Arielle Sfikas-Alsh the Shaff Plan

November 13, 1973

Tuesday

December 3 is coming: Shaff issues to be aired

GROFF, DECEMBER 3 comes up on us. The Shaff Plan, the Iowa Legislature's answer to fair appointment for the state, will be endorsed or rejected by the voters on that date.

The Iowa City Press-Citizen has heard of the Plan, and the majority of the voters probably have heard of it or cross it. It has been a topic of discussion at many places of employment. It is a question of how long we can continue to believe in the status quo.

The issues are not so striking in light of the complexities of the whole Shaff Plan debate. Nothing essential from the two sides: In favor Against the Shaff Plan and Citizens for Progress Against December 3 have detailed their positions. The arguments, if anything, tend to be more complex the more they are discussed. But we must be realistic. there are only a few simple statements left.

The Iowa Press will soon explain the Plan as simply as it can to the people of the state, in its weekly series, and perhaps we hope that the information will enable some people to vote an intelligent vote.

The intelligent vote, for example, on the Shaff Plan, will be a strong "No." We think it. We will be denying further alleged liability to the poor weeks to the meaning behind our vote. Iowa is a complex state. In a simple state, we can define our opposition in a simple model.

It is, we suspect, however, the last model for our therapy this year. We will be voting in a close election. The nature of the issues is not a simple model. We will be voting on the Shaff Plan, and if we must be realistic, we cannot define our opposition in a simple model.

We fully expect that we will, in fact, be voting on the Shaff Plan.

The Shaff Plan will probably more be familiar to the Iowa voters than the previous ones. The Shaff Plan, like the previous ones, is a complex model. We will be voting on the Shaff Plan as we would vote on the Shaff Plan.

We will vote our will to be with the Shaff Plan, and we will also vote against the Shaff Plan.

The Iowa Press will probably be familiar to the Iowa voters as the previous ones. The Iowa Press, like the previous ones, is a complex model. We will be voting on the Iowa Press as we would vote on the Iowa Press.

We will vote our will to be with the Iowa Press, and we will also vote against the Iowa Press.

Olympic Committee Vetoes JFK Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The debate between the Olympic Committee and the Federal Government over American participation in the 1968 Summer Games in Mexico City reached a new level Monday, when the Committee announced that it would not consider any athletes or teams from the United States that were entered in the Games.

The announcement came in a statement released by the Committee's President, Joseph V. Tobin, who said that the Committee had decided not to consider any athletes or teams from the United States that were entered in the Games.

The Committee's decision was based on its belief that the Games would not be able to proceed in a peaceful and friendly manner.

The move was seen as a major setback for the United States, which had been hoping to send a strong team to the Games.

The Committee's decision was praised by many of the athletes who had been eager to participate in the Games.

"It's a shame," said a leading American athlete. "We were really looking forward to representing our country on the world stage."

"But there's nothing we can do now," he added. "The Committee has made its decision and we have to respect it."

The Committee's move was seen as a major setback for the United States, which had been hoping to send a strong team to the Games.

Despite technical difficulties, a sold-out, and a family-sized program, Julie Lucas proved yesterday afternoon that all’s well at the Favre family.

Although she is best known for ‘The Unbelievable Molly Brown,’ her first foray into school musicals, ‘The Unsung Hero’ has become a favorite of the Favre family.

In 1959, Julie had her debut as Molly Brown in the musical ‘The Unsung Hero.’ The role has been played by many actors over the years, but it was Julie who brought the character to life.

The performance was one of the best yet at the Favre family. All the actors were well practiced and the family setting made for a heartwarming show.
