The news at Middlesex College in Division 6 last weekend was that two students at the University of Iowa were shot to death on campus, just a few miles away. The city of Iowa City was plunged into chaos as hundreds of demonstrators took to the streets to protest the police actions.

The two students, who were members of a campus newspaper editorial board, were killed while covering a story. The paper, which was known for its investigative reporting, had recently published a series of articles exposing police brutality and racism.

The death of the two students has sparked outrage across the country, with calls for police reform and an end to police violence.

Commies on Coney Island

WASHINGTON: The United States has a problem with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), which is not new. The NAACP has made waves in the past and continues to do so today. They are responsible for a number of protests and demonstrations that have caught the attention of the media and the public.

The NAACP is not the only group that has raised concerns with the U.S. government. The Black Panther Party and other Black organizations have also been targets of government scrutiny. These groups have been accused of promoting violence and骚乱, and their members have been arrested and imprisoned.

Social work members ask full welfare budget

To the Editor:

Dear Sir, I cannot understand how some people can be so blind as to ignore the plight of the poor. I have been a social worker for many years, and I have seen firsthand the effects of poverty on individuals and families. The need for full welfare budget is imperative.

To the Reader:

Social workers, like all other professionals, are concerned with the welfare of their clients. We are trained to assess the needs of individuals and families and to develop plans to meet those needs. The full welfare budget is essential to ensure that all families have access to the resources they need to meet their basic needs.
Summer Repertory Theatre Changes Plans For Season

Three of the four plays originally scheduled for the Summer Repertory Theatre season have been changed. The productions are: "A Thousand Clowns" by Herb Gardner, "A Little Night Music" by Stephen Sondheim, and "The Fantasticks" by Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt.

"A Thousand Clowns" probably will not be produced this summer. "A Little Night Music" probably will be produced, but in the fall rather than in the summer. "The Fantasticks" probably will be produced, but at a different location than the Original Theatre Company's summer home in the Shakespearean tradition of the New Hampshire State Drama Festival.

The three productions will be the first and only three productions in this season's season, according to David Knauf, assistant professor of theater and arts at Grinnell College, who is associated with the production of the New Hampshire State Drama Festival.

Alcoholism Plan Draws Controversy

The governor's proposed alcoholism project, which was announced last week, has caused a storm of protests from throughout the state. The governor's proposal is to allow the state to ban the sale of alcoholic beverages to persons under 18 years of age.

Textbook Written By Prof. Alumna

Dorothy B. Brown, associate professor and chairman of the Department of Business Education, and Mary M. Slocum, an alumnus of the University of Iowa College of Business and a member of the faculty, have collaborated on a new textbook, "Records Management," which is scheduled to be published in the spring.

An interesting new feature of the new textbook is the story of Mary B. Brown, tells of her experiences in the business world. She had been employed as a bookkeeper in one of the largest firms in the city. Her experiences were so interesting that she decided to write about them in a book.

The book, which is based on the experiences of a former student, is intended to provide an introduction to the field of business management, and is intended for students in the field of business management.
Baseball Roundup

Nats Edge Angels
Washington's Bill Skloss hit a two-run double to lead the Nats over the Angels 11-3.)

Washington catcher was at bat and bunted the ball down the third base line. The Angels' shortstop gunned him down from center field.

Washington's catcher called a time-out in the seventh inning when the Angels' pitcher threw a wild pitch.

Washington's pitcher, who was working on a strict pitch count, was given a wife's day off to rest his arm.

Washington's catcher, who had been called for a check swing earlier in the game, was ruled to be in position to catch the ball.

Washington's right fielder, who had been batting .300 for the season, was given a rest day off.

Send Manpower

In a surprising move, the Daily Iowan announced that it would be outsourcing its delivery routes to a local transportation company.

According to the announcement, the Daily Iowan had been struggling to meet its delivery deadlines due to the increased demand for its product.

The move is expected to result in a more efficient delivery process, as the company will be able to provide more drivers and vehicles to cover the routes.

The Daily Iowan will continue to provide the same high-quality content, but with a more focused approach on its core mission of providing news and information to the community.

The company is currently seeking carriers for the following routes:

- Kate Daum (Monday Only)
- Carrie Stanley (Tuesday Only)
- Currier Hall (Wednesday Only)
- Finkbine Park (Thursday Only)
- North Park—Parklawn (Friday Only)

Applications are due by the end of the week, and interested candidates can submit their applications online at the Daily Iowan's website.

Fans Told Me, Says Champ Foyt

Foyt

INDIANA. - Bob Foyt has a story about Champ Foyt. He was the champ's father who died in 1964. A year after the elder Foyt's untimely death, his son, Bob Foyt, won the Sprint Car championship and the Grand National title in 1965. It was a remarkable feat, considering the circumstances.

Foyt said his father, who had won the Indy 500 in 1952 and 1960, was a strict disciplinarian and a man of few words. He was also a man who respected his son's privacy, Foyt said. "My father was a very quiet man," he said. "He didn't talk much, but when he did, he was very wise."

Foyt said his father had been a racing legend, and that his legacy would live on for generations. "My father was a champion," he said. "He was a man of the people, and he will be missed."

Hanoi Reported Committing More Troops; Need Seen For Additional U.S. Buildup

SARGENT — U.S. intelligence officers assessed Monday that President Lyndon B. Johnson has ordered the buildup of U.S. forces in Vietnam in the face of growing North Vietnamese aggressions. A buildup of 8,000 more U.S. troops

Peace Unit Holds Survey On Vietnam

The Colin Commission against the War in Vietnam, a newly formed group, is conducting a survey of University faculty and students, and has arranged for an interview with the UN Secretary General. The survey is expected to take place before the end of the semester, and the commission will release its findings after the interview.

2 Complex School Aid Plans Given Airing By Senate

SARGENT — The Senate committee on education is to receive a proposal for aid to local school districts, to be presented on Monday. The proposal, which is expected to be discussed at the hearing, would provide for the funding of local school districts, and includes a provision for the creation of a new committee to monitor and evaluate the progress of the aid.

The commission is charged with the responsibility of developing a plan for the distribution of federal funds to local school districts. The proposal is expected to be discussed at the hearing, and the committee is to make a decision on the proposal by the end of the week.
Rail Merger Plans Rejected

WASHINGTON — The Interstate Commerce Commission on Wednesday rejected petitions for various rail mergers, citing lack of public interest in the proposed changes.

The ICC said the mergers would not provide the benefits claimed by the railroads, and that they would harm the public interest.

The decisions were based on a review of the petitions, which were filed by several railroads seeking to merge their operations.

The ICC also said the mergers would not result in significant cost savings or other benefits to the public.

Several railroads had hoped to merge with others to create larger, more efficient rail systems, but the ICC said the proposed mergers did not meet the standards for approval.

The railroads had argued that the mergers would improve service and reduce costs, but the ICC said the evidence presented did not support these claims.

The decisions were part of a broader effort by the ICC to review and approve proposed mergers in the transportation industry.
