Gregory To Speak
Here Feb. 16

Canadian Dick Gregory, one of the most outspoken and original satirists of modern times, will speak at the University at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. He is appearing sponsored by the University Union. The presentation will be before an estimated audience of 1,500. Gregory, who writes in a candid and entertaining style about the rights of the South African and other black populations, has been blacklisted in South Africa, but he is now campaigning in the U.S. against the whites-only apartheid system. He has long been a proponent of the South African blacklist, the so-called "Khosa Plan," which would allow for a free and open society for all South Africans. His efforts have been supported by a number of organizations, including the United Nations and the African National Congress (ANC).

Tennis Star Denied Visa
For Meet By South Africa

CYPRESS, California - It was a day of triumph for Arthur Ashe, who won his 18th straight match to reach the fourth round of the U.S. Open, and for the tennis game to receive a much-needed boost. The U.S. Davis Cup team, which had been under the management of Dick Egan, announced that it would send a team to South Africa to play in the World Group match against the South African team. The announcement was made at a news conference in New York City, where Ashe was scheduled to play in the U.S. Open.

Senate Adopts Bill
Lowering Voting Age

WASHINGTON - The Senate has adopted a bill to lower the voting age from 21 to 18, with a three-vote margin. The bill was introduced by Senator John Glenn, a Democrat from Ohio, and was favored by a majority of the Senate. The bill, which was passed in the Senate on a vote of 64-31, now goes to the House for consideration.

Steven R. Weinberg

The idea, suggested by Nixon himself in his address to Congress last year, has been met with a mixed response. While some have praised it as a step forward in the fight against crime, others have criticized it as a gimmick that will not solve the problem.

Senate Debates, Passes
Strict Drug-Control Bill

WASHINGTON - The Senate has passed a strict drug-control bill that would make it illegal to sell or buy any drug except under a prescription. The bill, which was sponsored by Senator Edward Kennedy, a Democrat from Massachusetts, passed the Senate on a vote of 62-31.

President Ford signed the bill into law on Friday, bringing it to the attention of the public.

American railroads: who needs 'em?

BY RY KUEPPEL
WASHINGTON — The American railroads should be taxed on profits, rather than on sales, to reduce their influence over the nation's economy, and possibly even to help finance the deficit, a panel of experts said yesterday.

The panel, which included economists, historians, and transportation experts, said that the tax system is too concentrated on sales taxes and that the railroads should be taxed on their profits, in addition to the sales tax.

The panelists also recommended that the railroads be required to report their profits on a quarterly basis, rather than on an annual basis, as is currently done.

The panel was sponsored by the Washington-based Institute for Taxation and Education, which has been studying the tax system for the past decade.

American railroads currently pay a sales tax on all of their goods and services, but the panelists said that a profit tax would be more effective at reducing the influence of the railroads.

The panelists noted that the railroads are a major source of income for the federal government, and that a profit tax would help to reduce the fiscal burden on the government.

They also argued that a profit tax would help to ensure that the railroads are not using their market power to manipulate the market.

WASHINGTON -- In Supreme Court nominee G. Harald Carswell's nomination, the Senate Judiciary Committee was divided. Senator Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said he would rec­ ind the committee to order, and the Senate Review ed Carswell's nomination. The Senate, by a vote of 73 to 27, confirmed the nomination. Chief Justice Earl Warren administered the oath of office to Carswell.

Carswell, 51, will replace retired Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, who died in office last month. He is the first Jew to serve on the Supreme Court.

"I am proud to be on the Supreme Court," Carswell said. "I am honored to have the opportunity to serve."

Gamble explained. That was also the case with the University housing. Students were involved in the process of making decisions, but not enough to make them feel like they were part of the project.

The University cooperatives were different. Students were working on a project that they had a say in. They were not just consumers, but also producers. They could make decisions about the project and see the results of their work.

Gamble explained. This is in contrast to the University housing, where students were just consumers.

The University cooperatives were successful because students were involved in the process. They were able to see the results of their work and feel like they were part of the project. This was not the case with the University housing.

Seamans: South Viets to Fly Half of Air Missions in '71

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Security sources from a Friday inspection tour of the Air Force Robert C. Seamans Jr., reported Wednesday the South Vietnamese will be able to take over half of the air war in Vietnam by the end of next year. The South Vietnamese currently fly 25 per cent of the air missions, and are progressing satisfactorily in making the first major improvements to their 3,000-year-old air force.

"We must not expect too much for the South Vietnamese air force to be self-sufficient in aircraft and air bases in the next four years," Seamans said. "This does not mean, however, that we do not expect the South Vietnamese air force to be capable of doubling this rate of air activity in the next year or three.

The Vietnamese pilots and mechanics have already demonstrated a capability of痘痘ing this rate in the past four years and three quarters, which recently increased from more than 500 sorties. They said the Vietnamese air force's new aircraft modernization program is nearly complete with that of the United States.

The Air Force chief said he had been encouraged by his visit to the Vietnamese Air Force's former Tachen air base, the summer of its own base in the Central Highlands of the country. Preparations officials said the increase was being made to improve the production rate of aircraft and to establish a training center.

"The Vietnamese government has specified in its national program an increase in 1,000 public schools and other projects.

"Schools have increased by 30 percent, the United States has increased by 10 percent, and the Vietnamese have increased the air force by 20 percent," Seamans said. "The Vietnamese air force will be getting additional capabilities of aircraft that is their own air force has increased, including 13 relatively simple-to-operate F-5 fighter-bombers and the propeller-driven AL.

"The Vietnamese government is committed to increasing its air power at a rate of about 20 percent a year for the next four years, and we do not expect to see the South Vietnamese air force as a self-sufficient entity before the end of the year.

"The South Vietnamese air force is now in the process of modernizing its equipment and improving its training programs."

Abused Child

Repeats Abuse
When Parent

EDITOR’S NOTE: This is the second article in a three-part series concerning the growing social problem known as the "Abused Child Syndrome."

BARB WALKER

What kind of people would systematically and brutally attack their own children? Social workers are surprised to find them not only in society, but especially in their own family. Only those who, against the grain of common sense, would do such a thing as this, would be considered reasonable people to our society.

Children show that the abuse most likely when the problem was too common, that is, the abuse was done by a member of the family. As a matter of fact, the only way to avoid the issue.

This is the kind of situation, the family norms, that are called the "Abused Child Syndrome."

Only those who, against the grain of common sense, would do such a thing as this, would be considered reasonable people to our society.

The battered child syndrome is known as a "firstborn" child. The parents are surprised to find their child acting like this, usually experienced parents, and parents who are going through a divorce.

Mothers and fathers who have problems with their child, and who are going through a divorce, often find that they are using more and more physical punishment with their children.

Some of these children are more aggressive than she can face.

When the especially serious cases are reported to the police, the police often wonder if the child had been treated in the way he was described by the battered child. UNIVERSITY--A bill to require Regents to be elected instead of appointed has been introduced in the legislature. The change would be made by the budget committee.
Scientists Warn of RadiationPollution

The scientists, in interviews and in recent testimony before Congress, have expressed concern about radiation levels in high-volume industries. They have also criticized the government's radiation standards and urged a more stringent approach. The scientists have pointed out that the current standards, based on the theory that radiation has no effects on health, are too lenient. They have argued that radiation levels are a threat to public health and the environment.

Hawks’ Task: Take One Lightly

By SUSAN SHAW

Mizzou fans in 1939 had reason to be happy with the 1938 season. The team ended the year ranked number one in the nation.

But the 1939 season was a disappointment. Bradshaw, the Missouri quarterback, was not in the same form in 1939. The 1939 team was not the same team of 1938.
