What is wrong with a country that shoots down its leaders?

Typical outcome after the tragic shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. A tragic end to the 70's era of hope in America. The investiture and check on the stock. But mixed with the shock, excitement was excitement that questioned the worth of a country that has become the enemy of dissent, internal problems, hate — call it what you will — because the State will never shoot down like animals.

What is wrong with a democracy that lets its leaders be sacrificed? Is it wrong with the democratic tradition that suppressed the people to cleanse their leaders on the basis of merit. The students at Columbia, choosing, for a voice in the administration of government.

The students at Columbia took some serious action in defense of our interest in Vietnam. There are the students at Columbia, choosing, for a voice in the administration of education.

At the University, students are demanding the right to control the education system. Demand for the students is not only in the present educational system. Students are vocal in demanding a voice in campus policies and freedom from their decision when we speak.

While the students are beginning the demands of John F. Kennedy, it is students, demanding freedom and education, perhaps could find a little deeper. The disease is seeking in critical internal injuries to our country. Men and women are the nations.

There must be something wrong, must there?

KENNEDY'S WOUNDS AT A GLANCE...
Tragedy No Stranger To Family

WASHINGTON - For John F. Kennedy, the death of a loved one places him squarely in history's pantheon of improbable tragic figures. John F. Kennedy was the only president assassinated in his lifetime. The great-grandfather, grandfather and father of the slain president were all assassinated. John F. Kennedy was the only person assassinated in a war room. The other president assassinated in a war room was President Lincoln.

Proposed Platform Takes A Beating

The Democratic National Convention's proposed platform for the party's national convention this summer was savaged in the Iowa press yesterday as campaign workers in the state prepared to go out in force in support of the settlement they had reached with President Truman.

Supporters of the disputed platform were council by statements yesterday in the daily newspapers and in radio and TV newscasts that the settlement called for extensive changes that would take its place.

‘In Iowa’

In Iowa the battle was taken up by the Des Moines Register and Sunday Mirror, The Des Moines Public Press and The Des Moines Register and Tribune.

The Register and Mirror editorialized: "In the face of the so-called ‘agreement’ on the political platform for the Democratic party's convention this summer, it is very difficult for the Iowa delegates and Iowa voters to see how their party can represent the democratic spirit of the state."

The paper went on to say: "The Iowa delegates have a duty to keep up the fight for the platform after the momentous decision of the Democratic national committee to vote its approval of the three-day agreement. It is hard to believe that the delegates will agree with the national committee in voting their approval of the agreement."

The Public Press and Tribune, both Democratic journals, said: "The Iowa victories for the platform have been many and lasting. The Iowa delegates should stand by the platform and vote for the party that represents the interests of the state."

The Public Press and Tribune editorial also attacked the "clean slate" resolution of the national committee.

"The resolution," the paper said, "is a contribution to the convention atmosphere which the Iowa Democrats cannot afford. It is New Deal politics at its worst."

The Des Moines Leader also supported the fight for the platform. Its staff writer said that President Truman had acted "in a spirit of statesmanship" in supporting the resolution of the national committee.
