Senate's action lauded

The action the Student Senate took Tuesday night making food accommmodations should be applauded by all University students. In effect, the Senate decided that if it were to continue to exist, it must have some real reason to do so.

The Senate has been merely a Mickey-mouse affair. The significant operations that were demanded of it meetings were not matters owing which the Senate's decisions made a great deal of difference. The Bill says many of the University administration on these significant matters.

The situation concerning student priviliges at the University has been rather unalusual. The administration, with the exception of a few individual cases, seems to have been in favor of leaving the students' private affairs to the students.

But the reason that was never always given to students trying to achieve student freedom was that any change must come gradually. Supposedly parents, school, legislatures
and other "friends" of the University are not in favor of such a revolution, be-

Krewson As Veep

To NETTY BECKER

The Student Senate's move to repeal the resolution of June 13 approving the appointment of Thomas V. Morris as the official representative of the Student Senate to the National Student Association was approved by the senate yesterday after an eight hour debate.

Morris's resignation was opposed by the present Senate, which also opposed his appointment as the official representative of the Student Senate.

A motion of no confidence was defeated by a vote of 9 to 6, with 3 abstentions.

The Senate then passed a resolution authorizing the Senate to appoint an alternative representative to the National Student Association.

GARY K. VELD - Legal Aid

The Student Senate has appointed a new representative to the National Student Association, effective immediately.

The new representative is GARY K. VELD, a junior majoring in Business Administration.

Velde has been a member of the Student Senate for two years and has served on various committees.

He has also been active in intramural programs, serving as a member of the Student Senate's Intramural Committee.

Velde has been instrumental in the formation of the Student Senate's Alcohol and Drug Abuse Committee.

He has been a leader in the Student Senate's efforts to improve the quality of life for students at the University of Iowa.

Velde's appointment is effective immediately, and he will serve until the next Senate meeting.

Velde will be responsible for representing the University of Iowa at the National Student Association meetings and for working to promote the interests of students at the University of Iowa.

Velde will also serve on the Student Senate's executive committee and will participate in the formulation of the Student Senate's policy on a wide range of issues.

Velde will be assisted in his work by the Student Senate's staff, which includes the executive officer, the administrative officer, and the chief of staff.

The Student Senate is committed to ensuring that Velde has the resources he needs to carry out his responsibilities effectively.

The Student Senate's decision to appoint Velde is consistent with its commitment to student representation and its efforts to improve the quality of life for students at the University of Iowa.

The Student Senate is proud to welcome Velde to the National Student Association and to wish him every success in his new role.

Sputnik Launched U.S. Space Research

The year was 1957. The Soviet Union launched Sputnik, the first artificial satellite, and the world was forever changed. As a result of this event, the United States began to invest heavily in space research and development. This page from a newspaper article by Van Allen discusses his role in this exciting new field.

Van Allen was a physicist who had been working on atomic energy and physics at the University of Chicago and the University of Wisconsin. He was also a member of the team that first detected cosmic rays and developed the theory of the Van Allen radiation belts. In 1958, he was appointed director of the newly founded University of Iowa's Institute of Space Science.

The article highlights his early work in the field of cosmic rays and how this research led to the discovery of the Van Allen radiation belts. It also describes his efforts to establish a space research program at the University of Iowa and his subsequent work on the TIROS project, which was the first weather satellite launched by the United States.

Van Allen's contributions to space research were significant and far-reaching. He was a key figure in the development of the field and his work continues to influence our understanding of space phenomena today.

Student Wins Scholarship, Chair Again
By CINDY HOLLAND
A $2,000 music scholarship and a furnishings prize were among the many awards given to students at the fall
student street fair in downtown Iowa City.

The highlight of the evening was the awarding of the scholarship to Margaret Bauer, a 19-year-old sophomore majoring in music at the University of Iowa. Bauer was selected from a field of 12 students who entered the competition, which was open to all full-time undergraduate students.

Bauer, who is a member of the University's orchestra and chorus, said she plans to use the scholarship to help finance her education.

"I'm really excited about winning," Bauer said. "This is a great opportunity for me, and I'm grateful to the donors who made it possible.

The scholarship was established in memory of John and Margaret R. Kut, who were both active in the arts community in Iowa City.

Bauer said she is looking forward to performing with the orchestra and chorus in the near future.

In other news, the University's electronic music group, known as the "Hawkeye Bar," will hold a supper at 5:30 p.m. on Feb. 10 in the University's electronic music studio.

The event is open to all students and will feature a variety of music, including live performances by members of the group.

The "Hawkeye Bar" is a student-run club that provides a forum for musicians to perform and explore new musical ideas.

In addition to the scholarship and supper, the fair featured a variety of other activities, including a"take" sale of used goods, a bake sale, and a "play a musical instrument" contest.

The fair was organized by the University's student activities board and was held in cooperation with the city's downtown development agency.

The fair is a popular event that draws thousands of people each year.

The University is home to one of the largest and most diverse student corporations in the country.
