ROSE HANDBOOK

According to the Rose Handbook, a trend towards a more environmentally friendly lifestyle has been observed. This trend is characterized by increased interest in local produce, reduced use of chemicals in agriculture, and a greater emphasis on sustainability in daily life. The handbook suggests that this shift is driven by a growing concern for the health of the planet and the well-being of future generations.

Real World Marketing

A new study released last week by the Real World Marketing Institute found that consumers are increasingly seeking out products and services that are aligned with their values. The study, which surveyed over 2,000 consumers, revealed that 65% of respondents said they were willing to pay more for products that were environmentally friendly, socially responsible, or ethically produced. The findings suggest a strong correlation between personal values and purchasing behavior, with consumers placing a higher value on companies that align with their beliefs.

The Future with Cyclamate

Cyclamate is a sweetener that has been widely used in the food industry for its low caloric content and its ability to mimic the sweet taste of sugar. However, its use has been controversial due to concerns about its potential health effects. A recent study published in the Journal of Nutrition found that cyclamate consumption was associated with higher levels of adiponectin, a hormone that regulates insulin sensitivity and can help prevent the development of obesity. The study suggests that further research is needed to fully understand the implications of cyclamate use on health.

Pope Told to Ask Bishops’ Advice

VATICAN CITY, June 8— Pope Paul VI ordered an investigation into a series of events surrounding the death of a 70-year-old man who was reported to have died of a heart attack at the Vatican on Thursday.

The man, referred to as the “man of the hour,” died after being transferred to a hospital in Rome from the Vatican. The cause of death was not immediately known.

The Pope expressed his concern and asked the bishops to condemn the events and to take corrective measures.

Penalty Lifted In Pot Case

A man who was found guilty of conspiracy to distribute marijuana in a Washington, D.C., hotel has had his sentence reduced.

The man, who was a member of a marijuana-selling group, was sentenced to five years in prison. The sentence was reduced to three years.

House Gets Mine Safety Bill; Fight on Amendment Foreseen

WASHINGTON, June 7— Legislation proposing tough new mine safety and health rules for coal miners was before the Senate Thursday, almost a year after the measure first entered the Senate in February.

The bill, which would have failed, but for a last-minute change by some senators, was sent back to the Senate for further consideration.

President Kennedy is expected to try to override it.

Iowa in Good Shape for Spartans

By GARY HALE

The Iowa Hawkeyes finished right through on both offense and defense, spirited victory over Missouri in last Saturday's game put the Hawkeyes in line for a return to the Big Ten title game, and the next two games will be just as exciting as

By John Muller, 9-18, 10pm.

Muller said that the Hawkeyes have had very good practices of late, and they are ready for a repeat performance. He also said that the Hawkeyes will be ready to face the Spartans, who have been playing well in recent games.

UI Stargazer Helps In Planet Discovery

A University student who could not decide between astronomy and squeezing every last drop out of a potato chip at the Twin Seafood Stand has discovered a new planet.

"I was just standing there, staring at the sky," said John Neff, "when I noticed something moving through the clouds. I thought it was a plane, but then I realized it was something new." Neff said the planet is about the size of the moon, but it is much further away. He estimated it to be about 50,000 light-years away. Neff said he is taking the planet seriously and has already named it "Neff."

Placing Student Teachers Is Hard

By University News Service

If the day ever comes when the University of Iowa

is able to place student teachers in the classrooms of all school districts, it will be a major accomplishment for the College of Education.

Dean Gray is in charge of

placing student teachers for the University. He
