Chairman of a leading Republican Gains

WASHINGTON—President Nixon won his second term as the Republican Party candidate in the presidential race, becoming the first Republican since 1972 to win the White House.

Mr. Nixon, who won with 51% of the vote, defeated Democrat Hubert Humphrey, who took 49%.

Mr. Nixon's victory was a dramatic turnaround from the 1968 election, when he lost the White House to Lyndon B. Johnson.

In his victory speech, Mr. Nixon thanked his supporters and promised to work for the country's future.

"I want to thank all of you for your support," Mr. Nixon said. "Together, we can build a better future for all Americans."

Mr. Humphrey, who conceded defeat, said he supported Mr. Nixon's goals.

"I want to support the President," Mr. Humphrey said. "Let's work together for the good of the country."

When we say we want people for the outer limits, this isn’t what we have in mind.

Forget science fiction. We’re talking about the “outer limits” of technology. And these days it can be even more exciting than science fiction.

Right now IBM needs qualified men and women to help reach these outer limits. The kind of people who have made IBM the leader in today’s fast-growing major industry—informsation handling and control. And the kind of people who can grow with us as far as their talents and abilities allow.

The result? Greater personal responsibility and recognition, the dual satisfaction of personal achievement and continuing personal rewards. A pretty satisfying result.

Job opportunities at IBM are in six major areas: Computer Applications, Programming, Finance and Administration, Research and Development, Manufacturing and Marketing.

Whatever your immediate commitments, whatever your area of study, sign up now for an on-campus interview with IBM, November 21.

Construction Completed
For Six New Buildings

Construction work as on hold (and Philip Bell). The work stoppage, which was announced by the university administration, was in response to the financial crisis that has plagued the construction industry. The university has been struggling to secure funding for the new buildings, which are part of a larger plan to modernize and expand the campus facilities.

The new buildings, which are currently under construction, include a new library, a new science building, and a new teaching and learning center. The library will feature state-of-the-art technology and resources, while the science building will provide space for new research and teaching initiatives. The teaching and learning center will offer a range of services to support student success, including tutoring, academic advising, and study spaces.

The university administration has been working to secure funding for the new buildings, but so far, the efforts have been met with limited success. The university is now exploring other options, such as partnerships with private donors and grants from external sources.

We hope that the construction work will resume soon, allowing the university to proceed with its plans for the new buildings. In the meantime, we encourage all members of the university community to stay informed about the status of the construction project and to offer support in any way they can.
