Belly Dancer Teaches Public Relations Class

By DON YASER

Elmer Viney, who's been teaching a class on the art and business of belly dancing in Iowa City, decided to spice up his course on Thursday morning.

"This is a course on belly dancing," said Viney, who was teaching his class at the University of Iowa. "It's not about public relations, but it's about how to present yourself to the public."

He said the class is open to anyone who wants to learn about belly dancing, including students from the University of Iowa and neighboring colleges. The class meets every Thursday morning and covers a range of topics, from basic moves to more advanced techniques.

"I try to make the class fun and engaging," said Viney. "I want people to feel comfortable and learn something new."

The class is held in a small studio in the north end of Iowa City. The room is filled with mirrors and lights, creating an atmosphere conducive to learning. Students are encouraged to participate and ask questions.

Viney said he enjoys teaching the class because "it's a way to share knowledge and learn from others." He added that the class is open to anyone who wants to learn about belly dancing, including students from the University of Iowa and neighboring colleges.

Candidates Get Briefing On Housing Situation

By CHERYL NAVISON

Eight candidates, representing five political parties, appeared at a housing briefing Thursday night at the University of Iowa bookstore.

The candidates discussed topics such as rent control, property tax reform, and the affordable housing crisis.

"While there are many challenges facing our community, one thing that's clear is that we need to work together to find solutions," said one candidate.

The candidates were enthusiastic about the opportunity to share their ideas and connect with residents. They hoped to hear from as many people as possible.

Administration Hoping Senate Beats Budget Cut

WASHINGTON — Administrators hope the Senate will not pass a budget cut that was recently approved by the House.

"We're hopeful that the Senate will reject the budget cut," said one administrator. "It would be devastating for our institution."

Vietnam war veteran criticizes U.S. involvement

To the Editor:

I am a veteran of the Vietnam War, and have just returned from a tour of duty in the South Vietnamese armed forces. I am writing this letter to express my thoughts on the current situation in Vietnam, and the role of the United States in this war.

I believe that the United States is making a serious mistake by continuing to send troops to Vietnam. The war is a losing one, and we are not winning.

I believe that the United States should stop sending troops to Vietnam and start working towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict. We should be trying to help the people of Vietnam to find a way to live in peace and prosperity.

I urge the United States government to take a more active role in finding a peaceful solution to the Vietnam war.

Sincerely,

NEW YORK — Hundreds of overweight children and adult social workers sat in small rooms surrounded by a sea of place settings and eating trash for a 1 1/2-hour-old girl buried in an ice chest.

The scene, played out in four rooms and made available in four cities across the country, was the opening of the second annual National School Bus Accident Prevention Week. The event was sponsored by the School Bus Accident Prevention Committee.

The program, designed to show the hazards associated with school buses, was presented by the New York City Board of Education. It was part of a national campaign to educate parents and young people about the dangers of school bus transportation.

The program began with a brief introduction by the mayor of New York City, who spoke about the importance of safety in school transportation and the need for continued education and awareness.

The first segment of the program focused on the risks associated with riding a school bus. It highlighted the dangers of standing too close to the bus door, not looking before crossing the street, and not paying attention to traffic signals or signs.

The second segment addressed the importance of wearing seat belts and using proper child safety seats. It featured a demonstration of proper seat belt use and highlighted the benefits of using booster seats for children.

The final segment focused on the role of parents and teachers in promoting safe school bus travel. It emphasized the importance of setting a good example by following safety guidelines and teaching children about the dangers of school bus transportation.

After the program, participants were encouraged to take action by signing a pledge to support school bus safety efforts. The event concluded with a group photograph of all those in attendance.

The School Bus Accident Prevention Committee is a national organization dedicated to promoting safety in school transportation. It is composed of representatives from school districts, transportation agencies, and other organizations involved in the transportation of students.

The committee's mission is to reduce the number of school bus accidents and injuries through education, advocacy, and collaboration with other organizations and stakeholders.

The second annual National School Bus Accident Prevention Week was an opportunity for schools to raise awareness about the importance of school bus safety and to engage the community in efforts to promote safe school transportation.

They Promise To

Discard the proposed Federal Urban Renewal Program for Iowa City and adopt measures to create favorable conditions for necessary renewal by private enterprise.

Federal Urban Renewal Is Un-American

It permits our City Council to confiscate the real and personal property rights of a person, against his will, at less than fair market value, and at taxpayer's expense. Not one penny of Federal Urban Renewal money goes to build a new building. Instead, it is used to gain possession and to wreck the bulldozer.

Federal Urban Renewal Will Raise Local Taxes

Under this plan, the downtown business area would be removed from the tax rolls for from two to ten years. There is no guarantee that this property, once it is acquired and bulldozed, will ever get back on the tax rolls.

Keokuk, Iowa, downtown Federal Renewal Area, after two years, is a weed patch. Not one brick has been laid. It, too, is off the tax roll.

Des Moines, Iowa, has contacted real estate men all over the state, asking help in selling the land its Federal Urban Renewal Authority has been unable to sell. It, too, is off the tax roll.

TAX MONEY LOST DUE TO FEDERAL URBAN RENEWAL WILL BE ADDED TO THE TAX BILL ON YOUR HOME

They Promise To

Adopt by ordinance, the Council-Manager-ward form of City Government, as provided for in a Bill, passed by 1967 Legislature. Under the Council-Manager-Ward Plan, the city would be divided into four wards. One council member would be elected from each ward. Two other council members and a mayor would be elected at large, making up a seven-member council.

The Council-Manager-Ward Plan Is Good

It is bipartisan. Mrs. Doderer, a Democrat, and Mr. Yoder, a Republican, both Johnson County State Legislators, successfully introduced the Bill in the 1967 Legislature. Des Moines, Iowa, recently, with the help of the League of Women Voters, adopted the Council-Manager-Ward Plan.

The Council-Manager-Ward Plan stimulates greater interest in local elections. It broadens the base for local elections so that no small but well-organized group can elect their own council.
