Formed Director Of Security Unit
Hits Staff Lack

The Wesleyan Security Facility's built-in lack of security will continue for at least two years because the building had been planned to house the security staff. The facility was purchased from the American Security Agency, said Robert B. Day, Wesleyan's security manager.

Day said that since the facility had not been designed with security in mind, it is not possible to install additional security measures. The facility was purchased in 1970 for use as a police station, and was later converted to a security facility.

The facility was designed to hold 200 people, but only 100 are currently housed there. The remaining 100 are housed in a separate building.

The facility has been praised by some for its design, which includes a large open area and a central control room. However, it has also been criticized for its lack of security features.

Day said that the facility's design was not intended to be secure, but rather to provide a comfortable environment for the staff. The security measures that have been installed are primarily for the convenience of the staff, rather than to deter crime.

Democracy in action

About a month ago People magazine reported that 222 UU students at a base in West Germany were warned.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

The soldiers were not told where the sentence came from — neither when I, nor the morning after, read the statement if they agreed with it, or not.

Three or two refused to participate.

But that “ain’t” half of it. In Frisco, Minn., the Brainerd County High School student council met in secret to study that city. The students simulated the first Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, confining that they intended to add it to the law.

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances;" the Constitution states.

Of 125 persons polled, only 1 per cent of those interviewed agreed, and 35 per cent disagreed, and 21 per cent said they didn’t know.

But more interesting than the students who hadn’t read the Constitution was the students who had read the Constitution. For example, like me you lack a self-esteem.

I asked a city hall worker, a man who had been there for a year, how old was the last year’s girl. Another girl was too young to have taken her mother’s place last year but you’re a girl. I never say anything. I just do what the younger generation do."

A setting that can serve our speaking. We know. But remember, kids, the adults, to do.

The most developed in Europe is a funny set of rules that limit German students. For example, for members of the Federal German Student Organizing Union (FDG) to vote in a referendum, a 20 per cent quorum must be attained.

On the other hand, Germany’s success in this field has been limited due to the economic downturn. For example, for members of the Federal German Student Organizing Union (FDG) to vote in a referendum, a 20 per cent quorum must be attained.

To the Editor:

In your issue of October 19, 11, you bring up an editorial by the University of California at Berkeley student journalists.

"I think the students will not be satisfied with the new sprinkling of evidence on the campus. The students have never been satisfied with the new sprinkling of evidence on the campus."

It is too early to say how much of the evidence will be collected and analyzed by the University of California at Berkeley student journalists.

REPEALING PROHIBITION

Are we in the second prohibition era — has badly-diluted gin been replaced by illegal alcohol? That’s just what many people are believing.

But other factors should also be considered. The drinking of alcohol is not just an evil but it is also evil to say that it is evil. The drinking of alcohol can be a dangerous habit.

In fact, we have learned that there are many reasons why people drink. Some say it is because they enjoy the taste, others say it is because it is bad for them.

So we must consider whether we should be prohibiting the use of alcohol or not. The use of alcohol has many consequences, some of which are positive and some of which are negative.

A middle course seems the best. President Nixon strongly supports Congress and the aid to supply the demand.

The Social Democratic Party (SPD) of West Germany has come out against prohibition.

It is important to consider the consequences of prohibition. It is important to consider the consequences of prohibition.

I am very grateful that this lady has come to the White House meeting of new students in New York, according to a statement she has made.

Student Senate Rejects 2 Separate Bills
To Discontinue or Revise ROTC Here

The bills calling for Student Senate to ask for discontinuance (a) or revision of the University's Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) program were rejected by a Senate meeting Tuesday night. The bill asked Senate to recommend that the University terminate the program at the completion of the current training year. The Senate action was taken by a roll-call vote of 129-38 (with a 19-0 abstention). The bill, which would have terminated the program on an extra-curricular basis, was defeated by a roll-call vote of 108-60. The bill was submitted by Senator John Avery, Bower, Iowa City.

Lawrence, who is rated one of the best defensive backs in the country, has been practicing for the last two weeks in preparation for Saturday's game against the University of Iowa's football team.
By TIM LIMANDO
After six months of playing defense for the varsity, Coach Karl Jury, Lawrence's fiery captain, was moved to playing big brother to the rest of the Gridders. He was the best defensive back on the team and the class leader as well.

Jury's energy and enthusiasm were contagious. The players were more than happy to have a leader who could guide and motivate them. Jury was the captain of the defense, and his presence in the game helped the team win.

Lawrence, as the senior, was the leader of the team, and the younger players looked up to him. His strong leadership skills made him an integral part of the team.

In the fourth quarter of the game, when the Gophers were on the offense, Jury intercepted the ball and returned it for a touchdown, sealing the victory for Lawrence. His play was a testament to his leadership and determination.

This victory was a big boost for the team, and it solidified their position at the top of the league. The players were elated, and their spirits were high. They knew that with Jury leading the way, they could achieve anything.

Jury was a true leader, and his presence on the field was a source of inspiration for the players. They knew that they could rely on him in any situation, and it was this trust that helped them win.

The victory was a sweet victory, as it was a come-from-behind win for Lawrence. The team had been struggling for most of the season, but with Jury leading the way, they were able to turn things around.

In the end, it was a testament to the power of leadership and teamwork. Jury's presence on the field was a reminder that with the right leadership, anything is possible.

The victory was sweet, and the team was elated. They knew that they had played their best and had come out on top. They were ready to face the challenges ahead, knowing that with Jury leading the way, they could overcome any obstacle.

UI Korean Says U.S. Has 'Defeatism'

President Tho'man declared during the Korean War that the United Nations troops—probably U.S. troops—would be able to win the war.

The objective of the U.S. commanders was to prevent the North Korean and South Korean troops from driving the U.S. forces back into South Korea, he said.

"It was approved," he pointed out.

"This means that most of the federal resources have been going over the border," he continued. "In some areas, it's almost a form of assistance." He added that the approval of marijuana for medical use has opened the door to a wider range of products, including hemp and other derivative products, which could lead to increased demand for legal marijuana.

"The approval of marijuana has been a leap forward," he said. "But it's also opened the door to a wider range of products, including hemp and other derivative products, which could lead to increased demand for legal marijuana."

The attorney general suggested that the federal government should work with states to develop a regulatory framework for marijuana that is both safe and effective, and that the approval of marijuana should be seen as a starting point for a broader discussion about drug policy and criminal justice reform.

"We need to think about how we can use the approval of marijuana as a catalyst for broader discussions about drug policy and criminal justice reform," he said. BOYD COLLEGE

Kopechne To Be In High Court

BOYD, Conn. (AP) — The University of Chicago and the University of Connecticut, two of the nation's highest-ranking universities, have reached a settlement Thursday that allows the University of Connecticut to withdraw from the National Conference of the University of Chicago.

But it is not the end of the road for the University of Connecticut. The university has already announced that it will continue to pursue the arrangement it made with the National Conference of the University of Chicago.

The decision was reached after the two universities had exchanged letters and a meeting that lasted more than two hours.

The resolution of the dispute was reached after a heated debate on the campus of the University of Chicago.

As a result of the decision, the University of Connecticut will continue to be a member of the National Conference of the University of Chicago.

The decision is expected to be announced in a press release in the near future.
