UI Students Clash with Police

By LOWELL PFEIFFER

When 3,000 students were forced to leave the Iowa City campus of the University of Iowa on Thursday, the crowd gathered at the main entrance in a noonhour demonstration against the arrest of a fellow student.

The campus was placed under a "s局ck-in" notice by the University's Campus Security officer, who said a small outbreak of violence forced the arrest of two students.

The students were later released without charges, but the event raised the question of whether the university will take steps to increase its police force.

In an effort to prevent further violence, the university had already announced plans to increase security on campus.

The protest was sparked by the arrest of a student who had been involved in a previous demonstration.

The university has a policy of not naming individuals involved in incidents of this nature.

Philip Smith, 23, of Denver, a freshman at the University of Iowa, was arrested Thursday on a campus of the Iowa State University police force, charged with disorderly conduct.

The arrest was made after Smith allegedly ignored a police officer's request to leave the campus area.

The officer said Smith had been involved in some type of disturbance earlier in the day, but declined to provide details.

Smith was taken to the police station for questioning and later released without charges.

The university has not yet announced plans to increase its police force.

'Long, hot summer' again

I cautioned the people we reached in the first floor of the University main life by saying 'reality check.' We had much to say, much to discuss, but the tone of the discussion was set by the fact that this was the first time the Committee had met.

The problem for the Administration is that the evacuation of the library is coming some distance behind and there appears to be little being done to bring it to a conclusion. The commitment of the Committee will be broad-based public movement to support war demonstrations and in particular the Moratorium Committee viewed from the national concentration of local groups.

From the people

To the Editor:

Friday night I attended the University Theatre's production of "Ghost Story." It was interesting and a bit frightening. The play was performed in a series of opulent settings designed to create a Civilian. I thought it was a gas opera -- one of the newest student productions had just come out on the stage with a press release -- until the curtain went up and I realized the entire audience had started laughing.

University Policy Stipulates..."笔试..." unless for some reason, but to the Committee will be broad-based public movement to support war demonstrations and in particular the Moratorium Committee viewed from the national concentration of local groups.

Underground Wiring Probed To Relieve City's Congestion

Underground wiring may be used to relieve congestion in areas where the surface arrangement can be worked around. The Ohio State University has initiated a project to explore the use of underground wiring in the city's congested areas.

A decision to investigate the feasibility of underground wiring was made by the Planning and Zoning Commission. The project would involve underground wiring in selected areas to reduce surface congestion.

The underground wiring would allow for the installation of power, gas, and water lines underground instead of on the surface. This would reduce surface congestion and improve the quality of life for residents.

The project is expected to begin in the near future and is expected to be completed within the next 18 months.

Press Parley Postponed By Senate

A press conference scheduled for Monday afternoon was postponed indefinitely due to the Senate's busy schedule. The conference was supposed to be held to announce a new policy regarding the underground wiring project.

The postponement was due to the Senate's legislative agenda, which includes important bills that need to be addressed.

Larsen, Democrats, support.

The postponement was supported by Senators Larsen and Democrats, who believe that the underground wiring project is crucial for the city's development.

The Senate is expected to revisit the underground wiring project in the near future.

Commissioner Kennedy Denies Settlement–NBA-ABA Merger Reported

NEW YORK. — The National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association have not agreed to a settlement over their disagreements and will go on in their efforts to settle their differences, Commissioner Walter Kennedy told the Associated Press here today. Kennedy said that the proposed settlement terms which were circulated yesterday by three former National Basketball Association commissioners and two former American Basketball Association commissioners fell short of the standards of the two associations.

He stressed that both sides are confident the merger and collaborative efforts are making progress and that no major decisions would be made at the present time. Kennedy said he would make no public statements on the merger until there are major changes in the basketball landscape.

The official would not discuss the merger if the ABA is going to happen and the merger, according to the terms of the agreement, would be set aside.

Lakers’ West May Miss 4th Playoff Game Tonight

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Lakers, struggling with a loss to the Denver Nuggets in their previous playoff series with New York’s Knicks in the Western Conference, may be without the services of one of their key players. Terry Schuchat, the Hawks’ leading scorer and a member of the 1963 Western Conference champion, was considered doubtful for tonight’s collegiate Tournament at Pleasant View.

In Iowa’s three-game series with Western Illinois, Schuchat captured the No. 2 seed in the tournament and scored 7 points in the Hawks’ 69-67 victory over the Huskies.

The Hawks, who are going to the NCAA tournament, have won 10 of their last 12 games. They are going to have a chance to win their fourth national title.

Bob Greenwood, head basketball coach at the University of Florida, was named to the staff of the Hawks. Greenwood, 39, is the first head basketball coach at the University of Florida in 15 years.

Greenwood said he was surprised by the announcement, but it was the right move.

New York won 116-107 and took a 2-1 advantage in their best-seven-game series.

Baseball Squad at Indiana
For Pair of Games Today

By TIM SIMSHE

In many respects, Indiana's baseball team has matured in recent years, but it is clearly a work in progress.

The Hoosiers are ranked 20th in the national polls and are riding a three-game winning streak. Coach Dave Schkade is pleased with the way his team is playing, but he also knows there is room for improvement.

"We've had some good games, but we've also had some bad games," Schkade said. "But overall, I think we're doing all right."

The Hoosiers have split their last two games with Notre Dame before turning their attention to the Illinois Fighting Illini this weekend.

"We're looking forward to playing Illinois," Schkade said. "They're a tough team and we're going to have to play well to beat them."

The Hoosiers will be counting on their pitching to carry them through the weekend.

"Our pitching has been good the last few games," Schkade said. "We need to continue to do that if we want to win some games."

EDITOR'S NOTE: In a recent editorial, it was pointed out that the city of Des Moines has set deadlines for firms to clean up pollution. The city council, in an effort to improve air quality, has given firms a certain amount of time to come into compliance with pollution standards. The deadline for some firms is imminent, and the city is putting considerable pressure on them to comply. The city has threatened to take legal action against firms that do not meet the deadlines. The editorialists believe that the city's actions are necessary to protect the health of its citizens and the environment.

Olive Oliver to Give Final Lecture On Black Drama

In a recently published book, Oliver discusses the evolution of black drama from the early 20th century to the present. The book includes an analysis of key playwrights and their works, as well as an examination of the social and political contexts in which these plays were produced. ROTC Fest Could Face Disruption

A military group planning to hold a demonstration on the campus of the University of Iowa on Thursday has asked for permission to use the ROTC building as a meeting place. The ROTC building is located on the south side of the campus and is used by members of the ROTC program for administrative purposes.

The group, which is affiliated with an organization called the ROTC Students' Association, has held similar demonstrations in the past. The university administration has not yet made a decision on whether to grant the group permission to use the ROTC building for their event.

The demonstration is scheduled to take place on Thursday afternoon. The ROTC program will not be affected by the demonstration, and the university administration will make every effort to ensure the safety and security of all members of the campus community.
