service.

In the next few days, the next three days and the next few weeks until the dockworkers' union strike ends, there will be no place to turn to for emergency service.

Emergency services in the city were unavailable for the first time in the history of the department.

It is to be hoped that the city council will reconsider its decision.
