The civil rights of the college athlete

The simple fact is that the college athlete is not right now a citizen with the same rights as other college students. He is a hired man, a paid employee, and does not enjoy the same benefits or have the same responsibilities as the other students.

For instance, if the college athlete gets married, the college has the right to fire him and not lose a dollar, whereas if an ordinary student gets married, he loses a full scholarship and must pay full tuition, etc.

The problem is that the athlete is no longer a member of his own race, a citizen of the United States, and has no rights at all. He is the property of the college, and the law does not recognize any rights on his part.

While it is true that the college athlete is needed by the college, it is also true that the college is needed by the athlete. The college does not have the right to choose its students, but it is certainly justified in refusing to take one who is not willing to work hard and be a good citizen.

The only way to get over this problem is to demand the civil rights of the college athlete. We must demand that he be treated just as the other students are treated.

The best way to do this is to demand that the college give the athlete a scholarship and then give him the right to terminate the scholarship at any time. This way, he would be treated just like any other student.

In my opinion, the only way to demand the civil rights of the college athlete is to demand that the college give him a scholarship and then give him the right to terminate the scholarship at any time.

From the people's forum

Iku report defended

The people's forum report is a defense of the right of the people to be heard. It states that the people have a right to speak out and be heard, and that this right is not to be denied to them.

The report also states that the people have a right to be heard, and that this right is not to be denied to them.

The report is a defense of the right of the people to be heard, and it states that this right is to be respected and honored.

I believe that the people's forum report is a good defense of the right of the people to be heard. It is a defense of the right of the people to speak out and be heard, and it is a defense of the right of the people to be respected and honored.

On Popular Vote Amendment
Debate to Continue

WASHINGTON—In a 47-44 vote here today, the Senate approved the War Powers Resolution. The measure was already confirmed in the House. It means the measure will be sent to President Reagan for his signature.

The resolution, which would give Congress control of the use of U.S. military force, was introduced by Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Henry Jackson, D-Wash.

Senators on both sides of the aisle supported the measure, which would require the president to seek congressional approval before committing U.S. forces to combat.

Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said he would bring the measure to the House floor today.

The vote reflected the growing concern among lawmakers about the growing involvement of the United States in the Middle East.

"We have to get back to the American people," O'Neill said. "We have to explain to them what we're doing in the Middle East."

If you've ever had a hairball stuck on your face, you know that in order to pull it out, you've got to shave your hair across the face. The same applies to tobacco. The public is allergic to tobacco, and unless some drastic measures are taken, the public will continue to be allergic to tobacco.

The film industry has changed to keep up with the times. It is now producing fewer films and more television shows. The audience is becoming more sophisticated and the film industry is responding by producing higher quality films.

The recent trend towards television shows has been a positive one for the film industry. Television shows are more accessible and can reach a wider audience. The film industry can use this to its advantage by producing films that are more accessible and can reach a wider audience.

Guerrillas Attacking in Rear—
Cambodian Attack Halted

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia— Cambodian guerrillas attacked in the rear of the capital, Phnom Penh, on Wednesday, killing at least 14 people, according to the government.

The attack, which killed at least 14 people, was the latest in a series of guerrilla attacks in Cambodia. The government has been actively trying to repel the attacks, which have been a major concern for the country.

The attack occurred in the early hours of the morning, with the guerrillas using rocket-propelled grenades and machine guns.

The government has been actively trying to stop the attacks, which have been a major concern for the country.
Says No Double Standard—Nixon Greets New Citizens

CHICAGO — President Nixon, addressing some 3,000 hundred American citizens held here Thursday, said the American hostages have been held for two years by the Palestianian reception in Jordan, they are entitled to protection of their country.

"The holder of American citizens is a right," he said.

"The protection of those citizens is demanded by the American people, and the people of the world," he continued.

"They are entitled to public statement on American women and young persons from the homeland," he said.

"They are entitled to the right to the protection of those citizens of American citizens are not entitled to any public statement on American women and young persons from the homeland," he said.

"I am here to tell you that the protection of those citizens is demanded by the American people, and the people of the world," he continued.
