14 Charged in My Lai Probe

Army Charges Officers, Including Former Iowan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutors are expected to press charges against four Army officers who were in South Vietnam on the day of the massacre at My Lai when ordered to fire on innocent civilians, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today.

Laird said the four officers were under arrest in Texas but he did not disclose their names.

He said the purpose of the four officers' arrest was to give them the right to a fair trial.

Laird said he believed that the trial would be fair and impartial.

However, some members of the military have expressed doubts about the fairness of the trial.

One member of the military said that the trial would be unfair because the accused officers were members of the same military unit.

Another member of the military said that the trial would be unfair because the accused officers were being tried by a military court.

A third member of the military said that the trial would be unfair because the accused officers were being tried by a civilian court.

WASHINGTON - "Can't Find the Right One" is a Richard Rain, but it was once a Richard Wilkins. When the singer's first photograph arrived, Rain was so impressed with the likeness of his face and clothing that he wanted to switch names. "It was something like a tribal name," Rain says. "My name was selected by my mother because it meant 'rain' in Swaziland, where I was born in 1950." Rain, who was born in South Africa, now lives in Washington, D.C., where he records at the R&B studio of musician Michael Fleisher. Federal Bus Subsidy Available—

Bus Situation Discussed by City, UI

The Daily Iowan

By DICK TAPP

An emergency grant to help bridge the summer gap in bus service was discussed at a joint news conference Tuesday morning.

Through the summer, the city's red, white, and blue buses will operate on a limited schedule. July is eligible for federal money under the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1966, which would provide funds to maintain service in the area and save the city's red, white, and blue buses.

The University of Iowa will be the main beneficiary of the funds, according to the city's public relations officer. A statement from the University officials said that the money will be used to help offset the cost of operating the buses.

Study Grant Ok'd For Area Bus Plan

A $3,000 grant to the Johnson County Regional Planning Commission for a study of the area bus route has been approved by the city council.

The commission will be responsible for developing plans and procedures for the bus service. The council hopes that the commission will be able to make recommendations to the city council by the end of the year.

City Manager's Final Salute

City Manager Fred Sills said the summer grant is a step in the right direction for improving bus service in the area.

The city's bus service has been under financial strain due to the lack of federal funding. This grant will help to offset some of the costs associated with maintaining the service.

For more information, please contact the city's public relations officer at 319-335-4121.

Tsutsuki, Casals heir

The Tsutsumi Piano Studio gave a memorable concert here last Friday evening. Tsutsumi is a postgraduate in music who is now teaching in one of the leading music conservatories of the world.

The program was selected to give the students a broader perspective of the music they are studying. The pieces were chosen to give the students a chance to see and hear different aspects of the music they are studying.

The concert began with Beethoven's "Hammerklavier" Sonata No. 26 in F minor, Op. 106. This work is a masterpiece of the classical period and is a great example of Beethoven's mastery of the keyboard. The performance was very passionate and technically flawless.

The second selection was Chopin's "Nocturne" in E-flat major, Op. 27, No. 1. This piece is a beautiful example of Chopin's innate musicality and sensitivity. The performance was very moving and expressed the character of the piece very well.

The third piece was Mozart's "Rondo alla Turca" in C minor, K. 331. This piece is a brilliant example of Mozart's technical virtuosity and musicality. The performance was very energetic and exciting.

The fourth selection was Schubert's "Impromptu" in B-flat minor, Op. 94. This piece is a wonderful example of Schubert's innate musicality and sensitivity. The performance was very moving and expressed the character of the piece very well.

The fifth and final piece was Brahms's "Variations on a Theme by Joseph Haydn," Op. 56a. This piece is a brilliant example of Brahms's technical virtuosity and musicality. The performance was very energetic and exciting.

The concert ended with a beautiful encore, Tsutsumi's own composition, "Tsutsuki." This piece is a beautiful example of Tsutsumi's innate musicality and sensitivity. The performance was very moving and expressed the character of the piece very well.

The overall performance was very impressive and demonstrated the high level of musicianship and technical skill of the students. The program was well-balanced and gave the students a chance to see and hear different aspects of the music they are studying.

Expert Tells How Motorists Can Help Halt Air Pollution

Clean air will be obtained sooner in this country if all motorists assume their share of the responsibility.

According to George M. Galster, director of automotive technical services for Champion Spark Plug Company, "the auto industry has already made a start toward curbing pollution and will continue to make tremendous improvements in achieving cleaner air and a better environment in the years ahead."

The pollution control efforts by automakers are reducing in certain instances after a time lapse. Mr. Galster reported that five years ago, all new models of cars were being tested in the laboratories to determine their emission control efforts. It is now found that some engine problems in sub-standard condition were still being corrected:

Eight out of ten cars have an anti-windshield wiper system in a service by a major oil company.

Why would such a popular device not be neglected as much as a high percentage of cars? It is the responsibility of the owner to see that the windshield is better when it's raining.

Mr. Galster said that parts of the system can go out of order, and a stoppage can be caused by streamlining wipers.

Time for a New Buggy?

If your "buggy" is no longer what it should be, it may be time for a change. Time to get rid of that old, out-of-date model and to buy a new, modern car. A new car will be a joy to drive, a pleasure to own, and it will give you more enjoyment out of your driving.

Time for a New Buggy?

Here's Why Tune-Up Every 10,000 Miles Is Important

Not only does your car need regular maintenance, but it also needs a regular tune-up. A tune-up is a series of checks and adjustments that help ensure your car runs smoothly and efficiently. Without a regular tune-up, your car may experience decreased performance, increased fuel consumption, and decreased emissions.

So, it's important to get your car tuned up at least once every 10,000 miles, or every 12 months, whichever comes first. This will help you avoid expensive repairs and keep your car running smoothly for years to come.

from DeDe... a woman who does

Dear DeDe,

I'm a 30-year-old housewife trying to make ends meet on a small income. It seems the car needs a lot of work, but I just want to have our present car repaired. How should I go about it? What is included in a tune-up? What does it cost? Can it be done right now? Why do I need a tune-up? What can I do if I can't afford to have the car repaired right now?

DEAR DeDe,

I'm not sure what you mean by "tune-up." It sounds like you're referring to the process of checking and adjusting various components to keep your car running smoothly. This is a necessary part of vehicle maintenance and should be done at least once every 10,000 miles or 12 months, whichever comes first.
