Despite Recent Setbacks, Columbus Fans Rally

By JOHN BALLEY

Today is historically a special and significant day for the Columbus residents, as it marks the official opening of the season with the 1980-1981 campaign. Although the season has started off with a few setbacks, the team has shown great resilience and determination to bounce back. The Columbus fans have rallied behind their team, providing a strong support network. The energy at the games has been electric, with fans cheering loudly and showing their support. The team has responded with a determination to improve and deliver a competitive performance on the field.

The Columbus fans have been instrumental in boosting the morale of the players and keeping the team motivated. The dedication of the fans is a testament to the strong bond between the team and its supporters. As the season progresses, the fans continue to lend their support, and the team looks forward to their unwavering backing.
RESPONSIBLE ACTIONS NEEDED FROM DES MOINES REGISTER

On the front page of The Des Moines Register Wednesday was a lengthy "news note" concerning a letter to the editor of The Daily Iowa.

The way the Register handled the fairly negligible piece of news is an impetus to the reader of this clearly-written newspaper.

The "news story" consisted of about a page of the letter to the editor, published in the 11th section, with two paragraphs of introduction. Although the article of the letter made no claim that the opinions expressed in the letter were those of anyone other than the writer, the effect of the article for many readers might have been to indicate that the writer's opinions were those of a majority of University students.

The writer of the letter used "we" as if he were speaking for a great number of University students. I feel that he has no objective reason for thinking a large number of other students agree with him. So it was misleading for the writer to say he was speaking for anyone other than himself.

But the design of the whole thing is that the Register gives the letter such prominent play. There are probably thousands of people around the state who now have the idea that any student who wants the University to end its paternalistic regulation of students must be an academic outcast from academic concern.

If the letter from a single University student was so important in that respect and I don't think it was, the Register should have at least asked for the comments of responsible student leaders about it. Virtually any responsible student leader would have expressed opinion contrary to those of the letter.

The injury has been done, however, and there's little any of us can do about it right now. But we should demand more responsible actions from the Register in the future.

BOWEN CITES IMPORTANCE OF DEFINING STUDENT COSTS

The economic cost, on the other hand, reflects the true cost to the student in attending college. It is a different matter and concerns the student's actual outlay for college expenses. It includes the cost of tuition, books, room and board, and transportation; it is the total amount of money a student must spend to attend college. It does not take into account how much help he receives from his family or from financial aid in the form of loans or scholarships.

Individuals have different standards of what they consider acceptable costs. Some may consider a college education more important than a roof over their heads or food on the table, while others may find it acceptable to sacrifice personal luxuries for a college education. But without a clear understanding of the true cost, students may be misled into thinking they can afford college tuition when they really cannot afford it.

Fortunately, most students are able to secure the financial aid they need to cover their out-of-pocket costs. However, this can only happen if the student is aware of the true cost of college and has a clear understanding of the various forms of financial aid available to them.

The importance of defining student costs cannot be overstated. It is essential for students to have a clear understanding of the true cost of college in order to make informed decisions about their education. They must be aware of the different forms of financial aid available to them and how they can use these resources to their advantage.

Play Will Try To "Blow Your Mind"

By SUSIE MCGOWAN

DAILY IOWA—Join us downtown for a special preview of the play: "Dial M for Murder." The play is based on a novel by American mystery and detective writer, Alfred Hitchcock. It is directed by Dr. Tony Perry, who has been given the title of Chair of the Department of Theatre and Dance.

The play is set at a time when the audience is in the dark. The central character, Leonard, is a love interest for his wife, Margot. Leonard is not only a suave and sophisticated businessman but also an expert in the surveillance of his home. The play's plot turns on a murder that takes place during a phone call between the two. The audience is taken on a journey through the darkly lit room where the murder takes place, creating a sense of suspense and tension.

The play is scheduled for an opening night on Friday, November 11, at 8 p.m. in the University Theatre. Tickets are available at the door or可通过网上购票。
Social Security Still

Backbone Of Welfare

By ELIZABETH ISGAIN

Social Security is 20 years old today. It has meant a lot to the working people of the nation and has been a stabilizing influence. It has also been a source of revenue for the government.

The program was established in 1935 with the passage of the Social Security Act. It was designed to provide a safety net for workers who became disabled, retired, or needed assistance due to a family crisis.

According to Ray Vanderhoef, manager of the University Book Store, the program has been successful in meeting its goals.

"The program has been well received by the public," Vanderhoef said. "It has provided a needed safety net for many people."
A Concert To Feature French Music Debut

By CHRISTINE NEWELL

A special international event is scheduled on Thursday afternoon September 21st at 2:30 PM. The French government has invited the Center for New Music, a center for the support of experimental music, to present a French music concert in honor of the 13th Special Varsity Scare Show at the Orono High School. The Center for New Music is an arts organization that supports socially conscious and experimental artists and musicians. The concert will feature works by French composers such as Darius Milhaud, Francis Poulenc, and Georges Auric. The performers will include soloists, chamber ensembles, and an orchestra under the direction of Jean-Louis Arpino. The concert is a significant event for the Center for New Music as it marks its second year of operations and its first international performance.

Ambulances Run Smoothly

By ALBERT S. GROUSEL

Iowa Citysentatives of the new city ambulance service, which became effective on the first day of the month, are hopeful that they will be able to serve the public in a more efficient manner. They indicated that better ambulance service is needed in the city than is now available. There have been many instances in recent months when the ambulance service was not available when needed. The new service is expected to be a great improvement in this respect.

Old Debt Plagues An Iowa County

STORM LAKE — Edward Schneider, a local lawyer, has been appointed as the new county attorney for Storm Lake, which recently assumed a $15,000 debt. Schneider, a long-time resident of the county, is expected to serve the county in this capacity.

The appointment was made by the county commissioners, who stated that they were pleased with the appointment. Schneider has been associated with the county legal department for many years and has been active in local affairs. He is expected to work closely with the county attorney and other county officials to ensure the proper handling of legal matters.

Hubbard To Discuss Problems With Mayors

Mayor William C. Hubbard is one of the many city attorneys who have been appointed in recent months. He is expected to serve the city in this capacity.

Hubbard has been associated with the city legal department for many years and has been active in local affairs. He is expected to work closely with the mayor and other city officials to ensure the proper handling of legal matters.
SEE BOTH SIDES OF THE MEAT BEFORE YOU BUY!

Now our butchers are packaging every fresh-cut morsel of meat in clear plastic trays so you can see everything — the cut, amount of fat, and bone — from every side.

As of now we are retiring the old tray. Unlike yesterday's trays, these trays are really freezer-ready without rewrapping or labeling. The trays won't stick and leave fuzz on the meat, either . . . or lock up precious juices that help steaks and chops cook up tender and tasty.

It's our pleasure to prove that we've got the finest meat in town ... no matter how you look at it.
